Science Building Contract To Be Let

March 7th is the date set for opening of bids on Otterbein's new science building, according to Woodrow R. Macke, business manager. At that time it will be determined whether the architect's plans have been realistic in terms of increased costs, or whether further changes will be required. Mr. Macke indicates that several factors have been involved in the long delay in construction of the building.

When the Focus on Achievement program was inaugurated in 1962, a part of the million-dollar goal was allocated for an addition to and renovation of the present science building, McFadden Hall. Since that time, however, building costs have increased considerably. In addition, the decision of the board of trustees to increase the student body to its present number has made it advisable to increase classroom space and equipment accordingly, and it was decided that a separate building should be built.

A government grant of $300,000 was approved in 1965. However, with the addition of more space and the increase in building costs, the total of $900,000 was found to be inadequate for the two projects. New plans had to be drawn, involving an estimated $1,000,000 for construction and equipment of the new building alone. (Renovation of the exterior of McFadden Hall has been completed at a cost of $100,000.00.)

Mr. Macke indicates that an application has already been made for a government loan to help complete the financing of the project, and that the college is free to apply for a further grant of one-third of the building cost above $900,000.

Money contributed in the Focus on Achievement for the building is invested with other college funds and the income is being added to the fund.

Dr. Margaret Baker Kelly Honored

Named Woman of the Year by the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club, Dr. Margaret Baker Kelly, '27, spoke at the February 18th dinner on the subject "Thirty Years in the Laboratory." Remarking on the increased use of laboratory testing in the diagnosis and treatment of illness, Doctor Kelly noted that while the Akron Children's Hospital had doubled its original 125-bed capacity, the laboratory had multiplied by more than ten times its original facilities and staff. She has been director of the pathology laboratory since going to the hospital in 1938. She received her M.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

Spotlighting the excitement of laboratory work in the field of medicine, the honor guest spoke of her introduction to microscopy in her first botany class at Otterbein under Dr. E. W. E. Schear. She stated that she has never lost her love of the order and beauty which she found at that time in a cross section of a simple stem. Touching on the hundreds of laboratory tests which are now used for diagnostic purposes, the pathologist gave special emphasis to the field of birth defects and the abnormalities which cause them, an important aspect of the work of Children's Hospital.

A College Is People

Most alumni, parents and other friends of the college have little occasion to visit their office personally. In the minds of our readers, therefore, the alumni and development offices may seem like a far-off impersonal mail-order house from which come automatic appeals for money, announcements of meetings, and a quarterly magazine.

Not so! These two offices, combined for efficient use of mailing lists and coordinate planning, are indeed personal. The people who work here are people with a vision of service—service to alumni and other friends, and service to Otterbein.

The combined offices now occupy a house at 177 West Park Street purchased several years ago from Miss Lena Robins, next door to Emeritus Professor and Mrs. J. F. Smith. Except for the fact that it is too far from the center of campus activity, the house offers several advantages for such a workshop type of operation.

Who are the people and what do they do?

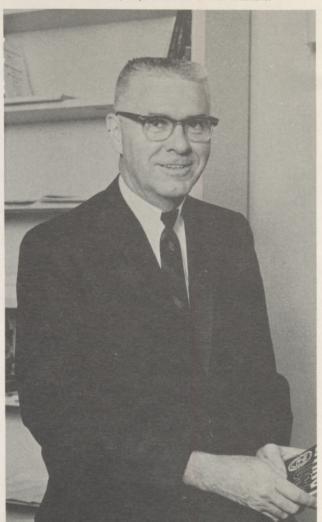

The former study of the home is occupied by Dr. Wade S. Miller, vice president in charge of development. A graduate of Lebanon Valley College and Bonebrake (now United) Theological Seminary, and an honorary alumnus of Otterbein, Doctor Miller directs the total department of alumni and church relations, development and deferred giving programs. He is executive director of the development program, and is a member of the Development Board.

In years of service only, he is the "old man of the campus," for he will soon complete his 25th year at Otterbein. His efforts were responsible for the success of the financial campaign during the Centennial years of the forties and the establishment of the Second Century Development Program which has made Otterbein richer by a total of $6,503,971 since its beginning in 1948. With a vision of long-range planning as well as short-term organization concerned with fund raising and public relations, his counsel is often requested by his peers in other colleges and universities. Dr. and Mrs. Miller are the parents of a son and a daughter, both Otterbein graduates.

Occupying comfortable offices on the second floor of the house are Richard T. Pflieger, '48, and Chester R. Turner, '43, both assistant directors of development.

Dick Pflieger's duties involve the planning of alumni meetings, the organization of new alumni clubs, arrangements for on-campus alumni affairs, workshops, reunions, homecomings, etc. In addition, he conducts the mail appeal of alumni and the telephone campaigns for the annual development

Mr. Pflieger has an M.A. degree from Ohio State University. He and his wife (Dorothy Mikesell, '48)

have a son and two daughters.

Chester R. Turner is a graduate of Bonebrake (now United) Theological Seminary, and serves as director of church relations. Under his direction is the cultivation of good communication between the college and her sponsoring church at the conference and local level. Working with ministers and lay associates of local churches, Chet promotes an understanding of the problems of the college and the ways in which college and church can be mutually benefited. The Dollar-per-Member program of the church, in which EUB students receive direct scholarship aid, is one of the important projects encouraged by his office.

The Turners (she was Margaret Biehn, '43) have a daughter who is a freshman at Otterbein, and a son in high school.

Evelyn Edwards Bale, '30, is assistant to the vice president in charge of development and writereditor of the Towers. She serves as office manager, coordinating and supervising the various operations of the office, writes many of the thousands of letters sent from the office each year, and serves as editorial adviser for much of the printed matter. In her capacity as Towers editor her greatest problem is fitting the wealth of material into the allotted number of pages. A former teacher, she did graduate work at Ohio State University, spent nine years in student-public relations at Ohio State, and has been on the Otterbein staff for thirteen years. She and her husband (William G., '50) have a son and a daughter, both Otterbein graduates.

Marcia Rumbaugh, a graduate of the College of Wooster, is secretary to Doctor Miller and receptionist. Her duties also include record keeping for the development fund and the preparation of weekly, monthly and annual reports of giving.

Marian Havens Becker, '50, is alumni records clerk. She is shown at left with senior Meg Clark Million, one of ten students who work in the office under the work-study program. Meg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark (Betty Woodworth, '42).

