Students and Faculty Pledge
Resolution to Mrs. John Hulitt.

On last Monday morning at the short memorial service in honor of Mr. John Hulitt a committee from the various classes and faculty was appointed to draw up a resolution to be sent to Mrs. Hulitt. This was passed by the faculty at their regular meeting on Monday evening. At the chapel service on Tuesday morning the students passed the resolution which is as follows:

The students and faculty of Otterbein University desire to express to you their deep and tender sympathy in this time of your sore bereavement. We share with you your sorrow, and we suffer together this heavy stroke.

Mr. Hulitt, your husband, was a man of great modesty but unflinching character and life—modest, retiring, a friend of God and humanity. His unparalleled devotion and unflinching faith is the college call for our highest appreciation.

He is gone! But his life of noble deeds makes a rich heritage.

May our loving Father comfort and sustain you as He only can.

SPIRITS SERENADE

Many Specimens of Being—Human and Imaginary Visit Our Quiet Vicinity.

Despite the various things that tried to spoil the annual Halloween party, in the way of football absences and wide "dates," the affair was really a success and showed that the Otterbein spirit appreciates a good time.

The "spirits" appeared in various forms and guises but peculiar that even the reception committee were puzzled to account for them. Lady Japanese Byer and Eda Brown Drane did the honors together and assisted Manager Boyles in making the spirits enjoy themselves.

It was great fun calling people by wrong names and being addressed yourself by some unknown cognomen. Of course everybody knew Ted Ross in his customary feminine garb—mousing this time, mayhap for Cord. There was Squeaky-loot the funny clown, and the Hindoo priest from the Philippines. Indian girls were numerous and Cleo Garman made a fetching milkmaid. Countess Cobleins was there with her charming daughter, lady Miles and her chevalier Duke von Dalley. The outside rush made a splendid display everywhere and everybody's fortune made them all happy; the girls would get married (Continued on page five.)

OTTERBEIN WINS OVER MARSHALL

Two Touchdowns With Goals and Two Safeties Spell Defeat for Normalites

Two touchdowns, two goals from touchdowns and two safeties gave Otterbein an 18 to 0 victory over Marshall Normal College at Huntington, West Virginia last Saturday afternoon.

Both teams entered the game thoroughly confident of victory and it was only the superior power and ability of the Otterbein players which "brought home the bacon." The day was ideal for the fray and a large crowd turned out to see Marshall get ready for her game with West Virginia Wesleyan on next Saturday. Coach Martin's men proved to be too much and the crowd left the stands discouraged.

From the very kick-off, Otterbein had the edge on things. The Cardinal players had lots of "pep" and fought hard every minute of the game. Marshall's defense was very poor and her offense was anything but that which the Otterbein men faced the previous week against Ohio. Only a few gains of any length were made either through the Otterbein line or around the ends. On the other hand Lingrel and Gilbert were good for splendid gains on many occasions. Few passes were attempted, most of the ground being made by line and backs. Lingrel's beautiful punts netted many yards for Otterbein.

Gibert Scores Touchdown. Ream received the ball on the kick-off and returned about ten yards. On the first play Ream passed the Marshall halfback was forced to retire from the game because of injuries. On the next play Otterbein made first down but was then held. Marshall could not penetrate the Otterbein line so the ball again changed hands. On the first play Feden got away with a brilliant run of sixty yards to Marshall's goal. It was claimed that he stepped out side so he was called back to the thirty yard line. Lingrel made a yards through the line and on the next play Gilbert went straight through the center for twenty yards (Continued on page six.)
OTTERBEIN IN FIGHT
Has Always Been In Front Rank As Foe of Intemperance—Westerville Has Unique History

From the time of its foundation to the present time Otterbein and Westerville have been among the foremost colleges and towns to condemn and fight the liquor traffic. Otterbein’s policy was determined largely by the United Brethren church, which holds the prohibition of drinking with one exception: the annual ecclesiastical organization on record prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage. As early as 1846 this church required abstention from any member.

So active and prominent has Otterbein been that one of her early presidents, W. H. Thompson, was nominated on the same ticket with Neal Dow for vice president of the United States on the prohibition platform. No all of the foremost temperance workers have been called to Westerville to speak.

