THE SIBYL

PUBLISHED by the JUNIOR CLASS of OTTERBEIN COLLEGE
Westerville, Ohio

DEDICATION

Otterbein is a friendly school. The cheery smile, the freely waved hand, the word of greeting—these are characteristic. They are the outward signs of that inner spirit of friendliness which permeates all our associations. Romance not infrequently tinges friendships with a note of ecstasy. After all love is friendship with wings. To all our Otterbein friendships we dedicate this 1932 SIBYL.

IN MEMORIAM

Kindly, enthusiastic, brilliant, human, his personality made him beloved of students and faculty alike. His life of refinement and beauty and the admirable balance that would have "nothing too much" was an embodiment of his well-loved Greek language. His memory is a benediction to Otterbein—a memory of a man who lived in the Spirit of Friendship.

GREETINGS TO THE READERS OF THE SIBYL

This issue of the Sibyl is published under peculiar circumstances. Unsettled social, political, and economic conditions have a disturbing influence upon educational institutions everywhere. Retrenchments in budgets in all colleges, reduced income and student enrollment in most of them, and greatly reduced resources of individual students, all demand a changed attitude toward our entire educational program.

Under these conditions we are all forced to take a new look at education. Let us hope that we shall not lose courage, that these trying times may develop in all of us a new confidence in Christian education and in Otterbein College, one of its finest institutions.

Greetings and good will to you all.

Cordially,
W. G. Clippinger.

SENIOR CLASS

A RETROSPECT

We Seniors are probably no different in our aims and desires than the many other classes which have graduated from college, but we like to think that our members will attain still higher places in the world and reach higher goals than others.

Four years have passed so quickly that it is hard for us to realize that we have nearly finished this great part of our lives on the campus.

We have contested in physical encounters, debates, oratorical clashes, music, dramatics, and other activities and have left our mark in their history, we hope. Our men have helped to make up great teams and brought fame to the school, and our women have helped and encouraged them. We have even attended classes sometimes and won scholastic laurels.

There are many things that we have left undone, however, and we challenge the classes after us to make good where we have failed. May they lift the task as we leave it and carry on for us all.

We hope to make names for ourselves in the fields to which we go and ever reflect glory back to the college which we now leave. May she carry on through all hardships and always be an inspiration to those who leave her halls as she is to us.

A GLANCE FORWARD

HOW SUDDEN is the leap over the borderline between the lower and upper-classmen! Only yesterday, it seems, we were supporting the lower half, and here we are with only one more year ahead of us. The shock has been tremendous, but we are weathering it beautifully.

In spite of the appalling number of classmates who did not return to us this year, others have come in to swell our numbers. We miss those who have left us, but we are determined not to release any more of our members. We hope we are not conceited as a class, but we feel that so far as ability goes, we have both quality and quantity. We sincerely hope that the ability and talent of the various members in our class will eventually prove to be of real use in the world.

Looking forward, we face the day when we shall leave Otterbein's doors. May that time find us ready and capable of taking up the serious and responsible status of world-citizenship.

WE ARE BUILDING

WE ARE SOPHOMORES AT LAST. We have made the first step up. With much pleasure do we look back to the events of our Freshman and Sophomore years; but with real anticipation do we look to the future. We have almost forgotten the childish pranks and troubles of yesterday in our efforts to be the men and women of tomorrow.

We need not take a back seat, so to speak, on our college campus and let the upper-classmen carry on. Look at the varsity football and basketball teams and count the Sophomores. We have not forgotten track and tennis either. Music, dramatics, writing, and other forms of endeavor are not left off our lists. In fact, we are proud of our class and have a right to be.

However, we Sophomores are remembering the old adage, "Pride goeth before a fall." We know that there is much to learn before we try our wings. Hard work will make us the class we want to be. We are building for the class of 1934.

AN AUSPICIOUS BEGINNING

ON SEPTEMBER 11, THE CLASS OF 1935 assembled with fond parents in the Cochran Hall parlors. The acquaintance of students, parents, and faculty was made. Freshman week proved exciting, and resulted in the partial orientation of us Freshmen and the beginning of fine friendships.

On Scrap Day we displayed unusual strength and skill, tying in the tug of war and being victors in one of the field contests.

As a class we have conducted ourselves with great propriety. We have abstained from any childish escapades (we understand that the same cannot be said of some preceding classes) and feel we are to be congratulated upon our seemly behavior.

