A Welcome from Dr. Howe to Alumni

Alumni, Friends, Homecomers All!

It is a pleasure to extend to you our warmest word of welcome as you join with us today in another Otterbein Homecoming. We are honored in your presence and we rejoice in your fellowship as together we rehearse the memories of by-gone days and blend our voices once again in a song for "auld lang syne".

To our own football boys and to those whose hosts we are,—our heartiest compliments and our very best wishes for a great game, well-played and full of the thrill and drama that is football at its best. We extend to our friends and competitors from Ashland a genuinely cordial welcome and our wishes for all the good fortune compatible with an Otterbein victory!

Cordially and sincerely yours,

J. RUSKIN HOWE, President.

HONORED BY VARSITY "O"

ROY PEDEN

It has been the custom of the Varsity "O" Association each year to choose one alumnus of the College who has been outstanding in athletic achievement and who has made unusual contribution to the athletic program of the school for recognition at this time. We dedicate this page to Homer Lambert, the choice for 1939 who was not honored at that time, and Roy Peden, the choice of the Varsity "O" for 1940.

ROY PEDEN:

When Roy Peden graduated from Otterbein in 1922, the caption "The Hero of a Thousand Battles" was attached to his name. He was characterized as "our greatest athlete, a good friend, and a mighty good fellow generally". As captain of the track team, captain of the football squad, member of the baseball team, the athletic board, and Varsity "O", he led the teams to victory more than any other athlete of his time. Besides his many and varied athletic activities, he also participated in many other campus activities and was a member of Philophronean Literary Society, Publications Board, and Y. M. C. A.

Roy sacrificed many opportunities to become an individual athlete and a national figure in order to stay on at Otterbein and contribute his skills as an athlete to her athletic program.

HOMER LAMBERT:

As an undergraduate at Otterbein, Homer Lambert was characterized as "one who found his chief interest in athletics and to whom the College owed much for the standards to which the athletic program was raised".

For two years he was captain of the football team. He was also a member of the basketball squad and the track team, Varsity "O", and Secretary of the Athletic Board. Among his extra-curricular activities were Philophronean Literary Society, Press Club, and Assistant Business Manager of the Sibly.

Homer Lambert certainly deserves a place in Otterbein's hall of fame not only for his achievements as a member of the athletic teams but for his generosity in supporting her athletic program both as an undergraduate and an alumnus.
