ATTRACTIONS

Fall Homecoming

The traditional Otterbein Homecoming festivities took place on October 20 this year under the theme "Otterbein Treasures of Yesteryear." Annette Thompson reigned as queen over the weekend festivities. Her court included Nancy Asinof, Mary Kay Burns, Lee Ann Hanaford, and Sue Chapman with Gretchen Smith as Maid of Honor. Returning to crown the queen at football halftime activities was last year's fall queen, Jill Pfancuff. Also returning was Charma Moreland, the 1967 Homecoming queen. Activities, planned by the Campus Programming Board, included the traditional Saturday morning parade, an informal residence hall open house, and several anniversary reunions.

Winter Weekend

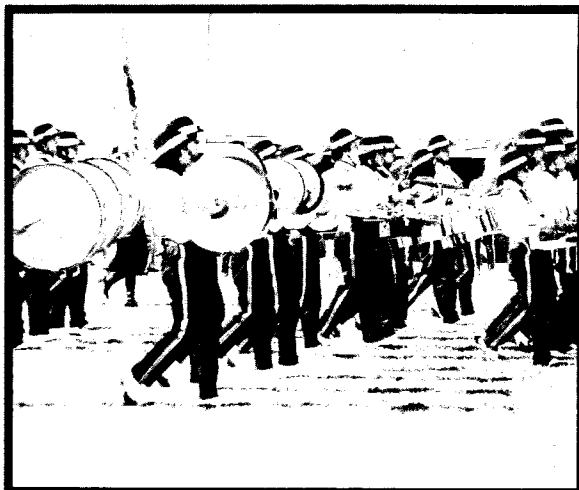

Otterbein's annual winter weekend, which included such events as the crowning of winter weekend queen and a traditional coffee house, took place in January. All sophomore girls were eligible for the five-member winter court. Tashonda Shore, a member of Tau Epsilon Mu Sorority majoring in life science, was crowned winter weekend queen by last year's queen, Lori Moomaw. Her court included Chris Simpson, Lynn Fichner, Teresa Eisner, and Wendy Cameron.

Marching Band

Members of the Otterbein Cardinal Marching Band delighted the crowds at both home and away football games with exciting halftime shows. Under the direction of Gary Tirey and assistants Donald Wolfe and Christopher Bright, the 172 member band put in several long hours of practice before each performance, which included all home football games, three away games, and the Columbus Day Parade. Among their musical repertoire was Chuck Mangione's "Land of Make-Believe," the theme from "A Star Is Born," "Evergreen," and the "Bottle Dance" from "Fiddler on the Roof."

Concert Band

Under the direction of Gary Tirey and associate director, Donald Wolfe, the Otterbein College Concert Band, made up of approximately 95 students, appeared in several concerts throughout the year. Included in their list of outstanding musical events were special home concerts, Village Green Concerts in the spring, and the traditional concert band tour. The Concert Band first began touring in the early 70's and since then has toured England twice, as well as performing in Chicago, Pittsburgh and many other major cities in the midwest. This year's 11th annual Spring Bands Tour, which also included Otterbein's Wind Ensemble and Jazz Lab Band covered much of Ohio, including stops in Dayton and Cincinnati. Some of the many tunes included in their performances were selections from "A Chorus Line" and "The Wiz." The annual Spring Concert was held April 1.

Orchestra

The Otterbein College Orchestra is a community organization drawing members from the student body and surrounding community. It performs the standard orchestral literature, from Baroque to the present, including selections from Bach and Mozart.

Choral Activities

Otterbein's choral and vocal activities centered around the talents of the Otterbein Concert Choir and Opus Zero, Otterbein's show choir. The Concert Choir is a select group of mixed voices which performs music from the Renaissance to the twentieth century. In addition to an annual tour and home concerts, the choir provides music for meetings, convocations, and area church services. This international touring band has consistently received critical acclaim for its artistry and has toured throughout the eastern half of the United States and in Europe. Their annual spring concert, held May 14, included such works as Schubert's "Mass in G," Brahms' "Liebeslieder Waltzer," and John Carter's "Genesis."

Under the direction of Dennis Kratzer, Otterbein's Opus Zero presented more than 50 concerts, culminating in an International Music Festival Competition in late May. The group consists of 12 performers selected for their singing and dancing abilities, and six musicians chosen for their musical talents. The group presents a popular program of songs ranging from the Big Band Era, to Broadway musicals to 70's "Disco."

