★ BICENTENNIAL CORNER ★

The Bicentennial Year at Otterbein by Dr. Harold Hancock Chairman of the Department of History

One hundred years ago Otterbein University celebrated the Centennial with the publication of the first history of the college and a historical display at the Philadelphia Exposition. For exhibit purposes the Smithsonian Institute borrowed these same items for display in Washington this past summer. Perhaps some alumni saw them.

To plan Otterbein's Bicentennial celebration, President Thomas J. Kerr, IV, appointed a committee. With the help of funds from the Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Commission, the Vida S. Clements Foundation, the Gund Foundation and private donors, a series of events was planned. Among these were included a lecture by John R. Howe, Jr.; a course on the American Revolution; a reprinting of the college's first history (free copies may be secured from the Alumni Office); a special arrangement of patriotic music prepared by Bill Moffitt which was played by the college band at the Homecoming game and later at the Buffalo Bills-Miami Dolphins football game; a performance and seminar by the Hewetson-Arbaugh American Music Consort; a performance by Farkleberry Farm Steam Dulcimer Works and performances of two American plays, "The Matchmaker" and "Showboat."

The campus was graced by the appearance of Virgil Thomson, esteemed American composer, who conducted a seminar, which was followed by a performance of his music.

Ross Fleming, at that time director of the Learning Resource Center, and John Robbins, a member of the Westerville Bicentennial Commission, secured money from the Gund Foundation for preparation of a child's slide/film strip program on the Revolution. With the technical assistance of Carl Scott of the Learning Resource Center and the cooperation of Mrs. Frances Bay of the Public Relations Department, it was completed.

Otterbein College celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of the nation with gusto and expects to be around to do the same in 2076!

Editor's Note: This is the last of the series of four articles written by Dr. Hancock in recognition of our nation's 200th birthday.

On Our Cover: The cover photo is the work of Joan Holland Ellingsen, '76. Carolyn Risch, '76 poses as our winking clown.

It is the policy of Otterbein College not to discriminate on the basis of race or sex in its educational programs, activities or employment policies as required by Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments. Inquiries regarding compliance with Title IX may be directed to Dr. Donald Bulthaupt, Chairman of the Affirmative Action Committee; Dr. Roy H. Turley, Vice President for Academic Affairs; Woodrow Macke, Vice President for Business Affairs; or the Director of the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C.

Board of Trustees Adds New Members

Newest members of Otterbein's Board of Trustees are Bishop Dwight E. Loder, West Ohio Area; Bishop James S. Thomas, East Ohio Area; and Wilbur H. Morrison, president of Main Federal Savings and Loan Association in Columbus. Bishops Loder and Thomas are both from the United Methodist Church.

Bishop Loder was elected to the episcopacy at the 1964 North Central Jurisdictional Conference. He has been the Episcopal leader of the Michigan Area for the past twelve years.

Former president of Garrett Theological Seminary, Evanston, Illinois and past president of the North Central Jurisdictional College of Bishops, Bishop Loder succeeds Bishop F. Gerald Ensley as trustee who retired as bishop after 24 years of service on September 1. Bishop Ensley died September 21, 1976.

Bishop Thomas was Bishop of the Iowa Area for the last twelve years. Upon receiving his Ph.D. from Cornell University in 1953, Bishop Thomas assumed responsibilities as Associate Secretary of the Methodist General Board of Education. He was the first Negro bishop assigned to a predominantly white area.

He replaces Bishop Francis E. Kearns as trustee.

Wilbur Morrison, '34 has been associated with Main Federal since 1945. He is a member and past president of the Southeast Lions Club of Columbus and a member of Westgate Masonic Lodge, Columbus Valley Chapter of Scottish Rite and Aladdin Temple of the Shrine. He is also trustee and past president of Wesley Glen Retirement Home and past president of Central Community House in Columbus.

He replaces Edwin "Dubbs" Roush, '47 who resigned as alumni trustee for personal reasons.

Otterbein Alumnus Dr. Francis Bundy Lectures on Campus

Dr. Francis P. Bundy

During a visit to campus this fall, Dr. Francis P. Bundy, '31 lectured to a physical science class on the subject of "Research at High Pressure and High Temperature." There were approximately twenty-five members of the faculty and staff and student body present.

