Dear Friend:

Alexander Graham Bell said, "Don't keep forever on the public road, going only where others have gone. Leave the beaten path occasionally and dive into the woods. You will be certain to find something you have never seen before."

As alumni, we should all be proud that over the nearly 125 years since Otterbein College first opened her doors, she has ventured into the unknown many times--to experiment with new ideas--to search for better ways of accomplishing the high goals of a progressive, Christian, liberal arts college.

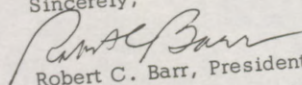

It requires great effort on the part of all of us--faculty, students and alumni--to meet the challenge of these days. Today, as never before, the nation, the world and the church need Christian colleges--colleges like Otterbein which holds to her major purpose "to discover, to motivate, and to train intellectual leaders in every student generation for Christian service in the church and society."

I hope that you can find time in your busy schedule to come on down to Otterbein some time this year to see for yourself what your school has been accomplishing. Homecoming (October 21) is always a good time to visit the campus and renew old acquaintances. You'll be receiving more information later, but reserve the date now.

There are many alumni who have assumed the responsibility of leadership for the coming year on both national and local levels. All of us appreciate their work. Please feel free to communicate to any of them ideas or suggestions you might have as to the role you feel the alumni should play in the life of our college. A workshop is being planned to bring all these ideas together to formulate plans for action.

This coming year will be one of great excitement on Otterbein's campus. You as alumni and friends of Otterbein can share in these accomplishments. Your support and encouragement are always appreciated.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Barr, President
Otterbein Alumni Association

Homecoming Scheduled October 21

Fall Homecoming, scheduled for Saturday, October 21, will have all the good features of past years, and some new advantages. Because of the facilities of the Campus Center, it is now possible to serve a luncheon for alumni and other friends not involved in sorority and fraternity affairs. The Campus Center also provides ample space for fellowship indoors in case of bad weather.

Registration and the parade in the morning, luncheons at noon, the football game with Marietta in the afternoon, the "O" Club Dinner, the play and the Homecoming Dance are all part of the program of the day. Both Arbutus and Greenwich are celebrating silver anniversaries, and will have special events. Sororities and fraternities and other groups will notify members of details, and an announcement will be mailed from the Alumni Office. But DO SAVE THE DATE — October 21.

Class Reunions At Commencement

While Homecoming is the time for renewing the old spirit of football rivalry, or sorority and fraternity friendships, or parades and mums and queens, remember also that Commencement time brings reunion with classmates you may not have seen for years.

A glance at the class reunion pictures beginning on page 21 ought to remind you of your own reunion to come. Next June the classes whose numbers end in 3 or 8 will have special reunions. Plan now to attend your class meeting, and begin to get your classmates interested. We'll furnish addresses if you ask for them, so get your whole gang together, and come on down to Otterbein!

Richard Pflieger presents Alumni Association cane to Dacia Custer Shoemaker

Mrs. Shoemaker Receives Cane

With the death on July 10 of Mrs. W. W. Stoner, '93, Mrs. John A. Shoemaker (Dacia Custer, '95) became the oldest living graduate of Otterbein. Mrs. Shoemaker lives at the Lutheran Senior City in Columbus, and it was there that the picture was taken, showing Richard Pflieger, '48, director of alumni activities at the college, presenting her with the cane, Alumni Association symbol of seniority. The ceremony was witnessed by Alice Keister Weinland, '04, also a resident of the Senior City, by William H. B. Skaates, 58, and Evelyn Bale, '30, TOWERS editor.

Mrs. Shoemaker was born in Westerville on May 21, 1873, in a house which still stands at 89 West College Avenue, known as the "Custer house." She and her twin brother, Dale, x'95, were delivered by Dr. William O. Hanby, Jr., '67, a brother of the famous Benjamin.

Dacia and John A. Shoemaker, '94, moved to Pittsburgh after their marriage, but she often came to Otterbein, and never missed a commencement for 73 years.

