CHANGE SYSTEM

ADOPT NEW PLAN OF RANKING STUDENTS.

New Method of Grading Will Go Into Effect During Second Semester.

The faculty, after long consideration and careful planning, has adopted a new grading system which will be put into practise during the second semester. The new system is a great improvement over the old one and is now being used by a number of schools, which have long been recognized as leaders in collegiate educational affairs. These schools are Earlham, Harvard, Michigan, Oberlin, Missouri, and Ohio State.

The new plan divides the students into five great classes, A, B, C, D, and F, according to their scholastic attainments in the class room. The grade of C means that in a number of students so large as to exclude accidental variations, the student would be found ranking among the medium students of this subject. The grade B means that the student ranks among the great majority of those who are superior to the medium students in this subject. The grade of A means that the student is one of the few most excellent students. Only unusual attainments in a subject shall be recognized by this grade. The grade of D means that the student ranks among the majority of those who are inferior to the medium students in the subject, but whose attainments seem worthy of some recognition. The grade of F means that the student ranks among those whose attainments in this subject are lowest, so that they are excluded, by definition, from the other four grades. To these classes, the faculty has added another one, that of X, which means that the student is conditioned in the subject, either because of sickness, unavoidable absence, or for other reasons. No provision has been made as yet as to how the number of hours a Third Number of Local Lecture Course Announced.

Everett Kemp, famous monologist and entertainer, will make his appearance in the college chapel on Thursday, January 14, as the third number of the local lecture course. As an interpreter, he has received ovations throughout the country, which have been second to none in enthusiasm and importance. His art is to interpret life and this he does in such a way, that one is early impressed that such is his consuming purpose. The local committee announces that he will probably read the "Music Master" although this is not absolutely certain.

WILL GIVE PLAY

Class Will Stage George Bernard Shaw's Farce—Comedy, "You Never Can Tell."

You Never Can Tell. Well, you never can, and that is the title of the farce-comedy to be given in the chapel Wednesday evening, January 20th. This play is funny and you never can tell how funny it is unless you see it.

Interest above all ordinary college activities should be shown in the star part which is played by the renowned Rudolph Wagner. This gentleman was formerly with the Ziegfeld Follies of 1912 but is at present principal and professor of latin in Martin Boehm Academy. William, the waiter is the name of this star's role. As for the rest of the cast you never can tell. It is enough to say that there is not a single character of the ten in the cast that is not really comic and well worth seeing.

George Bernard Shaw wrote the play and a liberal education necessitates a wide acquaintance with the greatest dramatists of our own time. You can not afford to miss this opportunity.

Between acts, there will be up-to-the-minute vaudeville by the greatest local Keith stars as well as special music. The new stage and scenery which Professor

NEW BALCONY BUILT DURING VACATION.

Inter-Class and Varsity Interest Is At a High Pitch This Year.

The last month has not been characterized by a single athletic event but during the next eight or nine weeks the students of Otterbein will have at least one basket ball game each week. The athletic board has seen fit to change the class series of former years to an inter-class league. It is believed that such a series of games which will extend during the entire varsity season will bring about a greater interest in the game and develop more new material.

In former years the second team has been made up of those who come out for practise occasionally. There has not been real hot competition on either varsity or second team. The result of such a state of affairs was disastrous to the team. It is just this spirit that the present plan will bring to an end, in fact already has. Those of you who have watched the practice know what a fight is on for each position on both teams. Never before have so many men reported for practise regularly. With such a spirit Otterbein is certain to have a winning team and a live and wide awake following.

For years the gym seating capacity has been over-taxed and with the increased spirit some addition had to be made. Coach Martin suggested the erection of a narrow balcony on the south side of the building which would be high enough that it would not interfere with the players. Professor Rosselot designed the plans and was put in charge of the work. Accordingly on the Monday previous to the opening of school he had all ready for the erection of such a balcony. With the able assistance of "Dads" Harris and Moon, Coach Martin and several students the work

Athletic Association Will Hold Benefit Night.

Beginning with Monday evening, January 11, the athletic association will hold a benefit night every Monday evening in the local motion picture house, the Winter Garden. This new project is in charge of R. E. Baker, of "prepdom" who has entire charge of all arrangements and tickets. Each evening there will be a special attraction such as the glee club, band, orchestra, or some other feature. The athletic association will receive a certain percentage of the receipts of the evening. Your presence will help in getting more money to run our teams. Come!

