"Samurai," "Clare Again," "The Road To Agincourt" and "Undercurrents" Are The Titles.

Members of the Cap and Dagger Dramatic Club appeared before a large audience in the college chapel last Saturday night in four original plays staged under the direction of Prof. Lester Raines. It was the first time that any of these plays was publicly produced. Two of them were written by Otterbein students, "Samurai" by Lillian Shively, and "Clare Again" by Verda Evans and Ernestine Nichols. Edna Alton Zeller is the author of "The Road to Agincourt" and "Undercurrents". The acting was directed by members of Prof. Raines' class in Play Production.

This will claim $150.00 more from the Rockefeller Board.

LEWIS BILL WILL NOT AFFECT TEACHER TRAINING

With the defeat of the Lewis bill the state legislation made no provision for the state to assume part of the cost of teacher training in the local high school. Had the bill passed higher salaries would have been paid the teachers in the local high school.

President Clippinger announces that the failure of the bill will not affect the college in any way. He further stated that a new-man would be selected by the board of trustees at their Commencement session, to assist Professor Valentine in the department of Education.

By winning first place in the Ohio Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest on the Constitution with his address entitled "Marshall and the Constitution," Charles Lemen, representing Wittenberg College, becomes Ohio's representative in the Central States Finals to be held at the College of the City of Detroit, May 17. SOCIOLOGY CLUB MAKES TRIPS TO INSTITUTIONS

Believing sight-seeing expeditions in Columbus to be beneficial to its members, the Sociology Club scheduled a heavier program than usual last week.

Twenty-seven girls visited the Florence Crittenton Home on Tuesday where they obtained a practical idea of how such an institution is conducted.

Wednesday, ten went to the Institution of Feeble Minded, attending a clinic conducted by a doctor whose duty is to decide the status of the inmates examined, and after several weeks of observation place them in the institution in which they belong.

Students went through both of the Salvation Army Headquarters on Thursday; and Friday another group visited the Clinic. The Club thus far has visited most of the institutions of this nature in the city, except the Blind, and the Deaf and Dumb where they will probably go next week.

EXHIBITS OF SPECIAL MERIT IN SCIENCE HALL

Departments of Ornithology, Chemistry and Physics To Make Displays Weekly.

Beginning last week, the various departments in the Science Hall settled upon the policy of placing a special exhibit in the hallway of the first floor of McFadden Hall each week.

The exhibit of native owls at the science hall last week was arranged and labelled by L. E. Hicks, a special student in ornithology. The barn owl with spread wings is an example of Mr. Hick's taxidermy work.

There will be a different exhibit each week, the departments of physics, and chemistry also contributing material. This plan grew out of the failure of the students to visit the museum when it was thrown open to them once a week some time ago. Now things of special interest will be brought to them through this means.

CHAUCER CLUB HOLDS CRITICISM CONTEST

Two Prizes Offered By Club. Only Members of Club Eligible To Compete.

The Chaucer Club has this year sponsored a contest for critical works. Members of the club, only, were allowed to submit criticisms of novels or plays which have been produced in relatively recent years. Criticism was based on original observations altogether.

Two prizes, of ten and five dollars, donated by the Chaucer Club and Dr. Sherrick respectively will be awarded to the best criticisms submitted. The criticism winning first prize will be published in the Spring number of the Quiz and Quill.

The club itself eliminated all but four of the articles entered, turning these four over to Professors Altman and Pendleton, instructors in rhetoric. Final selection of the first and second prizes will be made by these two professors. The awarding of prizes will take place in Chapel along with the Barnes and Quiz and Quill prizes. The club plans to make the contest an annual affair.

New Museum Specimens

A dozen mounted birds were recently added to the museum collection. Among these are The Little Blue Heron, Purple Grackle, a pair of Green Winged Teal, Burrowing Owl, and Chuck-Wills's-Widow.

More specimens will be added this year, and it is also planned to add a collection of bird's eggs this year as soon as government permits for collecting eggs are secured.

PLANS FOR A VICTORY COMMENCEMENT FORMED

$35,000 STILL NEEDED

Deadline Placed At June 1. Conferences Reorganized. Board Extends Time Limit.

Plans for staging a Victory Commencement this year are rapidly being formulated. June 1 has been set as the dead line for payment to the Diamond Jubilee Endowment drive. The contract with the General Education Board does not expire until July 1. The time intervening between June 1 and July 1 is set aside for the balancing and checking of records.

At present $35,000 of the amount necessary to claim the entire appropriation made by the General Education Board, remains uncollected. Plans are under way for the collection of this amount, either from old or new pledges, between now and June 1. Some of the conferences are reorganizing their forces for more effective work during the month of May.

Columbus business men have been responding very nobly to appeals for funds. Several have duplicated their former gifts. Recently a younger alumnus at Dayton, who had given $1500 earlier in the campaign, promised to give $500 more. When he sent in his check it was for $2000.