Hedda Gabler

This year's opening production of Otterbein's College Theatre featured the play, "Hedda Gabler," from October 11-14, chosen especially as Otterbein's entry in the American College Theatre Festival XI. Henry Ibsen, father of modern theatre and the most influential dramatist since Shakespeare, who gave stunning portraits of the changing society of the 1880's in dramas such as "The Dolls House," allowed his genius to come through in his stunning portrait of the "new woman" in Hedda Gabler, a portrait that has marked similarities to changing aspects of the world today. Karen Radcliffe played the part of Hedda Gabler. David Butterfield portrayed her husband, George Tesman. Anne Kanengeiser and Robert Kokai were cast as Thea Elvsted and Judge Brack, respectively, with John Ebner playing Eilert Loevborg. The play was directed by Charles Dodrill with costume design by Kathleen Lewicki.

Dido and Aeneas

The Otterbein College Opera Theatre presented Henry Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas" and Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti" as the premiere performance in the Battelle Fine Arts Center. Dr. Morton Achter, chairman of the music department, was artistic director for both productions. First presented in 1689, Purcell's opera puts to music the classic myth told in Virgil's "Aenid." Cast as Dido and Aeneas were faculty member Lynn Hurstad and senior Kent Stuckey. Cheryl Nauman portrayed Belinda, while Gina Zelazny, Mary Rose Molinaro and Fontaine Follansbee were cast as sorcerers and witches. Leisa Robb and Bruce Ludwick round out the principles. In contrast to the classicism of "Dido and Aeneas," Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti" is a contemporary work dealing with the problems of marriage and life in suburbia. Fontaine Follansbee and Kent Bixler characterized Dinah and Sam with a trio of Maribeth Graham, Bruce Ludwick and Kent Stuckey backing them up.

A Christmas Carol

Under the direction of Donald Paisley, the Otterbein College Theatre presented Charles Dickens' classical tale, "A Christmas Carol" for six days in November in the Campus Center Arena Theatre. The script selected was an adaptation from the original Dickens' novel by Barbara Field in 1977 for the Guthrie Theatre's first presentation. Cast as Dickens was John Ebner, with Sharon Blair portraying the better half. Robert Kokai played Scrooge, the miserly old man who thinks Christmas is a "humbug." Other cast members included: Dick Buckley as Marley, who foretells the coming of three spirits; Toby Uchtman as the Spirit of Christmas Past; Ken Emrick as the Spirit of Christmas Present; Tony Dimovo as the Spirit of Christmas Future; Jim Harlow as the clerk, Bob Cratchet; Melissa Carey as Mrs. Cratchet; and Corey Cook as Tiny Tim. Kathleen Lewicki was costume designer. Kelly Maurer was choreographer.

How the Other Half Loves

Alan Ayckbourne's comedy "How the Other Half Loves," was presented by the Otterbein College Theatre from May 23-26 and from May 30-June 2. This British farce reveals the problems of three couples involved in two dinner parties which occur simultaneously on stage. Secret love affairs, mysterious phone calls, family quarrels, and the problems of two separate households occupying the same set add to the confusion. The cast included Karen Radcliffe and John Ebner as The Fosters, Lisa Durham and Kent Blocher as The Phillips, and Linda Finnel and Jim Schilling as The Featherstones. Director for the play was Carter Lewis. Costume design was by Stacy Reish, with lighting by Bob Crain.

Vanities

A smash comedy hit in virtually every major city in the country after its resounding New York success, Jack Heifner's "Vanities" is an unnervingly funny play that depicts the lives of three spirited high school cheerleaders through college and on to adulthood. The cast included Lisa Durham as Joanne, Sandy Martin as Kathy, and Kelly Maurer as Mary. The play, directed by Carter Lewis, took place from February 5-7. Costume design was by Chris Markley, with set design by Scott Dillon.