President W. G. Clippinger Speaks in Chapel Regarding Appropriations of Board.

A general misunderstanding seems to have been created by the unintentional mutilation of news released to the daily newspapers a few days prior to Christmas in regard to the appropriations to colleges by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller, some twelve years ago. The misunderstanding was made clear by a chapel talk by President Clippinger on Thursday morning.

During the early holiday season the General Education Board sent news to the daily newspapers to be released on successive days containing accounts of all appropriations made by the board during its period of existence. In that time something over ten million dollars has been given to American colleges. Six Ohio colleges have benefited as a result of appropriations from the board, to the amount of seven hundred and sixty thousand dollars.

Many of the newspaper accounts conveyed the impression that this amount was given to these schools this year. This is a mistaken impression as comparatively little was given by the board to colleges this year. Many

SEASON OPENS

Otterbein's Varsity Meets Capital
Next Saturday Evening.

On Saturday evening the Otterbein Varsity basketball team makes its first appearance on the home floor against the strong Capital University five. The Columbus team has been playing several weeks and claims to have the strongest team for years. There are some of the best teams in the state on her schedule and thus far the Lutherans have made a very creditable showing.

The Tan and Cardinal squad have been working hard the last few weeks and are in top notch condition for this opening contest. There is the keenest kind of competition for the regular places on the team. Converse and Campbell are playing their usual high class and fast game. Schnake, Kline, Sechrist, Lash, Watts and Moore are all playing great ball and will make good on the Varsity when put in.

This game is bound to be one of the best of the season. Students, alumni, town people and friends of Otterbein should all be present to see this opening game. With the new balcony the gym can easily accommodate from sixty to seventy-five more people.

As a preliminary contest the second game of the class series will be played. This game will be between the junior and senior teams. Reserved seats for these games will be on sale at the gym at 12:30 Friday and at the dormitory they may be purchased from Miss Lydia Garver. The first game will be called promptly at seven o'clock.

Seconds Going Nicely.

Otterbein has a second team which will make folks take notice this year. At each practise the Varsity has the time of their lives to get away with the bacon. Manager Garver is working on a schedule and hopes to secure games with the second teams of colleges in this territory as well as with prominent high schools in the state.

SERIES BEGINS

Sophomores Win the First Game
in Inter-class League.

The inter-class series opened with a bang last Saturday evening when the sophomores won from the freshmen, hands down, in a rough and tumble fight of the indoor football order. "Hank" Campbell was the referee and succeeded in holding the youngsters to a medium number of fouls on either side. Before the game "Abe" Glunt pulled off some "high-brow" remarks which ended with the christening of the new balcony in the name of its designer, Professor Rosselot.

The fray was very hot for the first few minutes and then the excitement grew intense when Captain Kuder threw a field goal from one corner for the freshmen. The sophomores struck their pace soon after and soon had a nice lead over their green opponents. Walters starred during the first half for his team, caging five baskets and figuring prominently in the floor work. Garver also did effective work for the sophomores while Kuder was the whole team for the "freshies." He caged four baskets during this half and was in for much of the team work. At times the team work of both teams was poor, the players bunching too much which made passing impossible.

The sophomores substituted their second string men during the second half and during this period the play was considerably rougher. "Bill" Counsellor was the star during this half and time after time drew forth applause for his hard work. The play during this half was of a very uninteresting order.

How Are You Educated?

The following from the Ohio State Lantern, we think is pretty good:

"A professor of the University of Chicago recently told his students he could consider them educated in the best sense of the word when they could say yes to every one of the questions that he should put to them. The following were the questions that he desired them to be able to answer in the affirmative:

Has education given you sympathy with all the good causes and made you espouse them?

Has it made you public-spirited?

Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them.

Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or a pure woman in the eye?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high-minded and happy in the meanest drugeries of life?

Do you think washing dishes and hoeing corn just as compatible with high thinking as piano playing or golf?

Are you good for anything yourself?

Can you be happy alone?

Can you look out on the world and see anything but dollars and cents?

Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see a clear sky?

Can you see anything in the puddle but mud?

Can you look into the sky at night and see beyond the stars?