Mrs. Becker has the overwhelming task of keeping nearly 18,000 addresses up to date, addressing thirty or thirty-five mailings a year for a total of some 150,000 pieces. One of the recent "extras" was fulfilling the requirement of the Post Office Department for zip codes on all second and third class mail. Mrs. Becker's husband, John, '49, is the Otterbein librarian, and they have a son and a daughter.

One of the blessings of being an alumnus of Otterbein is that of friendship—friendship with classmates and respected teachers, and friendship with other former students all over the world. Helping to nurture these friendships is one of the purposes of the alumni offices, by sponsoring local alumni meetings and creating new clubs, by furnishing addresses of personal friends, by planning workshops and reunions on campus, and by keeping alumni informed through the pages of Towers. Social meetings of Otterbein people, frequent contacts over the years, working together on projects, may lead only to the security of "belonging" to a wonderful group. Or it may lead to business alliances, to close personal friendships, to enduring relationships "till death us do part."

Serving as secretary to Mr. Turner is Betty Benadum Walker, whose duties also include record keeping and billing, and assisting in the writing of letters of appreciation. She is shown here at the new addressograph. She and her husband John have a son in Otterbein and a daughter.

LuAnna Clapham Ulry, a former Capital student, takes dictation from her boss, Richard Pflieger.

Another primary purpose of the combined offices is that of fund raising. Like all private colleges, Otterbein must depend on gifts to help subsidize the operational budget and scholarship funds, and to provide most of the new buildings, new endowed funds and other capital improvements. Working with alumni officers, committees, trustees, board members and other leaders, the staff of these offices dreams of a greater Otterbein and puts its dreams into action. It does so with no apology, for such activity blesses not only each new generation of students who benefit directly, but brings the greatest possible satisfaction to those who give of their time, their talents, and their money.

The office is a busy place and a noisy one. Three or more typewriters are likely to be clicking away simultaneously. The ponderous graphotype talks back with its constant ker-plunk-a, ker-plunk-a, ker-plunk. The addressograph adds its own special rhythm to the cacaphony that makes up the daily routine of the combined offices.

The secretaries may be typing notices of alumni meetings, or copy for printed matter, or letters of appreciation to contributors. A student graphotype operator is making new plates for persons whose addresses have changed. The addressograph may be spewing forth notices of meetings, or appeals for funds, or class cards for reunion chairmen. Or it may be making a list of alumni in Denver or Los Angeles or Akron or Toledo or Washington, D.C.—lists which must constantly be revised to take care of the frequent changes.

There is the frequent buzz of the telephone on three outside lines and an inter-com. There is the sound of voices, too: questions asked and answered, projects discussed, procedures planned, schedules approved, dreams dreamed aloud.

You've seen our faces now. Why not stop for a personal visit to get better acquainted? And whether in person or by mail, we hope you will share our dreams of a better Otterbein.

Did someone announce a $10,000 gift? Or was it only an amusing story? Dr. Wade Miller holds a conference with associates Richard Pflieger, standing; Chester Turner and Evelyn Bale.

focus on faculty

Dr. Harold Hancock, chairman of the Department of History and Government, has received a $400 grant from the American Philosophical Society for research in the National Archives and the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., on Delaware's reconstruction period

Congratulations to George Phinney of the Biology Department, who will receive his Ph.D. degree in Zoology at the March 16th commencement at Ohio State University.

Dr. LaVelle Rosselot, '33, received the AFROTC Outstanding Service Award in November, the citation reading in part: "The United States Air Force is most appreciative for the high degree of preparation of its AFROTC graduates of Otterbein College in the area of foreign language capability. Their success is due in large measure to the personal efforts of Doctor Rosselot."

A new teacher training film has been released by Encyclopaedia Brittanica Films Inc., spotlighting Doctor Rosselot and Otterbein College as pioneers in this modern teaching method.

Selections for the poetry of Professor Todd Zeiss were read over WOSU Radio on February 15.

Dr. Michael Herschler, assistant professor of biology, has been granted $11,600 to continue his three-year research studies, "Cytogenetic Aspects of Embryonic Secual Development." His assistant in the project is Beverly Ann Miller, '65, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Verle Miller, '35. The grant was made by the Child Health and Human Development Institute of Health of the Public Health Service.

Dr. Roy H. Turley has been appointed by President Lynn W. Turner as Co-ordinator of Research and Development Programs at Otterbein. Professor Franklin Young, Woodrow Macke, Albert Horn, and Dr. James Miller have been named with Doctor Turley to a new committee of the college Development Board. Their immediate concern will be the preparation of a proposal for a grant under the College Science Improvement Program of the National Science Foundation. The chairman will also co-ordinate projects on campus which require foundation support and institutional endorsement. The appointment was made as part of a more vigorous pursuit of funds from foundations and government agencies to improve teaching and increase efficiency of operation at Otterbein.

Dr. Robert Price, Professor of English and author of Johnny Appleseed: Man and Myth, received a souvenir sheet of the Johnny Appleseed commemorative stamps, autographed by Senator Frank J. Lausche and by Lawrence O'Brien, Postmaster General of the United States.

Trustee Honored

James Ralph Riley, president of Suburban Motor Freight and trustee of Otterbein College, received the Distinguished Citizen Award of the Central Ohio Chapter, Public Relations Society of America on November 17th. It was a "This Is Your Life" type of presentation with more than 200 friends participating.

President Lynn W. Turner of Otterbein and President Novice Fawcett of Ohio State University were among those who spoke. Craig Gifford, '57, was chairman. The award was made to Mr.

The award was made to Mr. Riley in recognition of his "outstanding contribution to the welfare of his fellow man and to the growth of his community" while making effective use of the principles of good public relations.

Suburbanews, published by Suburban Motor Freight, recently carried an article by Kal Kalwary on Otterbein and Westerville, and it was distributed to 17,000 people in the Central States area.

"Within this area," says the author, "are more than 400 independent schools of higher learning, which rely on their drive for excellence and tenacity for survival. One such of these schools—

Speech and Debate Teams Win Trophies

Appropriately celebrating its sixtieth year, the speech department has won important victories in inter-collegiate competition during the first semester.

Winning awards in the State Women's Individual Events Championship meet were Jinny Schott, first place in extemporaneous speaking, Barbara Berst, first place in peace oratory, and Linda Lebold, third place in manuscript reading.

The debate team has traveled over 3,400 miles to represent Otterbein in national inter-collegiate competition, winning over such schools as Ohio State University, University of Pittsburgh, Capital University, Wayne State University, and Bowling Green. Decisions such as these have brought eleven trophies and first place in the Otterbein Holiday Tourney-the first time in 20 years that Otterbein has won its own tourney. It was also the first year that the Harry Jensen Rotating Trophy (given by a local jeweler) was awarded.

