tell it like it is ?

We have borrowed the "tell it like it is" logo from the T. and C. — just for this issue. We might decide to use such a title as "Action Line" — "Hot Line" — "What's It?" — "Straight from the Horse's Mouth"—or simply "Dear Editor." Perhaps you would like to suggest a name!

A suggestion has been made by a new "Committee to Improve Communications between Alumni and the College" (more about the committee later!) that TOWERS carry a question-and-answer column devoted to questions by alumni and answers by administrative officers, faculty and/or trustees.

How does this strike you? Are there things that bother you about Otterbein? Do you sometimes wonder how the college has changed since you were here? Are the changes for the better, or for the worse? Do you find it difficult to answer questions about which you are expected, as an alumnus, to be informed? Have you sometimes asked questions that were not completely answered — perhaps because they weren't asked of the right person?

Then this is your column! Write to Evelyn Bale, editor of TOWERS, Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio 43081. Call if you prefer. The college number is 882-3601, and Mrs. Bale's extension is 205. Your question will be referred to the person (or persons) best qualified to answer, and an answer will be given in TOWERS. Letters must be signed and the signer identified as a former student (graduate or non-graduate) of Otterbein. If you prefer that your name be omitted, we will identify you only as a member of a certain class.

Can Alumni Help in Recruiting Students?

We are inaugurating the column with an answer to questions by many alumni concerning admissions. One of the questions most often asked is: "Does the college want alumni to engage in student recruiting?" Corollaries are: "If so, how can this be done?" "What are the procedures by which students are recruited and admitted?" "How can I answer the inquiries of a prospective student or his parents?" "How can I as a teacher help?" "How does a prospective student apply for scholarship or other financial aid?"

We asked Michael Kish, Director of Admissions, to give a general answer to this type of question. If you have other specific questions along this line, you may direct them to him personally at the college, or write to the TOWERS editor.

Alumni Count

Recruiting students is a team effort at Otterbein. Members of our student body are presently our best recruiters and alumni appear to be next best in promoting their alma mater. The admissions staff is interested in attracting students from a wide geographical area, including foreign countries. Our itineraries take us to most of Ohio and ten states outside Ohio.

We in admissions visit as many high schools as we can, talking to prospective students and guidance counselors. We speak at college nights, participate on panels, talk to Youth Fellowship groups, visit in some homes, hold two high school days each year on campus, invite individuals and groups to Otterbein for tours and interviews, and do a multitude of other things to promote the college.

With the increase in fees and greater numbers of branch, junior and community colleges being built each year, the competition for students is becoming extremely keen.

It seems to me that the big task which confronts the college and her alumni is to bring larger numbers of prospective students to the campus early in their years so they can see us as we are.

Hints for Student Referral

1. Provide the admissions office with the name, address and vocational interest of your prospective student.
2. Remember that a student may apply as soon as he completes his junior year of high school.
3. Keep in mind that it is in his favor to rank in the top half of his class, to have respectable Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, and satisfactory references.
4. We are on a "rolling admissions" basis. This means that as soon as we receive a prospect's application, high school transcript after six semesters with class rank included, four references, and Scholastic Aptitude Test results, he will be notified of his status at Otterbein.
5. If financial assistance is in the picture, we require the Parents Confidential Statement to be completed. Once a student is accepted, he can be considered for financial aid.

We solicit your help! May we count on you?

Sincerely,
Michael Kish
Director of Admissions

Before the next issue of TOWERS, we will select a permanent title for this "column." Some suggestions appear above. What is your preference? Or do you have a suggestion to add to the list? Exercise your right of franchise! Vote for your favorite!

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

The help of our readers is earnestly requested in our task of collecting data for conversion of our records to electronic data processing. To develop a computer program for better service to the college and her friends, we must have updated information from all our alumni and friends.

Please turn to page 14 for details, then complete and return the forms to us promptly. (These can be detached from the magazine without disturbing other pages.)

You are invited to send your questions for answer in our new column, which appears on page 2. The column will be continued as long as interest is expressed in such a feature.

The photograph on our cover was taken by Dr. Frederic Bamforth, who retires in June after fifteen years on the Otterbein faculty. We are grateful for his permission to use this beautiful example of his superb art.

A New Look at an Old College

What happens in a college when "bold new" approaches are developed and accepted by the faculty? When a new curriculum and calendar are adopted after much soul-searching? When faculty members are urged to find new methods, to seek new ways in which to relate the age-old values of a Christian liberal arts education to the problems of a new era?

We wanted to know — and we asked a number of department chairmen to tell us about the "most exciting happenings" in their area during this first year of the 3/3 Plan. Many of their answers revealed a new direction of academe at Otterbein.

There are frequent evidences of increasing use of audio-visual materials and their development — student production of films — taped interviews with eminent scientists — of independent study and research by students — of data processing — of computer capability and computer science — of student participation in departmental planning — of new facilities — of renovation of existing ones — of new courses being developed — in the politics of emerging nations — in Negro history — in library use for scientists — of increased opportunities for foreign study — and, surely most important of all, there are indications of the growth of students — of their continuing outreach — of their never-ending hope to reach their true potential as world citizens.

Students Help Set the Pace

SAM is an active organization on the Otterbein campus, and its sponsoring department is proud of the fact that it has assumed an increased leadership role. Two financial projects prove that it is serious about the business of education.

SAM (Society for the Advancement of Management) was the first student organization to make a gift to the fund for the college's $2,000,000 library which is scheduled for completion in 1971. SAM's gift was a check in the amount of $100.

A second project is the inauguration of a fund for interest-free emergency loans for students in the department of economics and business administration (of which SAM is a part). The chapter has donated $100 for this purpose, a gift of $50 has been received from Mrs. Stanley Ross, widow of the late Dr. Stanley Ross, '16, former professor of economics at Smith College. Faculty members are matching the funds given by the students, and it is expected that future scholarship awards will be substantial.

Speaking of the impact of the 3/3 Plan on the department of economics and business administration, Mr. Mel Cua, assistant professor, indicated that in his business administration classes, three days a week are devoted to lecture, one day to laboratory, workshop and problem solving, and one day to study, with opportunity for individual counseling.

