MARIETTA DOWNS VARSITY ELEVEN

Otterbein Loses Hard Fought Battle to the Much Touted and Fast Marietta Eleven Saturday.

OTTERBEIN SCORES FIRST

After Five Minutes of Play Lingrel Rams Marietta Line for Otterbein's Only Score.

The Otterbein-Marietta game on last Saturday ended with the latter winner by a score of 20 to 6. Disappointment was in every Otterbein man's heart. No regrets, however, in the way of playing for every man fought hard and displayed excellent nerve to the finish.

An alibi cannot be offered. Both teams seemed evenly matched and both played hard, clean football. The officiating was of the best. Penalties were in favor of Otterbein and nothing in the way of an alibi can be suggested unless that luck all went to the River Town gridders. This has been the case at Marietta for the last four years. Otterbein's plays have been equal to the task of scoring but each time something has spoiled their chances while Marietta has had good luck in pulling off some false or trick plays and has made the majority of points. Marietta's triple passes and criss-cross end runs have been deceptive to Otterbein. Line men of both teams were pretty evenly matched. If any difference in weight Marietta was a little heavier.

Line plugging did not net very great gains for either team. Linemen piled up on each play so that there seemed to be no openings made at all. Occasionally some backfield man would speed around an end for a good gain. However, it was necessary to punt a great deal.

Bishops Hold Council.

Bishops of the United Brethren church met last week in Columbus at the Fifth Avenue United Brethren church for their annual council.

Five of the six bishops of the church were present. They were: Dr. G. M. Matthews, Dayton, Central district; Dr. W. M. Bell, Los Angeles, Pacific district; Dr. W. M. Weekly, Parkersburg, W. Va., Eastern district; Dr. H. H. Fout, Indianapolis, Northwestern district, and Dr. G. J. Kephart, Kansas City, Southwestern district.

Bishop A. T. Howard was not able to be in attendance as he is now in the foreign district making a tour of the foreign mission fields.

NOTED BISHOP LECTURES

Bishop W. M. Bell Holds Audience Spellbound When He Speaks on "America, Whence, Whither?"

With his characteristic earnestness and eloquence, Bishop William M. Bell lectured last Wednesday night at the United Brethren Church. His theme was "America, Whence, Whither," and his attractive and forceful way of presenting the subject, together with his commanding personality, held the audience throughout the evening.

The study of our national life, according to Bishop Bell leads us back to the primitive efforts of building nations. The early ideas of national strength was the power to conquer and subdue other nations and to force into servitude hostile people from all sides. But during the fifteenth century there came a period of discontent and reaction. The opening of the new world had a great influence in this movement.

A profound agitation in regard to the control and practices of religious faith gripped the people of that time. There was a fear that the state might exercise a violent and hurtful influence over religion, and thus take from it its sanctity and uplifting influence. Another aspect of the agitation at that time was one of economic independence. People began to see the injustice of the servitude of Mary Weinland Becomes Bride.

Miss Mary Weinland became the bride of Mr. Arthur M. Crumrine, who lately returned from the West Indies. The marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Weinland of Columbus last Saturday evening. Miss Weinland is well-known among musical circles in Columbus, and studied voice in Berlin. Mr. Crumrine is a publicity manager and newspaper man.

JUNIORS WILL PLAY

Play Lovers to Receive Rare Treat at Wednesday's Performance of "The Touchdown."

Next Wednesday evening "The Touchdown" will be presented by the Juniors in the college chapel. The caste has been working hard under the direction of Professor Fritz for the last two weeks, and all indications now point to a first-class performance. The play is one which should interest every college man and woman, because it is essentially a college play, the atmosphere, characters and conversation all being typical of a modern American college. The play abounds in little incidents and scenes so dear and so familiar to all college students. As the title indicates, the plot centers around a big football game.

Grant Hayden, an amateur sculptor and expert football player, is in his Junior year at Siddell, a Pennsylvania co-educational college. In order to win a prize in an art competition, he gives up football. Clark, the football coach, pleads with him in vain to come back on the team, as he is sorely needed to take Wolfe's place at half-back, who has been drinking heavily and is utterly unfit to play. How Hayden finally does play, in spite of Wolfe's many attempts to keep him off the team, wins the big game with Hinsdale, the prize in the Oyster Supper Tonight.

