On Our Cover . . .

Pictured on the cover of this issue of TOWERS is Terre Blair '77, weather reporter for WTVN-TV in Columbus. Her friend is Fennemore the Frog who appeared (bad jokes and all) in Central Ohio with Terre this past summer to promote the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Not only is Terre one of Otterbein's outstanding young alums, but she has also been named Outstanding Young Citizen by the Columbus Jaycees and is listed in the 1978 edition of OUTSTANDING YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA. Terre is also the youngest member of the Otterbein College Development Board.

Otterbein Names Fine Arts Center

The Battelle Fine Arts Center is the name chosen for Otterbein College's newly renovated fine arts facility. The naming came in action taken October 28, 1978 by the College's Board of Trustees and is in recognition of contributions made by Battelle to the College during the decade of the 1970s.

The gift to the Decision For The Arts campaign is in the amount of $200,000 which brings to more than $300,000 Battelle's gifts to Otterbein in the past several years.

"The naming of the Battelle Fine Arts Center is a significant event in the history of Otterbein College," stated Dr. Thomas J. Kerr, IV. "It recognizes a steady and continuing support by Battelle of Otterbein College and its programs."

"We are especially delighted to have Battelle associated with this facility which we envision serving needs not only of Otterbein students, but also affecting lives of thousands of persons in the Columbus metropolitan area."

The Battelle Fine Arts Center, a $1.4 million renovation project converting the former Alumni Gymnasium to its new use, is part of a $2.5 million Decision For The Arts campaign at Otterbein.

The campaign seeks to raise funds for construction of a scene shop addition to Cowan Hall, continued interior renovation of Towers Hall and funding of energy-saving measures already taken by the College, in addition to the fine arts facility. As of November 9, 1978, contributions totaled $1,592,200 toward the $2.5 million goal.

The Battelle Fine Arts Center will house Otterbein's departments of music, visual arts, as well as a dance area. It will provide a 275-seat auditorium, studios for dance and art, rehearsal halls, practice rooms, classrooms and faculty offices.

Construction work on the renovation project is in final stages, and classes and performance activities are scheduled to begin in the Battelle Fine Arts Center January 3, 1979.

Otterbein Meets Challenge

Some news is so good it can pick you up and carry you for weeks. It might even set the tone for years to come.

Otterbein welcomed that kind of news when the $150,000 Kresge Challenge was achieved and surpassed. The Kresge Foundation provided the grant toward renovating Alumni Gymnasium with the condition the College raise $1,250,000 by November 15, 1978.

President Thomas J. Kerr, IV, the chief force behind the Decision For The Arts, stated that "meeting the Kresge Challenge assured Otterbein of its greatest fund raising year in the history of the institution."

The Decision For The Arts was officially launched in October 1977 by the College's Board of Trustees. The success realized in the first year of campaigning will set the pace for the year ahead.

"This tremendous support from alumni and friends reflects their belief in the future of Otterbein College, for an investment in the Decision For The Arts will pay dividends for generations to come. It appears that our faculty and students are not the only ones excited and anxious to achieve the goals of this campaign," said Dr. Kerr.

"My only concern is that we all keep this year's success in proper perspective. We still have $907,800 to raise before the project is completed. We must continue to strive to reach our goal."

Student Makes Singing Debut

Nancy Day, a junior majoring in music and composition at Otterbein College, made her public debut as a singer, pianist and composer this past summer at the Riverfront Amphitheatre in Columbus, Ohio.

The concert, which featured Nancy singing and playing a variety of her original compositions, was co-sponsored by Hospital Audiences, Inc. (HAI) and the Columbus Recreation and Parks Department. She was joined in concert by ten professional musicians.

The COLUMBUS DISPATCH quoted the director of Hospital Audiences as saying her agency helped sponsor the concert because Miss Day "is the personification of what HAI wants to present to its unique audiences.

