OTTERBEIN COLLEGE

Vol. IV. February 1935 No. 3

Stresses Importance of a Broad Education

Human nature is pretty much the same the world over, and from generation to generation. Education, therefore, from the point of view of the individual should not change from year to year. His personal powers and capacities need development and must be recognized in any system of education. Society needs leaders with culture and breadth and sympathy of interest. The education of the entire personality must not be overlooked. Narrow specialization appeals only to certain talents and leaves large areas of the human soul untouched and untrained.

Education for the new day and for the new deal demands broadminded sympathetic statesmen—men who can see, at the same time, “the near side of far things and the far side of near things.” They must have the “bird’s-eye view” as well as the “worm’s eye” view. Too many of us are educationally provincial. We cannot see the woods for the trees. Education should develop in us a planetary consciousness. Nationalism in politics has its counterpart in provincialism in education. They are equally vicious.

To realize this ideal in education society and its needs as well as those of the individual must be recognized. The individual is dependent upon society and society upon the individual. Education must, therefore, look to the needs of society. The student must be orientated to the complex world in which he lives. The curriculum must be built with this in view. The social sciences and the natural sciences must both have a prominent place. Philosophy and religion along with the humanities are necessary. Technocracy, which means narrow specialization, has brought us thus far. The Christian humanitarian point of view must help us out. Education of the whole man for the whole world is the only type which can do it.

PLAN MEETINGS FOR APRIL 27TH

Alumni Groups Preparing For Otterbein Night

While the well organized and larger Alumni Groups have frequent and regular meetings during the year, some who are more widely scattered and who are few in number cannot do this.

But at least once each year the Alumni Groups everywhere delight to get together for a renewal of friendships and as a symbol of loyalty to their college.

It has been the custom for the General Association to set apart one night, usually in the spring season, as a time when groups can get together, the world over and celebrate in spirit, with other groups meeting at the same time and in many places.

This year, April 27, has been designated as “Otterbein Night”. On this night a fine program will be given over WOSU, Columbus, Ohio, at 8:30 p. m. E. S. T., celebrating in part “Founders Day” as well as Alumni Night.

While those outside of central Ohio may not be able to get this station yet the meeting can be made successful and interesting with a local program.

One important objective for the spring meeting should be a definite program to enlist student interest in Otterbein. A committee to work out some plans to present Otterbein in a splendid way. The Alumni office will be glad to assist in anyway.

Another objective should be to get one hundred percent active alumni who have sent in dues for the work of the Alumni Council.

Let's put Otterbein over BIG this year!

How To Help Alma Mater In Securing New Students

In a paper read by Mr. Harry W. Rowe, Alumni Secretary, Bates College, he touched a subject which is of interest to administration and alumni alike.

Some high lights, briefed and paraphrased in part, carry a theme thought of services that individuals and alumni groups may render their college in the way of contacting prospective students. In brief, he writes that while the brainy quarterback, sure-footed ball carriers, light-heeled pole vaulters and fast checking goal-tenders have always rated a premium in the college stock market there is now a sure place for the bespectacled Solon, the budding Demosthenes and the shy and studious Minerva.

The high school senior is king. What cotton sometimes is to the South, cattle to the mid-west and wheat to the Dakotas so now is the prospective student to the colleges. He balances the budget; saves the faculty from a salary cut, or minimizes its severity if there is one; and keeps the oil running under the power plant boilers.

Since all colleges are faced now as never before with the necessity of keeping up enrollment while at the same time achieving a certain quality of standard which is desirable, there must be set up a definite selective process, built out of the objectives and experiences of the particular college.

The local groups and individual alumni should develop contacts with local and nearby schools. This may be done through visitations to the schools, acquaintanceships with the school officials, gifts of literature to the library and teas and other informal gatherings where the high school pupil is invited. Patries, during college vacations when students are home help to further the interest of the child still in high school.

Some graduates have the excellent habit of taking promising high school students to the campus for an athletic event, a college show, or debate. Proper hospitality must be shown the young visitor, that he may get a true picture of life at that particular college.

Interviews between prospective students and successful alumni in the fields in which the high school student is interested. The prospect could then check up his own impressions of the profession he hopes to follow with one who has been trained in it and has been successful. These interviews are very often the determining factor for the choice of college of a prospective student.

Loan funds and scholarships maintained by local associations are strong incentives to prospective students who may be helped along the way of higher education through the generosity of the home community. Such gifts serve to promote a strong tie between the campus and the local groups.

Many alumni and most local clubs have hardening of the graduate arteries. With what more vital task may they be challenged than that concerning prospective students.

A purposeful program on the part of every alumni group might easily result in a much larger number of really worth while young men and young women going to college, while at the same time, by placing emphasis on securing better material, any college could, after a few student generations,

CONFERENCES PLAN RALLIES

Seek to Inform Prospective Students About College

The cooperating conferences are preparing Otterbein rallies for the purpose of informing our people about the work of the college and also for the purpose of interesting prospective students.

The college is sending out groups of students under a faculty leader to three or more points in the conference to work with the pastors and alumni in presenting the opportunities and advantages of Otterbein.

East Ohio Conference has chosen March 26 for their rally day probably in Barberton, New Philadelphia and Canton. Sandusky Conference March 29, when rallies will be held in Lima First, Woodville and Galion. Miami Conference will hold rallies on March 31 in Dayton Oakwood, Dayton Fairview, Greenville and Hamilton.