About 250 students are enrolled in the department, half of them majors. According to Mr. Cua, the "most exciting" happening this year has been the setting up of a departmental committee which includes both faculty and student representatives, with the objective of encouraging student participation and promoting mutually satisfying communications between faculty and students.

An increasing number of graduates have made plans for graduate study. Among this year's seniors, Morris Maple will study hospital administration at George Washington University; Richard Beckner will do graduate work in business administration at Xavier; Ronald Simpson will study business administration at Bowling Green State University under an assistantship; and Leroy Gill will be a teaching assistant in economics at The Ohio State University.

Dr. Young Whe Koo is chairman of the department, and other members are Mr. Cua, Mrs. Jane Racster, and Harmon Voskuil.

The April issue of the national publication of the Student Chapter News of SAM carried the following item:

"The Otterbein College Chapter has been involved in many interesting projects this year. They are to be commended for sending a six-foot Valentine card and treats to GI's in Vietnam. Student study-survival-kits were sold, and the group sponsored an Introductory Computer Sciences Class. The members are 'learning by doing' by participating in an investment club."

Use of New Facilities

Moving into the facilities of the new science building and the plans to bring computer capabilities to the campus were among the excitements of the department of chemistry, according to Dr. P. Rexford Ogle, chairman.

The personal growth of students is the reward of faculty members for their efforts. Two Otterbein students participated in April in the twentieth annual meeting of the Ohio Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society, both papers reflecting their activities on the campus.

Miss Susan Palmer, a senior from Kettering, showed single concept films for freshman chemistry laboratory, which she produced under the direction of Doctor Ogle and Dr. Roy Turley. Her paper related to special problems in the production.

Douglas Corner, a Westerville senior, presented a paper on his project, entitled "An Inexpensive Fluoride Ion Electrode." Co-authors of his research were Philip Andreichuk, '68, who is now attending graduate school at Emory University; Richard Sawyer, '68, who is attending the University of Rochester graduate school; and James Brubaker, a senior from Pittsburgh. Dr. Rexford Ogle directed the project.

At least seven chemistry majors have been accepted for graduate and professional schools for next year. Richard Augspurger and Jean Pierre O'Neal will attend the College of Medicine of The Ohio State University. Chris Cordle will study biochemistry at Johns Hopkins under a fellowship. Karl Kempf has an assistantship and will study chemistry at Stanford University. Susan Palmer has been awarded a fellowship to study in an M. A. in Teaching program, in chemistry and education. Fred Glasser and Douglas Corner have assistantships at The Ohio State University for study in chemistry.

A Frederick Gardner Cottrell Grant from the Research Corporation of New York has enabled Dr. Robert D. Place, assistant professor of chemistry, to carry on a research project on the preparation and investigation of several new pentafluorosulfuroxy substituted molecules. The study is in the field of inorganic chemistry and involves high energy oxidation reactions in the gas phase.

"Because of their great stability, the production of these reactions could be quite useful in preparing new synthetic polymers," according to Doctor Place.

This is the second recent grant received by Otterbein from the Research Foundation, the first being received in 1965 for research by Doctor Ogle.

Keith Crane, associate professor of chemistry, has spent his spring term sabbatical leave in Puerto Rico, where he has performed a service and received practical experience so valuable to a teacher, working as a laboratory assistant in Ryder Memorial Hospital in Humacao. Dr. John A. Smith, '33, is medical director of the hospital.

Curriculum Changes to Suit the Times

Donald C. Bulthaupt, chairman of the department of physics and astronomy, lists a number of interesting news items.

"We recognize that some adjustments still need to be made in courses," he says, "but the 3/3 Plan seems to be giving us the flexibility we had hoped for, and it seems to be working very well."

Dr. John A. Taylor has been class-testing a set of programmed materials in general physics. These will be published by Addison Wesley some time this year.

Development of the physical science common course is progressing well. John Muster received grants of $5,000 from the Marathon Oil Foundation and $2,000 from the Lubrizol Foundation, which have helped to finance trips to Europe, to New York and to the west coast to tape interviews with well-known scientists. The edited tapes are being used in teaching the common course.

"We have applied to the Atomic Energy Commission for a license to obtain a neutron source," Mr. Bulthaupt indicates. "This source, along with much nuclear physics equipment, is being financed through a National Science Foundation grant of $9,200 received two years ago. An X-ray diffraction unit purchased from government surplus has been put in working condition for joint use of the physics and chemistry departments. Crystal cameras of various types are needed for this unit.

Professor Phil Barnhart has been on leave all year and has successfully completed the general examinations for a Ph. D. degree in astronomy at the Ohio State University.

Four seniors in the department have been admitted to graduate school in physics with assistantships: Richard Lee McKinney, University of California; David Franklin Jones, The Ohio State University; Frederick Alan Myers, Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute; and Franklin Emrick Miller, undecided. Mr. Miller has had offers from two universities, for teaching assistantships, but may attend the Air Force Institute of Technology for his graduate work.

Faculty and Students Engage in Research

"The most exciting happening in the department of life and earth sciences this year was the renovation of facilities," according to Dr. Michael Herschler, acting chairman. "Although teaching has been hampered because of the work, the future looks very bright," he says.

Three members of the department had one-term sabbatical leaves during the year. Dr. Jeanne Willis used her autumn term leave to prepare the new common course in life science, visiting colleges in the California system to observe their methods. Dr. George Phinney made a trip through southeastern United States to photograph areas of ecological interest during his winter term leave.

Dr. Thomas Tegenkamp is furthering his research on the effect of magnetic fields on Drosophila melanogaster during his spring term leave. His chapter on the subject has been published in May in Biological Effects of Magnetic Fields, edited by M. Barnothy and published by Plenum Press.

Two biology students are working on distinction problems. Marilyn Miller has a project entitled "Stephen Hales: A Study in the History of Science," and Roger Wharton's project is "Development and Utilization of an Outdoor Laboratory."

Miss Miller has been awarded a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship, which she will apply toward the study of plant physiology in the department of botany at The Ohio State University.