From five-fifteen until seven-thirty tonight the Christian Endeavor will serve oyster soup to those boosters who will produce the twenty-five cents to purchase a plate. Other good things will be on hand to satisfy the appetite. The church basement will be the scene of the supper and all who can should make it a point to partake of the good things.

ATHLETIC CLUB GAINS MOMENTUM

Enthusied by Otterbein's Brilliant Victories Loyal Alumni Rally to the Support of Athletics.

DIRECTORS WILL CONVENE

First Annual Meeting of Local Clubs Will be Held at Westerville in December.

Work of the Otterbein Athletic Club for the year, 1916, is rounding up in fine shape according to a tentative report made to the Executive Committee of the Club, which met Saturday afternoon. Very gratifying responses are being received from the alumni and the former students of Otterbein to the call of the Club to assist in the building up of a strong financial backing of athletics in the school. Local clubs are thriving.

Two letters of particular interest were read before the committee, one from John Thomas, Jr., '98, of Johnstown, Pa., and Ernest S. Barnard, '95, of Cleveland, each of whom enclosed a check for $25 for their contribution for the year.

"Am glad to see Otterbein doing so well on the football field," says Mr. Barnard, who is one of the officers of the Cleveland Baseball Club. "I hope that the Athletic Club is doing its share in backing up the boys with the necessary encouragement of a financial nature."

"The nature of my work has prevented me from keeping up with football for the last five or six years, but I am taking some interest in the game again, owing to the fact that we are playing professional football at League Park and making a success of it financially in spite of the fact that we have not been able to win a game from the recognized strong teams, as yet. Barring accidents you may count upon me for the enclosed amount each year."

Bishop Fout Occupies Pulpit.

Bishop H. H. Fout, of Indianapolis, Indiana, who has been attending the Bishop's Conference at Columbus, preached to a large congregation at the United Brethren Church Sunday morning. In his theme, "The Divinity of the Church" he spoke of the early founding of the church and of the important place which it now occupies in the world. In a splendid manner he brought out the importance of the place that each one has in the work of the Christian Church of the present day. This was another occasion when the students and people of Westerville were benefited by the presence of the bishops in Columbus.

SECONDS TIE WINCHESTER

Canal Winchester Lads Give Altman's
"Proteges Mighty Tussle Friday,
But Fail to Win.

Last Friday the second team journeyed to Canal Winchester to meet the High School team of that town. The game was fast from start to finish and ended in a tie score 6 to 6. Canal Winchester has a very strong team and are hard to beat especially on their own field, while the O. U. Seconds have a badly crippled team from varsity practice.

It was just three o'clock when the referee blew time in and to start the game. Otterbein kicked off and the Winchester lads started a march down the field for a touchdown, but were unable to get closer than a trial at a drop kick which fell wide. The ball was kept moving back and forth across the field with no scores.

It was in the second quarter that the Canal Winchester team broke loose on a wide end run and crossed the line for a touch down. They punted out and a try at goal was lost. The remarkable thing about this run was the interference, which crossed the line with the man with the ball.

No other scores were made until the last part of the fourth quarter when the second stringers took a spurt and crossed the white line. They took the ball at the middle of the field and a pass from Henderson to VanMason netted half the distance to the goal, then by team work and line plunging the other half was made. A punt out was dropped and the trial at goal was lost. With this the final whistle blew and the game ended in a tie score 6 to 6.

Those who played best for Otterbein were Rasor, VanMason, Smith and Fellers. Van Mason was the most consistent ground gainer, taking good gains when ever called upon. The others who also played well were Captain Hall, Cribbs, Elliott, Hert, Phillips, Henderson, Ireland and Siddall.

For Canal Winchester Burtner, at end; Badger at quarter; Stevenson at full and Boyd at half were easily the stars.

BASKETBALL LOOKS GOOD

With Coach Iddings at the Helm
Otterbein Looks Forward to a Successful Season.

