Named "Woman of the Year" by Women's Club

Mrs. Karl Ritter (Lucile Gerber, '24), past president of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Medical Association, was honored as the 1969 "Woman of the Year" of the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club. She and her husband, Dr. Karl Ritter, '25, are shown above with President and Mrs. Lynn Turner. She is pictured at the right with Mrs. Howard Menke (Viola Priest, '26), who introduced her at the annual guest night dinner, and Virginia Hetzler Weaston, '37, president of the club.

AKRON: A meeting has been planned for March 23 at the St. James United Methodist Church by club president Jane Tryon Bolin, '42. Otterbein students who have been abroad during their junior year will provide the program. Cheryl Hall, '69, is coordinating the student presentation and Miriam Woodford King, '47, is in charge of reservations.

CANTON: The Pines Restaurant in Canton was the locale of the October 31 meeting, presided over by Virgil Hinton, '34. The dinner meeting was well attended and a film-strip about the college was shown by Dick Pflieger, '48.

CINCINNATI: The Greater Cincy Area alumni met on October 29 to hear from Joe Ayer, '40, about the branch campus development of the state universities. Joe's description was extremely interesting and was emphasized with color slides of the Midletown campus. Tim Newell, x'29, club president, reported on the Alumni Officers' Workshop and announced the next meeting date as April 29.

COLUMBUS: The club officers, with President Lew Bell, '52, calling the shots, arranged a dinner meeting at the Campus Center prior to the November 22 appearance of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra at Otterbein. Harvey Vance, '63, was in charge of details. The Otterbein A Cappella Choir sang with the orchestra.

PHOENIX: All Arizona alumni, parents, and friends were invited to the February 2 meeting held in Tempe. Dick Rule, '42, and Dick and Jean Davidson Berry, '63, set up the meeting and took charge of the program. The sound color film about the college brought back many fond memories and showed the advancements being made. There was a good turnout, despite the distances involved.

DETROIT: A meeting will be held on April 12 at the home of Joe and Marguerite Wetherill Eschbach, '24. Otterbein Professor Harold Hancock will discuss "Four Presidents — A Comparison." Plans for this meeting resulted when the club met on January 17 at the home of Fred and Mary Weekley Cheek, x'33, x'35. The Eschbachs showed slides of their trip to Iran and Egypt and Elizabeth Marsh Walter, '26, was elected secretary-treasurer at the meeting. David Cheek, '63, continues as president.

PITTSBURGH: Gloria Howard Schutz, '58, and Margaret English, '61, arranged for a January 13 meeting at Forest Hills Junior High School. President and Mrs. Lynn W. Turner brought greetings from the campus and Doctor Turner discussed some of the problems that confront Otterbein in the future.

The next meeting will be held on March 20 at the Garden City United Methodist Church. The Otterbein Chancel Drama Group directed by Professor Fred Thayer will provide the program. Keith and Dorie Dunning Kaufman, '66, '67, are in charge of this event.

LOS ANGELES: Due to the late arrival of the film "From The Tower," the Southern California Club actually had two meetings. The first was held at the home of Walter and Betty Plummer Martin, '27, on January 25 and the second at the home of Bill and Joy Johnson Holford, '43, x'45, on January 28. Dick Pflieger, '48, brought greetings from the college and truly enjoyed the Southern California hospitality. The landslides prevented many alumni and friends from getting to the meeting, but Jim Whipp, '56, president, has the club well organized and keeps things jumping.

Otterbein is now easily accessible if we follow the signs. This one appears on the recently completed portion of the Columbus outerbelt, between the Cleveland Avenue and Route 3 exit-ramps. Southbound and northbound travelers may now reach Westerville and Otterbein by turning off Interstate 71 on Interstate 270, the outerbelt.

Shown beneath the new highway sign are students Gail Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Snyder, and Glen Shaffer, son of Colonel and Mrs. Glen Shaffer, '32 (Zelma Shauck, '34), all of Westerville.

A Summer Interlude

An experiment in which students from a church-related college make use of federal funds to help pay their school expenses — and discover a new excitement in the awareness of human needs

During the summer of 1968, sixty-six Otterbein students were employed on thirty-two work projects that extended from eastern Pennsylvania to northern New Mexico. The participants earned an average of $550 each, through a federal program of subsidized wages for created employment.

The government-funded Work-Study Program provides the major portion of the money to supplement the earnings of eligible students who are employed by public or private non-profit organizations or institutions, as arranged by the college. Elsley Witt, director of financial aids, coordinated the projects at Otterbein. To be eligible, a student must be in good academic standing and have a demonstrated need for assistance with college expenses.

Otterbein participants last summer were placed in local hospitals, schools, inner-city programs, settlement houses, municipal and county offices, and a variety of summer recreation programs and camps. The exciting reports given by students indicate an immense satisfaction in terms of individual growth, maturing, and making a significant contribution to the lives of other people. The fact that the experience provided summer jobs that are often hard to find seemed almost incidental in the reports of the students.

“Did you ever cry . . .?”

Linda Cooper discovered some of the challenges and the frustrations of a college student working in the inner city.

“Were you ever the only white person on a bus?” she asks in her evaluation of the summer program. “Did you ever walk on streets patrolled by the National Guard? Did you ever ‘mother’ five little boys whose own mother gave them no attention? Did you ever give a mother a bag of cookies you had just bought for yourself, because her welfare check hadn’t arrived and her children were hungry? Did you ever listen to an elderly person tell you of her fear of Negroes? Did you ever take a knife from a boy? And did you ever cry because you did all this and knew that for the time it was all you could do because you were soon leaving? I did — this was my summer.”

Linda lived with an Italian family in an integrated neighborhood in Cleveland, working at three different churches, helping in a Coffee House, a Teen Center, a Golden Age Club, Bible School, and various recreation projects.

“I became more aware of life,” she says, “more sensitive to the needs of people, and more dedicated than ever to giving my life to my fellowman.”

“Who would type the football plays?”

Some of the jobs involved menial labor, but they were not without intangible value for the students. Jane Hill’s housekeeping duties at Flat Rock Children’s Home kept her busy, but she also found time to visit with the children and help with recreational activities.

Mark Savage found excitement in discovering a litter of little foxes while he mowed a field at Camp Wanake.

Shirley Crossland wrote of her work in the children’s department of the Mansfield Library.

“Keeping the attention of sixty-five restless third and fourth graders in story-hour was hard work,” she says, “but harder yet was seeing to it that I met my responsibility of giving them as much satisfaction as I was receiving.”

“I did everything from typing order forms for reading materials to registration of new children and answering the phone," writes Linda Reese, who worked in the school office in her home town, Scottsdale, Pennsylvania. "It was an educational experience."