Dr. Bundy, who received his Ph.D. from The Ohio State University in 1937, is a physicist for General Electric Research and Development Center. He joined General Electric in January, 1946 and has since specialized in the fields of physics, mechanics, optics, radiation, heat transfer and man-made diamonds.

ADP Very Popular

Otterbein's Adult Degree Program (ADP) has entered its second year with more than triple the number of students of a year ago.

"The response to ADP from the Central Ohio community has exceeded our expectations," said Jack Dickey, Otterbein's director of placement and continuing education. "ADP's continued growth will allow us to add more courses to the evening offering."

Part of the growth is due to the popularity of a wide range of business-oriented courses including real estate, economics and accounting.

ADP offers day, evening and self-paced courses at a reduced rate on a part-time basis. The program features individual counseling, flexible scheduling and is tailored to suit each adult's specific needs.

Openings are available for the winter and spring terms. Those interested should contact the Office of Continuing Education.

Telethon a "Bell-Ringing" Success

With the help of 116 alumni, friends of the College, parents and student volunteers, the 1976 annual telethon (held between October 17 and October 27) raised $20,000 in firm pledges. This total does not take into consideration the amount unspecified pledges will eventually yield. The most successful aspect of the appeal was that the number of people who replied "yes" increased by 46% over the totals of the two previous telethons held in 1973 and 1974.

Telethons are historically one of the most economical ways of reaching a large number of potential donors, the cost typically being only 5% of the amount raised.

This year's telethon chairman was George P. Parthemos, '65, who is investment manager for The Police and Fireman's Disability and Pension Board of Ohio.

This year was the first year that telethon calls have been made on Sunday afternoons taking advantage of the lowest long distance calling rates. This was also the first time student volunteers have made calls. A total of twenty-two sorority and fraternity members made calls greatly contributing to the success of the telethon.

Soccer Anyone?

Did you know that Otterbein has a soccer team?

Although not under the auspices of the athletic department, the team is recognized as a club by the College.

Coach Nur Hussen, instructor of English, notes that a big boost for the team is the "enthusiasm and excellent condition displayed by the individual players."

With an overall record last year of 4-3, co-captains Rolland Hamilton and Ricardo Murph feel they can compete with any varsity team. "Last year our team lost to Ohio State by only one goal." This year the team tied Ohio State 2-2.

Well into their second year as a club, the team now has jerseys and is in the process of having portable goal posts built by the college service department. Since they don't have any monetary support from the athletic department, the team relies a great deal on individual sponsors. Currently a sponsor is needed to purchase a soccer net.

Acting Alumni Director

Evelyn Edwards Bale, '30 has agreed to serve as alumni director between November 15, 1976 and June 30, 1977. She will temporarily be replacing Chet Turner who has been absent from the College since his April automobile accident.

Mrs. Bale is not unfamiliar to college administrative work. Her experience includes working at Otterbein as administrative assistant to the president (1943-1944) assistant director of public relations (1947-1949) and as editor of TOWERS (1965-1973). From 1950 to 1952 she was director of admissions at Ohio Northern University and from 1952-1961 she was office manager in the Student Field Experience Office, College of Education, at the Ohio State University.

Recognition is also given to Nancy Myers Norris, '61 who organized this year's Homecoming and alumni tours and to the Rev. Robert Clarke who assumed responsibilities for the organization of all churchpersons' meetings.

For an up-to-date report on Chet Turner, see page 14.

Sylvester Broderick, '24 Makes Sentimental Journey

If there had been a prize given at this year's Homecoming to the alumnus who traveled the farthest to return to his alma mater, the prize would have gone to Sylvester Broderick, '24.

Broderick, at the age of 83, made the trip from Sierra Leone, West Africa, to Westerville to participate in Otterbein's Homecoming activities—a first for him.

While on campus (he stayed for over a week), Broderick, who is now retired from his No. 2 spot with Sierra Leone's ministry of education, lectured to several classes.

Broderick was pleased with the improvements he saw on the campus but was especially pleased to see the good condition of Towers Hall. "Towers is the landmark, to me, of Otterbein College. I am glad that it still stands," he said.

While a student at Otterbein, Broderick lettered in track and was a member of Otterbein's winning mile relay team and distance medley relay team in the first Ohio Relays in 1924.

Following graduation, Broderick received his masters degree in education from Columbia University.

When he returned to Sierra Leone, he became a school inspector and later achieved his prestigious position with the country's education ministry.

