FIND RELATION OF GROUP TO NON-GROUP STUDENTS

In conjunction with the compilation of the grade ratings of the social groups, published last week, the Tan and Cardinal incidentally computed the percentage of the whole student body that is now in social groups.

It was found that a total of 73.4 percent of the student body, numbering 439 students, are now active or pledge members of social groups. At the end of last year an analytical study of the relative number of group and non-group students were made, the results of which showed that between the school years of 1922-23 and 1926-27 the percentage of students in groups increased from 52 percent to 74 percent.

In years past it has been shown that some students who are not taken into groups at the beginning of the year have been pledged later. Hence the figure of 73.4 will no doubt be increased by the end of this year, thus strengthening the tendency, discovered last year, for the student body to be gradually absorbed by the group system.

They are as follows: Paul Hughes, Walter Clippinger, Donovan Wylie, Glen Beard, Claire Nutt, Orland Hoock, George Adams, V. M. Robertson, Sylvester Ewers, David Burke, Wallace Cherry, John Barnes and William Christian.

EDITOR OF NEW COLUMN SEEKS CONTRIBUTIONS

One member of the student body has become fearful lest the Tan and Cardinal dry up because of lack of enlivening witicism. The result is that this person has offered to edit a column known as "Echos from the Oracle." Jokes with local color, humorous sayings, interpretive comment, poems, etc. will be accepted by the editor, "Oracle".

Any one who may have a contribution to make to the column, or who may wish to criticize it may turn in their comment to the office of the Tan and Cardinal labeled "Oracle" or may give the same to the editor-in-chief.

Extremely Hard Game Played By Both Teams

Lead Piled Up Early In Game By Regulars Spells Defeat for Former Captains.

The opening game of the basketball season was won by the varsity men over the former captains by the score of 48 to 40. The game was extremely hard played being featured by considerable accurate shooting. Widdoes of the former captains was the outstanding man in the contest as he made ten field goals and two foul shots. For the varsity Seaman was high scorer as he made seven field goals and three foul tries. Gibson also distinguished himself by making seven goals in his first appearance on the varsity.

The varsity squad built up a small lead early in their playing which they held throughout the game. The first half ended with the score standing 26-20 in favor of the varsity men. The first few minutes of the second half found the teams putting on the limit of hard fighting so that the play was fast and somewhat rough. The varsity piled up a commanding lead but the last five minutes the alumni threatened to the extent of pulling up within eight

PLEDGES TO STUDENT CHEST ARE OVERDUE

Several pledges to the Student Chest which are now due, some overdue, have not been paid. Money may be left in the Treasurer's office for the treasurer of the Student Chest or it may be paid to Charles Mumma, who is the Chest treasurer. Organizations that are depending on the chest for funds have bills that must be met, hence their work is being hampered while these pledges remain unpaid.

Contestants Selected for Annual Freshman-Sophomore Debate

Preliminaries for the freshman-sophomore debate, conducted last Wednesday afternoon in Professor Smith's classroom, brought out a large group of freshmen but a smaller number of sophomores. Six freshmen had practically the same marks, and a trip to the registrar's office was made necessary to pick the team. Those having no low grades and the highest average were selected.

The Freshman team is composed of Paul Hiskey, Omer Tedrick, Wayne

Milburn, and Otis Ranson. The Sophomore class will be represented by Wilbert Miley, Charles Cooley, David Allaman, and Lucy Hanna.

The debate will be held Jan. 26. Mr. J. O. Cox of Valparaiso, Ind. motivates this contest by giving the winner and loser respectively purses of $15 and $10. The question for the melee is Resolved: "That the Convention System should be substituted for the Direct Primary, Constitutionality conceded."

Extensive Program of Vocational Guidance is Started

Need of a Proper Selection Stressed

HEADED BY ERISMAN

Various Tests Are Used In Order To Scientifically Find Vocational Hints.