Cut out this editorial and pin it up before your lamp. Look at it often, read the above questions and ponder over them. And then ask yourself if you are educated?"

A custom has been inaugurated at Oberlin requesting the professors to hand in written opinions concerning the members of the senior class, to be used for further reference.—Ex.

Y. M. C. A.Is College a Good Place to Backslide?

Last Thursday's weekly devotional meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association which was led by a senior, P. M. Redd, resolved itself into an interesting discussion of "College as a Place to Backslide." The leader outlined the subject and then opened it for discussion. Several students took part and a few slight differences in opinion were brought to light.

In his home town the Christian high school student is expected to do considerable work in the Sunday School, Church and Christian Endeavor. He is perhaps better fitted to do this than the majority of his fellows. In college the conditions are different. The freshman finds himself surrounded by a strong band of Christian men and women, who are older, more experienced and better educated than he. For the first year or so he very naturally allows them to take the lead, for he does not feel capable of taking much part.

At home the percentage of Christians among the young men is much smaller hence his opportunity to take a part in their meetings is very great. If he goes to a Christian college, especially is this true at Otterbein, where nearly every student is a Christian, he cannot, unless he is exceptionally brilliant, take the place among three or four hundred students, of whom he is likely the youngest and most inexperienced, that he held in his home church which contained perhaps twenty-five or thirty young men, of whom he is generally the best educated and most talented. If then a backslider is one who takes a less active lead in Christian work, college is a good place to backslide during the underclassmen years.

But if the student on coming to college uses good care in selecting his companions, and if he attends the Christian services regularly, though he may not take a very active part, the influence of his Christian friends and teachers will prevent him from declining religiously and his better understanding of things spiritual will make of him a better Christian.

Get a Vision.

Get a vision. Every great man who has made a success of this life has had a vision. Great preachers have had their visions; Luther had a vision; Lincoln carried a vision, received in his early manhood, through all his life; Columbus had a vision which, after years of trial, resulted in the discovery of America,
our own broad land.

Thus as we look at the lives of great men who have gone before, we can catch a glimpse of their visions and see their results. But we are not aware of the visions which are inspiring and encouraging men about us. A vision is something which a man keeps hidden; it would not mean much to anyone else, but to him, in the privacy of his inner consciousness, it is like a faith which can move mountains.

Youth is the time for getting visions. The "day dreams of youth" have been the cause of many a witticism but after all,
they have had a wonderful effect on the world's progress for it is the realization of our youthful dreams which marks the steps of progress. Last Thursday in chapel. President Clippinger spoke of the greater Otterbein that is to be. Have you caught the vision? Can you close your eyes and see in imagination our old campus clothed as it will be fifty years from now? Can you see our athletic field, which we are just beginning to develop, equipped with its large grandstand, running track, and diamond, with a one hundred thousand dollar gymnasium to one side? Are you able to picture the new science building, the men's dormitory, and the other buildings which are sure to come? Can you see the advancement our school is destined to make in other lines besides material growth?

If you can, you have caught the vision. Once you have gotten this vision in your hearts, old Otterbein will mean more to you.
If you are so unfortunate as to be too dull to realize these things, at least don't knock. Some one has written these words of the knocker.

"Put your hammer in the locker.
Hide the sounding board likewise—

Anyone can be a knocker

Anyone can criticize;

Cultivate a manner winning.

Though it hurts your face
to smile,

And seems awkward in begin-

Be a booster for awhile."

If your name is on the knocker's list, strike it off. What you need to inspire your student life is a vision of a greater Otterbein.
Once realized, it will be a source of inspiration to you in your student days and make you a better alumnus.

A New System.

This issue contains a statement of the new grading system, which has been adopted by our faculty and will be put to practical use during the second semester. Lately we have heard several of the students objecting to it on various grounds before any public announcement of its adoption had been made.

In our opinion it is a good change. No one can say positively that a student deserves so many percent as an indication of his ability or his knowledge of a subject. A professor can, however, divide his class into five or six inclusive divisions ranking them on the quality of their work and the natural ability shown.

Its adoption marks Otterbein
as a progressive college. We do not believe in following every new idea or theory in the educational field but when schools of international reputation have tried it and found it satisfactory, it ought to prove a good thing for Otterbein.