At Home and Abroad

One of the perennial "excitements" of the foreign language department is the Year Abroad program. Four students studying this year in Valencia, Spain wrote to their fellow students via the T. and C. They wrote, in part:

"You can imagine how awkward it was at first to speak 'perfectly good Spanish' and realize that we weren't understood! We can recall quite well the day we landed in Madrid—we've never yet been able to figure out what the customs agent asked us! . . . Our 'parents' say that we have improved quite a lot, and to hear them say that makes the effort worthwhile. . . ."

"Yesterday we went to school and discovered writing on the walls and floor of the courtyard. It was black pine tar which can't be removed. The slogans were of an anti-government reactionary nature and only helped to heighten the tensions between Spanish students and college officials. We Americans have been warned to avoid such activities as it has been of such a nature as to require police to keep guard. We understand that if and when those responsible are caught they will be punished instantly and then given a trial! This police state is something else!"

Karen Batten, Loretta Feller, Sue Poellnitz and Max Lee are the students spending the year in Valencia.

The students in Spain traveled under a cooperative arrangement with Ohio Wesleyan University students.

A new one-term foreign study program for German students has also been instituted this year, and the junior-year-in-France has been continued. It was recently given special mention in Foreign Language University for its excellence.

The installation of video equipment in the language laboratory and the beginnings of making video lessons provided special interest for students and faculty in the department.

Among 1969 foreign language majors, Gerald Kelley has been granted an NDEA Fellowship in French at The Ohio State University for next year. A 1968 graduate, Harold Longley, has been given a fellowship for a doctoral program in French at Ohio State.

Music Students Have New Opportunities

Dr. Albert Huetteman, chairman of the department of music, says that a unique leasing arrangement with Boyle's Music Center in Columbus will provide Otterbein students with the use of vastly improved equipment next year. This includes eight new studio pianos, two grand pianos, twenty-two brass instruments (including Conn French horns, Mirafone tubas), twenty-one woodwinds (including a Loree English horn, Buffet clarinets, Cooper-Puchner bassoons) and seventeen percussion instruments. These include Zildjian cymbals, a Musser xylophone, a set of four Ludwig Dresden tympani, a Ludwig marimba, and miscellaneous equipment. Also involved are a "Stroboconn" tuner and forty music stands.

Another recent announcement indicates that music majors will study for credit with members of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, whenever there is not a specialist in their area on the full-time staff on the campus.

An innovation in the department is the publication of Volume 1, No. 1 of "NOTES," a newsletter of special interest to music department alumni. Suggestions for future issues are requested by Lyle Barkhymer, '64, editor.

Students Grow Via Visual Arts

"The most exciting happening in the visual arts department is the growth of students," according to Earl

Otterbein students in France pose with Ambassador Sargent Shriver

Hassenpflug, chairman. "Two in particular, who saw themselves as meek, lacking in self-confidence, have become dynamic and exciting people. They draw with strength and conviction. They look you in the eye — they speak up — they say with their whole being: 'I am somebody.' This is not a boast, but a refreshing recognition of the wonder of being."

As the 3/3 Plan has developed, the art faculty is re-assessing the aims of the department — re-examining the teaching of design in terms of relating to the field of visual communication, they recognize the need to free students from slavery to the masters of advertising and to make them more fully aware of the changing character of their visual environment and its effect on their lives.

With Ohio Wesleyan, Denison and Capital, the department is testing and further developing a monitored course in meso-American art. The slide and tape material for individual study is being used by four students in spring term, and films and slides will be made in Mexico during the summer to provide multi-media presentations to immerse students in each of the cultures being studied.

Mr. Hassenpflug will receive a Kress grant for study of African art during the summer, and will prepare a new course to be offered next spring.

Mrs. Paul Frank will be on leave of absence next year and Miss Joanne Miller will substitute for her. She is a 1967 Otterbein graduate and has received the M. F. A. at The Ohio State University. She was on a teaching assistantship there during the past year and has earned a perfect grade record in her graduate work.

Use of the new science hall lecture room has made possible the renovation of the Lambert Hall department to provide improved studio space.

Scholarships in AFROTC

Thirteen full scholarships were awarded this year by the U. S. Air Force to Otterbein students enrolled in the AFROTC, the largest number ever received in a single year. Five were for three years, two for two years, and two for one year. The others were hold-over awards previously made. Each scholarship is valued at $2500 for each year of the grant.

Several students who will be commissioned in June will continue with their education. Franklin E. Miller has been accepted by the Air Force Institute of Technology. Others include David Geary, Thomas Bishoff, Jean O'Neal, Ronald Simpson, Morris Maple, Robert Dull and Harley Gill. George Mellors has an application pending. All these students will have Air Force active duty delayed until they complete their graduate studies.

Lieutenant Colonel Morris F. Briggs will terminate his tour of duty as chairman of the department of aerospace studies in June and will be re-assigned to a post in Southeast Asia.

Hands Across the Sea

As evidence of Otterbein's "outreach" in the field of teacher training, Mrs. Mildred Stauffer, assistant professor of education, and Dr. Chester Addington, chairman of the department, have announced the formation of a program in comparative education in Sierra Leone, West Africa.

The pilot project suggests that fifteen students and a faculty member spend the 1970 winter term (ten weeks) in the country pursuing independent study in comparative methods of teaching. The Otterbein students will work with Sierra Leone teachers, attend classes for teachers in a college or university, and prepare a research project on a topic related to education, social values or the culture of the country.

Values of the program are inherent in students' becoming immersed in the culture of a new republic, learning what it means to be in a racial minority, and sharing their new awareness with fellow students on their return.

Application has been made for foundation support for the pilot project, which is tentatively scheduled for three years of operation, subject to annual evaluation.

New Approaches to History

"The most exciting thing" in the department of history and government was innovation in connection with the 3/3 Plan, according to department chairman, Dr. Harold Hancock.

Dr. Ursula Holtermann developed a one-term civilization course, Dr. T. J. Kerr presented a sophomore seminar to familiarize students with the use of the library and the writing of papers, and Michael Rothgery taught a course in French history and a three-term sequence in European history. For the fall term Doctor Hancock prepared a course in American Negro history and Doctor Holtermann a course in German history. Under the new sabbatical plan Doctor Holtermann and Doctor Kerr were on leave for one term each.