Westerville has never permitted a saloon to remain long within her boundaries. In 1895, H. C. Corbin and his wife attempted to start a saloon. Property was rented and a supply of liquor was secured and placed in the building at night ready for business the next morning. But by some mysterious means, some one got into the building and emptied all of the "fire water." Another place was selected and was secured. Great excitement and indignation spread through the village. The fire alarm was sounded and most of the villagers turned out. As the crowd gathered around the saloon Corbin came out brandishing a revolver. He was quieted. Songs were sung by the pastors, professors and leading citizens and prayer was offered. A citizen’s pledge was drawn up which required the boycotting of this business man and laborer who patronized the saloon. The pledge was signed by 637 people.

A few nights later a terrible explosion occurred followed by two others. The saloon was totally demolished. Search was made for the parties responsible but they were never discovered although the minister and leading citizens were arrested.

Corbin left the village then for four years. When he returned in 1899, Otterbein was again in the center of the fight. Some unknown party again blew up the saloon. Threats were made to burn the college buildings. The insurance companies wanted to cancel the policies. This led the faculty to action and a resolution was passed that Otterbein was not in sympathy with the wanton destruction of property and that she condemned the act against Corbin. A fight was kept up for a while but he was forced to leave because no one was willing to risk their property by renting it for saloon purposes.

Only once since, in 1899, a saloon effort was made to establish a saloon. But public opinion was as strong as before and the attempt was short lived.

In those early days, vigilance and united efforts had characterized the village throughout its history. The experience of this community teaches this prohibition is a great gain even when it is imperfectly enforced. This attitude of the village has meant much to the college. Every effort was made to send their children to a college where the temperance and moral influences of the saloon were unknown. This attitude toward the liquor traffic attracted attention far and wide and it is largely responsible for the fact that the village is now the national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League.

Domestic Science Department Holds Open House on Saturday.

Hot waffles and coffee coated many a hungry creature into the sacred heights of the Cookery Laboratory Saturday morning during the hours of eight to twelve. Mrs. Noble and the girls in their trim blue dresses, white aprons, and caps were the but­ ties, while the members of the faculty and a number of the students were the guests. Cooking utensils in spick and span order, rows of canned fruit recently put up and the girls themselves hard at work with the waffle irons tempted the fortunate folks to forget any formality and investigate the department thoroughly.

The very summit of satisfaction was reached when the guests were served and each is hoping secretly that he may again have the opportunity of enjoying the benefits of this remarkable cookery skill.

Men Attend Special Service at United Brethren Church.

Men’s day was observed at the United Brethren church last Sunday. The men assembled at ten o’clock in the Association building and there formed in line two by two, the older men taking the lead and the younger following. The line reached clear across the space between the two buildings, in the chapel they filled up the center seats and the over flow was seated in the side sections. Rev. E. E. Burtnett, the college pastor delivered an excellent sermon on "The Kingdom for Men." He reviewed the present world situation and pointed out its most perplexing economic and religious problems and urged the men to be ready at any time to do their full share of the work. The need of good strong Christian men was especially emphasized.

OTTERBEIN REPRESENTED
Alumni Attends Inauguration of President MacCracken at Lafayette.

Otterbein was represented at the inauguration of John Henry Mac-Cracken as the president of Lafayette College at Easton, Pennsylvania by Rev. Daniel E. Lorenz, D.D., of New York. He writes the following account of this important event in educational circles.

As a loyal alumunus of Otterbein, I feel constrained to all other duties, and give heed to the summons of President Clippinger, who was born to command, to represent my alma mater at the inauguration of John Henry MacCracken, LL. D., as president of Lafayette College, located at Easton, Pa.

On Tuesday, October 18th, there was held a preliminary Educational conference, as well as an inaugural dinner, but as the distinctive occasion was billed for the next day, I took a practical way of being fortunate enough to have Win­ston Churchill, the author, with whom I had previously established friendly relations as a traveling companion. Later we were joined by President Ernest F. Nichols, of Dartmouth.