It was through the interest and effort of Mrs. Shoemaker that the material on Ben Hanby was collected and the Hanby House restored. She became especially reterested in Hanby in 1922 when she co-authored the pageant presented at the Diamond Jubilee celebration. She discovered the Hanby house on Home Street, where it had been moved from its original site, where the First EUB Church now stands.

In 1927 Mr. Shoemaker bought the house and gave it to his wife for her birthday. From that time on, she continued her research in Hanby lore, directed the restoration of the house and paid for it, and became the first curator when it became a museum. After the death of her husband she returned to Westerville to live in 1931. The house was given to the Ohio Historical Society in 1937, and stands not only as a memorial to the famous song writer but also as a tribute to the devotion of one of Otterbein's great ladies.

Twenty-two Students To Study Abroad

For the past several years, Otterbein has conducted her own Junior Year Abroad Program for French students. A faculty member is assigned to travel with the group and direct their study throughout the year. Students from other colleges are generally included with the Otterbein group, which studies at the University of Strasbourg in France.

Twenty-two Otterbein students will study abroad at seven schools in 1967-68. Paulette Rousseaux Loop, '60, will direct the program at Strasbourg, where the following students will enroll: Penny Ackermann, Barbara Crippen, Kathryn Cunningham, Susan Dietz, Cheryl Hall, Gerald Kelley, Harold Longley, Becky Morgan, Kay Needham, Nancy Pringle, Susan Schlencher, and Virginia Zurich.

Four will participate in the University of San Francisco's Junior Year in Spain at the University of Valencia. They are Kathy Henrich, Sharon Ruhly, Lois Shaulis and Kathy Smith.

Janet Ann Dowdy, Judy Komuro and Kathe Schrader will enroll in the Regional Council of International Education's Study Year Abroad at the University of Basel, Switzerland.

Dean Rugh will attend International Christian University in Tokyo, and Kathryn Moody and Patsy Schar will attend Sophia University, also in Tokyo.

Ellen Glor will participate in the Wayne State University program in Munich, and Gertrud Philipp in the Millersville State College program in Marburg, Germany.

Three other students will enroll in off-campus programs. They are Linda Fritz, Joan Hopkins and Judy A. Seibert. They will study for the first semester at the Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit.

George W. Henderson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Henderson, '29, attended the University of Hawaii during the summer. He will be a sophomore at Otterbein in the fall.

*"I came back . . .

In January, Shirley Gill wrote an open letter to the faculty after her first three months at the University of Strasbourg under Otterbein's Junior Year Abroad program, and we have quoted below from the letter. Although each student derives a different benefit and phrases it differently, Shirley probably expresses the opinions of the majority.

Other Otterbein students in last year's Strasbourg group were Carol Andrews, Ellen Cochran, Janet Cook, Pat Ellis, Dorothy Goddard, Linda Joyce, Kathy Keck, Carol MacRae, Judy McNeely, Penny Redmond, and Cheryl White.

John Marco and Timothy Moody spent their junior year at the University of Valencia in Spain, and Ward Hines studied at Exeter University in England. Ellen Williams, a 1966 graduate, spent the year at the University of Basel, Switzerland, and plans to stay on for the coming year.

Here is part of Miss Gill's letter.

Open letter to the Otterbein Faculty:

This is the beginning of a new year: a time of reflection of last year's growth and of anticipation of what this year will bring. Who am I? Why am I here? What am I absorbing, and what am I contributing? To these eternal questions I am beginning to find answers.

Thank you, Otterbein College, for offering this program of study-travel abroad, and for the teaching that has prepared me to absorb as much as I can. And a special thank-you to Dr. LaVelle Rosselot for awakening in me the desire to come, for recognizing my interest in a different country, and for helping me to find the self-confidence to try for the golden ring which this year is.

I am a junior majoring in elementary education, working also for certification in French.