Changes were made in the offerings in government, such as the inclusion of a sophomore seminar and a course in the politics of emerging nations. With the addition of another staff member in 1969-70, more emphasis will be placed on international relations and data processing.

Government majors participated in the Washington Semester Plan, Basel Plan and Peace Corps. Dr. John Laubach has prepared his book on school prayers and the First Amendment for publication. Since the Otterbein Library has become a U. S. Government depository, he has been organizing these materials for use in government classes. He is also learning Portuguese in preparation for spending part of his sabbatical leave next fall in Brazil.

The department is proud of its many fine students, particularly of Forrest Rice, who has received a scholarship for graduate study at Northwestern University. The university has granted him a $2500 scholarship, and he has also received a $1,000 Cokesbury Graduate Award in College Teaching, sponsored by The United Methodist Church.

Library Campaign Progressing

Architectural drawings are practically complete for Otterbein's new $2,000,000 library, to be built with funds raised through a Crusade now being conducted in the former EUB Churches in the Otterbein area. Funds contributed by alumni and friends in the Focus on Achievement campaign will provide $250,000 of the amount, a government grant will provide $657,000, one third of the estimated cost of the building, and $1,100,000 will come from the current Crusade, which also includes a goal of $500,000 for student aid.

Florida, Tennessee, Ohio East and Ohio Miami Conferences have already completed active campaigns. In some churches, a personal solicitation has been conducted, with pledges being accepted for a four-year period. Other local congregations have chosen to include their goals in the general budget of their churches for the next four years. West Virginia Conference has voted to include Otterbein's campaign in the annual conference budget for the same period of time.

Campaigns in Ohio Southeast and Ohio Sandusky Conferences are being planned for the fall months. Erie Conference will take action at its annual conference in June.

Many alumni are working in their local churches for the Crusade, although it is not an alumni campaign. Another group which is active in raising money for the library is the faculty and staff of the college.

Dr. Thomas J. Kerr, associate professor of history, is chairman of this group, which at press time lacks less than $500 of reaching its goal of $25,000.00.

New Vice President Replaces Wade Miller

Elwyn M. Williams

Elwyn M. Williams, Director of Fund Development of Rockford College, Illinois, has been appointed Vice President for Development and Public Relations, to replace Dr. Wade S. Miller, who is retiring on July 1 after twenty-seven years of service to Otterbein.

Mr. Williams has held the Rockford College post for the past three years, during which more than $1,500,000 was raised each year. He was responsible for the organization of the school's deferred giving program, and worked closely with the Board of Counselors of the college, a group of community leaders, business and professional people, the membership of which was increased from 80 to 130 during his stay. He also organized a series of breakfasts on the campus through which another large group became associated with the college.

Mr. Williams formerly served as a stewardship adviser for the United Methodist Conference in Bloomington, Indiana, working with some 500 ministers in the creation of a leadership training program in fund raising and the development of stewardship materials. He has written for numerous publications on fund-raising procedures, and is responsible for the establishment of the Christian Builders Club in Indiana. He is a former pastor of Southport United Methodist Church.

He is a 1948 graduate of Syracuse University and received the S. T. B. degree from Boston University in 1951. A veteran of World War II (1942-45), he served in Burma and India.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have purchased a home in Westerville and he will assume his duties at Otterbein on July 1. They are the parents of four children, aged 18, 15, 13 and 6.

Sanders Named to Board

Richard A. Sanders, '29, has been named by the Alumni Council to fill the unexpired term of the late Mrs. F. O. Clements on the Otterbein Board of Trustees. The term extends to 1971.

Mr. Sanders, who is vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta, has had wide experience in the field, and held positions in New York and Philadelphia banks prior to coming to the Atlanta bank in 1951. He was promoted to the position of associate general auditor in 1963 and to his present position in 1966. He is a graduate of the Stonier Graduate School of Banking of Rutgers University.

The new trustee is the grandson of the late Dr. T. J. Sanders, who served on the Otterbein faculty for more than forty years. He and Mrs. Sanders (the former Nitetis Huntley, '29) live in Decatur, Georgia, where they are active in the Presbyterian Church.

Faculty Promotions Announced

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees has approved 18 faculty promotions for the coming year.

Promoted from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor were: Dr. Marilyn Day (Chairman), Woman's Physical Education; Dr. Albert Huetteman (Chairman), Music; Dr. Arnold Leonard, Life and Earth Science; and Dr. John Taylor, Physics.

Also promoted from Instructor to Assistant Professor were: Larry Cox, Psychology; Mrs. Joyce Karsko, Psychology; James Recob, Religion; Larry Rhoades, Music; Mrs. Sylvia Vance, French; and Mrs. Lucia Villalon, Spanish.

A. C. Siddall

Evan Schear

Honored on Founders' Day

Two distinguished Otterbein medical doctors were awarded honorary Doctor of Science degrees on Founders' Day, April 28.

Dr. A. C. Siddall, '19, a former medical missionary to China, is a prominent Oberlin obstetrician and gynecologist, a member of the staff of Allen Memorial Hospital and the Oberlin Clinic, of which he is one of the founders and vice president of the board. He has also been honored by his medical alma mater, Western Reserve University.

Colonel Evan W. Schear, '44, a graduate of Duke University Medical School, has been Director of Hospital Services at Wilford Hall, Lackland AFB Hospital, and will assume duty as Hospital Commander at Wiesbaden AB, Germany in July. He has been a member of the medical recovery group for NASA's Space Project Mercury, and has been decorated for exceptional service to military and civilian personnel in Vietnam during the Tet offensive. He has been a member of the Air Force since 1943.

Colonel Schear was the speaker at the Founders' Day program.