Beginning last Wednesday an extensive program of vocational guidance was begun by the Y. M. C. A., in conjunction with the faculty. It is the plan of the Y to make an attempt to bring the full significance, of the proper selection of a vocation, home to students who have not yet definitely selected their life work.

Some rather general work has already been done by the administration and faculty in the field of vocational selection. Several prominent business men have spoken in chapel, dealing with the question of "Why I am an Insurance Man" (or why the speaker was engaged in the particular vocation he happened to be in). Professor Bowman has discussed vocational adjustment in his series of chapel addresses. The Y plans to arrange conferences between the faculty members who have agreed to serve as counselors and students desiring help on this question.

There are four things the counselors hope to accomplish. First: Help the student work through to a sound vocational philosophy. To select valid criteria by which a wise choice may be made. Second: To put into the hands of students workable tests by which to apply a proper vocational philosophy to definite life situations. This will entail an investigation of the opportunities open in various fields. Third: To emphasize the importance of the proper selection of a vocation. Fourth: To afford each student an opportunity to get help on his own particular problem.

Today will be the last day that it will be possible to have pictures taken for the Sibyl. Those who have not had their pictures taken should consult the bulletin board for schedule.

The counsellors are using various tests which will help to indicate in a purely scientific way, the vocation which the student seeking guidance is fitted to enter. Questions concerning the native ability of the student, the openings offered in various fields and the natural aptitudes or inclinations of the student will be considered. Each conference will be entirely confidential, so that perfect freedom in the discussion of life problems may be allowed.

Women as well as men may profit by this counselling opportunity. They may choose any one of the six counsellors they desire, Mrs. Barnhill having offered her services primarily because of her interest in the project, rather than merely to afford girls an opportunity for guidance. Professors Troop, Valentine, Bowman, Hursh and Mr. Warson in addition to Mrs. Barnhill are the counsellors.

Students desiring vocational help may arrange for conferences through Robert Erisman who has charge of the appointments of students to counsellors. Those having special preference will be assigned to that counsellor on condition his or her time is not already taken.

The counsellors do not propose to be able to definitely select a vocation for all students seeking help, they merely expect to help find indications that point toward certain vocations. "Armed with a sound vocational philosophy, the student will then be able to make his own choice, which he must do in the end anyway," say the counsellors.

This local emphasis is a part of a movement which is rapidly gaining momentum throughout the country in the educational field. Educational and religious leaders are beginning to realize that an education as such does not fit one for life, but that it should be tied up with some specific phase of life for which the student is fitted and which needs whatever contribution he may be able to make.

OHIO CONFERENCE MANAGERS MEET TO ARRANGE SCHEDULES

MARTIN AGAIN ELECTED TO HEAD ASSOCIATION PLAY THREE HOME GAMES

Hiram and Kenyon Replace Miami and Bowling Green. Spring Practice Unlikely.

At a meeting of Ohio Conference coaches and managers in Columbus Monday, Dec. 5, a football schedule of eight games was drafted for 1928. Track and baseball schedules for the coming season were partly arranged but are not yet complete. For the third consecutive year, Professor R. F. Martin was elected president of the Ohio Conference Managers' Association.

Three of the eight games next fall will be played in Westerville, the others being away. Home games include Findlay, the opening game; Muskingum, on Westerville Day; and Heidelberg for Homecoming. Hiram and Kenyon appear on next year's chart, replacing Bowling Green and Miami.

At the meeting it was decided to leave the matter of spring football in the hands of the individual schools. According to Coach Sears and Professor Martin it is unlikely that Otterbein will change its present system.

The complete 1928 football schedule follows:

Sept. 22—Findlay at Westerville
Sept. 28—Muskingum at Westerville

Oct. 13—Kenyon at Gambier
Oct. 20—Marietta at Marietta

INTRAMURAL GAMES

WILL START IN JANUARY

Each Social Group Has At Least One Team Entered In Group League.

The Intra Mural and Prune League basketball game will start immediately following the Christmas vacation. As the schedules are not made out yet, no definite information, concerning the first week's games, is as yet available. Every social group has entered a team in the group league while several of them have also entered teams to play in the Prune League.