As an elementary student, and even later, I disliked history and geography. Part of the reason was the seeming disinterest in the subjects by my teachers. Of course, I admit that the greatest part of the fault lay in myself. Yet here I am, in a region which has been tossed like a ball between France and Germany. Every city and town has had some historical or geographical importance. Our room doesn't have much heat, many of us lack hot running water. The telephone, which at home is considered a necessity, is a luxury here. All this is explained by a simple economic fact here: France does not have the under-ground resources to make her a rich industrialized nation. Her richness lies in the abundance of farmland and the above-the-ground resources. Now I understand and will never forget it, for I've lived with the lack.

I've seen castles crumbling on top of a mountain, or in the middle of a river. How much easier it is to understand the Middle Ages now that I've seen the countryside! I've gained a whole new insight into a tremendously important period of history. Europe was important at least 1600 years before America was. Every era has left its mark, and its ruins.

We're used to traveling a long distance and still being in the United States. As a contrast, my roommate and I had our passports checked at two borders in a single day of travel. At vacation time students leave for countries north, south, east and west of us. Each trip brings new learning experiences. On the first real trip my roommate and I made, we learned in a hurry how to read German train schedules and buy tickets. We even learned some new words. We lost our temerity about approaching the information room, though we do this only as a last resort.

As a future French teacher, I have been offered a rare opportunity. I am forced to use a language that is not my own. I have to speak it and the test is whether or not I am understood. I'm learning customs and culture, as well as the history and literature of this country.

And finally, I am here simply as a student, an almost-adult member of society. I am an unofficial diplomat for the United States. My actions are watched by students from other countries. I have seen enough "Ugly Americans," both at home and here, and I am determined not to be another. In meeting and talking with students from literally all over the world, I am widening my horizons. Challenged by different philosophies and points of view, I am forced to defend my own, and often that of my country. I must keep on my toes and alert to what is going on.

Sincerely,
Shirley Gill

The students are back at Otterbein for their senior year, and Shirley says: "I visited many countries, met many people, did many things and had some misadventures. I came back more independent, more adventuresome, curious, and perhaps more alive than when I left. It was a wonderful year."

on and off the campus

Executive Committee Approves Federal Loans

During its summer meetings, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees decided on the use of federal funds for three buildings on the campus, one already under construction, and two planned for the future.

The Committee agreed to take advantage of a federal loan in the amount of $576,000 to be applied to the construction of the science hall addition, now under way. This loan was secured through the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1965, administered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In April, 1966, Otterbein received a federal grant of $300,000 on the $1,436,250 building, and the balance has been supplied by Focus on Achievement funds.

The Executive Committee also accepted a federal loan of $205,000 to construct a new health center. This loan came from the Department of Housing and Urban Development's College Housing Loan Program, authorized by the Housing Act of 1950. Construction of the health center will begin in the vicinity of the Campus Center as soon as architect's detailed plans are completed. It will be equipped with eight beds, an examining clinic, and an area for the treatment of out-patients.

The third action regarding federal funds was the confirmation by the Executive Committee of an application made in July by President Turner for a grant of $657,000 to assist in the construction of a new library. If approved, the grant would provide one third of the estimated $1,971,000 building costs. Should this loan be granted, the funds would come through the Higher Education Facilities Act.

President Turner indicated that the college plans to raise funds for the balance of the library's cost. In addition to the amount already raised through the Focus on Achievement, the Executive Committee is asking the Development Board to consider launching a $1,500,000 campaign for the library and other projects.

Worship Center Planned

A new worship center is being planned for the Otterbein campus, as the result of a study made by a committee of trustees, faculty members and students, and headed by the Rev. Mr. Kenneth H. Pohly, director of religious activities. The committee's report was accepted by the Executive Committee of the Board on August 5. It further requested that a temporary place for religious purposes be provided in the interim.

The committee asked that the college architect include a permanent worship center in the long-range plans of the college, and that measures be authorized to secure money for the building.

The building should contain a chapel combining traditional and modern symbolism for worship by individuals and groups; a lounge for fellowship and small meetings; and a multi-purpose room for larger meetings and project activities, according to the recommendation. Office and counseling facilities for the campus pastor would also be included.