Prospects for a good basket ball season are especially bright this year. Although there is not the usual number of men out for practice as yet the material that has shown up so far is extraordinary. It is expected that when football season closes several new men who are very promising will be seen on the floor. The schedule as it now stands is the hardest that Otterbein has faced for many years but the Ian and Cardinal quintet will give good account of itself in spite of this fact. Coach Iddings will have charge of the team and even bigger things may be expected from him in basketball than in football. Mr. Iddings played guard for two years on the University of Chicago team and made quite a name for himself in this position. He is enthusiastic over the game and declares that it is the coming college sport. Captain Sechrist is showing up in his usual form and then some. He is on the job all the time and is instilling "pep" into his team in a manner which will make them deliver the goods. E. R. Turner is playing better than ever before. He is in excellent physical condition and promises to play a fast constant game all of the time. Myers is showing up in fine style. Brown and Feden have not been out in suits yet but are expected to be on hand in a couple of weeks. There are three open places on the team now and it is evident that there will be a strong fight in filling them. Big "Red" Miller, our track and football star looks extremely good for center, but as yet he has not been able to have a workout on the floor on account of football. P. J. Miller, a Freshman from Chicago Junction is showing up well. Several other new men are developing in good fashion, and when the football men are able to come out the lineup will be stronger than it has been for some years. New equipment is being purchased for the boys and the quintet will make a splendid appearance on the floor. The support of the student body, the expert coaching the team will receive and the unusual material at hand will be sure to give us a representative team and one which will be a sure "scalp getter". Come out to the practises. If you can't be on hand with a suit come out in the gallery and help the boys along with a little encouragement from the sidelines. Begin to talk basket ball now and if the spirit is kept up nobody except our opponents will shed any tears over the season's outcome.

SIDELINES.

Otterbein swept Marietta off her feet when she marched down the field and rammed the Marietta defense for a touchdown within five minutes of play.

Another man's record for having played every minute of the season was broken when Miller was forced to leave the game in the third quarter.

Otterbein's left side of the line played a great game. Mase and Higlemire were invincible and should be credited with wonderful defensive playing.

There remain only four men who have played every minute thus far. Captain Counsellor, Higlemire, Peden and Walters. Here's hoping they complete the record.

Hayes and Whitting showed some fine ability at passing but Otterbein was trained to break up all the aerial work attempted by Marietta.

Coach Iddings was heard to say that he was pleased that the boys fought to the finish and if they had had any breaks in luck at all the game would have been theirs.

A "good time" was the lot of the players going down but when one has to travel all night after a game and in limousines from Columbus to Westerville at three o'clock on Sunday morning it is no fun.

Otterbein had the ball in Marietta's territory most of the time. Luck seemed to be against scoring.

Lingrel Leads Interesting

Meeting at Thursday's Y. M. C. A.

Elmo Lingrel, Otterbein's star half-back addressed the men at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Thursday evening. "Ling" did not give a set speech but drove his thoughts straight from the shoulder, like he straight arms "would be" tacklers while going for a touchdown. The reason why more students don't come to Y. M. C. A. is because there is little to come for. It is true that the meetings afford opportunities for character building; but the average student is not inclined to listen to speeches in order to attain this end. What we really need in Otterbein is to have a place where men may congregate in a social way and under Christian influence. Under present conditions there is no such place to get-together; but the association parlors could be easily be made homelike, thus affording a meeting place for those, who otherwise would idle their time away in gossip. With little cost of time energy and money, a reading table could be installed, easy chairs could be gotten while pennants and pictures could be donated to decorate the wall. These would make the parlors inviting, pleasant and comfortable and would bring students to the building and ultimately into the association work. If this would be done Otterbein students, who now are out of the association's influence would be brought into closer contact with the Christian work and Otterbein would be better off.

WOMAN'S DAY OBSERVED

Mrs. L. R. Harford, National President of the W. M. A. Addressed Congregation Sunday Evening.

The annual Woman's Day program was of unusual interest this year, for Mrs. L. R. Harford of Omaha, Nebraska, was secured as the speaker. She is well known to a host of friends in Westerville for she made her home here for many years, and comes back frequently to visit her brother, Prof. Frank Kessler. In a reminiscent introduction Mrs. Harford told of the beginnings the Woman's Missionary Association, and she is peculiarly fitted to do so, for she has been constantly connected with it since its origin. She was one of the six far-sighted women who met in Dayton forty-one years ago to plan a conference to interest the women of the church in active missionary work, and has been a leader in its progress. For eleven years she has been the very efficient president of the association.