Our talents are many, and we are earnestly striving to win a name for ourselves, and to love and serve Otterbein to the end.

FRATERNITIES

OTTERBEIN'S FRATERNITIES

ONE OF THE BEST FEATURES of Otterbein friendships is that they are broad. There are no barriers which act as restricting forces. But still within the intimacy of the fraternity group there is possible a depth of friendship and a chance for a complete sincerity, which is possibly not provided elsewhere.

The criticism is often made that fraternities are pressure-bearing institutions which build their members over patterns. This seems a rather shallow observation. If a student cannot mingle with his fellows and retain his own individuality he can never be a true friend to anyone.

Fraternities really teach men to be friends. They tear down false egotism, super-sensitiveness, and self-consciousness which keep individuals from truly being themselves.

The foolish idea of fraternities as encouragers of vice and destroyers of personalities should be changed to a concept of them as makers of friends, builders of character, teachers of tact, and self-realization.

RECENT FRATERNITY CHANGES

OTTERBEIN FRATERNITIES have as a whole had a very successful year in 1931-1932. Several important changes have been made.

First, two fraternities of last year, Delta Beta Kappa and Lambda Kappa Tau have merged to form the Greek group now known as Zeta Phi.

The faculty moved that hereafter Greek groups should be called fraternities instead of the somewhat musty "social groups" and that the Greek names be used instead of the old English names. It has been difficult to discard the old names and use the Greek ones; there is sometimes rather a lot of stammering and stuttering on the part of chapel announcers and a sort of dazed bewilderment on the face of the students. However, all agree that since we have fraternities and sororities instead of social groups, they should be called by the Greek names.

The ruling passed by Otterbein's trustees a year ago by which all Sophomores are compelled to room in King Hall filled most fraternities with financial uneasiness. However, the Greeks have had a prosperous year, and are looking forward to better fraternity life in 1932-33.

SORORITIES

SORORITIES—GROUPS OF FRIENDS

IN 1910 A GROUP OF FRIENDS on Otterbein's campus formed a sorority. Since then other groups of friends have done the same until now there are eight sororities in Otterbein College.

Although the spirit of friendship pervades the whole campus, there are groups of girls bound together by strong ties of mutual understanding and like ideals. In the fall of each year the girls in the sororities choose new girls whom they think will be happy in each group. The new girls too can choose the group they most admire.

Coleridge said, "Friendship is like a sheltering tree." The friends we have in our sororities are like sheltering trees of our college life and safe in their shelter we reach out to other friendships. Thus our sororities instead of limiting our friendships help to broaden them and make our college life worthwhile.

*"I count myself in nothing else so happy,
As in a soul rememb'ring my good friends."*

ROBERT LANE, Business Manager

THE GREAT DESIRE of every annual staff is originality—something different. On the face of it this seems almost impossible when the same elements, professors, classes, clubs, activities must of necessity be presented. However, there are various ways of handling these different elements. The task of giving the whole book some sort of unity is stimulating to the imagination. The art theme offers great possibilities in artistic conception.

We really feel that the theme of our book strikes a deep and vital chord in Otterbein life. We sincerely hope that it will strike a responsive note in you, the readers, that its connotation will impress your minds as you look at every picture, that by it your idea of friendships will be strengthened.

It has been difficult because of the general financial stress to produce the Sibyl this year. We realize it could be more elaborate and spectacular, but we hope that the message it brings and the memories it will recall in later years will be cherished by you. It is with pride that the Junior Class presents for your approval the 1932 Sibyl.

The Editor.

TAN AND CARDINAL

THE TAN AND CARDINAL experienced one of the hardest years in its history during this school term. Publication was stopped from December 15 to February 9 to avoid accumulating a higher debt. The criticism that was directed at the staff heads was great at times. The editor and business manager were merely carrying out the directions of the Publication Board. Nevertheless the paper was kept up and steady publication was resumed after February 9.

Over $500 was paid on the debt this year leaving the paper only $250 in debt at the end of the school year. This is the best state of finances for the Tan and Cardinal in many years. The debt had reached the heights of $1150 in 1930 and since then has been reduced to $250 by the staff members during the last two years. The staff heads this year were complimented by the college officials as having the most complete financial statements ever rendered by the management.

The Tan and Cardinal will be under the management of Mr. Lehman Otis and Mr. Dale B. Evans next year, in the capacities of Editor and Business Manager respectively. The staff heads look forward to a fine year in 1932-33 and will endeavor with the aid of their staff to surpass all former papers at Otterbein.