Kathy McLead and Muriel Byers worked in the office of Buckeye Valley High School, whose principal is Bill Agler, '49.

"New! Exciting! Fun! Tiring!" writes Kathy. "Never before had I even the slightest notion of all the work involved in a scholastic program. I thought that school was 'in' for nine months and 'out' for the other three. I now know."

Without the program, which provided the only clerical help for part of the summer, Muriel wonders: "Who would have typed out the football plays for the coach?"

Carolyn Rutledge, a prospective elementary school teacher, "got to see the other side of the story" in the clerk's office of the Mount Vernon City Schools. Other students who worked in their home-town school were Beth LeSueur and Carol Strout. The girls found the task of school enumeration not without its unique situations. "One man threatened to shoot us if he began to receive magazines after filling out his enumeration card," Beth reports.

"...the happiness of children"

A number of participants worked in camps.

"My understanding of the behavior of children increased every day," writes Barbara Wharton, who worked at Friendly House Settlement, its camp, nursery and kindergarten. "Contentment as a counselor is a successful class, a well-planned overnight or other activity or, most of all, observing the happiness of children from all types of family backgrounds as they played and worked together." Barbara was nicknamed "Otterbein" by her campers.

Jay Lavender found at Camp Otterbein that a counselor is provided with a barrage of experience "ranging from feeding the animals to pizza parties; from morning watch devotions to nightly campfire services.

The Brownies create "Christmas In August" at Camp Hawthorne Ridge, where Grace Leidheiser was a counselor.

"One twelve-year-old camper wouldn't go to breakfast unless he shaved first... The girls often 'fell in love' with us counselors... An all-girl volleyball team (coached by Jay) defeated all other contenders, including the boys' teams... I wouldn't have traded my past summer's job for any that anyone could offer."

Roger Wharton points out the value not only to students but also to institutions which were thus able to hire more qualified and experienced personnel than they could otherwise do. He counts the inter-personal relationships with both campers and leaders — hard to put into words — as important benefits of his job at Hidden Hollow Camp.

Susan Feisley

Mark Savage

Jan Hill

Shirley Crossland

Grace Leidheiser discovered that a first-year counselor often learns more than the campers when she worked at a Girl Scout Camp at Girard, Pennsylvania. As a lifeguard, Christina Benson found working with other counselors and teaching campers to swim were delightful experiences, which she says "could never be paid for with money."

Susan Feisley's job as a 4-H assistant found her teaching classes in flag ceremonial procedures; doing office work; leading discussion groups, helping with cookouts where the boys prepared the food and the girls made the fire; and a host of other duties. She says she learned from the motto of 4-H that "If it is to be, it's up to me."

Linda Alcorn and Evelyn Rubadue worked at hospitals, doing much of the paper work to allow the nurses more time to spend on patient care and Martha Rhoades gained a better understanding of older people in her job at a home for the aged.

Mission in New Mexico

Keith Witt, one of a dozen Otterbein students who spent the summer in the Santa Cruz, New Mexico area as playground supervisors, described some of his feelings about his vacation employment. He tells of the comfortable spot where he used to eat his lunch each day — alone until the children discovered him.

"There was a grassy spot where I could lie down," he writes, "dangling my feet in the water. It was a cool area, shaded from the sun, and very relaxing. I could see a bird's nest in the tree above me — covered with brown leaves and mud, looking like a miniature beaver's den.

"Looking west, I could see the houses. They were poorly constructed adobe shacks, but not dilapidated. The Spanish-Americans take pride in the few things they own. They are especially adept at making the most out of the least of material things."

Counselors at Santa Cruz

Then some of the children, returning from summer school, found him, destroying his solitude. Every day thereafter, they came to share his company and his lunch.

"I never realized that vanilla wafers could make anyone so happy," he says. Basically the children were so clean — not on the outside but on the inside. Probably the greatest feeling in the world is the satisfaction that someone appreciates you, and these kids gave me this feeling over and over again all through the summer.

"New Mexico is a long way off now. Perhaps we are destined never to meet again, and I trust that our brief encounter has left an impression on them as it has done on me. I hope there are many people who care about what happens to them . . ."

"... a greater sense of direction"

For pre-ministerial student Dennis Heffner the New Mexico participation was the fulfillment of a dream. He had been interested in the McCurdy Mission School for some time, and his summer experience deepened his interest in going there to work after graduate school.

"Every worker is faced with new situations every day, and it requires a lot of stamina to continue when you cannot see progress on many occasions.

"Working in a bi-lingual situation where there are three cultures is a lesson that cannot be understood by reading a book. Working where you are in the minority — an outsider — gives you a better understanding of what life is all about and what we should be striving for in the future . . . It broadened my outlook and gave a greater sense of direction for the years to come. I do not believe any program could do more."

Other students found the summer with the Spanish-American children just as satisfying. The SP's (student participants) from Otterbein worked with those from other colleges in eleven area playgrounds.

"My playground loved to play softball," says Claudia Yeakel, and from the comments of other SP's we believe all of New Mexico does. "I usually pitched for both teams, but one morning I was asked to be 'on a team,' and surprised them as well as myself by hitting a home-run. From that time on, they called me 'Lady'."

"... unforgettable"

Colleen Dunston says: "By experiencing their trials and their problems, I found myself. I had never realized before how much having a clean home, good, caring parents and a Christian background meant — until I met those kids who had none. All I can say is thanks, thanks."

"The companionship with the other work-study students and new friends, the fine direction and leadership of the staff—all contributed greatly to a memorable summer," says Jon Kish. And Judith Clister fondly remembers the "fun-filled days, the soggy Fourth of July camping trip, the night I sat behind a ten-foot fence and chased home-run softballs . . . The summer was unforgettable."

We Spread the Word about Our College

Students tell the story of Otterbein in their home-town high schools

Mary Staley

Mary Staley was one of thirty-one Otterbein students who visited 501 high schools during the December "Inter-Term." The purpose of the experimental arrangement was two-fold. It enabled the college to make contact with many more prospective students than the regular staff could visit, and it gave the college students employment during the Inter-Term. On the basis of reports by the participating students, we believe there are other benefits.

According to Elsley Witt, '49, director of student aid and initiator of the program, the students traveled some 12,000 miles from the eastern seaboard to Wisconsin, with each student visiting an average of sixteen schools in the vicinity of his home.

Oriented in three training sessions on the campus, the students began to appreciate the problems involved in attracting students — problems of "communicating."

We learned about recruiting

Miss Staley's comments reflect the experiences of many of the students. She says that once their purpose was understood, students were welcomed in most schools. Counselors found that the high school students seemed more relaxed and inquisitive with people near their own age than with regular admissions representatives.

