A Tribute to Otterbein Coeds

From the beginning in 1847, Otterbein University had opened its doors to women, probably being the second coeducational institution in the nation to do so. Also at that time it had a woman instructor, Miss Clarinda Murray, who received $2 per week for teaching and acting as matron of Ladies Hall.

For the protection of these "young ladies," as the female students were referred to in the catalog, the handful of faculty felt a deep responsibility. A hundred years ago all women lived and boarded at Saum Hall (site of the library). They rose at five o'clock to clean up their rooms and breakfast before attending class. Each evening, following "family prayers," lights were extinguished by ten o'clock. They could enroll for a special "ladies" course with fewer courses than the regular curriculum, if they wished.

The faculty was also concerned about the social welfare of these young ladies. Once a week on Saturday afternoon in the parlor of Saum Hall ladies could receive male visitors. Later in the eighties visiting privileges were extended to Wednesday afternoon. Marriage was cause for "separation" from the institution. Without permission of the principal, ladies could not leave the grounds of Saum Hall or even be escorted to lectures or public entertainments.

Women had organized two literary societies which met weekly on the third floor of Towers Hall. Here in dignified surroundings, they listened to lectures, orations and extemporaneous speeches, observing strictly the rules of parliamentary procedure.

Alumnae viewed with pride the role of women on campus and in later life. In 1881 the woman principal of Ladies Hall commented that in the 25 years since Miss Jennie Miller, '57 and Miss Kate Winter, '57, (wife of Benjamin Hanby) had been among the first graduates of the college, the 66 women graduates had many accomplishments to their credit. Half had become teachers, some were the wives of ministers and missionaries, and others were wives of successful farmers and businessmen. She hoped that many more women would attend college. Ironically, at the same commencement a visiting clergyman was extolling the virtues of women becoming good wives and mothers and made no reference to education!

Co-operative Education Program Established

Otterbein College has received $21,000 in federal funds to establish a co-operative education program.

"In initiating a new program in co-operative education, Otterbein hopes to find an educationally effective balance between liberal arts education and the professional career development of the student," stated President Thomas J. Kerr, IV. "We do not feel that these two goals are mutually exclusive, but rather are complimentary."

Some of the distinctive features of the Otterbein co-operative education program include the facts that co-op students will be able to graduate in a four year period, employers will have co-op students on a continuing basis allowing them to fill a position normally held by a full-time employee rather than having to fit co-op students into special assignments, six month placements will allow greater continuity for both student and employer than shorter placements, and Otterbein's curricular pattern does not need altering to accommodate a significant number of students on a co-operative pattern.

A co-operative education director is being sought to oversee the program.

Board of Trustees Adds New Members

Leonard P. Roberts, general manager of Delco Air Conditioning Division of General Motors, Dayton, Ohio has been elected new trustee-at-large. A native of Winnipeg, Manitoba, he is also a member of the Board of Directors for the Goodwill Industries and the Dayton Area Progress Committee.

Robert Heaton, manager of the Bar-Wire-Sheet Operations for the Universal-Cyclops Specialty Steel Division of Cyclops Corporation, has been elected church trustee from the Western Pennsylvania Conference. In addition to his new responsibilities as trustee, Heaton is chairman of the Administrative Board of Christ Church in Pennsylvania and President of the Board of Directors of Wesley Institute.

Dr. Robert Kegerreis, President of Wright State University, is the new church trustee from the West Ohio Conference. A native of Detroit, Kegerreis is active in many civic and church organizations. He is a member of the board of directors of Robbins & Meyers, Inc., Springfield; Systems Research Laboratories, Inc., Gem City

Savings Association, the Dayton Power and Light Company and Chemineer, Inc. of Dayton.

Otterbein Chosen to Participate in Faculty Development Program

In April Otterbein College was named as one of eight schools in the midwest to join eight schools in the Project on Institutional Renewal Through the Improvement of Teaching.

Selection was competitive and Otterbein's inclusion was based upon a proposal submitted by Dr. Roy Turley, Vice President for Academic Affairs; Dr. Marcia Gealy, English; Mr. Earl Hassenpflug, Chairman of the Arts Department; Dr. Robert Place, Chemistry; Dr. Mildred Stauffer, Education and Dr. Paul Redditt, Religion and Philosophy. Dr. Redditt is serving as the liaison person between Otterbein and the project staff and other schools.