A highlight of the tour was the broadcast over Station KDKA, in Pittsburgh as an observance of Otterbein Night. The varsity quartet, all Freshmen from Lima, Ohio, proved an asset to this year's organization.

MEN'S DEBATE TEAM

WITH ONLY TWO VETERANS OTTERBEIN was able to finish the season with five wins against five losses. The question was, Resolved: That the collective ownership and control of the means of production and distribution is preferable to private ownership and control. In the Ohio Conference debates the affirmative lost to Ohio Northern and then won from Bluffton and Muskingum. The negative team lost to both Heidelberg and Kent and finished by winning from Capital. A two man team composed of Daniel Charles and Frederick Peerless broke even in a debate tournament at Baldwin-Wallace, winning two, and losing two.

ATHLETICS

FRIENDSHIP AND ATHLETICS

KNUTE ROCKNE credited the success of his teams to the friendship which existed between the members of his squads. He said that a team was a success only when every man was working to do his part as a member of the team, not for his own gain. This ideal can only be attained when every man on the squad is a friend to the other men.

This is not only true of football, but of all kinds of athletics. Friendship is the first thing that the Coach teaches his team. He realizes that friendship is necessary between the team members and the Coach for confidence.

Dr. Edler teaches that friendship precedes success in athletics. He does his best to make friendship the sound basis of his teams.

In no other phase of life is the true picture of a man so well shown as in the heat of athletic contest. The man who makes good on the team is the one who will make good in other situations.

1931 FOOTBALL SEASON

SINCE 1910 OTTERBEIN College football teams have but twice equaled, and have never surpassed the record attained by the 1931 Cardinal aggregation. Five of the eight games played were won, and none were ties. This is indeed an impressive record for ambitious Otterbein teams of the future to strive to beat.

Hiram was no match for the powerful machine which took the field for Otterbein in the first game of the season. It was the first inter-collegiate game for a number of the players, and they were anxious to try their mettle, which they did, showing to good advantage. The game was marked by good blocking, long runs, and machine-like play. Hiram made a gallant attempt, but was defeated 26-0.

Although defeated by Heidelberg on their Dad's Day at Tiffin, the team played one of the season's best games. The Student Princes were inside the ten yard line for twelve downs before they could score on the Otterbein players, and they did that but once, winning 7-0. This great goal-line defense was one of the season's high spots for the Cardinals. In this game, however, they showed a weakness which was apparent all season; it was fumbling, and it cost them a great deal.

A 20-6 defeat was the dose administered the blue-jerseyed players of Capital in return for the victory they had scored on Otterbein the previous season. The tan team scored at will, and the game was unimpressive, being termed by some writers "a poor high school exhibition." Capital's lone score came with a long run through a careless team in the last quarter. This, her own, was the first of the three home-coming tilts won by Otterbein during the season.

Then to Ohio Northern for her home-coming. Northern had a good team, but it could only hold the powerful Otterbein machine to 20 points, while being kept scoreless herself. The true strength of Otterbein, her reserves, showed well in the last quarter of this game.

These reserves started the game against Marietta on her home-coming, and held that team on even terms. The first team showed great power when they entered the game, but weren't pushed. They won too easily 13-0.

Kenyon next came to Westerville to give Otterbein another win 26-13. The Cardinal line played their best game of the season in this game.

A sea of mud, a long penalty, and a kick, blocked and recovered by Kent. Thus the whole story is told of Otterbein's loss to Kent State the next week at Kent. The condition of the field made football impossible, and the Kent team took advantage of the only break of the day for this surprise win.

Otterbein closed the season in glory, though defeated by John Carroll in the Municipal Stadium at Cleveland. The team showed a dogged defense and held a superior team 18-0 on a muddy field. Carroll was unable to score at all during the second half.

Doctor Edler led his team through this successful season as a fine group of friends. To this one thing, friendship, can the success of this team be attributed.

THE 1932 BASKETBALL SEASON

OTTERBEIN BOASTED one of the most successful teams in several seasons this year. This fact is particularly interesting when we recall that it was a Junior-Sophomore team.

A classy and more experienced quintet from Bowling Green was the first to bow to the Edlerites, but only by a scant one point margin. It was a nip and tuck affair, for neither squad had more than a four point advantage at any time. The Sophomores were much in evidence in this game as were they at Kenyon, the next victim of the Edler coached machine. The outcome 36-28, hardly does justice to the lopsided character of the contest.