Progress of the campaign will be announced from week to week through the columns of the Tan and Cardinal.

TALISMAN-ARCADY TEAM WINS INTRAMURAL MEET

TWO RECORDS BROKEN BUT ARE UNOFFICIAL

Lotus Place In Order.

The Talisman-Arcady team was the victor in the second annual Intramural Track and Field Meet held last Saturday afternoon on the Otterbein athletic field. Tomo Dach-Greenwich trailed a close second, and the Owls-Onyx were third.

Hubert Pinney, varsity track captain, was the individual star of the meet, garnering a total of 24 points for the winning team. Three firsts and three seconds in the different events of the meet gave him honors for the day. McGill, representing the Tomo Dach-Greenwich was second with 13 points and Wales of the Polygon-Arbutus was third in individual scoring with 11½ points.

Records Are Broken.

A feature of the meet was the unofficial breaking of the Otterbein records in both the high and the low hurdles. McGill was responsible for this in the high hurdles and Green in the low hurdles. However, these records will probably not be recognized because of the fact that it was done in an intramural meet and that the wind was at the runners back.

The Talisman-Arcady's winning team was represented by Pinney, Smith, Lambert, Hatton, Molter, Gordon, Friend, L. Hicks, and M. Hicks.

Scoring by teams in the meet was as follows: Talisman-Arcady 50; Tomo Dach-Greenwich 45½; Owls-Onyx 25½; Polygon-Arbutus 19½; and Phoenix-Lotus 18½.

Results in the different events were as follows:

Pole Vault—Wales, Van Auken, and Dixon tied for first; McGill, second. Height 10 ft. 10 in.

Discus—McGill, first; Pinney, second.

TWO IN ONE

Saturday will mark the third annual observance of Parents' Day at Otterbein. In the spring of 1925 the Student Council, in conjunction with the Alumni Secretary, conceived the idea of turning May Day into Parents' Day. Previous to that time the Y. W. C. A. had annually sponsored the May Morning Breakfast and there usually was an athletic event in the afternoon. Then in 1925 the May Pole dance, held in the forenoon, and a series of vaudeville stunts, produced in the chapel in the evening were added to the day's festivities, and the name Parents' Day was substituted for May Day.

In carrying out the Parents' Day idea Otterbein is perpetuating a tradition which is a very worthwhile one. At Ohio State and several of the larger colleges of the state, Dad's Day is an annual event, usually coming in the fall. The purpose of the Dad's Day program is to bring the students' fathers to the campus and to give them a close-up of student life and to help them understand the problems with which their sons are confronted. On this one day in the year, Dads are recognized as the chief reason a vast majority of the student body are able to get a college education.

• Mother's Day comes next Sunday. Parent's Day will be a combination of both Dad's Day and Mother's Day. As the term implies it is a day for parents. The students are to act as hosts to the powers behind the guns, the dads and the mothers who make it possible for most of us to stay in school. Perhaps many of them have been here several times before, but some do not come often, if at all. It thus devolves upon the student body to show them Otterbein as it truly is.

The Student Council has sent out invitations to each student's parents. Have you invited them personally? Make them feel that their presence is necessary in order to make the day a success in your eyes. Won't you feel out of time Saturday if you haven't invited your parents?

Timely Topics

To the Editor of the Tan and Cardinal.
Sir:

Without doubt most of your readers have noticed the terribly illiterate effect produced in the singing of the Love Song by having half the students give the words "towers speak" and the other half "tower speaks". It is to be hoped that no one says both "towers" and "speaks", but the general effect is fully as bad as if everyone did just that. The correct version is "tower speaks", the word "tower" rhyming with "power" in the following line. A moderate amount of concentration on the part of each student would remedy this error, and make that part of the song grammatical, as it was intended, instead of an offense to all lovers of good English.—M. T.

part and those which are still to perform on this week's program, are located in Westerville. The Woman's Music Club, which sponsors the annual observance of Music Week in Westerville and the musical departments of the college are to be complimented on the work they are doing.

Some Otterbein students like jazz. But, in comparison with the average college, Otterbein's appreciation of good music is very keen. The type of musical programs produced by Otterbein's musical clubs has in a large way helped to curb the jazz craze.

The Student Council has been quick to seize upon opportunities to serve the student body and the college. Its suggestion regarding clapping after the organ preludes in chapel will serve to cultivate a keener discrimination, on the part of the students, between good and exceptional music.

We wonder what the May Queen will be crowned with.

map, a secret passage, and the love affair of an English knight and a beautiful maiden who is held as a hostage by the enemy. This play was directed by Alice Propst, and the parts were taken as follows: Anatole, Duke de Dont-Esprit, Boyd Rennison; Count Dubois, his friend, Richard Sanders; Romaine, an English knight, Francis Bechtolt; Alcia, a hostage, Ruth Asire; Dorcas, a serving woman, Betty White; Francis, her husband, James Gordon. The stage setting of this play was particularly effective.