Granted Tenure

Otterbein faculty members granted tenure by the trustees were: Larry Cox, Associate Professor of Psychology; Roger Deibel, Assistant Professor of Education; Dr. Michael Herschler, Associate Professor of Biology; Mrs. Joyce Karsko, Assistant Professor of Psychology; Dr. Rexford Ogle, Associate Professor of Chemistry; Joel Swabb, Assistant Professor of Speech; Roger Tremaine, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; and Mrs. Lucia Villalon, Assistant Professor of Spanish.

Doctor Williams Speaks

Dr. J. Hutch Williams, '44, assistant dean for student affairs, College of Medicine at The Ohio State University, was the speaker for the annual Scholars Dinner sponsored by Torch and Key honorary for its thirty members and the members of all scholastic and honorary societies and their faculty advisors. Doctor Williams, who serves as chairman of the admissions committee of the College of Medicine, spoke on "Do Your Own Thing but Do It Well." About eighty students attended.

Historical Exhibits in Otterbein Room

Alumni and friends are invited to visit the Otterbein Room on the ground floor of Towers Hall. Several special exhibits are of current interest.

Case No. 1, Philip William Otterbein, founder of the United Brethren denomination. Included are Otterbein's personal Bible (1774), two folio volumes of a three-volume edition; a wax bust made during his lifetime; a German Bible (1787) and German hymnbook (1775) presented by Otterbein to Christian Crum of Winchester, Virginia, about 1805; Otterbein's baptismal certificate (1726); and views of several buildings famous in early U. B. history.

Case No. 2, Robert F. Zech. Originals of four illustrations used in the story, "Robert Franklin Zech: Peace Corps Volunteer," in They Made America Great by Edna McGuire.

Case No. 3, Dr. John Haywood, faculty member from 1851 to 1906. Personal notebooks and several volumes from his personal library. The biographical sketch is by his great granddaughter, Sylvia Philips Vance, '47.

Case No. 4, Quiz and Quill Fiftieth Anniversary. The first issue, 1919 is shown with a photo of the founding members. Fifty years of Quiz and Quills are displayed on the tables.

Graduate Students Study Otterbein Administration

Graduate classes in higher education at The Ohio State University have visited the Otterbein campus during the year, meeting with various staff members in an attempt to apply administrative theory to the daily operation of a small institution. The students generally are surprised to learn of the tremendous amount of discussion and persuasion in day-to-day decision making. Otterbein administrators have found the students' questions penetrating and insightful, and believe that the interplay of ideas is stimulating and refreshing.

Focus on Faculty

Dr. Jung Young Lee, assistant professor of religion, is the founder of a Foundation for Continuing Education of Korean Christian Ministers, Inc. Through the Foundation, Christian ministers of all denominations are enabled to continue their education so that they may better "touch all citizens, expressing God's concern for all men, relating the gospel to all phases of man's life."

Outstanding Senior

Loretta Evans cited by President Turner

Miss Loretta Evans, an elementary education major from Jackson, was awarded the Otterbein College President's Citation by Dr. Lynn W. Turner during the annual Senior Recognition Day program on June 3.

Miss Evans is the third recipient of the "outstanding senior of the year" award, which was initially presented in May, 1967, to Deborah Barndt of Worthington.

Distinguished Teacher

Steve Spurgeon, Student Senate president-elect, presents certificate to John Coulter

Dr. John K. Coulter, chairman of the English Department and a member of the faculty since 1956, has received the fourth annual Ralph W. Smith "Spirit of Otterbein" Distinguished Teacher Award.

The award was established three years ago by the late Helen Ensor Smith, '18, in memory of her late husband, a 1912 graduate, and the recipient is chosen by a student committee.

A Kwanzan Japanese cherry tree from The Japan International Christian University Foundation, Inc. has been planted on the campus and dedicated to Doctor Coulter.

Wade S. Miller and friends enjoy his retirement gift, an album picturing his years at Otterbein. Others honored at the retirement dinner on May 9 were Dr. Frederic Bamforth and Miss Velma Ogg.

Kings fraternity has collected more than 800 books for the initiation of a library at the Westerville Convalescent and Nursing Center, and plans to start a similar library at the Mann Nursing Home. A load of selected children's books has already been delivered to the Worthington Children's Home.

Students in Davis Hall donated funds for magazine and newspaper subscriptions.

Sandra Williams Bennett, '64, has written her master's thesis at The Ohio State University on "An Evaluation of Ten-Watt Non-Commercial Educational FM Broadcasting." Members of the current WOBN staff are finding it interesting, since it deals specifically with the history and operation of the Otterbein station.

New Musical Group Performs

"The Millionaires" of Otterbein College presented a program of folk-songs and original compositions at the thirtieth anniversary banquet of Goodwill Industries in Columbus on May 13, at a recent banquet of an electrical engineer's group at Ilk's Country Club in Massillon, and for a meeting on May 24 of the Dayton Otterbein Sorosis at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Augspurger, '41 (Grace Burdge, '39).

Guiding spirit of the student group is James Million, admissions counselor at Otterbein, who is enthusiastic about the combined talents of the nine young people, who sing, act in comedy skits, play guitar and piano, write their own music and comedy, present a readers' theatre, produce a variety show. Their dress is "mod," according to Jim, and the young people "dig" them. They are also extremely good-looking and, according to one pleased over-thirty commentator, "you can tell the difference between the boys and the girls."

"The Millionaires" are scheduled to represent the college at a number of United Methodist high school institutes during the summer, and are available for other camps, conferences and meetings. Program directors may write to James Million, Admissions Office, Otterbein College, or call him at 882-3601, Extension 325.

OTTERBEIN WRITERS

Poet Publishes

Notice has been received of the recent publication of a book of religious poetry by Mrs. Emerson Miller (Marcella Henry, '28). Fifer Boy is being circulated through auspices of the Swordsman Press. Mrs. Miller was a member of Quiz and Quill while a student at Otterbein. Although she has written many single poems for publication, this is her first book.

Hancock Recognized

A book by Dr. Harold B. Hancock, chairman of the Otterbein department of history and government, on Delaware during the Civil War was mentioned in an article in the Evening Journal in Wilmington, Delaware, as containing the "outstanding" study of the Negro among recent publications of the Historical Society of Delaware.