"HAI is an arts agency concerned with institutionalized citizens in Columbus, as well as those with physical restrictions . . . The lyrics (of Miss Day's songs) make people feel good about themselves and being alive — and that's what HAI attempts to do every day."

Nancy's music ranges from popular to classic, from folk to jazz.

Freshman English Major is Battelle Scholar

Lynn Maurer, a freshman English major from Lancaster, is this year's recipient of the Battelle Scholarship.

The Battelle Scholarships were established in 1977 to be awarded by Otterbein and other area colleges to students who show leadership promise.

Lynn's high school activities included memberships in National Honor Society, the student literary magazine staff, Spanish Club, Girls' Athletic Association, Singing Gales and Symphonic Choir.

She is also active in the United Methodist Church. She has served on the Conference Council on Youth Ministries including a term as its president. She was also president of the Newark District Council on Youth Ministries in 1977 and, at the same time, president of her own church's (Sixth Avenue United Methodist Church) United Methodist Youth Fellowship. In addition, she has been a representative to the United Methodist Annual Conference and a member of the planning committee for the United Nations Youth State Seminar.

She was also a member of the All-Ohio State Fair Youth Choir and winner of the 1978 West Ohio Conference UNITED NATIONS-WASHINGTON Seminar Essay Contest on the topic "U.S. Economy and World Peace."

Queen Reigns Over Homecoming Festivities

Annette Thompson

Otterbein College's 1978 Homecoming Queen was Annette Thompson, a senior from Newark, Ohio. She was crowned during homecoming festivities on October 14, 1978.

Miss Thompson is an elementary education major with a science concentration and is a member of Tau Epsilon Mu sorority. She is also a member of the college's senior activities committee.

Maid of Honor was Gretchen Smith, a senior from Valley City. She is an elementary education and English major and a member of Epsilon Kappa Tau sorority. She is also a member of Alpha Lambda Delta Scholastic Honorary and is active in several college governance committees.

The queen and her court were introduced at halftime of the Otterbein vs. Muskingum football game, won by Otterbein, 22-7.

Otterbein Welcomes New Faculty Members and Administrators

Thirteen new faculty members and four new administrators have joined the Otterbein community. Donald Cunningham joins the Economics and Business Administration Department. He previously worked as an accountant for the Crystal Oil Company. Also joining that department are Laurence Kantor from Ohio State University and Martha O'Loughlin from the accounting firm of Deloitte, Haskins and Sells.

Otterbein's newest department, Nursing, welcomes Jane Lutz, from Columbus Technical Institute and from OSU School of Nursing are Cathy Dunlap, Martha Pitzer and Judy Strayer.

Thomas and Margaret Hartman come to the Religion and Philosophy Department from Knox College in Illinois.

Teresa Hazucha, formerly a graduate assistant at OSU, joins the Women's Health and Physical Education staff.

The Speech and Theatre Department welcomes Kathleen Lewicki as an instructor. Kathleen recently finished work on her MFA at Carnegie-Mellon University.

Thomas Lochhaas, former faculty member at the University of Arizona joins the English Department.

Coming to the Home Economics Department from Ohio State University is Jean Spero.

New administrators include two Otterbein graduates. Robin Butz '77 comes to the college as an Admissions Counselor from Briam Institute, Madrid, Spain. Daniel Thompson '78 is Acting Registrar. Robert Gatti joins us from Indiana University as Assistant Dean for Student Development — Men. Frank Fite, Vice President for Development and Public Relations, comes to Otterbein from the Columbus Academy where he served as assistant headmaster for development and administration.

Otterbein Offers Course in "Mid-Career Changing"

Contemplation of a complete redirection in one's career can be an anxiety-producing experience, especially when the anticipated change comes after many years in a career.

Beginning January 8, a special non-credit course for adults wishing to make a career change, "Mid-Career Changing," will be offered by Otterbein College in an effort to lessen that anxiety. Taught by Mary Lynne Musgrove, Career Development Consultant in Otterbein's Career Planning Center, the class will meet for ten Monday evenings, January 8 through March 12, from 7 to 9 p.m.