While in Ohio, Broderick also visited his son, Sylvester, a 1959 Otterbein graduate, who is working on a doctoral degree in linguistics at the University of Wisconsin.

The "Work, Earn and Learn" Program: Cooperative Education

Otterbein's newest option for students is cooperative education. Under this program a student will spend about six months of his/her sophomore year and six months of the junior year working on a fulltime paying job related to his/her major field of study.

The program allows students to add a practical dimension to their degree work while maintaining theoretical studies. With the internship programs and now the cooperative education program, Otterbein extends further the practical education option for students.

Students are applying for participation in the program mainly to gain valuable practical experience, to help in getting jobs or entrance into graduate school, to earn an income, to increase motivation or to test career choices early in their college career.

It falls upon Frank Mitchell, director of the new program, to recruit and counsel students for the program, to coordinate with faculty and staff and to develop good jobs.

Alumni, parents, and friends of Otterbein may have general employment advice or specific job leads to help Mr. Mitchell in getting the program off to a good start. Mr. Mitchell asks you to write to Director, Cooperative Education, Otterbein College or call him at 614/890-3000 Ext. 506 with any suggestions.

Clements Foundation Grants $50,610 Ear-Marked for Campus Improvements

Latest appropriations by the Vida S. Clements Foundation include $7,610 to the chemistry department for the purchase of a spectrometer, $23,000 for a new sound system in Cowan Hall and $20,000 for new football field lights. The "O" Club also donated $4,753.00 toward the purchase of the new lights.

Westerville Otterbein Women's Club Honors Members

At the October 14 meeting of the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club, Mrs. Lawrence Frank and Mrs. Albert Sanders were honored for their faithful service to the Otterbein Thrift Shop. Mrs. Frank was instrumental in establishing the shop twenty-five years ago and Mrs. Sanders has worked each year since.

"the Camera and the Negative"

Describe the picture at the left in your own words. How would you interpret it? What catches your attention?

Most people would describe it as being a shell and leave it at that. However, there are several Otterbein students who would respond to this photograph with more than just their sense of sight. They would tell you how it makes them feel and why it makes them feel that way.

"Picture taking" has increased in popularity in recent years ever since photography has achieved recognition as a legitimate form of art. As a result, photography courses are now being offered at Otterbein under the auspices of the Department of Fine Arts.

This fall a new and innovative program called Visual Literacy was introduced in a freshman seminar taught by Mr. Carl W. Scott, instructor in Fine Arts and the Integrative Studies Departments and production manager in the Learning Resource Center, and Dr. Ursula Holtermann, professor of history.

Carl Scott

"I saw thoughts become visual."

– Theresa Braddock, '76

The course was designed to improve the students' "visual literacy" with the purpose being to help the student become increasingly sensitive to the visual world and to transfer this sensitivity to other fields of study. The course used photography, not with the intention of making the students into photographers, but to help them "focus" through a lens, thus training their eyes and helping them become alert to what it is they really see.

Another course, which is taught by Mr. Scott, will be offered beginning winter term. The course, entitled "The Camera and the Negative," teaches the fundamentals of taking and developing pictures as well as the concept of visual literacy. A follow-up course, "The Print" will be offered beginning spring term.

Mr. Scott, a professional photographer, is well qualified to teach. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Youngstown University and did graduate work in fine arts, specializing in cinematography at Kent State University. In addition, he has studied with Minor White, the eminent photographer who died this past June.

Mr. Scott has won many photographic awards in the past five years, including the Mid-American Photographic Association award for 1973. He currently has an exhibit at Penn State University.

Theresa Braddock, '76, a former student of Mr. Scott, writes, "The course was one of visual training and personal involvement. Through reading, discussions and a surprising amount of experience, I learned more about myself and surroundings in this class than in any other during my time at Otterbein. With equipment from the Learning Resource Center — a variety of cameras, lenses, films, etc. and the new concerns which accompanied them — f stops, shutter speeds, lighting, distance, angles, etc., I saw thoughts become visual. During class time we shared/discussed new prints, ideas, views. We discussed how much more we saw around us, how what we saw affected us, why we took the pictures we did, the problems we encountered and why we didn't give up. We learned to articulate our feelings orally, in writing and in our photography. It was ten weeks filled with discoveries and hard work."

"... it was by far the most I've had at Otterbein."