"The type of people I talked with was almost as numerous as the twenty schools I visited," she says. "Some schools don't permit students to leave class to talk to college representatives, but I was glad to talk with guidance counselors, who were eager to hear about the changes at Otterbein, especially the new 3/3 Plan, the convocation, and the new building program.

"The problems we faced were varied — some funny — some serious. One girl in Pennsylvania was met by a riot when she returned to her high school. Another student found his school closed for the doe-hunting season. Some students went to predominantly Negro schools where they were questioned about Otterbein's policy on admitting Negro students.

"Sometimes it was a trick to get by the principal in order to see the guidance counselor with whom a previous appointment had been made. One student was told that all the seniors had already been accepted at colleges and that it was too early to start talking to juniors. One impression that occurred most often to me was that of a few students who sat in the back of the room and slept or made 'wise' remarks. It was obvious that they were there only to get out of class.

"I was thoroughly impressed with two schools in particular. At one the counselor offered me a job after I graduate. The other school was fairly new and the counselor was kind enough to show me around the complex of buildings. The facilities were fantastic and the students seemed to realize the great potential in all the equipment made available to them. I talked to only one girl at this school, and she has made application to Otterbein. I hope she will be admitted, as it will be a personal victory for me.

"How much do you study?"

"Several questions predominated in the visits I made. Of course there were questions about procedure for admission. Financial aid and scholarship were two other areas of importance. The fellows were interested in sports and the team records from the past few years. I wasn't too fluent about sports, but I tried. The building program concerned the students, and of course the increase in the fees for next year.

One question I could never escape: 'How much do you have to study?' The basic fear seemed to be the fear of not being academically successful in college. The religion requirement raised several questions."

Mary says this was "without doubt the most rewarding job" she has ever had, and she hopes that the benefits she has reaped will be matched by the response of prospective students. According to Mr. Witt, a significant number of 1969 freshmen have been enrolled because of contact with the Otterbein students. At least three of those Mary visited have already been accepted. The experiment was successful.

Harold Boda Retires

"Dr. Harold Boda stands as a symbol of what the Christian liberal arts college can do for the young people who attend it. As a student he gained here an intellectual competency which carried him to the top of his profession. He confirmed a faith which still characterizes him as a churchman and a community leader. He caught a vision of life as dedication — to his fellow-men, to his alma mater, to his city, to his God.

"Doctor Boda has been a tower of strength on the Otterbein College board of trustees since he was first elected to it by the alumni in 1948. When Dr. Vance Cribbs' sudden death in 1962 deprived the board of its chairman, Doctor Boda was elected to fill the vacancy and he has given the board superb leadership during the past six years. These have been years of rapid and startling change, requiring bold decisions and persistent courage. Doctor Boda has supplied these qualities in every crisis, as well as in the month-to-month exigencies of college operation. Otterbein owes the progress she has made in this decade to his leadership of the board and the strong support which other able trustees have given her.

"It is a precious privilege for a man to serve his alma mater as Doctor Boda has done and is doing. And it has been a tremendous help to have his support and his guidance as we work together for a greater Otterbein."

Doctor and Mrs. Boda are the parents of Carolyn (Mrs. Richard Bridgman), a member of the class of 1950.

Effective Administrator

Otterbein alumni teaching under his direction have commented on their association with him. Excerpts from their statements follow:

Rosa Rubino Bucco wrote: "He exemplifies the true spirit of the dedicated educator, one whose life has been unselfishly devoted to the betterment of our educational system . . .

so that all children can receive the best education possible."

Ruth M. Koontz: "He has always given of himself unstintingly . . . friendly, approachable and willing to hear, discuss and consider the teacher's point of view."

Mary Mumma Messmer: "Your sincerity and judgment in dealing with the West Side schools was questioned the least by those of us teaching there . . . You seemed able to discard the more flimsy attitudes in favor of what proved to be enduring well qualified methods."

James Eschbach: "Underlying his work has remained a faith in human personality."

Dale Andrews: "He always reflected the highest standards in professional administration in a humble way."

Kathryn Moore Hohn: "After an acquaintance with Doctor Boda which spans thirty-three years, I have found him . . . kind and considerate to all fortunate enough to know him."

Chloe Niswinger: "The ethics and integrity of Doctor Boda were such that no committee need worry that its work had been in vain . . ."

Carolyn Carbaugh Schwarzkopf: "He is going to be greatly missed by all."

Influential Educator

"The retirement of Harold L. Boda marks the end of a remarkable career of leadership from primary through higher education at the local, state and national levels. Mr. Boda is one of the most respected curriculum administrators in the country." The words are those of Superintendent Wayne M. Carle of the Dayton Public Schools and the occasion was the retirement on February 1 of Dr. Harold L. Boda, '25, Assistant Superintendent for Instruction.

"He epitomizes the professional educator — as scholar, writer, leader, colleague and humanitarian," Mr. Carle continued. "His contributions will long influence the course of education in Dayton and broaden learning opportunities for thousands of boys and girls."

THE DAYTON JOURNAL HERALD stated that he was absent from the school board meeting when his retirement letter was read. "He's that kind of man," reported the newspaper. "Boda, who has spent 37 years in the Dayton school system, shuns publicity and does his job quietly, behind the scenes."

Courageous Trustee

Otterbein President Lynn W. Turner has written of him:

Harold L. Boda

- B. A. Otterbein College, 1925
- M. A. Ohio State University, 1930
- Ed. D., Honorary Degree, Otterbein, 1944
- Distinguished Alumnus, Otterbein, 1967
- Assistant Superintendent, Dayton Public Schools, since 1940
- Member, Otterbein Board of Trustees, since 1948.

Outstanding Young Women

The Alumni Office has been notified of the inclusion of six young Otterbein graduates in the 1968 edition of the annual OUTSTANDING YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA. According to Mrs. Esther Peterson, Assistant Secretary of Labor, these women "are in the tradition of women who combine the best virtues — vision, vitality, and personal strength. They are lighting the way for more and more truly developed women of tomorrow." Guidelines for selection include unselfish service to others, charitable activities, community service, professional excellence, business advancement, and civic and professional recognition. Nominations are made by women's associations and alumni associations for women between 21 and 35 years of age.

Chosen for the 1968 publication are Janet Christy Chamberlin, '60, Judith Reighard Graffius, '62, Judith Stone Olin, '62, Janis Peri, '64, Carol Shook Rufener, '63, and Alberta M. Wiseman, '61.

Janet Christy Chamberlin (Mrs. John) is serving on the faculty of Western Kentucky University (now only part time since the birth of her daughter, Kimberley). She holds a master's degree from The Ohio State University, and formerly taught French at Otterbein. She was a participant in study programs in both France and Spain, and spent two summers studying French in Quebec.