"The course is being especially planned for persons who are finding themselves forced out of their present careers, those who have realized they've never been happy in their present careers, persons anticipating retirement and wanting to begin a second career, and those reaching the end of terms of service in military, police, etc." explains Mrs. Musgrove.

She also explains that the course is for persons who have spent considerable time in careers, not persons who have just graduated and want to begin a first career.

Working with persons in this career transition phase is nothing new to Mary Lynne. In addition to her work at Otterbein, she maintains a private practice with individuals and groups in the career planning process and counseling for career change under the banner of Career Consultants.

Prior to coming to Otterbein, she served in career consultant capacities with Jewish Family Service and Central Ohio Seventh Step.

Persons interested in taking the "Mid-Career Changing" course should contact the Career Planning Center at (614) 890-3000, Ext. 456 for more information or to register. The fee for the course is $90.

Looking for the P.R. Office?

In an effort to better serve the total needs of Otterbein College through a thoroughly integrated and coordinated development effort, the public relations office is now located on the second floor of the alumni development center.

Staff reorganization and realignment are also part of the change in public relations. Bill Stewart is now assistant director of public relations and sports information director, succeeding Bob Moon who left Otterbein in October to become director of publications for the Columbus Symphony. Jo Alice Bailey Povolny '74 has been promoted to director of publications. She has been editor of TOWERS in the past and responsible for all alumni publications.

Under the new alignment, she will continue her responsibilities in these areas as well as assume the administration and co-ordination of all other College publications.

Nursing Program is Pacesetter

With the national trend in nursing education headed toward a degree program and away from the traditional hospital diploma program, the new Grant-Otterbein nursing program is serving as a pacesetter. It is a dual degree program offering both an Associate of Science in Nursing (ASN) and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN).

Students entering the ASN portion of the program, which includes all of this year's class of 45 students, will be involved in clinical experience and both nursing and general studies for two years. Upon successful completion of that work they will be awarded the ASN degree and will be eligible to take the Registered Nurse licensing exam.

Prerequisites for entering the BSN program, which will begin in 1980, are completion of the ASN degree plus successfully passing the RN exam.

Formulation of the curriculum for the BSN program is a major planning priority this year.

Terre Blair and Jan Ryan of Action 6 News

"'Teresa' sounds too parochial." And with that particular vocalization by a TV news director, Teresa Marie Blair, an Otterbein senior majoring in speech communications became Terre Blair, weather reporter for WTVN-TV in Columbus, Ohio.

That was two years ago. Today, Terre Blair is well-known in the Central Ohio area not only for her nightly weather predictions at 5:30 and 11:00, but also as a local personality. She spends much of her free time doing volunteer work at Columbus Children's Hospital, appearing in speaking engagements at local clubs and high schools and emceeing anything from the "Little Miss Grove City" pageant to the "Donny and Marie" show at the 1978 Ohio State Fair. She is also the co-host of a new Columbus TV news magazine show called PULSE that premiered this fall.

Not a bad career for someone who isn't even 23 yet! But how did it happen? You don't just walk into a TV station and land a job as a weather reporter, especially when you're still a college student and only vaguely remember reading about cumulus clouds back in high school general science — or do you?

Terre Blair did. But she had a lot going for her. Although still a student at Otterbein, she was not unknown in the Columbus area.

In 1975, while she was a junior at Otterbein and still known as Teresa, Terre was named Miss Columbus U.S.A. (She has been a Columbus resident all her life) after competing with 32 other girls representing Columbus cities throughout the country. She was the first Ohio representative to win the title in ten years. "I entered that contest and several others (Terre held six beauty titles in 1975-76) for a few reasons," Terre remarks candidly. "The number one reason was for the exposure. While I was Miss Columbus U.S.A., I served Columbus in many capacities and got to know well quite a few influential people."