We understand this change was advocated by the student-welfare committee of the faculty.
We have often wondered if the students fully appreciate the work this committee is doing in their behalf. We have to thank them for many improvements in student conditions which have been brought about lately. As a whole the students recognize and appreciate very much the work of this committee.

Have you noticed how cheerful
the lights from the Library windows twinkle after night?

* * *

Some one has suggested that we initiate the tabernacle with a performance of "You Never Can Tell."

If This Be True.

Never mind how big a rascal he may be,
Every fellow has another entity!
There's a good man and a bad,
Both a sane man and a mad,
In 'most every human being that we see.

Carve the hide of any saint and you may find

That the saintly epidermis is a blind.

When the cuticle is scratched
Many a hypocrite is hatched—
It is seldom men are covered as they're lined.

Nature never made a freak in human guise

Altogether ignorant or wholly
wise;

Every stretching human skin
Holds at least two egos in,
Though but one many be detected by our eyes.

As this theory of mine is strictly true,

Don't forget how many egos are your due;

Better train them all to be Fit for human kind to see.
Lest the wrong one should show up and hoodoo you.

Investigation has shown that class C is the largest class, usually comprising about fifty percent of the student body. Classes B and D are next in size, containing from fifteen to twenty percent of the student body, while classes A and F are the smallest, averaging from three to six percent. In a total of approximately thirty thousand grades, taken from all courses in the University of Missouri 4.3% were A's; 21% were B's; 53.5% were C's; 16.7% were D's; and 4.5% were F's.

The faculty believes this change to be a step in advancement and hopes that through it a more satisfactory grading and ranking of students may be accomplished.

'08. Judge John A. Shauck, his daughter, Miss Helen Shauck, '08, Mr. J. A. Barnes, '94, and wife are members of a party who left for the Isle of Pines on Monday, January 4. The party will leave by special car and will go through to Key West, Florida, without change.

'94. Mr. R. C. Kumler has moved from Dayton to Colorado. Mr. Kumler was forced to give up active work in the Rike Kumler store about a year ago because of poor health. After spending several months in Michigan he returned to Dayton again trying his work but now has given it up entirely and taken up his residence in the West.

'09. Miss Una Karg visited with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keister at Mt. Vernon, Ia., during the holidays.

Given Farewell Banquet.

More than four hundred attended the banquet given on Tuesday evening, December 29, by the Franklin County Bar Association, honoring Judge John A. Shauck, '86, who retires with the present year as a member of the supreme court. Dean Adams of the State University college of law declared that Judge Shauck had played "the part of a man in the world of men." Judge Shauck in response to the various addresses deplored the recent changes in the constitution affecting the supreme court and also declared that the non-partisan judicial ballot law, instead of taking the bench out of politics had placed it in politics.

Cure for Discouragement.

If you are down in the mouth, read this, take a few double doses of it and then repeat in one half hour if not relieved.

Scattered through the student body now are individuals who are up against a solid wall of what they think to be the impossible. The more they study the less their study seems to mean to them, and they have begun to doubt and distrust their own ability.

These discouraged ones had dreams of college life. Their concepts were of friendships galore, a social program unceasing, a busy activity among college interests, with studies taking a pleasant place in the background. They may now be first-year students, who have comparatively early discovered that the professors each have a sort of Jack Frost attitude toward the hot-house variety of students who are unable to withstand the approach of the mid-terms that come when the "frost is on the pumpkin." Or they may have survived several winters until their vitality has gradually weakened, and they see no hope of staying longer in school than this semester. The professors seem to have mapped out a course of study that threatens their every waking hour and terrifies them completely. Friends and outside interests have been lost in the whirl, and the victims are going down for the third time.

When a young college person who should be normally happy and healthy, gets into such a rutty condition that his studies are all muddled so that he cannot see the "stars shine through his cypress trees," it is certainly time that he should begin to take stock of himself and to examine himself and his methods. Stop a bit, quit making scared motions and terrorized dodgings from one class ordeal to another, stand off from the crowd and take a good look at yourself, and map out a different course of action.

Do not give up, as long as you have any desire to keep any foothold on the ladder of success. Hang on until you are able to get a glimpse upward and then start all over to climb.