The institution of Woman's Day is twenty-three years old, and has been a wonderful agent of education and encouragement in missionary activities. Once a year, usually in October, the women have full charge of the church service and devote it to a review of past achievements and a spur to further activity. So last night, Mrs. Harford, in her charming and forceful way, gave a broad survey of the work already done, and a challenge to the young people to complete the gigantic task. In the five missionary fields of our denomination, Africa, China, Japan, Philippines and Porto Rico, much has been won but there are still many enemies to subdue. In the home fields, especially Montana and New Mexico, the work is a challenge to the best efforts and interest of all young people who want some worth while work to do. The special funds raised at this time are to be divided equally between this home work and Miller Seminary for girls in Sin Lam, China.

"A Balanced Life" Discussed
by Opal Gilbert on Tuesday.

Is your life well balanced? Do your deeds of service each day balance the opportunities and privileges which came each day? Opal Gilbert showed us in her talk on the subject, "A Balanced Life" that we are careless in striking a balance and that very often our physical overbalances our spiritual life; our temporal, our eternal life. A well balanced life is not a Sunday life but an every day one. We cannot do things during the week which are not right and expect on Sunday to erase them or overbalance them with good behavior. This is impossible and is a dangerous idea to have. Christ helps us make our lives balance by being an example for us to follow. Someone has said that to be a Christian is to remind others of Christ. If we remind others of Christ we will be living balanced lives.

Join the Conference.

Why should Otterbein delay her application for admittance into the Ohio Conference? Again this is a question of discussion among those who are looking into the future of Otterbein's athletic career.

When the conference was first organized, it was thought advisable to adopt a stay-out policy and such was the action taken. All went well for at least a decade, but in the fall of 1912 plans were laid for admission. In the course of these events, a movement was launched in opposition to the plan and the hopes of the Conference supporters went glimmering, when each day saw more antagonism arising to down the proposition. Whether it was wise to remain outside the conference or not is a question, which few would try to answer.

But today conditions have so changed that the former arguments against the petition for admission have dwindled into insignificance, and in a canvas of athletic supporters not a single man has expressed himself against the movement. 'Tis true that Otterbein, would be handicapped for a few years by playing under conference rules, which would bar first year men. Thus a few good players would be lost; but the advantages of the conference are manifold. What gets us is the fact that an Otterbein star, who is unquestionably an all-state man receives little recognition, and when the All Ohio team is chosen he is fortunate to even receive honorable mention. If for no other reason than to give our players a square deal, we should enter the Conference.

Eventually we must cast our lot with the Conference schools. This fact is inevitable. Whether we shall begin to profit at once by the project or whether we shall lag behind and become back numbers in the inter-collegiate athletic world should be decided once and for all by the present student body. At no time in the history of the school have the conditions been so favorable for our entrance. Our football season has been the most successful in years and Coach Iddings' men have established an enviable reputation in the football circles of Ohio, by carrying away the laurels of victory from three of the strongest Conference teams.

We admit that our first few years of Conference life might prove to be a little discouraging, but they would not be unsatisfactory for during this time, we would develop an athletic regime, a foundation upon which to build future achievements, which would well repay our short period of development. This period must be passed through by every school before it can produce a strong standing and why not have it now, when we have as our aid men who are enthusiastic over the idea, a good coach and a winning team?

As conditions exist in making out our schedules, we are relegated to second choice, and a manager meets with innumerable difficulties in arranging a satisfactory season. He is forced to wait until the Conference schools, have completed their schedules and then is given a chance to arrange his dates as best he can.

These are but a few of the reasons why we should enter the Conference this year. There are many others worthy of note. The question is one which must be decided. What will be the verdict?

IT STRIKES US.

That we hate to see the 1916 eleven fight its last battle for its Alma Mater.

That we will appreciate Chapel, when it convenes once more.

That Otterbein needs a few more good college songs.

That all who are fresh are not freshmen.

That mid term examinations are a necessary evil.

That new seats would complete our chapel.

That the college bell should open and close classes.

That Iddings and his men deserve a farewell reception.

That the Dormitory Cat should have its say in the columns of the Otterbein Review.

That the second team sprung the surprise of the season against Canal Winchester.

That more men could be accommodated on the basketball floor.