The only change in this year's game, as known so far, is that all games will start at three o'clock instead of at four, to allow the games to be over at an earlier hour. Professor Martin urges all those who will not play in the group league, to organize teams among themselves to participate in the Prune league games.

church at South Bend, Indiana, at one of the services being held there by the Ricker brothers who will conduct similar special meetings at Otterbein in the latter part of February.

Professor Grabill has dedicated several organs throughout the country during his instructorship at Otterbein, having been master of ceremonies at approximately twenty dedicatory services. This is the fifth dedication recital he has given in Indiana during the last five years, churches at Elkhart, Indianapolis, Peru and Anderson comprising the other four United Brethren strongholds he has visited.

Seconds Play Preliminary.

The varsity seconds hooked up with five alumni floor men in a game Saturday night coming off first best by the score of 20 to 17. Seitz and Diehl were forwards; Hance, center and Steimer and Saul worked at the guard positions. The alumni lined up were Wagner and J. White forwards, L. White, center and Heitz and Ranck guards. Steimer and Hance each made seven points for Otterbein. For the alumni J. White made eleven points.

Music Club Holds Party.

Last night in Lambert Hall the Otterbein Music Club held a musical and social program. Christmas carols led by Dorothy Wainwright and a solo on a Christmas theme comprised the vocal part of the program.

Mildred Wilson rendered "Transcription of Silent Night" on the piano. Lillian Shively gave a production on Christmas Carols and a mandolin quartet furnished some delightful entertainment.

Light refreshments were served just before the curfew.

WIDE OPEN

The world is full of square pegs trying to fit into round holes.

Last summer it so happened that we were riding with a man on a traction car, just outside of Springfield, Ohio. In the course of the conversation, it developed that he was a newspaper man, working on a Springfield daily. When asked how he liked his work, he replied: "I don't like it, I am merely doing newspaper work to make a living. You'll find when you get out of school, that you'll do about the opposite from what you had planned to do."

"I had planned to do something, the significance of which you wouldn't understand, which was my life ambition but I can't do it now. I am not prepared to do the things I would love to do."

Look about and see how many derelicts there are such as this one, that are working with the throttle half open. There are literally millions of such people to whom life means getting a living, while dreams of what they want to do are overlaid with the crude demands of a commonplace existence.

A man who merely has a job is only half a man, but a man with a position which enlists every ounce of his energy, can truly be said to live.

Last year seventy-seven percent of the graduating class was expecting to teach school. Is it conceivable that seventy-seven out of a hundred students who attend Otterbein are actually cut out for teachers. A survey which revealed the above figures also showed that the percentage of students teaching school the first two years after graduation, gradually decreased. In other words they merely taught to make some money to live on until they decided what they wanted to do permanently.

Teaching school in itself, is a noble and worthwhile occupation, but it is such only providing the teacher really wants to teach and that he is capable of teaching. Shall more of Otterbein's students graduate who are content to drift into education merely to make money? What an enormous waste of time and money to train one's self to teach and then take up something else after a one or two year trial.

Why not be systematic and take advantage of the opportunity now being offered to find some fundamental bases on which a vocation should be selected? Having made a choice, scientifically, the course of study could be tied up with the vocation for which the student is preparing. Such a procedure would result in a boundless enthusiasm for life and its problems instead of merely drifting along after graduation waiting until "I find out what I want to do."

A life that is worthwhile should have the throttle wide-open.

PROPER USAGE

The "Timely Topics" column of the Tan and Cardinal has been used quite frequently in recent issues. In the main the discussions have been to the point, however there is a tendency to make "Timely Topics" a spite column.
This is not its function.

Clearcut arguments on one or another side of a given case should be set forth. It is perfectly proper to ridicule a writer's argument but the Tan and Cardinal columns are not the place for personal quarrels. It would be better in such cases for those concerned to discuss matters privately.