The Otters also took first place in the Ohio Wesleyan Novice Tournament, and second place in the Ohio Wesleyan Invitational.

The biggest win of the season for the debaters was their victory at Geneva College in Pennsylvania, where in the novice division Otterbein won first place with a nine-one record. The affirmative novice team, composed of Ann Bach and Barbara Berst, won 5-0 and received an award for the second best affirmative team in the tourney. Tom Lauchner and Bob Fortner carried off the trophy for the best negative team.

In the varsity division, Bonnie O'Leary and Dick McDowell added points to the sweepstakes trophy, and Sue Daniels and Dick Crable posted a four-one record to win best affirmative team.

The Otterbein debaters also entered the individual events division of the tournament and Bob Fortner won fourth place in extemporaneous speaking. Dick Crable won first place in oratory over second place University of Pittsburgh and third place Indiana University. Both the debate record and individual events were totaled toward the tournament sweepstakes trophy, also won by Otterbein.

Bishop Howard Married

Bishop J. Gordon Howard, '22, former Otterbein president, was married in February to Mrs. Katherine Shannon, widow of the late Bishop Paul Shannon of the E.U.B. Church. The Rev. Mr. Ray Higgins, brother of Mrs. Shannon, was the officiating minister at the private ceremony.

Judge Horace W. Troop Receives "O" Award

Judge Horace W. Troop, '23, was the recipient of the annual "O" Club Achievement Award for 1966 at the fall Homecoming dinner of the club. The club also paid tribute to seven of its friends by presenting them with "O" Club blankets in recognition of their services. Honor guests at the game and dinner were twenty members of the 1946 championship football team.

Honorary membership was granted to George Novotny, former Otterbein coach and recreation director at North American; Colonel Brad Fawley, director of the Campus Center; Robert Ramage, manager of the Westerville branch of City National Bank; Oscar Lord, assistant director, State Automobile Mutual Insurance Company: Dr. Harold Boda, chairman of the Otterbein Board of Trustees; Paul Askins, Westerville realtor; Dick Fishbaugh, Otterbein coaching staff; Nick DeCenzo, Westerville High School teacher and assistant Otter coach; Bill Skaates, assistant director, College Information Service; Jim Nivins, Engineer at North American; Ned Green of the State Board of Education; Harold Crose, Robert Kenny, John Doyle and Kenneth Priest, all Westerville business men.

New "O" Club directors recently appointed are: Dr. Larry Cline and Judge Fred Shoemaker. It was announced at the dinner, attended by 150 members and guests, that a gift of seventy tan blazers has been presented by an anonymous member of the club.

Guest Conductor

Dr. Martin Mailman, professor of music at North Texas State University, was guest conductor for the Otterbein College Symphony of Winds annual home concert on February 12. The concert climaxed a three-day visit by Doctor Mailman, during which he lectured to faculty and students and presented a lecture-demonstration to the Westerville High School Concert Band.

HFC Contributes

Otterbein is one of 698 privately supported colleges to which Household Finance Corporation contributes each year in the 48 states in which the corporation has offices, and in the District of Columbia. Distribution is based on full-time enrollment, and the gifts range from $100 to $1,000. Otterbein received $150 in 1966, the eleventh year of the program.

A Cappella Choir Sings Nationwide

The Otterbein A Cappella Choir, directed by Professor Richard Chamberlain, has been heard during January and February on the nation-wide Protestant Hour. The program, now in its 21st year, is heard in 48 states including Alaska and Hawaii, and in Newfoundland, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

In December the choir participated in the Christmas Choral Concert Series over the Mutual Broadcasting System. Only six other college choirs were selected for this nationwide series. They were also heard on a 12-station network in Ohio in the fall and winter on a series sponsored by the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges.

Music Department Given Award

The Otterbein College Department of Music was the recipient of a Special Award of Merit from the National Federation of Music Clubs for its outstanding participation in National Music Week during 1966. The department received a similar award in 1965.

Angel Flight Wins

The Otterbein Angel Flight Drill Team placed second to the Ohio State team at the Purdue Invitational Drill Meet in February, one of the largest one-day collegiate meets in the country. The Angel Flight is an auxiliary of the AFROTC.

Guest Actor

Albert Dekker will be the professional guest artist of "Our Town," being presented March 9, 10 and 11 at Cowan Hall. Eight local residents have been selected for parts in the "town and gown" cast, with students carrying the remainder of the roles. Mr. Dekker will play the role of the "stage manager."

Cards Have Impressive Season

By Craig Gifford

Sporting an impressive record of 16 victories and 5 losses, the Otterbein College basketball team now (as we go to press) prepares itself for the Ohio Conference Tournament in hopes of emerging with a spot in the NCAA small college tourney.

Coach Curt Tong's cagers have packed Alumni Gym this year and were victorious in all home contests except the last one when they lost in the final two seconds to Kenyon 80-78. That loss snapped a 21-game win streak on the Otterbein court.

The Cards started off with three quick and impressive victories over Oberlin, Mt. Union and Muskingum before entering a holiday tournament at St. Cloud, Minnesota. At St. Cloud the Cards lost their opening game to the St. Cloud State quintet, 58-56. However, they bounced back to dump St. Johns, Minnesota and nationally ranked St. Thomas in their next two outings.

Following the Christmas break, the Otters overpowered Central State, 61-40; dumped Ohio Northern, 95-81; and then lost their first conference encounter to Baldwin-Wallace, 62-55. This was the largest loss the Otters suffered all season and can be partially attributed to the loss of ace guard Tim Pond, who sat out the game with a broken bone in his foot.

With Pond still out of action the Otters managed to score a 99-88 win over Capital but lost a thriller to Ohio Wesleyan, 72-71. In the latter encounter Pond saw action but was far from being up to full strength.

One of the biggest wins of the season was recorded Jan. 21 when the Otters suddenly "jelled" midway through the second half and overcame a 15 point deficit to upset Ohio University 75-68 even though they were behind by 11 points with only five minutes to play

The Ohio University win put the Otters on a long victory streak. They scored an easy win over Kentucky Southern, handed Marietta its first conference loss, and defeated Heidelberg and Denison with little trouble.