The Dormitory Cat.

Me-ooooow. I had my fur all ruffled up this week. My friend Thomas told me the other day that the janitor of the Administration Building was a gun user and to be rather careful about prowling about his domain on my nocturnal perambulations. I tried to be careful but never the less I got in bad. It was about midnight and the moon wasn't shining as brightly as usual. I was purring along a little slower than ever when all at once I wandered up to a long cannon like affair and my heart fluttered within me as I gazed down the shining barrel of a cannon. I thought Harris had me sure and I almost fainted. Had it not been for the timely arrival of Tom I would have swooned. He pranced up and revived me enough to explain that I was not confronted by the muzzle of a powerful six shooter but had only ventured too close to a stray pipe of the new organ which reposed peacefully on the campus in the rear of the big red brick building. What a relief! I wish that dietician had never been instituted at the ladies' hall. The cats are getting to be pretty scarce in the can beside the kitchen door. Things aren't like they used to be. Nowadays all the left overs are made up into tempting dishes for the next meal and I am almost starving to death. I lost .29846 ounces last week. But I have a good place to sleep and will have until those tin boxes are put together and nailed up in the basement of the gymnasium. I have peacefully reposed in one of them for the last three weeks. I can use them for a winter home to greater advantage than the boys can for their clothes. But maybe they will be put together some day and then I will be cast out in the cold, cold world once more. Me-ooow. As I observed before, life ain't what it used to be. Guess I'll go down to the Review office and catch a mouse for it is getting late and I must have something to eat before I start on my nocturnal prowling.

CLUB TALK

To the Editor:

Chapel services having been temporarily abandoned, it is almost impossible to get an announcement before the student body. More than ever before the need of a Bulletin Board is demonstrated. From time immemorial, I suppose, the old slab covered with felt has hung in the south entrance and has presumed to take the name "Bulletin Board." But aside from announcing rooms for rent and scholarships being offered the ancient relic is but of little use, and it is about time that it was relegated to the rear and a fit substitute be placed somewhere on the college grounds where it would be read and then we wouldn't be hampered by the necessity of making our announcements so brief that they are almost unintelligible as is now the case in the chapel service.

quarter Lingrel scored the first touchdown of the game by a terrific line plunge. After this on at least three occasions it seemed impossible to put the oval across when in the 10-yard zone. No luck was with the tan and cardinal at these times.

Shining Lights.

The game was full of thrillers. Passing of Marietta was no less than it had been announced in advance of the game. Whitting and Hayes of Marietta are "stars" in the forward pass. The second touchdown of the game came by the air-route. However, the Otterbein boys broke up the passes many times and showed good training in this art.

As usual Lingrel played a wonderful game. He was hard to stop but could not get loose very often. The Marietta team played hard for him and their united opposition proved to equal his task. His passing was sure and netted some long gains. At the kicking game he was mighty good. "Ling" played as hard a game as any of the four he has played against this bunch.

Otterbein's "speedy quarter" as "Gill" is dubbed time and again in the papers proved that the title is correct. He made some long and consistent gains on end runs. At returning punts he was in form and was hard to down last Saturday. At signal work he showed good judgment. Gilbert was one of the bright lights and may be said to deserve greater commendation than any Otterbein man although it seems there was no exceptional player. All of them were in good form.

Glen Ream received some difficult passes and played some brilliant defensive ball. His tackling was low and effective. No question about Ream's game. He was in it hard all the time.

Miller, was probably the best defensive man on the field, for in smashing interference and downing the runner, he was without a peer. An injury in the third quarter made it necessary for him to leave the game. Huber took his place.

Captain Counsellor, Higlemire and Mase were the bears of Otterbein's line, while Walters, Sholty and Peden were impenetrable for the Marietta offence.

ATHLETIC CLUBS GAIN MOMENTUM

Mr. Thomas was jubilant over the victory at Dayton over Ohio Wesleyan and in his letter of Secretary R. W. Smith he says, "As proof of how good I feel over your victory at Dayton I am enclosing herewith a little check. Your letter was the first news I had had on the result of the game and I wish to thank you for it."

Mr. Thomas is interested in the organization of a local Otterbein Athletic Club in western Pennsylvania.