Dear Editor:

Otterbein College has an Athletic Board whose duty it is to grant honorary insignias to men who have represented the college in athletics, under certain conditions. Article 5, Section 3, Clause 1 of the Constitution of the Athletic Board says: in regard to the "Standing College Regulation," "Any student who is a member of any athletic team shall be faithful in his practise and training and shall comport himself as it befitting a true sportsman" and gentleman." Further, Article 7, Section 3, Clause 1, says: "Any member of an athletic team who has not compiled with the rules herein set forth, or as prescribed by the Athletic Board or the coach in charge, or who has been unsportsmanlike and ungentlemanly in his conduct, shall not be eligible to receive these insignias of merit, even though he has complied with regulations named in succeeding paragraphs."

The Athletic Board met and agreed to grant letters to a number of the men who have been placed "on probation," due to the findings of the investigation committee. It appears that the members of the Athletic Board either were unaware of the constitution under which they operate or entirely disregarded it. It is plainly stated that the men who conducted themselves ungentlemanly were ineligible to receive the letters and it is true that they did not conduct themselves gentlemanly or the committee would not have placed them "on probation."

The action of the Athletic Board in this particular case has lowered the value of the usually "coveted" insignia. It makes it understood that the constitution under which insignias are granted does not mean a thing. Also, it means that a man who has played a clean, hard game throughout the season and conducted himself as a sportsman and gentleman is on no higher plane than the person who conducts himself ungentlemanly and unsportsmanlike. It makes the man who has earned a letter ashamed to wear it for it "does not mean a thing," and his efforts were to no avail. It makes the man who has had visions of earning a letter before leaving college feel that he does not receive anything after he has put forth an effort to earn it, and will not be nearly so likely to try for it. It naturally would create a feeling that there is "no use trying to play a clean, gentlemanly, game."

The Athletic Board has the power to revoke any insignia granted at any time and it seems to me that if the Board wishes to maintain the standing it has held since its organization there is only one thing to do and that is to grant letters according to the constitution under which it operates or change to constitution to have no special requirements for earning an insignia other than playing the required number of quarters, and have no ideal in mind to abide by.—A. H. G.

COLUMBUS, O.

Dear Editor:

In last week's issue of the Tan and Cardinal, an article by A. H. G. appeared on the drinking episode which caused Otterbein much undesirable publicity. Is A. H. G. such a model of propriety that he can take a rap at the administration and the students and feel that he is an uplifting spirit at his college?

He calls the persons involved "men" in a most scornful way, intimating that they are unworthy of such a name. Has he stopped to consider that it takes more than a pitifully sarcastic pen to play that game called football?

The writer is evidently a nonentity around college and yet he evidently feels qualified to sit in the seat of judgment for he criticises the action of this committee, who have proved themselves to be open, fairminded men as evidenced by the widespread commendation which their act received.

The men involved in this affair are not guiltless and their actions cannot be upheld, yet they went thru a hard season of football, giving their best for the college and its officials. One little act of impropriety brings down the wrath of one who knew nothing of the affair except from hearsay.

From this miscellaneous and exaggerated news he feels competent to call the players involved, something less than men, intimating that they are prevaricators, and passes severe criticism on the committee which heard all the evidence and in a general way makes a nuisance of himself.

We would like to suggest that A. H. G. keep everything pretty well covered lest he find some skeletons in his own backyard.

The reception was given in the apartment of Mary Chamberlain in the Mar-Main Arms. Those present were Mary Chamberlain, M. Lucile Gerber, Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Roberts, and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cornet, of Elkhart; Harry E. Ricker, and Mrs. Ethel Shupe Richer, of Peru; Gilbert Durnont, Estelle Ellis, and Ruth Simmons and several others whose names Prof. Grabill did not get. Some of these had driven fifty or sixty miles in order to be present at the gathering.

HANAWALT ACKNOWLEDGED BY AUTHOR OF NEW BOOK

Thesis on Moles Quoted In "Our Wild Animals." Attends Bird Club Meet.