On arriving at Easton we proceeded to the Agricultural college on which the college buildings were clustered, and immediately donned our academic gowns to join a procession of 145 official delegates, whose names had been duly registered upon the elaborately printed programs, representing 145 colleges and educational institutions. The delegates were saluted in a welcoming address by Professor Francis A. March Jr.

The Inaugural exercises in Parke Hall opened with a prayer by the chancellor, Emeritus Henry M. MacCracken, of the University of New York. As the father of Lafayette’s new president he had the remotest dis­ tinction of helping to inaugurate his two sons, within a week of each other, the other son, Henry Noble Mac­ Cracken, having been installed as the president of Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

After the "Induction and the Trans­ fer of the Insignia of Office," the new President delivered his inaugural address on the subject, "College and Commonwealth," in which he forcibly impressed upon his hearers the distinct advantages which a college, such as LaFayette, had in being free and independent, untrammeled by political control and financed by voluntary gifts, and developed by the loyalty of men, who sought no perfor­ mal or political advantage in the service they rendered. The college can render the highest service in the state, when it does not wear the state’s uniform, and when it is not dependent upon the state’s bounty.

Judge Horatio Henry Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, also made an address, warning college men against the agitation (Continued on page six.)

\[ H. H. Russell Tells of Lincoln Highway Tour Before Faculty Club. \]

The Faculty Club met in Dr. Sander's recitation room on Friday at 4 p.m. At this time, Doctor H. H. Russell, professor of English at Otterbein as the donor of the prize money for the Russell Oratory content, kold of the trip made by representative of the Lincoln League over the Lincoln Highway.

This great highway has been established and named in honor of Abraham Lincoln and with its building will be essentially a ribstone of concrete reaching from New York to San Francisco. Doctor Russell, secretary of the Lincoln League, af­ iliated with the Anti-Saloon League, conceived the idea of making an automobile tour over the route of this highway, speaking in the principle towns in the interest of temperance in the states through which it passes. Friends cheerfully supplied the automobile and expense money, an adcance agent was sent out to arrange the itinerary and on July 4 the party left for New York on its long trip.

In halls and churches all along the route Dr. Russell told the great story of the founding of the Anti­

Saloon League and the Lincoln League and made appeal after appeal to the people lining along the Lincoln Highway to make the route free from saloons and safe for traffic.

He told of the campaign for national prohibition through legislative enactment explaining the work done in Washington and the plans for ratification by the states of a Constitutional amendment just as soon as legislation could be wrung from a reluctant Congress. In speaking of this he called attention to the great strides made in state prohibition in the past twelve months.

Doctor Russell was accompanied on this trip by what he is pleased to call "The Rail-splitter Quartet," whose business it was to furnish music for his meetings. The quartet was present in the club-meeting and rendered from well chosen selections.

east is about to be put to use. The elimination of baseball was the one topic of concern among students for twenty-four hours. Then, just as the issue was about to be finally weighed, the students rallied to the front and put the Athletic Board out of debt without the elimination of any sport. This heroic act was over in five minutes. Practically the entire amount was provided for and the spirit has so permeated the hearts of all that the amount will be cashed within six days. What a sight it was to see.

It all means a sacrifice on the part of each individual who contributed. Many do not have the money now, but these will borrow it. The debt must be paid and that must be done immediately. This spirit of sacrifice is what makes the proposition so remarkable. Otterbein students are not wealthy but they have that spirit of loyalty which makes possible the very impossible.

No, there is no place in all the world like Otterbein. Why it makes a person's blood thump to think of it. We are proud of the spirit which prompted this loyalty. The name of Otterbein is higher bigger than ever. The spirit of Otterbein is greater and growing.

"Oh, we're proud of our Alma Mater.

Of the school that we love so well—

We've flunked in our classes,

Proliferated with lasses,

Tossed up the old College bell;

Oh, the boys are the swellest fellows

And the girls they are mighty fine,

Come, let us be singing

Laurels being bringing

To crown our loved Otterbein."

Two Little Things.

There are a lot of folks who go through college, receive a degree and yet go out into the activities of life with many serious handicaps. These things are not great short comings in themselves perhaps but their practice may mean a great weight in the end. We do not realize these things as we are here in school and we may never know of them. In such a case it is the duty of our friends to tell us of our deficiencies. The more we try to keep strict watch over our actions at all times...