Her year as Miss Columbus U.S.A. was indeed busy. During her reign, Terre served as honorary Easter Seals Parade Chairman, opened Nestle Company, Inc. in Columbus, spoke at numerous Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Club meetings, appeared at various civic functions, and was recognized by the House of Representatives and the Senate. All good exposure for someone who had been planning a career in television since she was in the seventh grade.

A featured twirler at Otterbein for four years, Terre was often called "Bubbles Blair."

In talking to Terre, the first thing you notice is that enthusiasm virtually emanates from this vibrant young lady. While a student, her vivacity could be felt by everyone who ever saw her twirl the baton during the Otterbein band half-time shows. A featured twirler during each of her four years at Otterbein, Terre comments on her enthusiasm. "Lots of people in the band called me "Bubbles Blair," she says with a blush. "When you twirl, you've got to have the ability to smile — to project vitality. It's important to show the people you're having a good time. My baton teacher always called it 'showmanship' but my father says it's just being of a natural ham."

Her showmanship seems to have carried over to her TV career. Bud Wilkinson of the COLUMBUS DISPATCH calls it the "Blair Flair" and says it is her "personality and warmth that set her aside from other forecasters in Columbus." Another reporter wrote, "She has the potential that network execs look for in girls like Phyllis George or Jane Pauley. She has the makings of a 'star'."

Shortly after Terre began working for WTVN, she flew to Oklahoma City to attend the U.S. Meteorology School. She graduated at the top of her class, of which Terre was the only female member. She is now the only forecaster in Columbus who has the U.S. Meteorology School Seal of Approval.

"Right after I came back from meteorology school, I thought I was hot stuff and decided to make my own forecast instead of taking it straight from the wire service. So I studied all the pressure systems and prepared my chart and that night on the 11 o'clock news, I predicted the weather to be fair and partly cloudy. The next day when I walked into my office, the secretary smiled at me, pointed to the switchboard, which was jammed full of incoming calls, and said, 'They're all yours.' I took a deep breath and answered the first call. It was a man who said, 'Ms. Blair, you have two things going against you. Number one, you're a woman and I'm a male chauvinist and number two, I just shoveled three inches of your partly cloudy out of my driveway.' After that I wasn't so anxious to go out on the limb with my forecasts. Weather is so fickle."

When asked about her goals, Terre says she would like to combine her talents in news and interviewing in the top ten market. "I'd like to host a show with a format similar to that of GOOD MORNING AMERICA. I love to interview people, to have that interaction that is impossible when you have only a camera to talk to. Since the start of WTVN's news magazine show, PULSE, I've experienced everything from hot air ballooning to interviewing Arnold Schwarzenegger about body building. I feel the key to interviewing is research. You've got to know enough about your subject to ask questions that will reveal information not known to the general public."

Many people ask Terre how many hours she puts in at the station. In response she just shakes her head. "On paper it says my day begins at 2:30 p.m. and ends at 11:30 p.m. five days a week. However, that is rarely the case. Television work is not glamorous and the hours are horrible. For example, one day last week I was up at 4 a.m. to tape a segment on hot air ballooning for PULSE, then at 6 a.m. I interviewed a 19-year-old contestant who was in Columbus for the World's Largest American Quarter Horse Congress. At 11 a.m. I had my hair done, then went out to a local elementary school for a Halloween party. I was at work at 2:30 p.m. to prepare for the 5:30 p.m. news.

(It takes 2½ hours to prepare for 2½ minutes of air time.) Between the 5:30 and 11:00 news, I ate dinner and went to a meeting. Then it was back to the station to do the 11 o'clock show."

With a schedule like that Terre still finds time for her private life. She enjoys sailing, playing tennis, snow skiing and disco dancing. Terre also finds time to volunteer one day a week at Columbus Children's Hospital.

"I love children and they seem to like me. Many of them recognize me from TV and become very excited. To see sick children happy is so rewarding."