This brought the Zips of Akron University to town and Alumni Gym was full by 6:30 for the 8:00 encounter. Ranked fourth in the country, the Zips were heavy favorites to down the Cards. But it wasn't to be. Otterbein scored an impressive 72-68 win with Terry McCammon scoring 21 points. Three days later Wittenberg, leader of the Ohio Conference and sporting a record of 9-0 came to town.

It was an especially big game for the Otters and they came through with flying colors, winning 77-68 behind Don Carlos' 35-point performance.

The two big victories in a short period of time seemed to be enough to put the Otters on easy street but it wasn't. Trouble hit the team. Don Carlos was sidelined with a pinched nerve in his back and the team played without him at Wooster, barely losing, 58-56

With Carlos back, the Otters lost to a red-hot Kenyon team four days later, again by two points, 80-78, but in the season final they scored a two-point win, thanks to a basket in the final two seconds by Tim Pond for a 61-59 win over Hiram.

The Otters have received national recognition with this fine ball club and prior to the Kenyon game were ranked 12th in the country among the small colleges by United Press International.

alumni club activities

Whenever Otterbein people get together there is that old nostalgia for the QPV, mixed with the warmth of friendships old and new. We know of at least seventeen such meetings since the last issue of Towers, and they are reported below, along with plans for future meetings.

President and Mrs. Lynn W. Turner arranged a trip to the West Coast to include meetings in Arizona, Colorado and California in January, and Dick Pflieger, '48, met with groups in Florida, Pennsylvania and New York.

AKRON—A smorgasbord dinner was held October 21 at Fairlawn Village Restaurant. Plans were discussed for the February 19th card party to raise money for the Summit County Scholarship Fund.

ARIZONA—On January 11, nineteen Arizona residents met in Phoenix with President and Mrs. Lynn W. Turner. Richard Rule, '42, Mary Ellen Armentrout, '66, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berry, '63, agreed to organize an Arizona Alumni Club.

CINCINNATI—A luncheon meeting is scheduled for May 7, with details to be announced.

CLEVELAND—Robert Studer, '59, president, reports a turnout of seventeen for a dinner meeting prior to the Otterbein-Baldwin-Wallace basketball game on January 10. Coach Curt Tong, '56, spoke to the group before joining the team. Chester Turner, '43, also attended.

COLUMBUS—Columbus alumni met for dinner at the Campus Center before the Winter Homecoming game with Heidelberg. Speeches were short, and the score was in Otterbein's favor, of course. The new president is Ray Lilly, '36.

COLORADO—Plans for organizing a Colorado Alumni Club were discussed January 9 when area alumni met for dinner at the Continental Denver. A committee composed of Joe Ariki, '46, Phyllis Wilson, '51, and Charlotte Patterson, x'44, will study the possibility of formal organization.

DAYTON—A dinner meeting is scheduled at Seven Nations Motel Restaurant on April 8.

DETROIT—This active club has met twice since the Autumn TOWERS—on November 12 at the home of Mary Meyers Griffiths, '23, and on January 14 at the home of Elizabeth Marsh Walter, '26. Next meeting will be a dinner at the Greenfield Restaurant on March 11. David Cheek, '63, president, has arranged for Otterbein Dean James V. Miller to be the speaker.

FINDLAY—An organizational meeting was held October 25 with the following officers elected: Mary Lou Poorman Flanagan, '53, president; O. P. Oppelt, '20, vice president; and Sally Wareham, '54, secretary. A second meeting will be held in the spring in Lima.

FLORIDA GOLD COAST—Nineteen local and four vacationing alumnimet at the Beach Club in Fort Lauderdale on January 12. Perry Wysong, '39, was re-elected president and Harold Anderson, '24, was named secretary. Dick Pflieger, '48, answered questions about the college. Next meeting will be on February 18 at Tampa Airport Motel Restaurant.

GREENSBURG—On November 16, club president J. Robert Munden, '35, arranged for an enjoyable evening at the Mountain View Inn. Alumni and parents viewed a filmstrip about the college shown by Dick Pflieger.

CENTRAL INDIANA—A Coffee Get-Together is planned for 2:00 P.M. on March 5, at 3215 East 48th Street, Indianapolis.

PITTSBURGH—A spring potluck dinner is next on the program for Pittsburgh alumni. The new officers are Margaret (Peg) English, '61, president; Gloria Howard Schutz, '55, secretary; and John Lloyd, '60, treasurer. The November 22 meeting brought out sixteen members to the Downtown YMCA for dinner and fellowship.

SAN FRANCISCO-Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews, '52, were hosts at a business and social meeting at their Fremont home on January 13. John reports that "we enjoyed a fine evening with the Turners and were pleased to learn of Otterbein's plans for the future." The constitution suggested by the Alumni Association was approved and the club officers were reelected: John Matthews, '52, president; John Shively, '33, vice president; Carolyn Ford Fackler, '49, secretary; and Emmor Widdoes, '30, treasurer. Next meeting will be a family picnic September 24th at the Widdoes home in Sebastopol.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—While they were in the west President and Mrs. Turner had a delightful evening on January 14 with the Southern California Club at the home of Walter and Betty Plummer Martin, '27, in Los Angeles. Dick Wagner, '41, president, reports an interesting and funfilled meeting, with sixty in attendance!

UPPER MIAMI VALLEY—Charles Selby, '57, was instrumental in getting a group of alumni together to organize a club in the area. It was decided another meeting would be held on April 14, and Harry Ashburn, '49, and Pauline Hammon have consented to serve as coordinators. The area includes Troy, Piqua, Greenville, and Sidney.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Blackie's House of Beef was the site of a dinner meeting held November 15. Dick and Carolyn Sherrick, '54 and '53, club officers, called the meeting, and Dick Pflieger talked about some of the new plans for Otterbein. Alumni Association president Denton Elliott, '37, also spoke briefly. Nate Roberts, x'27, supplied all takers with giant-size political cigars. Singing of the "Love Song" came just in time!

Space Engineer

What do Otterbein people have to do with putting the first man on the moon? One man plays a very important role. Frank Van Sickle, '41, and his wife (Mary Jane Kline, '42) moved to the bayou country of Louisiana when the Chrysler Corporation created a new Space Division in 1962 to build large rocket-powered booster stages for the SATURN space vehicle at the huge Michoud Assembly Facility, a part of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

Van, in his fourteenth year with Chrysler, is the chief engineer in charge of scientific computer operations, of logistics engineering and supply, of technical publications, and of graphic arts services. The Van Sickles have two daughters: Gretchen, a senior at Otterbein, and Heidi, a sixth grade student in Mandeville, Louisiana.