These rallies will take the form of informal contacts by students of the college with friends and high school students.

It is expected that a closer friendship with churches, alumni and friends will be the result of these meetings.

Dad Moon's Birthday

One of Otterbein's most faithful servants passed his seventy-fifth milestone on Friday, February 1st. “Dad” Moon, as he is familiarly known to his many friends among the alumni, the faculty and the students, is also completing his twenty-fifth year at Otterbein. When he took up his duties in September, 1910, he was janitor for the Association Building, the conservatory and the library.

COLLEGE GETS BIG DONATION

$10,000 Given for Joseph Caulker Memorial Fund

Otterbein college has just come into possession of ten thousand dollars in government bonds from an alumnus of the college for the purpose of establishing a scholarship for students who are preparing themselves for missions, preferably in Africa. It is to be called the Joseph Caulker Memorial Scholarship Fund. During the life time of the donor the proceeds of this are to be paid in the form of an annuity, but at death it will be put into the form of available funds for the purpose designated in the terms of the gift.

Joseph Hannibal Caulker was a student in Otterbein College from 1898 to 1900. He was an unusually brilliant and accomplished young man and gave promise of being a very useful citizen in his own country. His life was cut short in an untimely way by a tragic accident from burning due to the explosion of a kerosene stove. His nephew, Richard Caulker, is now a senior in Otterbein, and has maintained the high record of the family in his fine scholarship and christian character.

CAMPUS SOCIAL EVENTS

The All Campus Party, a social event held just before the Christmas vacation with a Christmas tree and everything was, according to the reports of the student body, one of the most successful ever held on the campus. Stunts, skits, music and eats made up an evening of fun.

Cochran Hall has held two lovely teas. One was given in honor of the former Dean of Women, Miss Hortense Potts, who was on a return visit and the other tea was given in honor of the girls living in town and their mothers.

The Campus Council working together with Dean Anderson is providing many social events.

Another all campus party is scheduled for March 30 in the Alumni gymnasium.

As an added attraction to this exceptional event the indoor track meet will be run off at the same time. Arrangements have not been completed as yet but it is planned to alternate the serious competition with contests between the onlookers.

Bullitt in honoring the American singers, their brilliant director, Dr. John Finley Williamson, their sponsor, Mrs. H. E. Talbott.

Dr. and Mrs. Williamson are graduates of Otterbein.

ATHLETICS

With the basketball season again relegated to the past, and with our attention being turned to the spring sports, the Cardinals have closed a very successful season. The Cards played only fair ball to lose to Bowling Green and Marietta, and then reached superb heights when they whipped Mount Union and Ashland, and Capital and Denison each twice. A little luck at the beginning of the season would have placed the Cards at the head of the Ohio Conference standing, notwithstanding the loss of the last game to the Muskies.

The Cardinals ended the season with ten wins and three losses. The scores were as follows:

Bowling Green 41, Otterbein 35.
 Otterbein 43, Mount Union 24.
 Otterbein 55, Oberlin 29.
 Marietta 29, Otterbein 25.
 Otterbein 33, Ashland 22.
 Otterbein 43, Ohio Northern 32.
 Otterbein 40, Denison 25.
 Otterbein 40, Capital 37.
 Otterbein 28, Wittenberg 23.
 Otterbein 52, Wooster 38.
 Otterbein 33, Capital 27.
 Otterbein 36, Denison 29.
 Muskingum 48, Otterbein 35.

point to the program as one that raised the level of the whole campus. Many an alumnus right now is not able to give money but could render service. SENIOR LETTERMEN IN LAST
CAGE TILT FOR OTTERBEIN

"Abe" Miller

"Abie" Miller, diminutive Senior guard, has also played on Cardinal teams for three years, and is a letterman in track and baseball, as well as in basketball. Abie's service on the hardcourt has not been as extensive as Hap's but he has always filled the gap in a fine way whenever called upon.

BASEBALL

All interest is now being focused on Spring Sports—Baseball, Track and Tennis, and a promising Golf team.

The baseball season will open on April 15 with a game against Capital. Professor R. F. Martin, baseball coach, lost many of his first team players by graduation including Evans pitcher and Bennett catcher together with Schick, Schott, Fetter, Nagle and Hinton. However, he has some good material coming up and the team will give a good account of itself.

S. J. FLICKINGER IN

One of the three pioneer Ohio newspapermen elected to Journalism's Hall of Fame in 1934 was Samuel J. Flickinger, Otterbein, '72.

The Hall of Fame was established in 1928 and the choice is made by newspaper organizations of the state.

The following is from the Columbus Dispatch of November 18, 1934: Samuel J. Flickinger was for more than 50 years a writer for the press. Graduated at Otterbein, he received the M. A. degree from Cornell university in 1875, at once beginning his newspaper career as reporter for the Dayton Journal, serving later as Columbus Correspondent for the Cincinnati Commercial and later the Cincinnati Enquirer. He bought an interest in the Ohio State Journal in 1878 and for a decade ending in 1883 was managing editor, director and secretary. For the next 11 years he was Associated Press correspondent and assistant of Melville E. Stone, general manager. Later he was editor, director and secretary of the Dayton Journal, private secretary of Gov. Asa L. Harris. As the expiration of the governor's term of office, he went to Dayton as Editor of the Herald, and thence to part ownership of the Durham, N. C., Sun. He returned to Ohio in 1915, as secretary of the Inland Waterways association and contributing editor of the Hamilton News. He died March 12, 1929.
