"COMMENCEMENT IN RESUMÉ"

"—all is well, safely rest, God is nigh"—and so as the last strains of the traditional, thrice-repeated "Taps" faded away, President J. R. Howe declared the 94th year of Otterbein College officially closed. Although Commencement proved to be one filled with emotion caused by the present world situation which calls many from both the senior and undergraduate classes to the country's service, it also proved to be one of fun and business combined; for as the Board of Trustees were meeting to ponder many weighty questions the graduates and friends who had returned to the campus from all corners of the earth were meeting in planned reunions and informal gatherings to renew old friendships and to form new ones. The usual program of events beginning with the President's reception of the senior class on Friday evening and reaching a climax in the commencement exercises on Monday morning, encompassed the annual Phi Sigma Iota dinner, Quiz and Quill, Chaucer Club and Phi Kappa Delta breakfasts, senior class day program, commencement play, and the recital by the department of music. Classes which had planned special reunion luncheons were 1901, 1916, 1921, and 1926. Other classes had special tables at the alumni banquet, and all had rooms reserved in the Administration Building where they could come and register. President Ralph Cooper Hutchison gave the commencement address and is to be commended for a great speech on a timely subject.

Degrees were conferred on 63 seniors, 47 receiving the A.B. degree, 11 the B.S. degree and two the B. Mus. degree, and four the degree of B. Mus. Ed. Honorary D.D. degrees were conferred on E. Ray Cole, Conference Superintendent of the West Virginia Conference, and Jacob Foraker Hatton, Superintendent of the Michigan Conference.

Alumni Banquet Reported

Honor guests at the annual Commencement Alumni Banquet which was presided over by E. L. Bennert, '01, who spoke for the class of 1901, T. E. Newell, '23, president of the Alumni Association, and Dr. J. R. Howe, '21, President of the College. The oldest class answering the traditional roll call was the class of 1878. The report of the election returns by Mrs. F. J. Ressler, '93, chairman of the nominating com-