Chrysler builds, tests, launches the uprated SATURN I, the first stage which starts the manned Apollo spacecraft on its way into orbital flight around the Earth, and performs engineering and systems integration work on the Apollo-Saturn Launch Vehicle

A major portion of Van's work is devoted to the use of electronic computers as solvers of mathematics problems and as processors of information. Computers are used extensively by Chrysler for designing the products they build, for predicting the performance of the space vehicles they test and launch, and for evaluating their performance following space missions. Answers, before the fact, must be obtained to a great many questions about how the structures, aerodynamics, powerplants and control systems of an uprated SAT-URN I will operate under numerous flight conditions. These conditions are expressed by mathematical models representing various parts of the booster, which are put together to represent the whole vehicle and are "programmed" into computers which then simulate the performance of a real flight. Many simulations of the predicted behavior of the booster and many entire flights of the vehicle are made by using computer models before the vehicle is launched. The space program, which has enormously expanded the capability for the development and engineering of complex system, is highly dependent upon computers for processing the information needed for planning system and coordinating the application of resources. Van's staff of mathematicians, data processing specialists and computer programmers develop the "software" or instructions for controlling the computers in these operations.

Another area of his responsibilities is that known as logistics. The timing of the complex launch of an Apollo spacecraft is critical and can be vitally affected by the availability, or lack of it, of a replacement part of exactly the right kind at the right place at the right time.

That's what Van's logistics organization is in business for: to figure out in advance what parts can be replaced on the launch pad; which ones should be stocked as spares; how many of each should be stocked; to acquire and maintain an up-to-date inventory of about 200,000 parts for the uprated SATURN I stage.

No organization can be effective without ways of recording and communicating information, Van's organization provides literally acres of engineering drawings (blueprints) for the manufacturing operations; writes and illustrates technical manuals showing how to operate, trouble-shoot, and repair manufactured items; makes motion pictures of laboratory testing operations, prepares training films and record events with general motion picture and still photo coverage; and runs a general publishing house which puts out each year a collection of technical documents about equal in size to a set of the Encyclopedia Brittanica.

Frank M. Van Sickle

Van joined Chrysler Corporation in 1953 as an early member of the Division. Missile Detroit-based There he worked with the Chrysler teams that built and launched the Redstone and Jupiter missiles, which placed the first United States payloads and astronauts into space. Prior to that, after graduating from California's Boeing School of Aeronautics in 1942, he was employed by United Airlines and Marchant Calculators in Washington, D.C.

Educator

G. Scott Hammond, '40, has been working for the education of South-East Asian children since 1959, when he and his wife (Jean Cook, '40) and their four daughters went to South Korea under the Agency for International Development (AID).

In 1961 he was moved to Saigon, where he served as top education adviser to AID and the South Viet Nam government. Since last summer he has been headquartered in Washington and makes periodic trips to South Viet Nam.

According to Doctor Hammond, the Republic of Viet Nam is engaged in a courageous struggle against the threat of Communist subversion. Despite the war, the Vietnamese are determined to create a new nation, and the institutions essential to sustain that nation, during the years ahead. "Whether you talk to a farmer in the rice fields or to a high government official," he says, "you will quickly learn that the people of Viet Nam place a high value upon educational opportunity. The war against the Viet Cong has not obliterated this goal or weakened it."

The program of educational assistance, conceived jointly by representatives of Viet Nam and the United States, has two approaches: (1) a long-range program to develop a system of education to produce trained manpower required for social and economic progress; and (2) a special-impact program which offers the benefits of education to rural people. The program has concentrated in four major projects: hamlet schools, instructional materials, vocational education, and teacher training.

Doctor Hammond believes that the program is making headway toward educating South Viet Nam's six million school-aged youngsters. He says that the number of Vietnamese children in elementary school has risen from 500,000 in 1954 to 1,600,000 today. There are 375,000 teenagers in secondary schools compared to 50,000 in 1954. In 1954 there was only one university, and today South Viet Nam has five.

In a typical Vietnamese classroom, the children do not have books, but a project was organized to provide textbooks, maps, charts and other materials. Vietnamese teachers, artists and editors, with an American adviser, have produced manuscripts at a phenomenal rate in arithmetic, health, history, geography, and other subjects.

Dr. Hammond received a Ph.D. at Ohio State University after World War II Seabee service, and served as school superintendent in several Ohio school districts before joining the AID program in 1959. The Hammonds' oldest daughter, Carol Jean, is enrolled at Otterbein as a freshman.

Physician

Dean C. Elliott

Dr. Dean C. Elliott, '44, has recently been elected to the Board of Governors at Burns Clinic, Petoskey, Michigan, where he is head of the department of ear, nose, and throat.

He is a graduate of the College of Medicine of Ohio State University, served his internship at Providence Hospital in Detroit, and specialized in ear, nose and throat as a Fellow of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. During his Mayo fellowship he also received a M.S. degree in otolaryngology from the University of Minnesota.

Doctor Elliott practiced in Dayton for four years, served in the Air Force for two years, and has been at the Burns Clinic since 1956. He is married to the former Gwen Murphy, '44, and they have a son and two daughters. He is the son of Mrs. Howard W. Elliott (Mildred Cook, '14) and the late Mr. Elliott, '15.

Restaurateur

Robert L. Corbin

"From Bus Boy to President" might be the title of the success story of Robert Corbin, '49, who was named "Restaurateur of the Year" on December 7th by the Miami Valley Restaurant Association in Dayton. A bus boy during his student days, Bob went to work in 1953 as personnel manager of Foodcraft Management Corporation (then called the Silver Dome System), which at the time operated a couple of hamburger places and did industrial catering. He became general manager within a few weeks and later executive vice president. In 1964 he bought a controlling interest and became president of the firm, which is said to do more than $4,000,000 worth of business annually.

Foodcraft now operates cafeterias at Culp's Far Hills; Culp's Midtown; the Talbott Terrace and the 500 Room in the Hulman Building; and furnishes luxury facilities at the Seven Nations in the Imperial North Motel, Helen of Troy off Interstate 75; the Kings Inn, Columbus; Holiday Inn, Chillicothe; and the Blue Dolphin in Mansfield.

The Restaurateur of the Year was cited for many accomplishments, not only in his own business, but for the food industry as a whole, such as his presidency of the MVRA, his chairmanship of the International Food Service Management Guild; the MVRA political action committee and the Ohio State Restaurant Association's program committee.