"Samurai", a Japanese tragedy written and directed by Lillian Shively, proved a little too subtle for the audience. The atmosphere of tragedy which prevailed throughout the play was skillfully emphasized by the weird melody played by Morris Ervin and Everett Snyder as the musicians. Parts were taken by Edward Hammon as Akana, a Samurai; Lillian Shively as his mother; and Robert Bromeley as Hasebe, his younger brother.

The third play, "Undercurrents", was full of action. Narain Singh, an Indian agitator, (Duane Harrold) tries to force his daughter Radha (Isabelle Ruehrmund) to betray the trust of her lover Lt. Chetwynnd of the British Army (Richard Jones). When her love will not permit her to do this, Narain Singh's Jackal, Gopal (William Diehl), attempts to stab Chetwynnd, but the Englishman draws his gun and remains master of the situation. Margaret Kumler directed this play.

The comedy "Clare Again" was the outstanding play of the evening. The dialogue was full of clever speeches, and all parts were well taken. The leading role of Shirley Lee, a stenographer working her way through college, was carried by Ernestine Nichols, co-authoress of the play with Verda Evans who directed the action. The remainder of the cast was as follows: Jimmy McGregor, the office boy; Henry Gallagher; Gladys Thompson, stenographer; Jeanne Bromeley; Roscoe Scranton, a man-about-town; Oliver Spangler; Max Geiger, a real-estate and insurance man; Wendell Rhoades; C. Monroe Hart, senior partner of Hart & Shetler, "The Big Boss." Fred White; Harrison J. Shetler, Junior partner, Lawrence Hicks; Clare Hart, daughter of "The Big Boss"; Helen Clemans; Barrington Gray, Law student, working in the office of Hart and Shetler, Wilburn Bargdill.

Music was furnished by Oliver Spangler at the piano. Members of the production staff were Everett Boyer, Production Manager; Harold Blackburn, Stage Manager, assisted by Henry Gallagher, Everett Snyder, Jack Baker, and the Play Production Class; Roy Schwartzkopf, Electrician; Karl Kumler, Head Usher; and Wilburn Bargdill and Verda Evans, who arranged the programs. Much credit is due Boyd Rennison, Ruth Asire and Alfred Owens for art work.

HARRISON DRAWS FULL HOUSE TUESDAY NIGHT

HAS STRONG PERSONALITY

War Veteran Says "Too Many Americans Think Christ But Practice Napoleon."

Following a day of personal and group conferences, Thomas Q Harrison spoke to a packed house in the auditorium of Lambert Hall, last Tuesday night. Mr. Harrison, a World War veteran, is traveling about the country delivering addresses on the topic of world peace, under the auspices of the American Friends' Service Committee.

Perhaps the outstanding quality of Mr. Harrison's talk was his plain and direct statement of the facts concerning the attitudes of one nation toward another. "Too many of our American youth are thinking Jesus Christ, but acting and practicing Napoleon" said the speaker. "The American college student is too eager to substitute action for achievement in his bustle about the campus". "Try to get into the inner circle of life and live in closer fellowship with Christ, and you cannot help radiating the result of this communion."

The people of India, Mr. Harrison who resided there sometime, observed, are most nearly following the ideals which Jesus laid down for the world, than any other race. He also related that under Ghandi, the Indians are the kindest and most lovable persons with whom he has ever come in contact.

After the address Mr. Harrison conducted an open forum, which was also attended by a capacity audience, attesting the fact that his compelling and powerful personality was asserting itself.

EIGHTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNDING OF COLLEGE IS CELEBRATED IN CHAPEL

The eightieth anniversary of the founding of Otterbein College was celebrated last Tuesday morning by a special service held during the chapel hour and extending through the following class hour. Professor W. H. Siebert, dean of the Arts College at Ohio State University and Miss Alma Guitner were the chief speakers.

College vs University.

Dean Siebert, speaking on "The Relation of the Small College to the Large University" said, "In Ohio at least there is no such thing as the small college." He stated further that the attitude of hostility which used to exist between the university and the small college, has changed to an increasingly friendly one due in a large measure to the efforts of W. O. Thompson, former president of Ohio State University. "The remarkable increase in the number of students has eradicated all vestiges of rivalry among the colleges of Ohio," he said.

Gives History of College.

Miss Guitner, who no doubt is more familiar with the history of Otterbein than any one else connected with the college, read a brief sketch of the history of Otterbein College. "The early years of the United Brethren Church in Ohio were the years when institutions of higher education were being established in the state." Nine Ohio colleges were founded previous to 1845. "These institutions were attracting the United Brethren young people, and the far-seeing leaders of the Church saw that the hope of the church lay in education."