In "Our Wild Animals", a book just of the press, by Edwin Lincoln Mosely, published by D. Appleton and Co. the author in his acknowledgements says that the chapter on moles was read by Professor F. A. Hanawalt, assistant Professor of Biology at Otterbein.

F. A. HANAWALT

The author also quotes freely from Professor Hanawalt's thesis on this subject and uses some of his photographs of the little animal which is little known even by those persons who have lived for years where moles are plentiful.

Professor Hanawalt attended the professor of biology, attended the joint meeting of the Wilson Ornithological Club and the Inland Bird Banding Association held at Cleveland, Ohio during the Thanksgiving vacation period, from Nov. 25 to 27.

The three-day program consisted of formal addresses and the reading of papers by members of the two organizations. Trips were made to some of the aviaries located at Cleveland. Professor Hanawalt reports that the program as a whole was very interesting and instructive.

L. E. Hicks and Donald Borrer are members of this club also, but neither were able to attend the meeting. The next meeting of the Wilson Club is at Nashville, Tennessee during the Christmas holidays and will be held in connection with the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

ALUMNI LETTERS

Dear Mr. Warson:

Enclosed is my check for three dollars and fifty cents ($3.50) for dues and Tan and Cardinal subscription. The Tan and Cardinal is a welcome weekly visitor; wish it would come more often.

The Florida Alumni are behaving themselves very nicely, and are enjoying the balmy sunshine of the south land so much that they shiver when they think of the snow and ice in that far off land of the north.

Mrs. Cavanagh, (Aline Mayne, '23) is teaching in one of Tampa's Junior High Schools, and is enjoying her work very much.

I am kept busy with my work at the Y. M. C. A. as Building & Dormitory Secretary, and as a sideline have the secretaryship of the Social Workers Association of the city, the presidency of the local C. E. Society, and have charge of the recreation for boys of the church. By way of special mention our Sunday School Basketball team is leading in the S. S. B. B. League in which there are thirteen teams. These games being played at the "Y."

If any Otterbein folk are heading for Florida tell them to be sure and look me up.

Sincerely yours,

E. H. Cavanagh, '26.

Claims Trouble Between Nations Due To Magnifying of Our Strong Points.

That the problem of international good-will can only be solved by every nation following the Christ way of life, is the belief of Kirby Page who was on the campus last Monday and Tuesday, December 5 and 6. "I challenge you", he said several times during those two days, "as I challenge myself every day, to think about these things, and what the world would be if everyone followed the Christ way of life."

Mr. Page's first address was given in chapel Monday, and he explained his idea that most of the trouble between nations was caused by each country magnifying its good qualities and minimizing its defects. To prove that every nation had a false conception of nationality and patriotism, he cited the example of Germany who is supposed, by many people, to have started the World War because she believed her culture was in danger of being destroyed.

The speaker, in his chapel address on Tuesday, explained the solving of international problems by the use of the Christ way of life. He believes that if harmony is ever obtained between nations, it will only be after they have learned to live together like one great family, have accepted the doctrines of the Christian church, and have decided to live up to these principles even though it mean hardship or even death. Mr. Page's final address was delivered before the combined session of Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, and was only a further development of his chapel subject.

Open sessions were held at different times during the two days, and in these he answered questions on religion and international problems which students wished to ask.

Mr. Page is, at the present time, editor of the magazine "The World Tomorrow." While he was on the campus, subscriptions were taken for those who wished to have the magazine sent to them. Up to the present time, twenty-six subscriptions have been turned in.

CHRISTMAS QUIZ AND QUILL IS OFF PRESS

The Christmas number of the Quiz and Quill magazine made its debut last Wednesday morning after chapel. The striking cover design by Parker Heck attracted much favorable comment. The contents, considered from the standpoint of popular appeal and literary merit make the magazine one of the best that has ever been put out by the Quiz and Quill.

Verda Evans proved herself a capable editor, in her choice and arrangement of material. There are still plenty of copies available. These may be secured in the hall any morning after chapel for twenty-five cents.