In a survey of recent articles on the Negro in Delaware History, the account mentioned that two out of five had been authored by Doctor Hancock. In addition to his book, which was first published in installments in the magazine, he has also seen published an article on "The Status of the Negro in Delaware after the Civil War, 1865-1875."

A large portion of a chapter Doctor Hancock has contributed to a book to be published this spring by Johns Hopkins Press entitled Reconstruction in the Border States concerns the Negro in Delaware in the late nineteenth century.

During his sabbatical leave in the spring of 1970, he intends to write an article on the history of the Freedman's Bureau in his native state. He has received a grant from the Eleutherian Mills Historical Library to assist in writing a history of the Brandywine workman in the nineteenth century in Delaware.

Doctor Hancock is well known for his studies of the history of Delaware. A recent bibliography on the economic history of the Wilmington-Philadelphia area listed seven published and unpublished items written by him. A history of the militia in Delaware published in 1968 acknowledged his assistance.

Kerr Writes on Minimum Wage Study

A colleague of Professor Hancock's, Dr. Thomas Jefferson Kerr, IV, associate professor of history, has also been an active writer. His article, "The New York Factory Investigating Commission and the Minimum Wage Movement," will be published in Labor History. Another, entitled "U. S. Power in the Modern World," will appear in Social Studies Magazine.

In February, Doctor Kerr presented a paper on "Changing Interpretations of History" in a teachers' workshop at Heath High School.

During his sabbatical this spring, he is examining the role of social justice advocates, organized labor and politicians in securing labor reform in Ohio during the Progressive Era, 1897-1917, and hopes to produce a series of articles on the subject.

School Prayers is Book Subject

Laubach autographs his book

Dr. John Laubach, professor of government, is the author of a newly published book School Prayers, (Public Affairs Press), which deals with the U. S. Supreme Court's rulings enjoining prayers and devotional Bible readings in the public schools.

He traces the thinking of the Constitution's founders with respect to church-state separation; describes the development of school religion disputes as they emerged in state and federal jurisdictions, and relates the climactic disputes which produced the controversial rulings.

Professor Laubach discusses nine case studies of school devotional disputes which have recently reached federal district courts and the state supreme courts. He links these studies with the guidelines which state attorneys general and educational officials have offered to direct the implementation of the federal court's pronouncements.

The Introduction to School Prayers was penned by Harry Golden, renowned writer of such books as Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes; So What Else Is New; Humor Gazette; Ess Ess Mein Kindt; and A Little Girl is Dead.

"In this invaluable book (School Prayers), based largely on the testimony at the hearings," Golden wrote, "you will find all the essential arguments in a form enabling both professional and lay readers to grasp the line of reasoning which persuaded the House Judiciary Committee and the U. S. Senate not to pass the prayer amendments, rather to conclude that the Supreme Court had been eminently faithful to the Constitution in reaching its momentous decisions..."

Doctor Laubach was a Danforth Fellow at Harvard (where he received his Ph. D. degree) and a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Bonn and the University of the Saar. He has been at Otterbein since 1958.

Forecasts Economy

The Columbus Business Forum, published by the area Chamber of Commerce, carried an article by Dr. Young Koo, chairman of the department of economics and business administration, in its January issue. Doctor Koo was one of four economists chosen to present this year's economic forecast.

His article, "Don't Expect a Miracle," dealt with the national scene, and predicted two main problems ahead. One is how to control inflation without increasing unemployment. The other is how to achieve military superiority without excessive deficit spending. He expects the inflation rate to be reduced this year from the former 4.5 per cent to about 3.5 per cent.

Unemployment rate of 3.6 per cent (lowest in the nation's history) is probably due for a small increase, then dropping back to around 3.7 per cent.

He says we can look for a fairly steady price level, removal or at least a reduction in the 10 per cent surtax, and a decrease in the Vietnam War effort. He believes consumer savings will remain at 6.5 per cent and investments in new plants will increase by 9 per cent. He expects a 1969 GNP of $920 billion, which is a growth rate of 5.8 per cent — an actual growth of 2.3 per cent after adjustment for inflation.

Quiz and Quill Celebrates Golden Anniversary

The Quiz and Quill Club will celebrate its golden anniversary at the traditional Strawberry Breakfast at 8:00 AM on Alumni Day, June 14, in the Campus Center Faculty Dining Room.

A special program has been planned to feature each of the club's five decades, with plenty of opportunity for writers to exchange news and reminiscences. Arrangements are being made by Mrs. William Skaates (Sarah Rose, '56), Executive Secretary, Quiz and Quill Foundation.

Award Fund Started

Torch and Key scholastic honorary has initiated an award fund, the interest of which will be used as a prize for one of the highest ranking juniors from each of the five academic divisions. Character and general merit will be considered in making the awards, in addition to scholastic attainment. The establishment of such an award came through the initiative of Dr. Robert Price, sponsor from 1954 to 1968, the late Dr. Paul Frank, and others.

Alumni who may be interested in contributing to the fund are invited to send their gifts to the Development Office or to Dr. Harold Hancock, chairman of the Torch and Key Scholarship Fund. The society was founded in 1950 and annually elects to membership about twenty-five students and two or three faculty members. An annual tradition is the dinner to which members of all honoraries are invited.

Otterbein Alumni Records To Be Updated

THE TIME HAS COME!

For several important reasons, the Alumni Office needs specific and up-to-date information about you! The form on the following pages will supply this data — if you will complete and return it promptly. (Two copies are provided — one for husband and one for wife if both attended Otterbein.)

DATA PROCESSING

For greater efficiency in general office procedures, in information storage, in alumni activities, in gift recording and reporting — we are converting our records to data processing. Computer sorting will enable us to furnish names and addresses of classmates, sorority and fraternity members, alumni in various occupations, alumni in certain areas for local club activities. (We have asked for your Social Security number, which can be used as your identification number, and for annual reporting of giving. However, if you do not have a SS number, we will assign a number for you.)

A NEW DIRECTORY

A new and economical printing process makes possible the selection and printing of information directly from the computer, without the necessity of tedious searching, typing and proofreading. The first step is the collection of data.