Thus far, photography has proven to be very popular with the students and student registration for the course is high. However, the number of students who can benefit from taking the courses is limited by the darkroom facilities and equipment available. It is hoped more equipment can be purchased if money becomes available.

The inclusion of photography in the curriculum is fully in accord with Otterbein's view on experimentation in relation to the purpose of a liberal arts education. In his 1975 report to the Development Board, President Thomas J. Kerr, IV, stated that one of the values of a liberal arts education is that it "recognizes the importance of ideas, the process of synthesization, and creativity. The ability to communicate and relate to self, society and environment receive high priority." Photography offers the means of achieving all of this.

“Photography has proven to be very popular with the students and registration for the course is high.”

— Dr. Ursula Holtermann

Most students continue with photography following their completion of the course. Many find it useful in finding summer jobs and some decide to make it their career. Joan Holland Ellingsen, '76, is an example.

Joan and her husband, Bruce, are now free-lance photographers in Columbus. Currently they are doing commercial fashion photography and hope to expand their business to include portraits and wedding pictures.

In the past couple of years, several new programs of study have been added to the College curriculum in an effort to meet the professional and/or personal interests of a wide variety of students. The development of a photography program is one of them. There will be many more. ■

from the Alumni Center

A letter from Chet

Dear Alumni and Friends:

My main purpose in writing to you is to express Margaret's and my thanks to the many of you who sent cards, called or visited us following our automobile accident east of Erie, Pennsylvania on April 15, 1976.

We were both in an Erie hospital for nine days. We were then brought to Westerville by ambulance and I was taken to Grant Hospital in Columbus where I was confined until May 30 and returned again on June 19. I was finally released August 4.

Margaret is back teaching school this fall but has to have help with all house work and meals in order to keep up with her teaching.

My two doctors (an orthopedist and a blood specialist) have declared me "totally disabled" as of October 4. Depending upon progress, I shall not be back to work until sometime next spring. The reason for the "total disability" is due to my broken knee and damaged blood vessels causing blood clots to go to my lungs on three occasions. I am, as of October 5, using a cane for the first time to hobble around the house. I go for physical therapy five days a week for one-and-a-half hours.

My only comfortable position is with my foot propped level with or above my hip. Otherwise my foot swells and soon becomes numb from lack of circulation.

I get out once or twice a week but have to spend several hours resting before and after each outing.

I surely miss the contact that I have with alumni clubs across the country and will be looking forward to the time I am again at my desk arranging programs, traveling to alumni meetings and corresponding with individual alumni.

Again, thanks so much for your help in giving us encouragement for the past six months.

Sincerely,

Chet Turner

Cardinal Gridders Finish Strong / Basketball Season Opens

1975 was an unglamorous season for Rich Seils, in his first season as Otterbein's top grid mentor. Three losses were determined by scores of less than five points, falling to Ohio Wesleyan by two points, losing to Marietta by four points and then another "shave" to Heidelberg by three points. Seven total points which could have turned a lackluster 4-5 record to a respectable 7-2 mark.

Something must have happened to that team within a year's time, for the 1976 Otter edition, really a mature version of the 1975 squad, has displayed the ability to "win the close ones."

"We have the maturity where it counts," Seils said of the 1976 Otters "... on the defense."

The defense touts more experience than their offensive counterparts, ranking third in the OAC and nursing the offense on good field position, interceptions and fumble recoveries.

The Cardinals finished strong behind blue division leader, Baldwin-Wallace.

But with only three seniors, the "year of the Otter" may only be a season away.

Otterbein Basketball Outlook 1976-77

The key to Otterbein's duplicating its 21-6 record of the last season lies in the backcourt where both starters, Dave Bromley and Terry Morrison, have graduated. Bromley was the team's top scorer and MVP, while Morrison kept the running, fast-breaking offense in gear with his playmaking and ballhandling. Top replacement possibilities include holdovers Mike Wohlheter and Mark Sanders, both of whom saw spot action in 1975-76, plus Doug Addis, a transfer from Miami of Ohio.

The front court is well set with Larry Downing, Muff Jones and Don Brough dividing their time at forward. All are returnees. Rugged Ed Williams enters his second season as a starter at center.

The Otters are young (two seniors) and improving as they set their sights on at least matching last year's Ohio Conference Southern Division co-championship and national ranking.