Recognizing that teaching is not an isolated phenomenon, the project is a two year effort with a three-fold focus. Its main goal is to achieve personal and professional growth among faculty, in the teaching-learning process and in the teaching environment. (The latter focal point includes such things as academic policies, faculty reward and recognition and co-curricular activities.)

The project will assist Otterbein in continuing the upgrading of its teaching by providing consultants, workshops, and contact with other schools engaged in similar endeavors. Plans for improvement and renewal were discussed at length at a workshop at Center College, Danville, Kentucky, July 6-11, 1976. The plans will be submitted for professional criticism in December and then acted upon.

Degrees Granted to Bicentennial Class

Two hundred sixty-five seniors were granted their degrees on Sunday, June 13, 1976 in the Rike Physical Education-Recreation Center. This was the 120th commencement exercise in the 129 years since the founding of the College.

The commencement ceremonies for the Class of '76 were appropriately highlighted when State Representative Alan E. Norris, chairman of the Ohio Bicentennial Commission, presented a flag and certificate designating the College an official Bicentennial institution. Otterbein is the oldest institution of higher education in Franklin County.

Bishop Joseph H. Yeakel gave the commencement address entitled "And May Yours Be 20/20." A Pennsylvania native, Bishop Yeakel has served pastorates in Dayton; Hagerstown, Md.; York, Pa.; and Silver Springs, Md. Formerly executive secretary of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, he became general secretary of the board of Evangelism of the United Methodist Church in 1968. He was elected Bishop in 1972 and assigned to the Syracuse area.

William C. Moffit, who received an honorary Doctor of Music degree during the commencement ceremony, directed the Alumni Band in a pre-commencement concert.

Bishop Yeakel was granted an honorary Doctor of Laws degree during the ceremony.

William C. Moffit, marching band director and assistant professor of music at the University of Houston, received an honorary Doctor of Music degree. Moffit's sixth annual marching band workshop was held at Otterbein this summer.

A native of New Philadelphia, Ohio, Moffit has contributed 88 musical arrangements to the College. His more than 150 published marching band arrangements have sold more than one-half million copies.

Pictures, Class Reunions, Memories . . . All Part of Alumni Day

The "spirit of '76" was evident among the alumni from the classes of '66, '57, '56, '55, '51, '36, '32, '31, '30, the 50-year class of 1926 and the Golden Agers as they returned to Otterbein to enjoy class reunions and the traditional Alumni Day activities.

After a morning of greeting friends and posing for reunion pictures, nearly 500 alumni gathered in the Campus Center dining hall for the Alumni Luncheon.

Highlights of the luncheon included the presentation of the 1976 Alumni Awards and special recognition of the E.W.E. Schear family who had come to the campus for the dedication of the west wing of the Science Center as the E.W.E. Schear Hall. Also recognized was Ethel Miller Schleppi, '06 who was the oldest alumna present. She received a book of poems, "The Treasure Chest," as a remembrance of the occasion.

Later on in the afternoon nearly 300 persons attended the dedication of E.W.E. Schear Hall in spite of the rain.

The new Alumni Association officers for 1976/1977 were announced at the Alumni Luncheon. Nancy Norris, '61 was elected vice president; Martha Deever Matteson, '64 was elected secretary.

Harold F. Augspurger, '41 was re-elected as alumni trustee.

Elected to Council-at-Large were Sara Kelser Steck, '37 and Lloyd C. Savage, '48.

James Sheridan, '46 will automatically serve as president while William D. Case, '49 will be president-elect.

According to the constitution of the Alumni Association, the Council is authorized to name replacements for vacancies. At a special Alumni Council meeting, Wilbur H. Morrison, '34 was voted to replace alumni trustee Edwin L. Roush, '47 who has resigned for personal reasons.

Nearly 500 alumni returned to campus for this year's Alumni Day activities.

Included among the day's activities was the dedication of E. W. E. Schear Hall of the Science Building. Many members and friends of the Schear family attended the Alumni Luncheon prior to the dedication.

A member of a lecture club called Monday Talks since 1937, Mrs. Miller captures the attention of many as a knowledgeable speaker. In May of 1975 she presented her program on poetry to the Otterbein community.