The directory will contain names, addresses, class, and position or profession of all graduates and former students, with alphabetical, geographic and class listings. Special lists will include number of degrees awarded, graduate degrees earned by alumni, and other data obtainable when our records are up to date and analyzed by the computer. Also listed will be: Alumni Association presidents; trustees; executive committee members, administrative officers and faculty members.

The computer knows nothing now about Otterbein people — what it "puts out" will be determined exactly by what you (and you, and you) "put in." Bring your record up to date promptly, please.

INCREASE IN PRESTIGE

Your degree increases in value as the prestige of Otterbein is enhanced. The academic and cultural

"image" of a college depends in rather large measure on the records of graduate training, publications, memberships, professional standing and accomplishments of its graduates. Achieving and maintaining high accreditation is a continuing program, and it is important for the office to have up-to-date statistical information readily available.

SERVICE TO ALUMNI AND FRIENDS

There are many ways in which the college can serve its constituents if information is available. We need to identify and catalog special interests, professions and industrial connections — for occupational placement, for publicity, for planning of special events, continuing education, symposiums and conferences.

SERVICE TO THE COLLEGE

The information which you supply will constitute a vast store of expertise on which the college can draw. Alumni and other friends can be selected for special services of all kinds — as advisers for campus programs, speakers, employers for students and graduates, counselors for prospective students, as alumni officer candidates, as contacts for fund raising, as subjects for constantly projecting the true image of Otterbein.

Please complete your questionnaire promptly — detach it from the magazine, and return it to:

The Alumni Office
Westerville, Ohio 43081

WHAT ABOUT NON-ALUMNI?

Several thousand friends who did not attend Otterbein are on our mailing lists, to receive TOWERS or other literature. These are the parents of students, members of United Methodist Churches, business and civic leaders, and other friends who have made the concerns of Otterbein their own.

We would appreciate it if you good friends would also use the questionnaire to complete our information about you. Although this information will not be used in our alumni directory, it will be helpful to us in providing programs of particular interest to you and, if you are willing, we would like to call on you for further service to Otterbein.

Blood Needed for Students and Families

Otterbein is a "participating group" in the blood donor program of the Red Cross, and its students and employees are assured that their blood needs will be met anywhere in the United States and Canada where reciprocity can be arranged.

The quota for Otterbein for this year is 360 units, and more blood is needed. Parents and friends can help fill the quota by designating their blood for Otterbein when donating, no matter where the donation is made.

Angels Collect Toys

"Operation Vietnam" committee members Nikki Katsilas (left) and Marlene Lansman discuss plans for book-toy project with Major Robert Warner, '56, recent returnee from Vietnam.

The Angel Flight of Otterbein is currently involved in an energetic off-campus program called "Operation Vietnam," the collecting of books for servicemen and toys for Vietnamese orphans.

The project began several months ago when Miss Nikki Katsilas, sophomore from Pittsburgh, wrote to Major Robert Warner, 1956 graduate and navigator in the 16th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, South Vietnam, requesting permission for the Angel Flight to "adopt" his outfit. "Adopt" in this case meant corresponding with members of the squadron and sending them reading materials.

In his letter of permission, Major Warner noted that, although the servicemen could use books, they were in need of toys for children at the Ky Quang Orphanage near Saigon, which the squadron was assisting. He stated that the war orphans were suffering a serious shortage of toys. The report of children without playthings prompted Angel Flight to initiate its city-wide toy-and-book project.

The Angel Flight also operates campus coffee-and-donut sales and sandwich concessions for underprivileged children and participates in the annual Heart Fund drive in the Westerville area.

spotlight on sports

By Bill Skaates, Sports Information Director

Twin victories over Capital in baseball, three new track records, a trio of golf wins at the expense of Cap, and the tennis team's near miss at a .500 season highlighted the 1969 spring sports campaign at Otterbein.

While Coach Dick Fishbaugh's baseball team finished with a disappointing 4-14 record—two of the wins came over Capital, 1-0 and 15-5. The Cardinals' hard throwing senior righthander Jim McKee, Groveport, broke a 10-year-old Ohio Conference season strikeout record with 126.

For games played through May 17 McKee, who appears destined toward a professional diamond career later this summer, was leading the nation's NCAA College Division strikeout artists. His average of 15.9 strikeouts per nine innings was based upon 113 strikeouts in 64 innings.

McKee earned this year's Most Valuable Player Award as well as recognition for pitcher with the best earned run average (1.28). Junior hurler Jarry Klenk, Yorkshire (Versailles), rated the nod as the Most Improved Player, and senior Mike Leadbetter, Brookville, claimed the best batting average (.328).

Sophomore high jumper Chuck Bosse, Gahanna (Lincoln) established new Otterbein and Memorial Stadium records in his speciality. Bosse first tied the stadium mark of 6-4 set last year by Cleveland State's NCAA champion Al Flores. Later Bosse leaped 6-5 at Muskingum to smash the school record of 6-3 set by Dick Rule in 1941.

Another record breaking performance was turned in by Coach Elmer (Bud) Yoest's mile relay team comprised of Len Simonetti, Dennison (Immaculate Conception); Dave Lehman, Westerville; Ray Stright, Macedonia; and Larry Loftus, Columbus (Central).

The relay team was clocked in 3:21.8 on Ohio Wesleyan's oval to shatter the 3:23.4 mark established in 1966 by Wolfgang Schmitt, Jeff Upp, Sam Murphy and Lenny Loftus.

Coach Bob (Moe) Agler's golf team concluded their season with a record of 6-8-1. Senior Captain Dick Beckner, Miamisburg, led the way to 13½-6½, 13½-4½ and 15-5 wins over Capital.

The tennis team, coached by Curt Tong, fell just short of a winning campaign as they concluded with a 3-4 record. Three of their losses were by the slim margin of one point. Only seniors lost from this team are Hamer Campbell, Bradford, Pa.; and Bob Colton, Worthington.

Honored at Banquet

Two four-year athletic standouts, Jim McKee and Dick Augspurger, were the top award recipients at the Cardinals' All-Sports Banquet.