Since Ohio Northern had lost their best players through graduation, revenge for the two defeats last season seemed eminent. But a closer observation of the fundamentals of basketball enabled the Polar Bears to emerge on the long end of a 36-27 count. The Cardinals still experienced difficulty in using their slow breaking offence to advantage.

The next contest was undoubtedly the most exciting of the year. Marietta, a traditional jinx for Otterbein's athletic teams, was forced into the second over-time period before a successful free throw determined the outcome. The final count was 43-42 in Marietta's favor.

In a return engagement Ohio Northern again showed a plucky Otterbein team that they were their masters in a hectic 35-24 victory. The game was a toss up until Otterbein's defense wilted under a barrage of passes which the Polar Bears steamed up near the end of the contest. The personal foul ruling again affected the efficiency of the Cardinals.

Otterbein's traditional foe, Capital, enabled the Red Birds to break their four game losing streak. Numerous fouls and the small Capital floor resulted in an uninteresting, low scoring contest. But by a number of well-timed spurts, the Edlerites emerged victorious to the tune of 30-26.

Otterbein wanted to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of the Heidelberg footballers. Their desire to do this resulted in a team that was too emotionally keyed up. Both quintets played the worst game of the season, and the score 25-15 shows that it was a purely defensive contest. The Home-coming crowd waited patiently for something to happen, but no one could get started.

The Cardinals then met the Conference champions. The score 44-26 does not correctly indicate the closeness of the tussle, for in the first half, especially, the Edler coached quintet was very much in evidence. The Mounts admitted that it was one of their hardest games that far in the season. The entire Otterbein team played real ball at Alliance.

The following evening, the Red Birds overwhelmed the Kent Staters. The team ran rough shod over their opponents, to register the highest score made by an Otterbein team for three years. Every man was "on," and every man who entered the game chalked at least one point up to his credit. As a result, when the final gun cracked, the score board read 57-39.

Otterbein Cardinals again trounced the scrappy Capital five in the return engagement at the Alumni Gymnasium. Although there were many costly fumbles and a great deal of poor guarding, still there was accurate shooting and scintillating pass work. The game was more lop-sided than the 33-26 score would indicate.

If it is not being presumptuous we should say that Otterbein is a jinx for Muskingum. Three years, in succession, the Muskies were outstanding favorites, and in as many years the Muskies were down by the Cards. There was a huge question mark in the mind of the fans as to whether Otterbein could repeat this year, for with but two minutes to play the score stood 29-24, with Otterbein trailing. Three baskets by Sam Andrews proved sufficient, however, for as the gun barked, the Cards had marked up 30 points to 29 for Muskingum.

The season was rung down in a blaze of glory with Kenyon providing the opposition. The score 51-17 reveals the truly sensational manner in which the Edler coached machine clicked both offensively and defensively.

As Dr. Edler said, the team spirit this year was unquestioned. They had that unity of purpose that always spells success. With all lettermen back, Otterbein should be a real threat in the Conference Championship race next year.

OTHER MAJOR SPORTS

THE 1931 BASEBALL SEASON

THE 1931 BASEBALL SEASON was a sad one for the followers of Otterbein. Six defeats were suffered, while but a single victory was scored. This poor record was overshadowed somewhat, however, by the fine prospects for the future. Most of the players were sophomores, there being but one senior, and a few juniors. The freshman team was excellent and there were several likely prospects for the 1932 varsity squad. With these bright prospects for the future most of the season was spent in careful training of the new men and little emphasis was placed on hot-flash training for each game. This perhaps, was one of the reasons for the poor season's record, but will in the long run be of benefit to Otterbein.

Despite the frequent losses, the team was not real poor, and it kept the scores all low, losing by but a few runs in each game. The lone victory was obtained at the expense of Muskingum, on her own field, in the sixth game of the season, with a score of 4-2.

THE OTTERBEIN TRACK TEAM

OTTERBEIN'S TRACK TEAM made a season's record of three wins and no defeats in 1931. This is the only team wearing the Otterbein colors which boasts a clear record for the past year. Track has always been Otterbein's best sport, and this year's aggregation upheld Otterbein tradition in fine style.

Ohio Northern came to Westerville for the first meet expecting to find easy victory at the expense of the Tan thinly-clads, but were surprised by the fine fight made by the home team. The meet was a very close affair, being won ultimately by virtue of the win in the mile relay; this broke a tie to give the Cardinal runners a 68-63 win.