The Merchant of Venice

Combining romance, intrigue and suspense in a double plot play, the Otterbein College Theatre presented Shakespeare's comedy "The Merchant of Venice" from March 7-10. The story combines Portia's intended wedding with Shylock's agreement to lend money on the condition that if it is not repaid when due, the debtor shall forfeit a pound of flesh. As a special highlight, Arnold Moss appeared as the professional guest star in the role of Shylock. Moss, widely renowned for his work on Broadway and guest artist appearances, has been called by major critics "one of the best American actors we have." He also appeared in Otterbein's 1965 production of "Love's Labour's Lost." Appearing in major roles were: Kent Blocher as Antonio, David Butterfield as Bassanio, David Witt as Lorenzo, Karen Radcliffe as Portia, Cindy Kaczmarek as Nerissa, Sharon Blair as Jessica, Jim Schilling as Launcelot, and Mike Echols as Gratiano. Charles Dodrill was director for the play, with Kathleen Lewicki as scenic designer and Petie Dodrill as costumes designer.

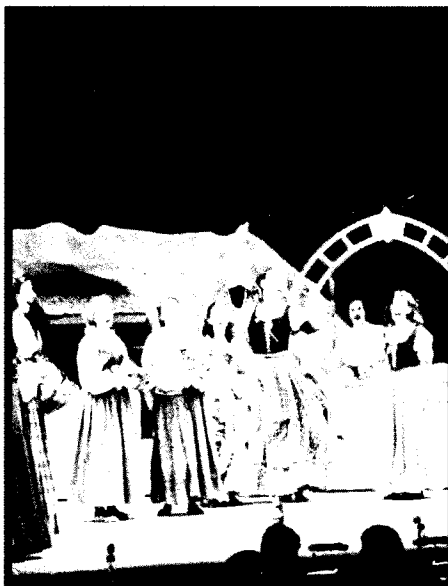

Professional Guest Artist Arnold Moss as Shylock.

Brigadoon

The Departments of Music, Theatre and Dance combined efforts in highlighting May Day week activities with Lerner and Loewe's musical fantasy of love and magic in the Scottish highlands with their production of "Brigadoon" from May 2-5. The story revolves around two New Yorkers on a hunting trip in the Scottish highlands who accidentally stumble into a magical town of Brigadoon, which only appears every 100 years. The colorful spectacle is highlighted by spirited music and Scottish dancing, including such songs as "Waitin' for my Dearie" and "Almost Like Being in Love." Richard Tatgenhorst and Robert Kokai starred as the two Americans, Tommy Albright and Jeff Douglas, respectively. Fontaine Follansbee played the role of Fiona MacLaren, a girl born in the 17th century who is only 19 years old. Maribeth Graham starred as Meg Brockie, the saucy girl who has her sights set on capturing Jeff's affections. The other cast members included Kent Stuckey, Suzanne Carter, Anne Kanengeiser, Scott Dillon and Mike Ritz. Donald Paisley acted as artistic director. Dennis Kratzer was choral director, and Joanne VanSant was in charge of choreography.

May Day

A traditional event at Otterbein College is the May Day festivities, which include the crowning of the queen and May Day activities and games such as the mattress races, watermelon eating and a three-legged race. Another traditional May Day festivity is the May Pole Dancing, a feature of the special spring Saturday that has continued since 1930. Twenty-eight May Pole dancers practiced winding the multicolored sashes around the pole before their May Day debut. Sue McDaniel, a member of Sigma Alpha Tau Sorority, was crowned queen by returning 1978 May Day Queen, Nancy Case. Her court consisted of Mary Ellen Donahoe, Linda Lucas, and Karen Fishbaugh. Music was provided by Susan Kaufman, Kelly Fishbaugh, and Tammy Perakis.

Otterbein completed its 132nd academic year Sunday, June 10 when 229 graduating seniors received degrees in commencement ceremonies at 11:30 a.m. in the Rike Physical Education and Recreation Center. Dr. John Ellis, Executive Deputy, Commissioner for Educational Programs in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was the keynote speaker at Commencement ceremonies. Ellis, the former superintendent of Columbus City Schools, also received an honorary Doctor of Pedagogy degree. Other honorary degree recipients were John Fisher, President of Nationwide Insurance Companies, and Janet Louise Roberts, a 1946 Otterbein graduate and widely renowned popular author. The Otterbein College Alumni Band, under the direction of Gary Tirey, performed a commencement concert preceding the ceremonies. Baccalaureate services were held at 9 a.m. in Cowan Hall featuring speeches by selected members of the senior class, faculty and alumni of the College, along with musical selections.

In closing, we leave Otterbein with very special memories, and many treasured thoughts . . .

— for all the good times,
and the laughter

— for the smiles,
and the tears

— for all the friends of today,
and of tomorrow

and most of all

— for the pride and spirit that make this college what it is.

— Pam Weiss