A member of the Christ Methodist Choir of Bowling Green, Kentucky, she has also been a Sunday School officer and teacher. Her husband is also a member of the Western Kentucky faculty, and they have lived in Bowling Green for four years.

Dr. Judith Reighard Graffius (Mrs. Herbert), assistant professor of botany at Ohio University, is working under a research grant on "light and electron microscopic investigations on mosses." She teaches classes in biology, botany, morphology, plant microtechnique and a new course on plant ultrastructure. She is chairman of the department's honors committee and has served on dissertation committees for two M. S. candidates.

She has seven publications and three abstracts to her credit in addition to three papers given at scientific meetings. During the past year she has been named to "Leaders in American Science" and "Distinguished Personalities of the West and Midwest." She holds membership in the Botanical Society of America, American Microscopical Society, American Institute of Biological Sciences, Sigma Delta Epsilon, Sigma Xi and Phi Sigma. She received the Ph. D. in botany from the University of Illinois in 1967.

Mrs. Chamberlin in the Otterbein French Lab

Judith Stone Olin (Mrs. Gary) is a graduate of United Theological Seminary and is ordained as an elder in the Ohio Miami Conference of the (then) E. U. B. Church. She is officially on leave from the conference to serve as a full-time mother of two children and assist her husband in his ministry as pastor of the Twin Falls (Ohio) United Methodist Church.

Judith assumes a leadership role in the W. S. C. S.; the Church School, where she teaches a sixth grade class; and a leadership education program in the new church which resulted from a merger of two congregations.

Janis Peri (Janice Perry) has been chosen to sing at the Library and Museum of Performing Arts at Lincoln Center on Wednesday evening, June 11. Her recital will feature the New York premiere of "The Death of Children" by Ronald Herder, music editor for Schirmer's and prominent composer.

Miss Peri was the national winner in 1967 of the $2500 Kate Kinley Neal Foundation Award, one of the most coveted awards available to young musicians, artists and sculptors. She earned the M. Mus. degree from Miami University in 1966 and did special work at Oberlin College.

She is now a pupil of Alexander Lorber (Jan Peerce's teacher), and is studying acting at Clark Center of Performing Arts. She will be studying next fall at the Manhattan School of Music.

Miss Wiseman

Miss Peri

Mrs. Graffius

Mrs. Olin

Earlier this year she sang with the New School Opera Workshop, and she is soprano soloist at St. Paul's Chapel Choir on the Columbia campus. Future plans include a guest appearance in 1970 at Barnard College, where she will sing the role of Magda Sorel in the Menotti opera, "The Consul."

Since last August, Carol Shook Rufener (Mrs. Richard) has been employed at First National City Bank on Wall Street as the training director for the operating group. She is responsible for management, supervisory and clerical skills development training. She previously worked in an OEO project for adult migrant workers in Mathis, Texas, as coordinator of its educational program. During a two-year stay in San Antonio she served as a language training instructor at the Defense Language Institute, teaching English to foreign military personnel.

She is working toward an M. B. A. at New York University Graduate School of Business, is a member of the American Society of Training Directors, is active in AAUW, has helped organize adult discussion groups for local churches, and participated in an original Christmas drama at Faith Methodist Church last December.

Alberta Wiseman is in love with her job as a case worker and coordinator of Day Care Services and Homemaker Services for the Franklin County Child Welfare Board. With headquarters at Franklin Village in Columbus, she works with dependent and neglected children and their families. As a protective and preventive measure, she has developed the homemaker services and supervises nine women who work to help prevent family break-up.

Miss Wiseman is a member of the First Community Church and its choir, and for three years has served as a counselor for a group of eighth graders who are preparing for church membership. Meeting twice a month, the group places its emphasis on personal problems and the ways in which the church can help.

Another of Miss Wiseman's enthusiasms is the church-sponsored Vaud-Villities, in which she sings in the women's glee club and serves as chairman of the costuming committee — providing for as many as 800 men's and women's outfits for the annual musical.

on and off the campus

James E. Walter

Speakers Announced

Two alumni are included on the list of speakers during the Spring Term. Colonel Evan Schear, '44, will be the Founders' Day speaker on April 28. Colonel Schear is a surgeon with the aerospace program, is the immediate past president of the Society of Air Force Clinical Surgeons and of the San Antonio Chapter of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

Dr. James E. Walter, '29, will be the Commencement speaker on Sunday, June 15. He is president of Piedmont College, Georgia, and a former pastor of the Congregational Church.

The Baccalaureate speaker will be the Reverend Mr. Quentin Lansman of Dayton. He is the father of Marlene Lansman, a member of the graduating class, and Roger, a freshman. Mr. Lansman is in residence for a Ph. D. at Northwestern University and will be associated with the United Methodist Church's general offices in Nashville, Tennessee.

An Apology

The Development Office regrets the omission of the names of Dr. and Mrs. George Biggs and Mr. and Mrs. John Hicks from the Centurion Club list in the recently printed "Honor Roll of Contributors." These alumni have made generous gifts to the college for many years, and the omission was entirely unintentional.

Turner Writes Chapter

President Lynn W. Turner has received an honorarium of $1,000 for the chapter he wrote for the forthcoming "Presidential Elections," to be published by Lochsley Hall. The Turners have given the sum to the college to be applied on the new library building. Editors of the volume are Fred Israel and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. Doctor Turner's chapter is on the 1816 and 1820 elections, the period in which he is a specialist.

David Rike Honored

President L. W. Turner, Vice President J. V. Miller and a number of alumni attended a dinner on February 18 of the Newcomen Society honoring Dr. David L. Rike and celebrating the 116th anniversary of the Rike-Kumler Store in Dayton. Doctor Rike's grandfather, who founded the company in 1853, was a generous friend of Otterbein and was a trustee from 1879 to 1895. His father was a member of the class of 1888, and served on the Board from 1893 to 1946. The present David Rike became the third generation president of the company in 1947. Otterbein conferred the honorary Doctor of Laws upon him in 1965, in recognition of his eminence in his field and his friendship for the college.

Matching Gifts Available

Some time ago TOWERS carried a list of corporations which encourage giving to private colleges by matching the gifts of their employees. Of the nearly 300 firms which have such plans, Otterbein has received many matching gifts during the past few years.

If you (or your spouse) are connected with a firm which makes matching gifts, be sure that you report this to the college and secure whatever documentation may be required in order for Otterbein to claim a matching contribution. Your own gift will thus be doubly valuable to "the college of your choice."

Forensic Teams First in State

Otterbein's debate team placed first in the 30th Annual Ohio Four-Man State Championship Debating Tournament on February 21 at Capital University. The team was judged first in the state on the basis of speaker points, and had nine wins and three losses in the two-day competition. Eighteen Ohio colleges participated in the event.