Mrs. Miller is involved in many church activities and has been active on the boards of the YWCA, Licking County Symphony and the Newark Branch of OSU and City Development. Agler Retires — Yoest/Fishbaugh Assume New Responsibilities

Robert "Moe" Agler has announced his resignation as the College athletic director and as director of the Rike Physical Education Recreation Center. Agler has been a guiding force in Otterbein's athletic program for 20 years.

Agler became a full-time Otter coach in 1955 when he was responsible for both the football and basketball teams. Between 1955 and 1974, excluding 1966-1969 when Larry Lintner was in command, Agler led Otterbein football teams to eight winning seasons and a 74-63-5 overall record. Agler assumed full-time duties as athletic director and director of the Rike Center in 1974.

Assuming the duties of athletic director is Dr. Elmer "Bud" Yoest, associate professor of physical education.

Yoest, who was graduated from Otterbein in 1953, is also chairman of the men's physical education department. He came to Otterbein as an assistant football coach and later directed the intramural program for ten years and re-established the cross-country program in 1958 when he became a full-time member of the staff. That same year he assumed responsibility for the Otter track team.

Yoest received his MA and PhD from Ohio State University. He and his wife Nancy have two sons, Jeff, a senior at Otterbein and Kyle, an incoming Otterbein freshman.

Dick Fishbaugh, an assistant professor of men's physical education will become the new Rike Center Director. A 1956 graduate of Ohio University, he received his masters degree from West Virginia University in 1964. Fishbaugh joined the Otter physical education staff in 1966 and has coached football, baseball, wrestling and basketball.

Fishbaugh and his wife Donna have five children: Karen, an incoming Otterbein freshman, Kelly, Kristen, Kathy and David.

Otterbein Offers New B.A. Degree

Breezewood Farms of New Albany, Ohio

Beginning this fall, horse enthusiasts will have the opportunity to turn their love for horses into a lifetime career. Current demand for more stables and for qualified personnel to operate them has encouraged Otterbein College to develop a Bachelor of Arts program in equine science and stable management.

"Otterbein seeks to meet the professional interests of a wide variety of students," President Thomas J. Kerr, IV said when announcing the new course of study.

A combined effort of Otterbein's Life Science and Women's Health and Physical Education departments, the program is open to both men and women. The cooperating stable is Breezewood Farms of New Albany, Ohio.

With the practical experience gained through summer internships at the stables combined with a broad liberal arts background, students may enter the fields of stable management, horse and stable insurance, feed company work, horse nutrition, farrier science or horse farm management.

Interested persons should contact the Otterbein Admissions Office for further information.

Ohio Instructional Grant Program Funded

In April of this year when the news broke that as many as 25,000 eligible Ohio college students might not receive their Ohio Instructional Grants due to state budget cuts, Otterbein President Thomas J. Kerr, IV sent a letter to all Otterbein alumni living in Ohio asking for their help.

Other college presidents in the state did the same and numerous alumni from Otterbein and other institutions wrote letters to legislators and their State Senators and Representatives asking for emergency full-funding legislation for the Ohio Instructional Grant Program. Without such funding numerous students would not be able to return to or enroll in college this fall. At Otterbein 114 students would have been affected.

Due to the strong response from alumni and friends, funding of the Ohio Instructional Grant to the level of an additional $5 million has been passed by the Legislature. It now looks like all eligible applicants will receive funds.

Thanks for your support!

Class of 1980 Progress Report

Admissions at Otterbein for 1976/1977 are running ahead of the level recorded at a comparable time last year. Three hundred fifty-one incoming freshmen have paid a deposit for the 1976/1977 school year.

Public Relations Has New Staff Assistant

Rich Brooks, former news editor of The Clintonville Booster, has accepted a position in the College's department of public relations. In his new post he will be responsible for all news related to the college's sports program.

A graduate of Bishop Watterson High School, Brooks received his B.A. degree in journalism from The Ohio State University in 1975.

In addition Brooks serves as vice-president of the board for Touchstone, a crisis prevention counseling center at 3175 N. High St. in Columbus. Brooks is also director of the Clintonville Boys Association and was named one of Columbus' Ten Outstanding Young Men by the Columbus Jaycees in 1974.