A third $25 contribution is Sardis W. Bates, '15, of Webb City, Mo., who was elected state senator in Nov. 7. Mr. Bates sent $10 following the Denison victory and later when Otterbein had secured the Kenyon scalp, he wrote "This $15 is for the Kenyon victory."

Plans for the coming year for the Athletic Club will be discussed at the first annual meeting of the board of directors of the Club at Westerville on Saturday, December 9, beginning at 10 o'clock. All the local clubs will be represented by a director for every twenty members.

A very interesting program for the day is being arranged, consisting largely of round-table discussion. Addresses will be delivered by President Clippinger, Physical Director R. F. Martin, Coach Hal J. Iddings and Homer P. Lambert, president of Otterbein's Athletic Club and of the Board of Control of Athletics in Otterbein. The meeting of the directors will be open and alumni and friends are invited to attend the two sessions, which will probably be held in the faculty room in the administration building.

the majority by a few—the aristocracy. Then came the ideas of democracy which sprang up and materialized in the new world.

America's ideal was to have her sovereignty in the ranks of the populace rather than to be governed by autocratic rule. This idea has grown, said Bishop Bell, until now the American thinks in terms of democracy.

Then there should be aroused an interest as to our whereabouts. There are men who are reactionary and there are the progressive and radical classes. "This is but natural," said Bishop Bell. But these classes should be uniformly developed. The contentions which are on in the great social struggles of today, are a real power for good. They are making our nation a stronger nation. The value of the student in this struggle for social betterment is measured by the degree with which we modify our conservative and radical ideas. Students of today should think in wider zones, should look forward to the work which has been planned for them to do.

Bishop Bell said that on some occasions when he presents a program for social betterment in our land and feels sure that right is sure to win, there are those of a pessimistic nature who come and tell him that "its no use, humanity is just humanity, and we cannot change it." These people in the Bishop's mind are dead and don't know it. They should be turned over to the ambulance corps. He says that he has better hope and more faith and love for humanity than he has ever had before, in spite of the bloody scourge which is sweeping Europe. This conflict will have its results and may be the means of a world-wide peace and prosperity in later years.

America has awakened to new ideas of government and social and religious welfare. The last election has shown that party whims and prejudices shall not run our government. "A political party has no right to claim our influence and support," said Bishop Bell, "unless they have a right to claim our confidence and trust."

HEIDELBERG GAME HARD

Victorious 1916 Eleven Will Battle Last Game for Otterbein at Tiffin Next Saturday.

On next Saturday, November 25, the Otterbein football team will go to Tiffin to meet the Heidelberg men. This game is looked forward to, with a great deal of interest from several standpoints.

The townspeople of Tiffin are boasting about their fine team this year, and their boast is not all hot air, for Heidelberg has a strong team. They have been trouncing teams right and left and it will be a hard task for Otterbein to win from this strong aggregation. But not all praise is due the Tiffin lads, for Idings men have also been on the map. The Westervillians have been spoken of in the Columbus papers as rightful contenders for the state honors. Heidelberg was also spoken of in this light; so next Saturday's game has a tinge of State Championship connected with it, and is interesting from that point of view.

Then it is the last game of the season. With this remark is carried some things to think about. Lingrel, Otterbein's fast left halfback, will be seen for the last time as a player in this game. Then there is Miller, the wonderful end, who will appear on the gridiron in his final intercollegiate contest. Captain "Bill" Counsellor also closes his list of remarkable feats in a football suit. Sholty at guard and Walters at center are also playing their farewell. Think of it, students! These five stars of the 1916 football team will never be seen in an intercollegiate contest again.

ALUMNALS.

Alumni all read this column and enjoy it. But how many of them are doing things which are worthy of note and never gain any well deserved recognition in this paper? The editor has a hard time scraping up enough graduate news to make "Alumnals" worth while. Now Brother Otterbeinite, we are going to ask a little help from you in order to make this column worth while. Just forget about that admirable streak of modesty for a while and write in and tell us about yourself once in a while. We students at Otterbein want to know what you are doing and your classmates are wondering what has become of you. So do the whole Tan and Cardinal world a little good and tell us about yourself because we really want to know. With your help we can make this the most interesting part of the paper to the students and the graduates. Drop us a line right now about yourself and help the Review to be a bigger and better paper. S. O. S.