The team is composed of Randy Carlisle, Wooster; Luci Smith, Columbus; Ted Jones, Cincinnati; and Bob Fortner, Indianapolis. The debate topic was "Resolved: The Executive Control of U. S. Foreign Policy Should be Significantly Curtailed."

Randy Carlisle and Bob Fortner also placed first in the Duquesne Debate Tournament held on November 23.

Rusty Bolin was another state winner, when he was awarded first place in oral interpretation of twentieth century prose, in the Ohio Men's Individual Events Championship event. The meet was held at Heidelberg College on January 17 and 18, with thirteen colleges participating. Doug Redding took second place in extemporaneous speaking, Bob Fortner placed second in original oratory, and Mark Smythe placed second in manuscript reading.

In the Women's State Championship held December 6 and 7 at Ohio University, Karen Beiner took second place in peace oratory and Nancy Scott placed third in extemporaneous speaking.

Fee Increase Announced

In a move to balance increased salaries, departmental expenditures and maintenance costs, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees has announced a $300 raise in the comprehensive fee for the 1969-70 year. The new comprehensive fee will amount to $2,800, including room and board, for resident students; and $2,050, excluding room and board, for off-campus students.

"Many of our sister colleges are announcing increases for next year similar to ours and some have already raised their charges above $3,000," President Turner indicated. "Even tax-supported institutions are making upward revisions of their fees," he said. A recent study shows that Otterbein ranks 20th out of 43 private colleges and universities in Ohio in comprehensive fee charges.

Charles W. Dodrill

Listed Among "Top Ten" in Area

Dr. Charles W. Dodrill has been named by the Columbus CITIZEN-JOURNAL as one of the Top Ten Men in the Columbus area. Others on the list include Woody Hayes and astronaut Donn Eisele. The paper, in making the announcement, said of Dodrill:

"He has thrust the institution's theatre program into the national spotlight as well as earning acclaim for himself. Dodrill is a pioneer in a guest star program where each year an outstanding personality works with Otterbein students. In addition to directing 35 major theatre productions at Otterbein he initiated the summer theatre program two years ago. He is currently president of the Ohio Speech Association and of the Greater Columbus Arts Council."

The guest star program has brought to the campus such stars as Hans Conried, Ed Begley, Arnold Moss, Viveca Lindfors, Kim Hunter, Albert Dekker, Walter Abel and (this year) Pat Hingle.

Doctor Dodrill is a graduate of Glenville State College, and holds a master's degree from the University of Kansas and the Ph. D. from the Ohio State University. He has been on the Otterbein faculty since 1958.

Team Ends Season With 6-6 Conference Record

Try as they might the Otterbein College basketball team couldn't quite hurdle the .500 mark this season and concluded the 1968-69 season with a 9-11 record (6-6 in the Ohio Conference).

In other winter sports activity the wrestling team finished 0-8-1 while the indoor track team ended its season March 15 with a quadrangular meet at Denison along with Oberlin and Wooster.

Both the basketball and wrestling teams were better than their records indicated. The cage squad, which operated under two coaches during the campaign, suffered six of its 11 losses by three points or less — two were in overtime — and lost its leading scorer early in the year.

Coach Curt Tong handled the team through its first five games before taking a winter term sabbatical leave and turning the squad over to Acting Coach Dick Fishbaugh for the remainder of the season. Tong spent his sabbatical in Ecuador conducting a series of sports clinics for the Peace Corps.

The wrestling team gained its tie with Capital (21-21) and narrowly missed gaining victories over Mount Union (24-21) and Marietta (18-17). They scored three points in the Ohio Conference Tournament.

Best individual record was turned in by freshman Pete Noble, Johnstown, Pa., competing in the 115-lb. class, who finished with a 6-2 mark. Sophomore Mike Dear, Pataskala, won two matches in the tournament, and another soph, Co-Captain Ken Schmitt, Whitehall, earned one tournament win.

Despite the numerous and narrow defeats suffered by the basketball team, the cage season had its highlights including Lorenzo Hunt's career-high 39 points against New Hampshire College on the eastern trip in December, and the come-from-behind 92-91 victory over Kenyon and Little All-American John Rinka.

The Cardinals' most impressive victory was the 91-70 annihilation of Akron in the winter homecoming game. Led by Hunt's 29 points the Tan and Cardinal cagers maintained their homecourt hex over Akron by making it three consecutive wins at Alumni Gym.

An indication of the better things next season was noted in the final statistics, which reveal all three offensive team leaders returning. Hunt's 396 points and 207 rebounds paced both of those departments.

Freshman Don Manly, Westerville (formerly Newton Falls), claimed the team's best field goal percentage (45 of 97 for .464), while sophomore Dan Helton, Marengo (Buckeye Valley) had the best free-throw percentage (31 of 41 for .756).

The Cardinals also hope to have sophomore Jim Augspurger, Dayton (Wayne), back. Augspurger was the team's leading scorer through eight games with a 20.0 average before suffering a badly strained knee. He saw brief action in the Capital game three days later but then sat out the remainder of the season.

Three Win Honors

Despite their "off and on" play over the past campaign three members of the 1968-69 Otterbein College basketball team have been accorded post-season honors.

Junior forward Lorenzo Hunt, a 6-3 sharp shooter from Jamaica, N.Y., was named to the five-man All-Ohio Conference first team in balloting by the league's 14 head coaches. Senior Captain Jim McKee, 6-6 center from Groveport, gained second team recognition.

Both McKee and soph Jim Augspurger, Dayton (Wayne) made the list of top 10 opponents picked by the Marietta College cage team over the past season. Augspurger appeared on this list after scoring 15 points and grabbing 13 rebounds but missing most of the second half with a strained knee.

Hunt concluded a most impressive season for the Cardinal cagers by scoring 396 points averaging out to 19.8 for the 20-game schedule. He also grabbed 207 rebounds for a 10.4 average. Both were individual highs for the Cards.

In career scoring the smooth operating Hunt now has 936 points in 66 games (14.2 average) over three seasons, making him sixth on the list of Otterbein's all-time top point makers. During his senior year Hunt should move up to the second spot, right behind former Little All-American Don Carlos who had an eye-popping 2543 total.

Jim McKee closed out a sparkling four-year cage career at Otterbein as the school's third leading scorer with a total of 1074 points in 87 games to average 12.3 per game. In the 18 contests in which he played this season McKee meshed 301 points for a 16.7 average.