Terre is not sure what the future holds for her but she hopes some day to fit being a wife and mother into her career plans. "No doubt, my husband will have to be someone who is independent and understanding enough to accept my crazy schedule," Terre muses. "I don't know where I'll be ten years from now or even one year from now. I do plan to stay in Columbus as long as my job continues to provide me with challenges.

"I consider myself to be very lucky to be in the position I am in today. I also know it was because of Otterbein's flexible, individualized programming that allowed me to accept my full time job at WTVN. (Terre was still a student when she began her job. She received enough credits to graduate by working on an internship at the station while beginning her job as weather reporter.) Otterbein gave me the opportunity to test my abilities, compete with my peers and strive for perfection. It helped me to mature into a responsible adult. And although Otterbein never promised me instant success, it gave me the confidence to try."

A.D. Builds Solid Athletic Program

TERRE HAUTE — Friday, March 3, 1978, 7:30 a.m. The morning of Otterbein's first game ever in a NCAA postseason basketball tournament.

"Where's the A.D.?"

"Out somewhere running around."

Well, it so happens that Elmer W.

"Bud" Yoest was out running around like he does so many mornings, keeping his trim and well conditioned 47-year-old physique in shape with an early morning jogging session.

Since July, 1976, Bud Yoest has been guiding the Otterbein men's athletic fortunes from his position as Athletic Director, a job that was preceded by a six-year tenure at Columbus Mifflin High School and, since 1958, coaching and teaching at Otterbein.

"I thought when I took the job that we had a chance to build a solid athletic program," said Yoest.

And build a solid athletic program he has.

— an 8-1 football team last year that tied the best-ever record in Otterbein history and an over-all grid mark of 16-7-2 the last three years with two games left in '78.

— a 20-9 Ohio Athletic Conference Champion basketball team in 1977-78 that was the first Otterbein team to appear in NCAA postseason tournament play.

— a two year record of 33-2 in track, indoor and outdoor, that includes six All

Elmer "Bud" Yoest

Americas and 19 conference champions.

— last year's 23-12-1 baseball team that set the record for most wins in a season and was the first to post over 20 victories.

"I believe very strongly in what we're doing, but still there are enough problems and ways to do things better that make this job challenging" Yoest continues.

"Yet when you get down to talking about wins, losses and season records, I don't think the average fan and player understand fully the part athletics play.

"We want our teams to do well, but we also want the band to be top notch; we want academics to be the best; we want the entire institution to be moving forward."

While he thoroughly enjoys his job, admittedly, Bud Yoest "never had a driving desire to become an athletic director" when he was growing up.

But when the position opened up, the former track coach and '53 grad of the Westerville campus was definitely interested in the job because of the "great tools and operating facilities and the positive attitude and support of the president and the administration."

"And besides," Yoest adds, "It's Otterbein's team."

FORMER FACULTY

Benjamin C. Glover passed away November 13, 1978. He was Professor Emeritus of Otterbein College where he was chairman of the Mathematics Department for 31 years. In 1970 he received the Distinguished Service Award from Otterbein College. His career as a teacher of mathematics spanned 50 years. He taught at Carleton College, Farmington, Mo., Northwestern University Academy, Hamline, Mo. and Missouri Wesleyan College, Cameron, Mo. before coming to Otterbein.

President Thomas J. Kerr, IV stated, "Professor Glover's long and distinguished career of teaching at Otterbein touched the lives of many students and profoundly affected the entire nature of the institution. While we can rejoice at his long and productive life, we are still saddened when one of such stature passes."

He was preceded in death by his wife Mabel in 1973 and his daughter, Mrs. William M. (Nelle) Stuart, '28 in April, 1978. He is survived by three sons, Dr. Harold, '34, Dayton, O., Hugh, '34, Cleveland, O. and Ben, Jr., 41, Westerville, O. There are eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Friends may send contributions in memory of Professor Glover to the Otterbein Scholarship Fund, Otterbein College, Westerville, O.