In our every day conversations, in our recitations and in every other form of oral work we are continually guilty of violating the very fundamental rules of grammar. Time after time again we make the same mistakes in the tense formation of a verb, in the use of a preposition, conjunction, and pronoun, and in the number of our subject and verb. These seem so trivial and are never noticed for we have become so accustomed to it. But we are mindful of the future. There will be a day when such mistakes will be noticed and not forgotten. They may have a serious side when advancement is given to us. But at that time the correction of our failing will bring little comfort.

Another place where Otterbein students fall below the standards set by polite society is in the conduct at the boarding clubs. This criticism may be applied to both girls and boys alike for we have a feeling that all that takes place in the dining room at Cochran Hall would not pass close inspection. However to most deplorable circumstances exist among some of the boys' clubs. It would be shocking to many if some things should be printed concerning these conditions. It should be enough to suggest that we watch our deportment at the table, correct the deficiencies of action and make our standard of table etiquette somewhat higher.

A great many pledges to the Athletic Board should be paid since so many have been sworn in to act as deputy sheriffs at the election.

We wonder how some of our students will spend their time when the weather makes walking undesirable.

The Otterbein Review is delayed in publication this week because of a break in our gas engine.

Pay Your Debts.

Editorial writers in many of the leading periodicals have made some rather embarassing statements concerning college life, within the last few months. Among other things, they have said that the collegian does not pay his debts. It is true that the college graduate is more careless about his financial obligations than his less fortunate brother who has been denied a higher education.

Conflicting opinions may be signed from merchants and bankers who deal extensively with universally men. Nearly all will agree that students are usually careless about bills, but many claim that they find accounts of such transgressions as much to be depended as to those of residents. But we hear of many cases where large debts have been left behind and never paid.

On his face. If he worried, he hid it. He started to sing as he tackled the thing. That couldn't be done, and he did it. Somebody scoffed: "Oh, you'll never do that; At least, no one ever has done it." But he took off his coat and he took off his hat, And the first thing we knew he'd begun it; With a lift of his chin, and a bit of a grin, Without any doubting or quibbling; He started to sing as he tackled the thing. That couldn't be done, and he did it. There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done, There are thousands to prophesy failure; There are thousands to point out to you, one by one, The dangers that wait to assail you: But just buckle in with a bit of a grin, Then take off your coat and go to it; Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing, That "cannot be done," and you'll do it. —Railway Employers' Magazine.
RADIUM DISCUSSED:

A small thing to be sure, but there was a development of extreme bulk with very small brain power until mass was no longer an advantage. Since that time the tendency has been toward the production of more brain power. Man has passed the last part of the Age of Mammals. During the glacial period most of the existing forms were exterminated. The post-glacial period has been marked by the overpopulation of the area left by the glaciers and the invasion of the human race.

In her paper on "Domestic Science in the Public Schools" Miss Beard showed that the complexity of modern life demands broader preparation for the future home maker. Four ways of securing this training were discussed. The first being in the home under a practical home keeper, second in school, third in college, and fourth by correspondence with schools. The first and second methods are often combined advantageously, school credit being given for work done in the home. The greatest disadvantage of the first is that so many times the mother herself has not had the scientific training necessary to the teacher. She may impart a knowledge of the art but cannot teach the science. The college method is best when it can be used. It is impossible the correspondence method will help wonderfully. The modern courses are rapidly broadening the student's teachings, and the student is taught very practical problems of marketing, sanitation, house selection, caring, apportionment of the budget and many other things. Scientific knowledge in the hands of the homemakers of the country would soon force insanitation and food adulteration out of the land.

"The study of Radium has upset some of the most fundamental laws of Chemistry," said Professor Weinland in an excellent discussion of "Radium and the New Chemistry." He, until recently laughed at the alchemists who sought for the philosopher's stone with which they thought it possible to turn the baser metals into gold, but radiochemistry has shown that we must not depend entirely on the immutability of the elements. Radium was discovered by Mme. Curie of Paris in pitch blende. The first notable property of the element was its ability to discharge an electrostatic and to affect a photographic plate. Since its isolation its properties have been more fully studied. It has been found to yield three different kind of rays. One of these, the alpha ray has proved to be an atom of helium. Over a dozen products are produced in turn by the decomposition of the element. Lead is thought to be the end product of this decay. Radium is just at the beginning of the study of this remarkable substance. Further study and investigation are certain to bring many new truths to light.