A breakthrough in the position of women on campus came in the 1880's with the arrival of Miss Josephine Johnston to teach foreign language. In 1882 she wrote an article for a student publication entitled, "Should Women be Encouraged to Enter the Professions?" Her answer was an emphatic, "Yes!" In the next year she wrote an article for a denominational journal, urging that more women attend college, instead of wasting their time doing housework, learning embroidery and reading light novels.

The climax came at commencement in 1890 when one woman dared speak on the question, "Man's Superiority to Woman?" and answered the question in the negative. In her opinion, history, literature and reform movements demonstrated the superiority of her sex.

Women have progressed a long way on campus since 1876, in activities, leadership and career orientation. It will be interesting to see how far they will have proceeded by the time of the Tricentennial. Who knows? By that time we may have a woman president at Otterbein and one in Washington.

Mabel Beatrice Moore, '04 receives Otterbein cane

Wade Miller, Emeritus Vice President for Development and Public Relations (1942-1969) presents Mabel Moore, '04 with the Otterbein cane.

Mabel Beatrice Moore –

Left by an angel near Attica, Ohio, October 29, 1879. Has had a very tragic life, having been bitten by a dog, had her nose broken and once upon a time was precipitated into a ditch, but was rescued from all these mishaps in time to save her life, —

1903 Sibyl

Not only did Mabel Beatrice Moore, '04 overcome such near "tragedies" as the 1903 yearbook melodramatically described them, but she has also lived to become Otterbein's oldest living alumna from the oldest graduating class.

Born in 1879, one of nine children, Miss Moore moved in 1898 with her family from a farm in Seneca County to Westerville. She spent two years attending the Otterbein Academy and was graduated from Otterbein University in 1904 along with her sister Edna. A brother and another sister had also been graduated from Otterbein — Frank in 1897 and Ione in 1902.

While attending Otterbein, Miss Moore was active in the Cleiorheatea literary society, the YWCA and on the Sibyl staff.

After graduation Miss Moore taught high school for three years in Northfield and Martins Ferry, Ohio. She then took a course in library science at the Carnegie Library School which became part of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1931. She served as a children's librarian in Des Moines, Iowa; Detroit, Michigan; and Elyria, Ohio before retiring.

Miss Moore currently lives at Hooper's Nursing Home in Bloomville, Ohio.

1976 Football Forecast — Team Described as "Aggressive, Emotional"

There are 104 players on Otterbein's pre-season football roster. Three are seniors.

That means that a hundred athletes could conceivably return in 1977, which also means that the Otters' best years may lie ahead of them.

"Great football teams generally are built around the senior class," said second-year Head Coach Rich Seils. "This season we will be operating basically with three classes."

Although seniors Bob Ruble, Biff Roberts and Dave Clark will each contribute to the Cardinal cause, the fact remains that the team will suffer from a lack of experience in 1976. In other words, another building year is on the way.

The process began last season when Seils fielded lineups composed mostly of underclassmen and finished with a 4-5 record.

It will continue in September when the Cardinal fledglings add more experience and the overall squad adds more depth.

"By the same token," said Seils, "we have some excellent football players right now, so I think we'll be extremely competitive this season."

It is more than irony that three of the four Otter captains are from the defense because defense will be a strong unit.

In Don Snider, Roberts and Ruble, the Cards own three of the top defenders in the OAC. Barring another ankle injury, Snider may emerge as the league's outstanding linebacker.

But that's not all. Junior middle guard John Hussey and sophomore tackle Dick Bonner are a couple more starbound performers. They anchor the line that also includes wide-side end Bob Jacoby and tackle candidates Paul Isaacs and Tim Hart. The other end spot is open for grabs.

Snider and Ruble are established at linebacker, while Roberts and Bob Talpas are established at the corners. The safeties are not so well set as Seils will try a host of hopefuls including juniors Bill Welch and Chuck Noble.

Sophomore sidewinder Maurizio Schindler will have some competition at place kicker as Ron Lathem and Mike Koob, also sophomores, appear to have the legs to make a challenge. Mark Bailey returns to punting duties.