Kenyon next came to the Otterbein field to give Otterbein her easiest meet of the season. Practically every event went to the Tan team, and the final score was 107 1-3 to 23 2-3.

The only out of town meet for the Otterbein team was that at Columbus against Capital. Here again the Otterbein team was far superior to the opposition, being at no time pressed. This was the only victory any Cardinal team scored against Capital in 1930-31 though the two met in five sports, having eight contests in all.

Of this fine team, only four men were lost by graduation, so the prospects mately by virtue of the win in the mile relay; this broke a tie to give the Cardinal runners a 68-63 win.

TENNIS SEASON 1931

WITH PRACTICALLY EVERY MAN on the squad new to varsity competition the 1931 Otterbein tennis team won but one meet and lost four. Of the entire 1930 team not one player was able to return to school leaving either by graduation or being forced to remain out because of other reasons. The boys were all good players, however, and improved steadily as the season advanced.

None of the players were Seniors, so prospects for 1932 are bright.

Kenyon was defeated on the Otterbein courts, with a score of 5-1, in the fourth meet of the season. The other matches with Wesleyan, Bonebrake, and Muskingum each resulted in the defeat of the Cardinal representatives. The following are the scores:

	Opp.	O. C.
Wesleyan	5	1
Bonebrake	5	0
Muskingum	4	2
Kenyon	1	5
Wesleyan	5	2

Otterbein followers look for a better season in 1932 with several players of previous seasons returning, as well as the men from 1931, and some fine Freshmen players.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL is composed of two parts—league and class. League basketball which precedes class basketball affords an opportunity for participation by all women who desire to play. This year the league teams are composed of sixty-five members. Four years ago, under the direction of Mrs. Florence Y. Johnson, the aim of "playing the game for the game's sake" was instituted. This ideal has proved very successful in the development of real sportsmanship and fair play.

FACTS ABOUT ANCIENT SIBYLS

PERHAPS YOU HAVE WONDERED why a yearbook should be called "The Sibyl." Being well aware of the prevailing laziness and the aversion of college students to consulting the encyclopedia, we have thought it advisable to include an explanation of the ancient legends surrounding the name, Sibyl.

Well, it was this way. These Sibyls were old women who lived in caves and told prophecies from the way the leaves blew around on the floor. Of course you can easily see the application to our annual. It has a delicate—very delicate charm and a subtle connotation.

Then there was one particularly famous old Sibyl who made up her mind to write her results with the leaves in the form of books. She was not pressing botanical specimens; she was writing the immortal Sibylline verses. She finally got nine of them through production, and since there was a depression just then, and the cost of maintaining caves was quite unreasonable, Sibyl decided to take her Sibylline books and sell them to a king.

The first king she ran across was Tarquin the Proud. Sibyl asked a high price for her books. (This is one point just a trifle inconsistent with the application to present day Sibyls.) Tarquin repelled her with a glance and said, "Nay, Nay, Sibyl," (or maybe it was "Nunc, Nunc," or "Nixo, Nixo," or "Nerts" or some other clever little Latin idiom.)

But was Sibyl daunted? No, and again no. She burned three of the books and offered the remaining copies to him for the same price. Again repulsed, she burned three more of the precious Sibyls and solicited the harrassed old king again. (Dear Sibyl readers from this example we have learned our persistence.) Good old Tarquin greatly touched and deeply moved (literal Latin translation) bought the Sibyls at the price demanded for the original nine. This was a wonderful precedent of both sound business dealings and ingenious salesmanship. It started the slogan "Get their emotions." To this lesson, applied by us of the Sibyl staff, we attribute our success in piling up our immense number of subscriptions. (From now on suppose you make your own applications.)

Tarquin never had cause to regret buying his Sibyls (please make application) as they proved very valuable for consultation and conciliation of the gods. Besides they caused a great many wars.

So you see by this lengthy tale that the Sibyl's writings were of no mean importance. Many Romans fought, bled and died for their Sibyls. Guard yours well, present students, for who knows but that in 3932 they may be considered the work of mortals divinely inspired.

THE END

A COLLEGIATE FABLE

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a little Freshman who had been inveigled into coming to Otterbein. His father was a bootlegger who had built himself a twenty-room house on Broadway and later settled down in the town of Westerville to enjoy the fruits of a life of toil. Then he decided to help Westerville by sending his son, whom we shall call Algernon Q. Flanney, to school.