In September he and Mrs. Corbin (Edith Peters, '49) traveled to Paris, where Bob presided over a five-day conference of the International Guild. They also traveled in several countries to purchase paintings and other art objects to enhance the international atmosphere of his restaurants. They had previously made a restaurant tour of Europe in 1962. The Corbins are the parents of two daughters.

Bob is active in community affairs, is a member of Agonis Club, a director of Walnut Grove Country Club, serves as chairman of the Pastor and Parish Committee of Normandy EUB Church, and has served as president of the Miami Valley Otterbein Alumni Association.

Consultant

It is "business for himself" for Robert E. Moore, '54, who resigned a fine position as manager of corporate insurance at Armco Steel to devote full time to his own management consulting firm—R. E. "Bob" Moore Associates, located in West Middletown, Ohio.

Bob entered the industrial engineering department at Armco in 1956 after two years with the Quartermaster Corps in Japan, and became one of the youngest corporate managers at Armco in 1964.

Robert E. Moore

At Otterbein Bob was president of his freshman class, his fraternity and the Interfraternity Council. A member of the varsity debate team, he won the Grand National Intercollegiate-Oratorical Championship with a speech on public safety. At Armco he has developed two special courses to teach effective speaking, and is the author of a speech text, "Effective Presentation." He is married to the former Doris Kelk, '55, and they have three daughters.

Bob's firm will specialize in management development with emphasis on personal motivation and communications, and will also represent "Success Motivation Institute, Inc."

Elmer N. Funkhouser, Jr.

Vice President

In a move to further implement its diversification into new fields of business and expand its international activities, the American Can Company has announced the appointment of Elmer N. Funkhouser, Jr., '38, as vice president and general manager for these operations. He will direct activities of American Can's international operations, as well as those of M&T Chemicals Inc. and Impact Graphics, Inc., wholly-owned subsidiaries.

Mr. Funkhouser's activities will add emphasis to the company's plan for growth in new fields, as well as in its present areas of business—container and packaging products, consumer, service, and chemical products, according to William F. May, chairman and chief executive officer.

The international operations under Mr. Funkhouser's jurisdiction are located in Brazil, Colombia, France, Israel, Japan, Mexico, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Venezuela and West Germany.

Mr. Funkhouser joined the American Can Company in October, 1966 as vice president - assistant to the chairman, and assumed his current responsibilities on December 16th. He came to the company from American Metal Climax, Inc., where he had served as executive vice president and a director since May, 1962.

Earlier he had served successively as executive vice president of the Cryovac Division of W. R. Grace & Company, and as assistant to the group executive for chemicals, W. R. Grace & Co. From 1941 to 1954 he held various sales, development and management positions with Dewey and Almy Chemical Co.

Mr. Funkhouser now makes his home in Manhattan and Concord, Mass. He and Mrs. Funkhouser (Gladys McFeeley, '38) have three sons and two daughters. He received a M.B.A. degree from Harvard Business School in 1941 and engaged in special graduate studies in industrial chemistry at Harvard. He was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws and Letters degree by Otterbein in 1953.

He serves as president of Emerson Hospital, Concord; is an alumni trustee and chairman of the finance committee of Otterbein; and chairman of Manufacturing Units of the Greater New York Fund. He is also a member of the Council of Foreign Relations, and a former president of the Canning Machine & Supplies Association.

He is a director and member of the executive committees of Ruberoid Company and of the Boston Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company, Waltham, Mass.; is a director of American Metal Climax, Inc., HAR TRU Corporation, and Martin Veneer Company, Hagerstown, Md.

Preacher

"Let the Church Go to Hell" is the title of the lead article in United Church Herald, Ohio Edition, for October 6th. The author is Rudy H. Thomas, '43, minister of Dover Congregational Church in Westlake.

"The voices of the damned have cried from the ghettos of America, but most of us haven't heard," writes the author. "They have cried from the ruins of Watts, from the blackened slums of Chicago and now as I write these words, from the riot-torn area of Hough here in Cleveland.

"Hell is not a place of abode for the wicked dead. Heaven deliver us from this limited concept!

"Hell is where love is denied,

where life is wasted.

"... The church is under divine command to go wherever evil exists, wherever sin is rampant, wherever people are exploited... When the church goes where hell is it finds its true glory."

Mr. Thomas tells of a number of churches that are in truth finding their "true glory" by going to places of greatest need in their own and neighboring communities, but he states that "the average church is not concerned about the hell in which people live today."

"Our task as Christians, our mission as a church of Jesus Christ, is to take LOVE into HELL whenever and wherever we can.

"And if we do this, what then? Will it solve the problems that have led to so many voices crying in the wilderness of despair and poverty? I don't know, but I believe we are called, not to success necessarily, but to faithfulness . . . Some years ago a minister brought Negro and white young people together for a number of camping experiences. During the Watts riots some of those same Negro young people, now a bit older, said they could not harm a white person because in the face of every white person they met they could see the face of that minister and those young people who a few years ago accepted them as fellow Christ-

Rudy Thomas has "gone where

Rudy H. Thomas

Hell is" in his own ministry. He served for sixteen years in the inner city of Columbus, was president of the Columbus Federation of Settlements, president of the Columbus Area Council of Churches, and was director of an ecumenical work camp in Germany in 1950.

In the Cleveland area, he is on the Board of Directors of the Protestant Ministry to Poverty, the Board of Directors of the Inner City Protestant Parish, and is vice chairman of the Religious Ministries Committee of Fairview General Hospital.

genuine cage All-American, has continued his high scoring ways, averaging 26.4 points per game this year and ranked 14th in the country among scorers.

In addition to Carlos, Pond is the only senior on the team. Starters returning next year include Terry McCammon, 6'4" forward; Jim McKee, 6'7" center-forward; and Lorenzo Hunt, 6'3" forwardguard. McCammon is a junior; McKee, a sophomore; and Hunt, a freshman.

With an exceptionally strong bench, it appears the Otters will have a good squad next year but lack the big scoring punch that Carlos has provided over the past four years and the rabbit-like quickness and playmaking of Pond.

Dean

Dr. Clarence R. Cole, x'41, chairman of the department of veterinary pathology and a Regents' Professor at Ohio State University, has been named as dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, effective July 1. He replaces Dr. Walter R. Krill, who is retiring.

In recommending the promotion to the trustees, President Novice G. Fawcett said that interviews with candidates and with a committee representing practitioners in the field made it clear that Doctor Cole should receive the nomination.

"During his professional career which began when he joined the faculty in 1943, Doctor Cole has achieved stature as a national and international leader in veterinary research and education," Doctor Fawcett said.