"Among those who favored education no one man contributed so much to the cause as did the Reverend Lewis Davis." "Davis gave freely of his efforts, time, and money to the new

PRIZE WINNERS SELECTED BY QUIZ AND QUILL

At its regular meeting a week ago last night, the Quiz and Quill Club selected the winning articles in the annual literary contest sponsored by the club. A total of sixteen articles were submitted, ten of which were poems. The articles winning both the first prize of $10.00 and the second prize of $5.00 were poems. The third prize of $2.50 went to a piece of prose. These prizes are given by the members of the club, and will no doubt be presented to the winners at a special chapel service some time this week.

The winners of the three prizes of $40.00, $20.00, and $10.00 awarded for the best stories entered in the Barnes Short Story contest will likely be presented this week at the same time the Quiz and Quill prizes are awarded.

Was Seminary.

The first buildings of the college were formerly owned by the Blendon Young Mens' Seminary, and were bought by the United Brethren Church represented by the Miami, Sandusky, Muskingum, and Scioto conferences. The price was thirteen hundred dollars, the first installment of which was three hundred dollars. The college evolved from that meager beginning to its present standing with an endowment of over a million dollars.

Robert Knight, student representative, spoke of the purpose of the college, stating that it was the production of men and women of good character rather than teachers and preachers as was so commonly supposed.

Pres. W. G. Clippinger presided. Dean N. E. Cornet and Dr. T. J. Sanders led the devotions. Members of the senior class were present in cap and gown.

The orchestra will play at the annual Genoa township Eighth Grade commencement to be held at Grace Chapel Friday, May 6.

The sport staff now stands: Editor, Harold Blackburn; assistants, Ellis Hatton, Arthur German, and Parker Heck. Helen Ewry and Elma Harter, both of whom are freshmen, were added to the circulation staff.

Several reporters are at present trying out for positions on the staff. Results of these tryouts will be announced in a short time.

NON-RESIDENT MEN ARE TO HAVE BETTER ROOMS

COMMITTEE TO INSPECT

All Upper Classmen Given Chance To Stay In King Hall. Frosh Are Required.

The Men's Housing Committee, which this year worked in conjunction with the King Hall Committee, the governing body of King Hall, will have general oversight of the housing of all non-resident students, next year. The committee, so far, has drawn up only tentative plans. However the keynote of the program, which the committee expects to put into operation next year, was sounded by Professor L. A. Weinland, chairman of the committee, when he said, "We aim to put conditions at the disposal of each non-resident male student who lives out in town, on a par with the facilities afforded men who live in King Hall."

The committee feels that in many cases men have been living in poorly ventilated and insanitary houses. They have been crowded into rooms too small for comfort. Too many men have lived in one house with a result that little opportunity for study is afforded. Men, who quite naturally like to live with their clique, are apt to disregard caution and crowd into houses that are inadequate for their proper accommodation.

Houses To Be Approved

The committee proposes to require townspeople, who have rooms which they desire to rent, to file their names with the committee. The committee will then examine the house, and if on inspection it proves satisfactory, it will be placed on the approved list. Students, it is planned, will be expected to move into only those houses which are on the approved list.

Frosh Stay In King Hall

The relation of the Housing Committee to residents of King Hall, will be somewhat different next year due to the fact that the hall now belongs to the college. However this same committee will still act as an advisory board to the men of King Hall. The upper classmen will be given an opportunity to stay in King Hall if they care to, but Freshmen will be required to live there. Of the entire Freshman class this year only twenty-nine non-resident men did not live in the hall. With this arrangement the committee feels that all the Freshmen will be accommodated in King Hall and all the upper classmen, who care to live there may be also.

More definite and detailed plans are in the process of completion and will no doubt be announced within a few days. Professors Engle and Glover are other members of this committee.

MUSIC WEEK IS BEING OBSERVED HERE NOW

Program For Week.

The first program of the week was a community service held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon. Miss Helen Vance, Mrs. R. K. Edler, Miss Grace Cornet, Miss Mable Eubanks, Mrs. R. F. Martin, and Mrs. Mable Crabbs Starkey were among those who performed.

The program tonight will be in charge of the Westerville Band, an organization of 46 members, which is now starting its ninth concert season. In case of rain the program will be given in the high school auditorium.

Wednesday evening the Hanby Music Club will present its program in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and on Thursday night the Women's Music Club will give a program in the college chapel. Both these concerts will start at 8:00. Music of American composers will be stressed. As a part of Thursday night's entertainment the cantata "Alice Brand" by Horatio Parker will be sung by the women's chorus.

Musical organizations of the high school will have charge of the program to be given in the high school auditorium on Friday night. All the concerts will be short, about an hour in length, and students of the college are cordially invited to attend each of the programs.