"Now Al Q." he said, as he sent him forth the first day with a bright red apple in his hand to give to Prexy, "remember, do not study too hard. Your old grandfather went as far as the sixth grade before he was thrown out for calling the teacher a naughty name. He was only eighteen then but never was very strong after so much education."

After hearing this parental advice little Al Q. sallied forth and fearing he would become prematurely bald, he did not spend his evenings in King Hall reading his lessons but instead on the shores of Alum Creek or in the cemetery. While he was still a Freshman he got into difficulty because he went one night with his red-headed girl friend's room-mate. When Lily heard about this she hurled bricks and 17 other objects at Algernon Q. He finally recovered though and swore off women for life.

When he was a Sophomore, Dr. Snavely asked him one day when the Fall of Rome fell. Algernon brightly chirped "1776." After leafing about in the book to see whether this was right, Dr. Snavely found it was very wrong, and reprimanded our Al severely. Broken-hearted, he dropped the course.

In his Junior year he became involved with Dr. Mendenhall in a controversy about whether a football coach should fling stew parties for his team before or after the games. There is no justice—Doc won the argument.

When he was a Senior he had a talk with Dr. Valentine on married life, so he decided to renounce the world and take the veil, or the top-coat or whatever he could lay his hands on.

The day they passed the diplomas out Al Q. was there in his best suit. But lo! he was left waiting at the altar.

THE HALF-WIT INVADES THE SIBYL'S PAGES

Half-wit, like a bad penny turns up in the most unexpected places, church, jail, classes, and finally in the Sibyl. Will wonders never cease? I wonder?

The Sibyl is quite the nerts this year. It is earning millions for Editor Bowen. It is filled with flattering pictures of everything, students not excluded. The buildings look like a million bucks. The frats resemble palatial palaces, and the profs have an altruistic look on their maps. Oh, folks, such misrepresentation makes me shudder. How can such deceit and corruption continue year after year on our sacred campus?

The ornithology class went over to the Association building while pictures were being taken to study the cameraman's birdie; but after searching for hours they decided that perhaps they had been duped and camera birdies were extinct. Better luck next year, you poor unsuspecting souls.

The latest news-flash states that the Sibyl pays big dividends for 1932. The staff members receive the largest slices of profits, and each member of the Junior class receives five bucks. Oh, you lucky Juniors. Tish, Tish.

I have thought it over for a long time, for at least five minutes, and have decided that no class except the Junior class does anything worth while, and here's how I figures it out. The Freshmen burn down barns, and we suckers pay for them. The Sophs spend a year trying to impress upon us that they are no longer Freshies. The Juniors, however, put out the Sibyl, and boy, that is Something. The Seniors just hang around an extra year to criticize the Junior's Sibyl and run around in those cursed robes and haywire hats.

Half-wit congrats the Junior class on their 1932 Sibyl, and wants to thank them at this time for the check. Was I paid to write this article? No sir, not so you could notice it. I received money, not for the article, but for the use of my name. I threw in the article extra, believe it or not.

Half-wit and the other Seniors regret that we can find no fault with this Sibyl. We hope, however, that a better Sibyl is put out next year so that the present Junior class will have no cause for complaint. It hurts to compliment when you want to gripe, but here goes with regrets, "O. K. Juniors."

Half-wit is going, going, gone. So long folks. To have to say good-bye is sorrow, but to stick around is to invite and incite bodily injury. Half-wit says, "Cheerio, so long, and au revoir."

DO RE MI-DO RE MI

You know where the Sibyl office is, way down in the basement of Lambert Hall. Well, Lambert Hall at best is not quiet, but about four o'clock in the afternoon when the Men's Glee Club, the College Soprano and the College Bass, the organist, the cornetist, the would-be violinist and other embryonic virtuosos start to practice the hubbub reaches a climax. One could sleep in peace between the San Francisco earthquake and a Democratic Convention after becoming used to all this!

And that rythm orchestra! We have never had the heart to really investigate and find out what it is that the youthful cherubs bang together over there, but it has all the discordant sounds of monkey wrenches hurled into whirling fly-wheels, pie pans recklessly cast around and the mournful note of the cow-bell.

Far be it from us to discourage this enterprise, but after a year of living through this, the staff is all going to work this summer in a nice quiet boiler-factory.