Given Service Award

Dr. Royal F. Martin

Dr. Royal F. Martin, '14, emeritus professor of physical education at Otterbein, has been awarded a Five-Year Meritorious Service Award by the Ohio Athletic Conference. The award was made at a March 13 dinner in the Campus Center concluding a three-day series of OAC meetings at Otterbein.

The award was one of a group conferred by the conference upon athletic directors and faculty representatives no longer active in that capacity who had served the conference for at least five years.

Dr. Martin easily qualified for the award as he served Otterbein as athletic director for 26 years from 1926 to 1952. During that period he was elected to a two-year term as sixth president of the Ohio Athletic Conference from 1937 to 1939.

Teams to go South

Three of Otterbein's spring sports teams will venture south of the Mason-Dixon line this spring over the inter-term break to prepare for later competition with Ohio opponents.

Coach Dick Fishbaugh's baseball team will face four different North Carolina schools in a total of six exhibition games, March 22-28. The teams will be Winston-Salem, High Point, Guilford, and Elon.

Making their first spring trip to sunnier climes will be the track team under the guidance of Coach Elmer (Bud) Yoest. The cindermen will be staying near the Florida State campus at Tallahassee, and will use the FSU facilities for daily workouts. Denison's track team will be at Florida State at the same time.

The third team to make the southern swing will be Coach Bob (Moe) Agler's golf squad which will make its headquarters near Sarasota, and play a series of tune-up matches prior to the opening of their regular season in Ohio.

Otterbein Grads Have Successful Seasons

Otterbein has long been known for the number of outstanding coaches who have gone forth from its health and physical education program, recognized as one of the tops in small college circles.

The success of one group of high school basketball mentors was most obvious this season in Central Ohio where coaches of three league champions were Otterbein graduates.

Veteran London High Coach Ray Chadwell, '50, produced his third Mid-Eight League champ. His Red Raiders ran up an impressive 19-2 mark before finally bowing to powerful Columbus East in Class "AA" Central District Tournament play.

Dave Holland, '58, saw his West Jefferson squad take the Metro League crown this season; and Tim Pond, '67, led Columbus Watterson to an 11-6 record and a Central Catholic League title.

This was Pond's first season as head coach at his high school alma mater. Last year he coached at Dublin, a Class "A" Franklin County school. Pond's record of playing in 94 games and getting 75 consecutive starting assignments continues to stand out in the Otterbein record book.

Will Coach Baseball In Columbus

The Columbus City League will open its baseball campaign this spring with two Otterbein graduates in new coaching roles. Fred Nocera, '58, takes over as head coach at Whetstone High while Steve Moeller, '66, assumes the assistant's post at Walnut Ridge High.

Nocera joined the Columbus City Schools last fall after five years as baseball coach and athletic director at Mifflin High, a Columbus suburban school.

Moeller has been at Walnut Ridge for three years since graduating from Otterbein. He has been an assistant football and reserve basketball coach, as well as officiating in several sports.

To Head Sandusky Coaching Staff

Gene Kidwell, '62, has been named head football coach at Sandusky High School, one of the top prep grid teams in the state. Two other Otterbein grads will be members of his coaching staff next fall.

Assisting Kidwell with his new duties will be Gary Reynolds and John Shields, both members of the class of '64. Reynolds will become varsity backfield coach while Shields will take over the sophomore program formerly handled by Reynolds. All three are currently on the Sandusky staff.

Kidwell, who has been at Sandusky for seven years, succeeds Bob Reublin who took an assistant's post at Miami University. A native of Miami, Kidwell was a standout halfback in football and also a topnotch sprinter on the track team while at Otterbein.

Kidwell is married to the former Mary Ann Hamilton, x'64. The couple has two children, Douglas, 5; and Beth, 2.

Robert L. Hastings

With Publishing Firm

Robert L. Hastings, '54, was recently appointed national field director for the Taylor Publishing Company at Covina, California. Prior to this appointment, he was midwest regional sales manager for the American Yearbook Company with offices in Chicago.

His other professional experience includes six years as headfootball and assistant basketball coach in Ohio high schools, where he also taught English, speech and dramatic arts. He majored in speech and dramatics at Otterbein and holds an M. A. degree in education from Wittenberg University. He also attended Miami University and the New York Television Workshop.

Bob is married to the former Margaret (Micky McClure, '54), and they have three sons, Robert Ralph, 9; Timothy Lee, 5; and Joseph McClure, aged six months.

Wayne Barr in Berkeley

Do Otterbein alumni really "go where the action is"? We offer the example of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Barr, '43 (June Neilson, '44), who are spending a year in Berkeley, California. Wayne is on leave from his professorship in Old Testament Interpretation at United Seminary, and holds a Faculty Fellowship Grant from the American Association of Theological Schools.

He is studying at the Graduate Theological Union (composed of ten seminaries in the area) and at the University of California. He finds the whole Bay Area a laboratory in social revolution, furnishing a constantly stimulating environment for analysis of issues involved in his special interest in the relationship between Old Testament theology and social change.

Mrs. Barr is on leave from Madison Township Junior High School in Trotwood, Ohio, and is also doing some work in innovative education. Their son Bob is involved in his sophomore year in the experimental atmosphere of Berkeley High School, and their son John is a freshman at Brown University. Their daughter Anne is a 1968 graduate of Otterbein and teaches second grade in Gahanna.

The Barrs are members of the Fairview United Methodist Church in Dayton and concerned citizens in the Dayton View neighborhood, particularly in a group called MALACHI, an experimental movement in Christian ministry and lay education in the Dayton area. Doctor Barr holds a B. D. degree from United Seminary and a Ph. D. from the University of Chicago (1963). Both Wayne and June spent two years in a non-degree program at Yale University (1948-50), and he has been on the United faculty since 1951.

Tony E. Hugli

At Rockefeller University

Dr. Tony E. Hugli, '63, is enjoying a post-doctoral appointment as Research Associate at the Rockefeller University in New York City. His current research involves an investigation of the functional properties of a protein (deoxyribonuclease I) which specifically breaks down polydeoxyribonucleic acid (DNA), the cell's genetic code material.

Tony and his wife (Judith Ann Furay, '63) have spent the past five years in Indiana. He attended the Indiana Medical Center as a graduate student in biochemistry from September, 1963 to July, 1966. From that time until June, 1968, he attended Indiana University at Bloomington, and received the Ph. D. in biochemistry. His thesis was entitled "A Crystal-Solution Comparison for Sperm Whale Metmyoglobin," and a preliminary report on the research was communicated at a convention of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biologists in its April meeting.

In a somewhat less serious endeavor, Tony reports that he and Judith have graduated from a self-defense program, including lessons in judo and karate, with emphasis on defense against both. He finds the skills relaxing during thesis preparation, and says that to this point they have been able to enjoy the many offerings of New York City without practicing their newly acquired talents.