...and the boys would be bachelors. The dignified professors Froiland and Grabill were present as devout sisters of Tender Mercy and Good Beads—but their shoes betrayed them. After some romping games and a bountiful lunch appropriate to the occasion the guests returned home to don their fairy tale raincoats and become real again.

Of the money which was pledged, there has been about seventy-five dollars paid. It is absolutely imperative that this entire amount be paid to A. L. Glunt the treasurer of the Athletic Association immediately. In order that the athletic season may be carried on properly the board must know exactly what they can expect. Cash only will be considered. The loyalty which has already been shown must be continued until the entire debt is paid.

Purchasing Agent Elected.

Will Buy Athletic Supplies.

At the meeting of the Athletic Board last Wednesday evening the office of Purchasing Agent was created and A. L. Glunt was elected to fill in that capacity for this year. It is the purpose of the board to watch more carefully the expenditure of money for various materials. By putting this work into the hands of one man it is thought that all equipment can be procured at better prices. Quantities can be purchased and all sales and discounts watched. The managers of the different teams, coach and purchasing agent will work together and at the opening of each season all of the equipment will be bought. The purchasing of all this will be ordered by the board through the purchasing agent and bills for all equipment will be ordered paid by the board through the treasurer.

The new system will greatly lighten the work and responsibility of the team managers. They will handle no money except that which is used to cover guarantees and that received from admission fees, all of which will be turned over to the treasurer of the board immediately.

MEMBERS OF TEAMS WILL SEE OHIO STATE PLAY INDIANS.

The Athletic Council of Ohio State University through Mr. Hoyer has extended an invitation to the members of the Otterbein and Heidelberg football teams to witness the State-Indiana game at Ohio Field next Saturday afternoon. Manager Glunt is responsible for this kind invitation for the quietly sought it through Mr. Hoyer who has officiated in several of Otterbein's games this year.

Marshat Thrown for Safety.
In the second quarter, Marshall tried to gain by the forward pass method. Many attempts were made but only one was completed which was the gain of a yard and a half for twenty yards. In every case the Otterbein backs and ends covered their men so shoately that they had no chance whatever. After this pass Marshall was forced to punt to Gilbert who was downed on his twenty yard line. Otterbein made several good gains and then Lingrel punshdé a beautiful spiral which bounded wide on Marshall's ten yard line. Several bucks were tried but each time the Green backs were thrown for a loss. Backed up against his own goal, Workman punted to Lingrel. On the first play Ot­ terbein's husky captain on a pretty end run carried the ball to Marshall's ten yard line. Here the Huntington team played foot ball. Otterbein was held. Workman attempted a punt from behind his own goal but Higlenmore broke through and downed the Marshall captain for a safety. In a few minutes the quarter ended with Otterbein holding the ball on Marshall's fifteen yard line. Score, Otterbein 9, Marshall 0.

Third Quarter.
Both teams came back hard but Marshall could not stand the pace long. On a trick nine yard play Marshall was able to make several gains but after that she lost ground continually. Play was for the most part in Marshall's territory. Both teams punted frequently. In this department Lingrel excelled. Only one went bad while all the rest were long and high. The Otterbein end went down the field hard on each occasion and downed the runner in his tracks.

Nine More Points Added.
A punt by Lingrel rolled right up to the Marshall goal line at the opening of the final period. Workman was forced to punt. The Otterbein linemen broke through and his kick went to the side of the field in the end zone. Lawrence fell on the ball for Otterbein's second safety.
Marshall took the ball on her twenty yard line. After several short gains were made Workman attempted a long pass which Huber intercepted. He ran thirty yards for a touchdown. Lingrel kicked the goal.
The game ended soon after, Marshall holding the ball on her thirty yard line.

COCHRAN NOTES.
Several visitors helped the girls enjoy the fried chicken Sunday. Among the guests were President and Mrs. Clippinger, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roop, and Miss Sneed.