If you have been reading vast amounts of literature without getting anything from it, change your methods. Skim through it outline it, brief it, summarize it, or even commit it—just so you change your ways and get started into some channel that leads somewhere, instead of in a circle. Being discouraged is a condition that we all have experienced and will experience. You are not the only person who has had attacks of the "blues." You are not the sole person who believes that he or she is "up against it." In a week, a month, or even a few days you may be wondering why it was possible for you to have thought that the outlook was bad. Get started right, and then let in the clutch, shove yourself into high gear and keep your hand on the wheel. Keep out of any new ruts that you may encounter and guide yourself straight through college into some life work that is worth while.—Ohio State Lantern.

Oberlin.—The National Collegiate Athletic Association held its ninth annual convention in the La Salle Hotel, Chicago, December 29. The convention held three sessions, the morning or literary session, the afternoon or business session, and the evening session of general discussion. Professor Savage gave the principle address on the "Professional versus the Educational in Athletics" in which he scored the taint of professionalism in college sports.

Will Hold CommencementWeek Later Next Year.

To begin the next school year one week later in September than has been the custom, and to close one week later in June, 1916, in order to hold commencement before the final examinations for the general student body, is the plan adopted recently by the Ohio State University faculty. The change will not affect this year's commencement arrangements. The first effect on the University schedule will be the opening of college on September 21 instead of September 15.

The new plan will be followed for one year and if it proves satisfactory it will be adopted as the permanent policy of the University. A similar arrangement has been followed for two years with great success at the University of Missouri.

Under the new arrangements, the University will be exhibited in running order during commencement week, visitors will get an idea of the size of the student body, prize drill will be seen by more outsiders, the services of more students will be available for commencement affairs, according to the arguments advanced by the committee.

Final examinations for the seniors will either be abolished or held on regular class hours. If seniors are exempted from written finals in the second semester, certifications may be made on the basis of reports, mid-terms, quizzes, and attendance.

The editor of the Reserve Weekly has instructed the men the letter "s" when it is used in on the editorial staff to capitalize the word "senior" in reference to the senior class of which he is a member. They were also instructed to use the lower case letters in writing words "junior, sophomore, and freshman." My, but the fame, to bear the name of a senior at Reserve.—Case Tech.

COCHRAN NOTES

Just before Christmas several of the girls were delightfully entertained at the home of Tressa Barton. Clever games and contests occupied the evening until the arrival of Santa Claus who charmed the girls with his ready wit and amusing presents.

Vacation was so short,

The time fairly flew;

But now that we're back

There's no time to be blue.

Ruth Ingle, Alice Resler, and Marie Hendrick were a little late in returning, the two latter remaining at home on account of illness.

The number of Christmas diamonds was a little less than usual. What's the matter girls?

Inez S.—“Don't you think the boys at Otterbein are nice?”

Ruth Drury—“Yes, I just love every one of them.”

Patrons of college culinary art will be interested to know that fudge and rarebit are fast disappearing in favor of toast. Pure food experts will appreciate the change.

What they are talking about:

Seniors: Invitations.

Juniors: The Sibyl.

Sophomore: Basketball.

Freshman: Kuder.

Preps: Everybody and Prof. Rudy.

“Bib Richards” and Alice Hall have been holding consolation services, though nobody knows why.

The wise made New Year's resolutions and are nobly striving to keep them. But Orpha Mills didn't, so she won't have to collect any broken pieces. Clever Orpha!

About fifteen girls gathered in Stella Lilly's room Thursday evening to initiate Dorothy Gilbert's toaster. Ham, eggs, and logic were the principal dishes on the menu.

The guests at Sunday dinner were Alta Nelson, Ruth Dick, Mrs. Sheller, Mary Clymer, Elva Lyon, and Manette Wilson.

“Hen” Bercaw took the local high school basketball team down to Dayton to play Steele High school on last Friday evening. Unfortunately for “Hen,” his boys failed to bring back the “bacon.” He visited his uncle, John S. Davis, while in Dayton.

The year “1915” is starting in a rather lively fashion. Such events as mus.ache shaving expeditions, dorm serenades and amateur painting have already transpired.

All church bells rang on Friday morning at seven o'clock to call the workers together to build the tabernacle. In the course of the day sixty workmen were on the job. The ladies of the Presbyterian church furnished a free dinner to the laborers.