"Two honors are particularly indicative of the distinguished manner in which Doctor Cole has served his profession. Since 1963, he has served on the executive council of the International Academy of Pathology, one of the highest honors accorded to medical and veterinary pathologists. Last December the Ohio Board of Regents recognized his outstanding academic and professional service by conferring on him a Regent's Professorship."

Doctor Cole has been chairman of veterinary pathology since 1947. He also has been assistant dean for research and development in the College of Veterinary Medicine since 1960, and is professor of Pathology in the College of Medicine. He holds three degrees from Ohio State University: D.V.M., M.S., and Ph.D.

CCL President

Mrs. Donald R. Hanawalt (Rita Kohlepp), '41, has been elected president of the Ohio Child Conservation League, a study group of 1100 leagues and 18,000 members in the state. She is a 20-year member of the Village Mothers League, Worthington Federation, is past president of the Westerville Branch of AAUW and of the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club, and is a member of the Westerville Service Organization. The wife of Donald R. Hanawalt, '40, she has been a physical education teacher in the Westerville Junior High School for the past six years.

The Ohio group headed by Mrs. Hanawalt has as one of its projects the furnishing of interest-free loans for college students in need, and has provided more than $30,000 for this purpose through memberships.

Kiwanian

Arthur Brubaker, '33, executive secretary of Cleveland's Central YMCA, has been elected president of the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Cleveland, second oldest of the 5,000 clubs in Kiwanis International and credited with initiating the international organization. The Cleveland Club also sponsored the first Kiwanis Club in Europe, that in Vienna.

Mr. Brubaker headed Central YMCA's $600,000 remodeling and expansion program which has just been completed and is currently president of the National YMCA Business Administrators organization.

Other Otterbein graduates in the family are Mrs. Brubaker (Ruth Rhodes, '33), David, '64, secretary at the West Shore YMCA in Cleveland, and Karen, '66, a physical education teacher in Mansfield.

This is Your Life, Miss Harper!

It has been several years since television's "This Is Your Life" has been on the air, but for Miss Geneva Harper, '19, it was enacted in life size and with all the secret conspiracy of the once popular

We are indebted to the Pantagraph, Bloomington, Illinois, and its reporters, Jim Stahly and Della Tipsord, for both this story and the pictures of the memorable occasion.

While the 77-year-old Miss Harper was attending an evening worship service at Saybrook (Illinois) EUB Church last October 25th, a crowd of some 500 friends and relatives were gathering at the Methodist Church two blocks away. After finalizing their plans, the conspirators made their way through the chilly, autumn night to the EUB Church to pay tribute to Miss Harper for her years of service as a teacher and mission-

And midst hymn-singing in the church, the friends steadily filed into the building until the pews were full, the choir loft was full, the balcony was full, the aisles were full and the altar was full. The Rev. Mr. Don Ferrill had to re-start the hymn at least ten times while the people streamed into the church. Finally, the line ended; the singing ceased.

The minister then announced: "Miss Harper, this is your life." Miss Harper, still wondering about the strange goings-on, dropped her lower iaw and gasped.

When she recovered, she was escorted to the front where for the next two hours she was confronted by voices from her past. She identified every one of them.

In the course of the evening

she was given a color television set, a refrigerator, a water heater, a watch, two chairs, a round-trip iet airline ticket to California and $1,500. The gifts were purchased with donations by those honoring her-the hundreds present plus hundreds unable to attend.

Miss Harper kept the well-wishers rocking with laughter most of the two hours. When the M.C. announced that she was to receive a self-defrosting refrigerator, she replied: "This will throw me all out of plumb! I'm used to shutting off my refrigerator every Friday morning," she explained; "then I clean my rugs and floors and it's all defrosted when I get back. Now I guess I'll have to help Mrs. Hale defrost her refrigerator.

The "gem" of the evening came just before she was given a water heater for her home. Mr. Ferrill asked: "What appliance have you never had in your house that you could really use?"

"A husband?" Miss Harper

When she was re-introduced to students she had once taught, the honor quest stated: "I always did my best. If I made mistakes, they were mistakes of the head and not of the heart."

With the exception of a few years when she was a missionary in Puerto Rico, and the years she spent in college, Miss Harper has been a lifelong resident of Saybrook. She retired in 1949 after teaching for more than 35 years in the area. Most of her career was spent teaching English at Saybrook Community High School. She attended Illinois Wesleyan University before enrolling at Otterbein, and graduated from Bonebrake (now United) Theological Seminary in Dayton.

Enid Swarner Moore

Therapist

"She was always so quiet," recall her college friends of Enid Swarner Moore, but in her quiet way she has turned a "gem of an idea into a valuable jewel of a project" at the Portsmouth Receiving Hospital and has been given a national award.

One of eight in the nation to be so recognized, Mrs. Moore was given the Florence Hall Award for outstanding accomplishment in home economics programs by the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

Acting on a suggestion of the hospital's social service director, who saw a need for more activity for the patients, she organized the project and with the help of extension specialists trained and directed thirty-one volunteer workers to teach courses in homemaking, personal posture and appearance, care of clothes, meal planning, kitchen care, housecleaning, bedroom care and laundry for the women and special courses in household storage, floor care and small appliances for the men. The hospital gives short-term care for mentally disturbed patients in eight southern Ohio counties.

The Portsmouth project is now in its third year and remains the only one of its kind, although a similar program has since been worked out at Athens State Hospital with a different organization.

This is the second time Mrs. Moore has been honored at the national meeting. In 1962 she was one of two Ohioans recognized for her work in improving health of rural families in Scioto County, especially for work in cancer detection and promoting the Red Cross bloodmobile.

Research Scientist

"Fifty thousand cigarette smokers will die from lung cancer this year as compared to 2,000 deaths from lung cancer among non-smokers. Analysis of the smoking habits of Americans today indicates that, if trends continue, 200,000 needlessly early deaths will occur annually from lung cancer alone by the end of this century. Deaths from emphysema, chronic bronchitis and cardio-vascular disease will push the death toll attributable to cigarette smoking to above 500,000."

The Otterbein convocation speaker was Dr. David S. Yohn, '51, Associate Cancer Research Scientist, Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo.

Dr. Yohn concedes that newer filters remove half or more of the tars, chemicals, and nicotine found in non-filter cigarettes, but says that sufficient carcinogens do pass the filter to cause cancer in hamsters and mice.

"The medical profession does not have and will not have a means to prevent these diseases in the smoker," he said. "Effective prevention can be achieved only by a cessation in smoking by the American public."