Another birthday party and Cleo was surprised, too. What a joy to go out on a walk; return to a room in festive garb; be showered with wonderful gifts and know that you're a year older! Why, one wishes for two birthdays a year when a party goes with it.

Elisabeth Richards went home to attend the wedding of her sister, Bertha.

About ten girls found it quite profitable to serenade when last Friday night Dr. Scott gave each fair maid a rose apple.

Betsy Henderson left us for a few days to visit a friend in Columbus.

It was a wonderful cake that Marie Siddall carried up on fourth floor last Friday night. Talk about frosting—one whole inch thick! We wish the town girls would come often.

So modern: Ruth Van Kirk—"Do you like red or yellow peaches?"

Flosie Broughton—"The red ones, they have been kissed by the sun."

Iva McKee—"Oh, they might have germs."

Inez Staab went to Columbus to spend the week-end with Ruth Pickett or.

The "Hasty Hikers" have been going some. If they keep on eating so many apples; walking so many miles, a new name will be theirs—"Hasty Hikers."

Frances Sage went home to Van Lue last Thursday. Students in geography will be interested to know that Van Lue is near Pandora.

First Twin—"Why Martha? Why don't you eat more? You're going to get so poor I don't know what will become of you."

Second Twin (her blue eyes drooping)—"But Mary, didn't you say the rich and poor would be united in heaven?"

Have you noticed the names of the rooms on fourth floor? "One" is very attractive!

The "Hartman" was given the preference over the "Winter Garden" last Saturday when several girls went to Columbus to see "Listen Mark O'Dell."

The "Black cats" from Colorado surprised a few of their feline friends Friday evening by giving an unique Hallowe'en push. Although at times the "animals" were a bit frisky and playful, the trainer, Mrs. Becaw, showed great skill in keeping her pets at least within their bounds.

Miss Charles taught in the Methodist Missionary Training school at Cincinnati, Ohio, for two years after leaving Otterbein. She then went to the Philippine Islands for two years as a teacher in the government service, after which she began work as a missionary. Miss Charles returned home last spring after being six years on the islands. Last Game of the Season
Is With Heidelberg on Friday
On next Friday Otterbein supporters will have the last chance to see the 1915 eleven perform on the home field. Not only will this game be memorable and full of fight because the 1915 warriors play their last game here but because of the rivalry between the two institutions. The fray will be staged between Heidelberg and Otterbein and promises to be the hottest and best of the season.

Heidelberg reports the best team in the history of that college. The up­state lads will out-weight Otterbein and coupled with their speed and experience they will have a terrific machine. Judging from the experience of past years the contest will be complete for a real exhibition of football skill. The strength of the Heidelberg eleven was against Oberlin in the early part of the season, when they out-classed the Oberlin lads in all departments. Oberlin won the game on a fluke. The last weeks has shown much improvement in the Tiffin camp.

The real strength of Otterbein was displayed at Marshall last Saturday when Marshall was out-classed in every department. Otterbein showed a wonderful improvement over the past. Her end runs and line play was well run. The tackling of Otterbein was hard and sure and running interference was good. Captain Lins­grel says that Otterbein will fight as never before as Heidelberg is a worthy opponent.

As a special attraction manager Glunt has arranged a Charlie Chapman contest and a sack race. These events will take place between halves.

If Otterbein wins much honor is due as Heidelberg has a wealth of ability in speed, weight and experience. It will take nothing but the hardest work by the team and a heap of good rooting by the students. Everybody out for the best game of the season.

Notice to Students in Senior Bible.
Owing to a mistake in proof reading last week, the advertisement of Bender & Rappold was made to read "The note book in Senior Bible is here." This should have read "The new book in Senior Bible is here."

The New No. 2 Folding Autographic Camera

Just how the Eastman people can do it we don’t see. They have surely put up a lot of goodness and quality in a small package at a small price.

This latest Brownie makes 9½ x 11½ pictures, using the Autographic Cartridge, has a meniscus achromatic lens, Kodak Bearing shutter. It’s made of metal, is good all the way through and small—it will go in most any pocket unobtrusively. And the price is $4.