H. William Troop with Class

Troop Helps Train for Employment

A special assembly was held at Columbus East High School last May to recognize the first eleven students to complete a six-month training course in Principles and Practices of Financial Institutions. On the program were William S. Guthrie, chairman of the board and president of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association, John W. Galbreath, president of the Galbreath Company, and H. William Troop, '50, who has been promoted to the office of Branch Coordinator of Buckeye Federal.

The special course, originated and still directed by Mr. Troop, prepares the young people for jobs in financial institutions after graduation. The students spend three hours a week at the Buckeye offices for orientation to the business world, and are placed in part-time and summer jobs in banks and savings and loan companies cooperating with Buckeye.

The idea was conceived in 1967 when Bill opened and served as Manager of the Mount Vernon Avenue Office of the association. There he became aware not only of the benefit his company was providing as the only banking institution in the neighborhood, but also of the acute need to train the young people for employment. An important by-product of the course is a knowledge of the principles of money management, often non-existent in the inner-city environment.

Mr. Troop joined Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association in 1964 when it merged with the Westerville Home Savings Company, of which he was Executive Vice President. He served as Branch Manager and Senior Branch Manager of the Westerville office until November, 1967, when he opened the Mount Vernon Avenue office and managed it until July, 1968, when he was named Branch Coordinator.

In his present position, he coordinates activities in all nine neighborhood offices with the various main office departments of the association. His talents are also being used in television commercials, where he is the "face and voice" of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association.

A graduate of the Savings and Loan League Institute, Bill is a dedicated public servant as well. He is a member and past president of the Westerville Board of Education, chairman of the board of the North Branch of the YMCA, a member of the Scottish Rite Choir of Columbus, and the choir and finance committee of the Westerville United Methodist Church of the Master. He is also active in Rotary, American Legion, PTA, and the "O" Club.

He and his wife (Jean Wyker, '49) are loyal alumni and serve the college in many ways. They are the parents of two children, Eric, eleven, and Kyle, five and a half.

Seminar Participant

Dr. Ralph L. Pounds, '31, Professor of Education and Head of the Department of Educational Foundations at the University of Cincinnati, is a member of the 1969 Comparative Education Seminar in secondary and higher education. This seminar will go overseas in March to study in England, The Soviet Union, Austria and West Berlin.

Doctor Pounds, a member of the Board of Trustees of Otterbein in 1966 was a delegate to the E.U.B. General Conference in Chicago and to the Dallas Uniting General Conference of the United Methodist Church in 1968. At the North Central Jurisdictional Conference in Peoria, Illinois in the summer of 1968, he was elected a member of the Board of Education of the United Methodist Church. At its organizational meeting in St. Louis in September, he was elected Chairman of the Committee on Learning Resources, Research and Development of the Division of the Local Church, and he serves on the executive committee of the Board. Dr. Pounds has also been appointed a member of the United Crusade Scholarship Committee of the United Methodist Church dealing with the awarding of study scholarships in higher education to students from overseas and to members of minority groups in the United States.

Glynn Turquand

Heads School in Japan

Dr. Glynn Turquand, '54, is principal of Chofu Elementary School, which has an enrollment of 1750 students, the largest of the schools in Japan under the auspices of the Department of Defense Overseas Schools, and the most recently built. It is located in a new housing complex near Tokyo.

Glynn tells an interesting story of his experience in being evacuated from Iraq during the Middle East crisis in June, 1967. He was then principal of an American Embassy school in Baghdad, and reports that he had previously been kicked out of classes and other places before, but that this was his first time to be ordered out of a country. When all British and Americans were told to leave, the airports were closed and they had to drive over the mountains to Iran, where women and children were airlifted to Teheran. Many of the men, including Glynn, drove the entire way.

After returning to his home in California, he worked full time on completing his dissertation, was granted his degree on July 29, 1968, was married on August 10, and left for Japan on August 11, with a ten-day honeymoon on the islands of Maui and Oahu, Hawaii.

Doctor Turquand was previously an elementary teacher in Los Angeles and spent two years in Japan as an elementary principal from 1962 to 1964. He received the M. S. in guidance and counseling from the University of Colorado, and his doctorate from the University of Southern California.

Dr. Donald R. Martin, '37, vice president for research for the Harshaw Chemical Company, has been named professor and head of the chemistry department at the University of Texas at Arlington. The appointment was effective February 1.

Dean Peter R. Girardot stated that Doctor Martin's breadth of experience and capabilities would materially aid the department in its rapid growth in graduate programs. "UTA is fortunate to have a man of established reputation to lead in the new phase of development," he said.

Doctor Martin holds both the M. S. and the Ph. D. from Western Reserve University, where he served as a graduate assistant and lecturer, and as laboratory manager and chief chemist for the Naval Reserve Laboratory Project.

From 1943 to 1951 he was a member of the chemistry faculty of the University of Illinois. He has also been associate director of the fuels research energy division of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Company in Niagara Falls, and director of research for Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

In 1961 he was named director of technical development of the Harshaw Chemical Company's inorganic division in Cleveland. He was appointed director of chemical research for the firm two years later, and became vice president for research and development in 1967.

Doctor Martin is a member of the American Chemical Society and was a member of its inorganic chemistry executive committee from 1958 to 1963 and its chairman in 1962. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and belongs to a number of other professional and learned societies. He is co-author of "Boron Trifluoride and Its Derivatives," published in 1949, and has contributed to sixteen other books and two laboratory manuals, and has written more than two dozen articles for professional journals.

Donald and his wife (Katherine Newton, '37) have two sons, Donald R. II, '63, and Thomas, '66.

Richard W. Shoemaker

Executive Director Of New Association

President Harold L. Yochum of Capital University has announced the formation of a new organization, The Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Ohio (AICUO), and has named Richard W. Shoemaker, '48, as executive director.

The major outcome of a recent meeting was the position taken by the Board concerning student financial assistance in Ohio's colleges and universities. The AICUO is in favor of a state grant program available to students resident in Ohio attending either public or private institutions of higher education in Ohio, such a program to be based on the financial need of the student as measured by the ability of the family to pay and the instructional charges of the institution.

Officers of the new association include Doctor Yochum, president; President Raymond A. Roesch, University of Dayton, vice president; President Frank E. Duddy, Marietta College, secretary; and President Elmer Jagow, Hiram College, treasurer. Membership in the group is open to all private and independent colleges who are members of the Ohio College Association, and most of these, including Otterbein, participated in its founding.

Executive Director Shoemaker assumes his duties after serving since 1963 as field secretary and executive secretary of the Ohio Information Committee, a statewide independent and non-partisan political action organization dedicated to preserving political-economic balance and strengthening free enterprise. He previously served as a producer and director of WBNS-TV, and as public affairs director of the same studio.