The best of Seils' "excellent football players" is Bill Hillier, the junior quarterback who led the OAC in passing and total offense in 1975. The 5-10, 180-pounder from Mount Vernon rolled up 1,304 yards passing with 94 completions in 201 attempts. He is the other captain.

But if Seils has his way, the option-oriented Otter offense won't find Hillier passing as much this time around. Hopefully, the running game will improve enough to allow for that much-needed balance between running and passing — something the Cardinals didn't have in 1975.

Two causes for optimism are sophomore speedsters Bailey and Brad Manier, who will vie for the halfback slot. "They could be the two fastest backs in the four years I've been here," said Seils.

Another duo with potential will battle at fullback — Mike Echols and Rob Dodge. Echols, a 6-1, 205-pound sophomore, finished strong in the latter stages of 1975, while the 6-0, 200-pound Dodge was last seen in Tan and Cardinal as a linebacker two years ago.

As for receivers, two of Hillier's three favorite targets have graduated. Steve Mott and Ron Gorman accounted for half the Otter receptions.

Returning, however, is agile junior Bob Boltz (24 grabs for 450 yards). Seils also expects Bailey and sophomore Scott Hennick to pick up part of the slack.

The offensive line is led by tight end Bob Bardelang and tackle Kevin Lynch, a pair of strong and rangy sophomores. Bardelang has put on 20 pounds of muscle over the summer to boost his weight to 210. Both will play on the strong side.

The only other veteran pretty much assured of a starting assignment is junior tackle Doug Burkhart, who will play short side tackle. The center and two guard spots are open to contention.

"We're young, eager and physically tough," concluded Seils. "I look for us to be a very aggressive, emotional football team."

The Cardinals should improve in 1976. Time will tell just how much.

Westerville Otterbein Women's Club Seeks New Members

A letter from the president

To Otterbein Women and Other Friends:

Dear Otterbein Women and Other Friends,

If you would like to continue or begin an active and worthwhile relationship with Otterbein College, the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club, a service group for the benefit of Otterbein College and Otterbein students, may be just the thing for you. Our membership includes alumnae, wives of alumni, mothers and wives of students, faculty members, faculty wives and other friends. You don't have to live in Westerville to belong!

The Westerville Otterbein Women's Club is an active group. Last year's activities included:

- 1) Equipping the Howard House kitchen with silver and serving pieces;
- 2) Spring cleaning the Howard House with the help of Westerville area school children;
- 3) Granting $2500 in scholarships to Otterbein students;
- 4) Granting $500 to the Otterbein Speech Department to be used toward updating and improving radio station WOBN; and
- 5) Granting $500 to the Women's Health and Physical Education Department to build a much needed softball diamond.

Other fund-raising projects include the Thrift Shop at 177 West Park St., which is open each Wednesday during the school year from 10:00 to 4:00 and the annual Christmas Holiday Bazaar.

The only real obligation of membership is the payment of $1.00 annual dues (or $5.00 for a five-year membership). Of course, active participation in club projects can be most rewarding.

So come on — join the club. When we receive your membership dues, we will send you a program booklet with meeting dates and fund-raising projects. Thank you on behalf of those who benefit from your support. I'll be looking forward to hearing from you!

Woody Herman: The Living Legend

With the return of the skateboard and the success of such TV shows as "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," it seems only natural to continue the nostalgia craze with the return of the "big band." However, the truth of the matter is, big bands never left.

Here to prove it will be Woody Herman and his Young Thundering Herd. Appearing in concert at Otterbein College, Thursday, September 16, at 8:15 p.m., Herman's performance will open the 1976/1977 Artists Series. Mail orders for season tickets and for the Herman appearance will be available beginning August 25 with cross-counter sales to begin Tuesday, September 7.

Playing jazz that has never gone out of style, Herman says his young musicians are every bit as good as the musicians of his youth. Quoting his friend, Igor Stravinsky, Herman says "There are only two kinds of music, good and bad."

A West Coast writer probably best summed up the lack of a generation gap when it comes to Woody Herman's music: "Woody has that marvelous ability to turn on the kids of the kids he turned on twenty-five years ago."

Herman's selections are likely to include works by such contemporary small band players as Chick Corea, Eddie Harris or George Cables. He also regularly includes such Herman standards as "Laura," "Caldonia" and "Lemon Drop."