The Roswell Park Institute, financed partly by the State of New York and partly by private grants, is engaged in cancer research in various forms, and staff members give part of their time to speaking on known causes of the disease. The work in which Doctor Yohn is personally engaged involves studies with viruses which induce tumors or cancers in mammals, and to prove that these tumors were actually caused by a specific virus. The methods include study of the tumor cells by electron microscopy and by immunofluorescent microscopy. Highly specific new substances (tumor antigens) appear in the tumor cells induced by each type of virus, and the researchers are able to demonstrate these tumor antigens with anti-tumor serum proteins (antibodies) produced by the tumorbearing animal.

David S. Yohn

Doctor Yohn's team is applying the same techniques to the study of human tumors and human leukemia. The most promising lead is the finding of a virus, by electron microscopy, in the nucleus of many human leukemia and lymphoma cells grown in the laboratory. Many laboratories throughout the world are attempting to discover the role of this virus.

The ultimate goal of all the research is the development of effective means of prevention and/or therapy of the human cancer problem. The ideal preventive is a vaccine, and should a specific virus be found to be causally related to a human cancer, vaccines will be developed.

Doctor Yohn received the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University, in 1953 and 1957, and a M.P.H. from the University of Pittsburgh in 1960. At Ohio State University he was awarded a Research Fellowship and a Research Scholarship; and at the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Public Health he was a Research Associate, a Research Fellow, and an Assistant Research Professor of Microbiology. He went to the Roswell Institute in 1962.

Mrs. Yohn is the former Olivetta McCoy, '51, and the couple has five children.

Tax Advantages In Giving Securities

There are many people who own low cost securities which have greatly increased in value since they were purchased. If they are sold, the owner must pay a capital gains tax as high as 25%.

A gift of such securities to Otterbein eliminates the necessity of paying the capital gains tax and permits the donor to deduct from income tax the present market value of the securities. If the deduction is more than 30% of his income, he may carry forward the difference for as many as five years.

Let us assume that a prospective donor is in the 50% income tax bracket and that he wishes to give to Otterbein one hundred shares of stock which cost him $4,000. Assume also that the stock is now worth $10,000.

If he sells the stock he will have a profit of $6,000 on which he will have to pay a capital gains tax of $1,500 ($6,000x 25%) leaving him

If he gives the stock to Otterbein, he can deduct the entire $10,000 from his income, saving 50% in income tax or $5,000 and he will not be required to pay the capital gains tax. In other words, for $3,500 he can give to Otterbein $10,000.

A Bargain Sale

Another way to give appreciated stock, with benefit to the owner and to the college is to "bargain sale" the stock.

By this method the owner agrees to allow the college to buy his 100 shares of stock at the original cost to him of $4,000.

The college, in turn, sells the stock for $10,000 and pays the donor $4,000, the original cost of the stock. The college, therefore, receives a gift of $6,000.

The donor may deduct from his income $6,000 which at 50% income tax rate saves him $3,000 in taxes and he recovers the original cost of the stock which was $4,000, making a total of $7,000. If he had sold the stock, he would have received a net of $8,500, consequently by this method Otterbein receives $6,000 at a cost to the donor of only $1,500.

Motives For Giving

Otterbein College has repeatedly emphasized that there must be higher motives for giving than simply to save taxes. We would hope that those who give to the college do so because they believe in Christian higher education and want Otterbein to be the best possible college for today's youth. Our government makes favorable tax laws to encourage and reward those who give to colleges like Otterbein. We should make use of these laws and thereby be able to give more to our favorite

New Trustees Selected

Two Otterbein alumni have recently been named to the Otterbein Board of Trustees to fill unexpired terms. At its last meeting, the Board elected Robert B. Bromeley, '29, to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. E. S. Kern, deceased. He becomes the tenth trusteeat-large on the Board, and will serve in his present term until 1969.

Mr. Bromeley is secretary-treasurer of Bradford Publications, Inc., Bradford, Pennsylvania, which publishes The Bradford Era and The McKean County Democrat, and operates Radio Station WESB.

The Council of Administration of Ohio East Conference has elected Robert Seibert, '53, to fill the unexpired term of Richard Siller as conference trustee. Mr. Seibert is a teacher at Mansfield High School and is a member of First E.U.B. Church of that city.

European Tour Open To Alumni

Fifteen alumni, representing classes from '15 to '65, are making definite plans for the Otterbein Alumni Association European Tour from July 24 through August 14. What an alumni meeting! There is still time for you to join the group, but reserva-tions are needed very soon to assure the tour and your place on it.

The itinerary will include such cities as London, Amsterdam, Cologne, Heidelberg, Strasbourg, Innsbruck, Venice, Florence, Rome, Monte Carlo, Nice, Fontainbleau and Paris.

Write or call Richard Pflieger at the Alumni Office for specific information.

Our Newest Alumni The Class of '66

In order that alumni may keep in touch with each other, particularly their classmates and close friends, we have asked the members of the latest graduating class to report to us and we are passing on the information which we have received to date.

Of the 172 members of the Class of '66 who have responded, teaching and graduate study claim the greatest number, with 89 in teaching positions and 44 in graduate or professional schools. Seventeen are engaged in various types of business activity, and fourteen are in military service. Three list no career outside the home, two are in the Peace Corps and one is a Brethren Volunteer.

In addition to position or graduate study, we are listing the latest address received by the Alumni Office.

Mrs. Les Aiello (Ellen Shipman), teaching in Plain City School. Address: 122 East First Street, Plain City, Ohio.

Robert E. Airhart II, attending United Seminary in Dayton. Address: 1810 Harvard Boulevard, Dayton, Ohio 45406. (Married to Judy Buckle.)

Prospective College Teachers Recruited

A scholarship program designed to locate and educate college women (aged 35 or older) for careers in college teaching has been inaugurated by the A. A. U. W. Selections have already been made for the 1967-68 year, but women interested for 1968-69 may want to inquire soon. Write to the Towers office, or to: College Faculty Program, AAUW Educational Center, 2401 Virginia Avenue NW, Washington, D. C. 20037.

Prospective Students

Most of the 1967-68 class will have been accepted by the time Towers is off the press, but there may be a few openings. Write the Admissions Office at once for information. Sophomores and juniors will be interested in High School Day on April 29 (seniors will not be excluded), and should write to the Admissions Office to indicate that they plan to attend. The Scholastic Aptitude Test will be given nationally on May 6th and again on July 8th. High school students should make arrangements at their local schools for the tests.