Dick got his start in broadcasting and public relations at Otterbein, where he helped to start the college recording studio which later became WOBC, and still later, WOBN. He also worked on Station WOSU and received a master of education degree in radio-TV education in 1953 from the Ohio State University.

He and his wife (Marion Daniels, '49) are active in Maple Grove United Methodist Church, where he has served as a member of the Commission on Education. He is also a trustee of "Sing Out Columbus" and works in other civic organizations, scouting, Civil Defense, PTA, and Armed Forces Community Relations Council. The Shoemakers and their two daughters and one son live in Columbus.

Metzler Designated Outstanding Educator

Donald Metzler, '58, described by his superior as "one of the most promising young educators in the state," was named the Outstanding Young Educator of Pickaway County for 1969, according to THE CIRCLEVILLE HERALD.

The recognition was given by the Jaycees, and the choice was made on the basis of his professional skills, contributions to the community and profession and the recommendation of his superiors. Mr. Metzler serves as supervisor of the Circleville City Schools, working with teachers as a resource person, providing them with new approaches, making recommendations, counseling students and coordinating activities.

He is also testing coordinator of the special education programs, chairman of the family life education committee, coordinator of summer school and coordinator of the adult basic education program.

Metzler was a music teacher when he first began teaching, but has specialized since that time in elementary education. He holds a master's degree from Ohio State University and is pursuing further work there. Music is still his hobby, and he enjoys playing the piano for his wife and two sons. In addition, he gives music lessons on the weekends.

His major outside activity is church work. He is chairman of the administrative board of his church, a Sunday School teacher, lay delegate to the annual conference, church organist and chairman of the pastor-parish committee.

He is married to the former Shirley Fritz, '50, and they are the parents of two children, Deborah and David.

Briant Sando

Publisher in California

TOWERS is grateful to Sphinx fraternity for information about Briant (Sandy) Sando, '13, who has been located in Orange, California, (near Disneyland) for the past 18 years as owner and publisher of several business magazines. Prior to that he lived in Indianapolis, New York City, and Louisville, operating advertising and sales offices. Among his clients and friends have been such personages as Dale Carnegie and Elmer Wheeler, the "Sizzle Salesman." His writings have appeared in leading publications and he has spoken before business groups from coast to coast.

Among his honors: President of the Advertising Club in both Indianapolis and Louisville, and vice president of the Louisville Sales Executive Council. He holds a commission as Honorary "Kentucky Colonel," and is currently serving as President of the Rotary Club in Orange.

Born and reared in Potsdam, Ohio (which he says is "between life and death") Sando worked his way through Otterbein by raising and showing prize chickens and then writing about the poultry industry in farm papers.

In Otterbein he was a member of the Glee Club, played a little scrub baseball and basketball and was captain of the tennis team. But his two main loves in Otterbein were Pi Beta Sigma and a girl by the name of Anne Miller, M'13 whom he married soon after graduation. They are still healthy and happy in sunny California. They have one son, Briant, Jr., who is in the printing business in Indianapolis. He also met and married a girl named Anne in Ursinus College.

Robert Barr Named At Sinclair College

Robert C. Barr, '50, popular past president of the Otterbein Alumni Association, has been appointed director of public information at Sinclair Community College, according to President Marvin C. Knudson.

He will coordinate publications and information, be responsible for the annual catalog, and direct the development efforts of the college. He was director of merchandising for the Evangelical United Brethren Board of Publications from 1964 to 1966, and since that time has been assistant publisher. He was formerly a buyer and department manager at the Rike-Kumler Department Store in Dayton, and holds a degree from the College of Commerce at Ohio State University.

It was while Bob was attending Ohio State and his fiancée (Barbara Schutz, '51) was completing her senior year at Otterbein that he won $500 in a contest sponsored by the Columbus DISPATCH. It was honeymoon money for the Barrs, who were married in June of that year, and who now have two daughters, Melissa, aged 12, and Laurie, 9.

Bob is a member of the Belmont United Methodist Church, holds such community responsibilities as the chairmanship of the Y. M. C. A. Camp Board, membership on the Ohio-West Virginia Area Y. M. C. A. Council and membership in the Dayton Rotary Club. He has participated in various Y membership drives and world service and United Fund campaigns.

Carlos with Mavericks

Don Carlos, former Little All-American cager for Otterbein, has gained a starting berth at guard this season with the Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball Association.

Otterbein's all-time scoring leader joined the Mavericks this season after averaging 23.8 points a game and gaining Rookie of the Year honors last year with Hartford (Conn.) of the Eastern League.

The 6-4 Carlos, who played center during his collegiate career, has been used at both guard and forward by Houston. In two consecutive games earlier this season he scored 28 points and pulled down 12 rebounds against Denver followed by 20 points and 14 rebounds against Los Angeles.

Earl R. Hoover

Senior Vice President At Shaker Savings

Earl R. Hoover, '26, who has served for the past eighteen years as Judge of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, was defeated in the last election, and has assumed new duties as Senior Vice President of the Shaker Savings Association, the fifth largest institution of its kind in Ohio. He will specialize in writing, speaking, and promotion, a field which will make use of other than legal talents.

Judge Hoover has been widely quoted in law books. Near the end of his tenure, a new edition of the leading treatise on "Contracts," by Williston of Harvard, used fifteen pages to discuss his decision in the Arthur Murray Dance Studio Case. Many of his other opinions are carried in texts used in leading law schools.

His articles on Otterbein's Benjamin Hanby and on his latest discovery, J. E. Spilman, composer of "Flow Gently Sweet Afton" and "Away in a Manger," have been published in a number of magazines, journals and newspapers.

Always deeply interested in local history, Judge Hoover was elected last year as a trustee of the century-old Western Reserve Historical Society. His civic activities include service in the Cleveland Roundtable, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Cleveland Church Federation, Citizens Bureau, City Club, and on boards of the Boy Scouts, Cleveland Law Library, Nationality Services Center, Neighborhood Settlement Association, and many others. He is a past president of the Otterbein Alumni Association, and has served for many years as an alumni member of the board of trustees of the college.

Cornell University's new eleven-story agronomy tower shown above was named Bradfield Hall in honor of Dr. Richard Bradfield, '17, who was featured in a recent TOWERS article for his work with the International Rice Research Institute in Manila. Doctor Bradfield is a professor emeritus of the New York State College of agriculture at Cornell, and was head of the department of agronomy for 18 years. The adjoining three-storied Emerson Hall was named for the late Prof. Rollins A. Emerson. Doctor Bradfield participated in dedication ceremonies on December 5 for the 6.2 million dollar complex.

The Class Of 1968