McKee, a four-year letterman in both basketball and baseball, received the Augspurger-Ballenger Award, presented annually to the senior who has demonstrated outstanding sportsmanship and excellence in at least two varsity sports.

The 6-7 Groveport native was captain of the basketball team and a co-captain of the baseball squad. He has struck out 113 batters to date this season and holds the Otterbein career strikeout mark of 310.

Augspurger, a son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Augspurger, '41 (Grace Burdge, '39), received the Norris Elliott Athletic Scholarship Award for achievement on the playing field and in the classroom. He carries a 3.6 average and has won three letters in football and four in track. He was named the most improved player on the football team last fall, catching 20 passes for 243 yards and two touchdowns from his tight end position. He has cleared 13 feet in the pole vault and was named honorary captain of the track team.

The outstanding athletes in each sport were named at the banquet:

Football — Most valuable, Rich Rawlins; most improved, Dick Augspurger; outstanding freshman, Butch Denny.

Basketball — Most valuable, Lorenzo Hunt; most improved, Jim Augspurger; outstanding freshman, Don Manly.

Wrestling — Co-captains: Tom Jent and Ken Schmitt.

Tennis — Most valuable, Bob Colton.

Golf — Most valuable, Dick Beckner.

Cross-Country — Most valuable, Jerry Farber.

Track — Most valuable, Chuck Bosse; most improved, Len Simonette; outstanding freshman, Nate VanWey.

Baseball — Awards to be made at end of season.

and printing at Otterbein for five years.

The new director was a recent panelist for the National School Board Association at its national convention in Miami Beach. His panel on "How the News Media Cover Education" covered the problems school administrators face in informing the community and nation about educational needs and progress, and the ways in which boards and administrators can best work with news men.

Evelyn Svec Ward Recognized Artist

Evelyn Svec Ward, '43, her husband William and their daughter Pamela were the subjects of a feature story last fall in their home-town newspaper, The Solon Herald. Writing about a forthcoming art show to be held in the new Solon Public Library, reporter Ruth Wirtz writes:

"There will be some paintings (by William Ward). But also some stitchery... and some twiggy??? (The "twiggy" is later described as Evelyn's word for her mobiles — made of twigs and odds and ends.)

"A net onion bag, a bit of velvet, burlap pieces, rope, thread clippings, ravelings of all sorts, become works of art in the talented hands of Mrs. Ward, who explains that she 'takes the contemporary approach to working with fabrics and textiles.' "

She has exhibited in 15 May Shows at the Cleveland Museum of Art, where she was formerly on the staff as assistant in textiles. Her stitchery has been included in exhibitions throughout the country, including a major exhibition of historical and international contemporary embroidery at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York City, 1967; Designer-Craftsman of Ohio exhibitions in 1962, 66, 68 at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. Exhibitions in 1969 include "A Group Show of Stitchery," at the Community Art Center, Oneonta, New York; an exhibition of stitchery and paintings by Evelyn, William and Pamela Ward at Orange Public Library, Orange, Ohio; and "Water Colors and Stitchery" by Evelyn and William Ward at Women's City Club of Cleveland Gallery.

Her work is on file with the Museum of Contemporary Crafts and is represented in private collections and in the permanent collection of the Cleveland Museum.

The Wards have traveled extensively, and Mrs. Ward gets much of her inspiration from journeys to Europe and Mexico.

Geomorphology Class Tours Five States

Torrential rains and unusually cool weather ceased to dampen the geomorphology (study of earth landforms) class in their three-day field trip last weekend through five states. Tour leaders for the expedition were Dr. Norman K. Flint of the University of Pittsburgh and Dr. Arnold D. Leonard of Otterbein College. The field trip was designed to enable students to observe three of the twenty-five United States physiographic provinces: Appalachian Plateau, Valley and Ridge, and the Blue Ridges. The glaciated Ohio world's largest steam shovel, a massive 30-story piece of machinery, was seen just south of Zanesville. Several fossil stops were made near Cambridge in Pennsylvania age shales. Tornado-like winds, hail, and a torrential downpour hit the group in Wheeling and

Mitterrand Entertains, Informs Students

After an introduction by Dr. Laubach, professor of history and government, Francois Mitterrand speaking in his native language delivered a speech at the convocation Monday morning. Mr. Dube, assistant professor of foreign languages, translated Mitterrand's message.

In his speech, Mitterrand explained a few problems of France within the framework of Europe and the rest of the world. He expressed the importance of knowing the internal situation of France as well as the external so that the problems of France can be more fully understood.

According to Mitterrand, the external situation of France shows General De Gaulle's foreign policies: not being present at the Geneva disarmament; not being present at the nuclear arms control debates; leaving NATO; denying England membership into the Common Market; and an overall negative policy to the traditional one of France.

But the external policies, according to Mitterrand, are not always the best way of knowing and understanding a country. France has seven or eight political parties, but Mitterrand explained that it was not too much different from our own system. In France, the parties are divided among themselves, while in the United States, the parties are divided within themselves. The popular election process is relatively new in France. They have two elections. The first one is to eliminate all the candidates except the two receiving the highest number of votes. In the second election, there are only two on the ballot so this divides the country into two definite parts, as in a two party system.

Mitterrand received about forty percent of the vote in the last election which is a threat to General De Gaulle's government. Mitterrand told how his party, the non-Communist Federation of the Left, agrees with De Gaulle's policies of leaving NATO, recognizing China, and relaxing relations with Russia. Mitterrand then explained that he opposed De Gaulle's

Professor Hanawalt Dies

Many generations of Otterbein students who cherished his wit and zest for life and learning feel a sense of personal loss at the passing on March 19 of Professor Emeritus Fred A. Hanawalt, '13.

Certain of these he asked to teach, so that by teaching he might learn more than by simply taking the course elsewhere. At least one course (terminology) was originated here by Mr. Hanawalt.

"Prof" was an enthusiastic writer, contributing articles to outdoors, sports, and scientific publications. Particularly after his retirement from active teaching in 1955, he delighted in writing letters, light verse and constructive criticism to people or news media he felt would appreciate it.

Professor Hanawalt is survived by his son, Donald, '40, a former Otterbein faculty member.