The study committee, appointed in the fall of 1966 by the Executive Committee, was composed of the Rev. Mr. John K. Bergland; the Rev. Mr. Clayton F. Lutz, Mrs. Waid Vance, Miss Patricia Schar, and Ted Noble, in addition to the chairman. Miss Schar and Mr. Noble were students when the study began, and Mr. Noble since has graduated.

John Haramy Is Thomas Lecturer

The Thomas Lecturer, scheduled to speak twice on the campus on October 17, will be Dr. John H. Haramy, a Christian Arab born in the Holy Land. His subject for the morning Convocation program will be "Crisis in the Middle East," and at 8:00 P.M. he will speak on "Inside U.S.A."

Dr. Haramy's lectures will combine the two emphases of the 1967-68 year, in which the convocation programs will focus attention, first, on domestic issues and conditions peculiar to the United States and, second, on the United States' interaction with outside forces. Areas covered by speakers in the first semester will include the arts, civil rights, education, government and social change. Although planned primarily for students, the convocation programs at 9:40 each Tuesday morning are open to the public as far as space allows, and some programs are also scheduled for the evening.

Other speakers on the first semester schedule include President Lynn W. Turner in the opening convocation on September 19; Theodore Solotaroff on October 3; Charles L. Mann, October 10; Bernard J. Wohl, October 24; James Deakin, October 31; Meno Lovenstein, November 7; Herbert C. Mayer, November 14; Jack S. Morrison, November 21; Alex Haley, November 28; Lowell Bridwell, December 5; and Ethel Alpenfels at 9:40 A.M. and at 8:00 P.M. on January 9.

Freshmen Start September 9

Freshman Orientation will be conducted for more than a week before the beginning of classes this September. Freshmen will arrive on Saturday, September 9, and classes for all students will begin at 7:45 A.M. on Monday, September 18.

Students Have Special Opportunities

Thomes W. Crane was one of only eleven "exceptional" undergraduates (the only one from a small college) to be chosen for Battelle Memorial Institute's unique research school for the summer. Fifteen members of the group hold bachelor's or master's degrees.

Since the program was inaugurated in 1957, a total of 326 undergraduate and graduate students have been enrolled in the combination research-orientation-reporting project. Participation is limited to those highly qualified youths who have completed junior class work in an engineering or scientific discipline that is of interest to the institute, and the students are employed to help with projects and write a comprehensive technical report of their research.

Two Otterbein girls are among six students who were awarded National Science Foundation grants valued at $600 each for a 10-week study at Ohio State University this summer. They are Marilyn Miller of Columbus and Mary Alice Feagin of Youngwood, Pennsylvania. The course is designed for students planning careers in scientific teaching or research.

Artist Course Announced

The 1967-68 Artist Series will include six numbers, with the first scheduled for October 6. Season tickets are available for reserved seats, at $9.00, savings of $4.50 on the series. They may be purchased by sending a check to the Otterbein College Artist Series, Westerville, Ohio 43081.

Carlos Montoya, with his flamenco guitar, will appear on October 6; the Roger Wagner Chorale on November 3; Young Uck Kim, violinist, November 17; the Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, February 6; the French National Dance Company, March 15; and the National Players in "Much Ado About Nothing" on March 22. All programs begin at 8:15.

Receive Air Force Grants

Terry McCammon, a senior; Harley Gill and Jean Pierre O'Neal, juniors; and Glen D. Shaffer, a sophomore, have been selected for Air Force ROTC financial grants for the remainder of their college years, providing they continue to qualify. Shaffer, the son of Col. and Mrs. Glen C. Shaffer, '32 (Zelma Shauck, '34) is the first Otterbein student to qualify for the award after only one year in the program.

The grants provide full tuition and fees, allowance for books, and $50 per month during the tenure of the grant. Criteria for selection include scholarship, high scores on the AF Qualifying Test, satisfactory medical qualifications, and high personal and moral standards.

How Much Does It Cost?

The question of comparative costs of a college education is of prime importance to prospective students and their parents. Otterbein, along with all other good colleges, has had to increase fees in order to provide a high quality of education. In addition, the alumni and friends of the college must increase their support if this quality is to be maintained.

A recent publication, based on 1967-68 prices, lists tuition, fees, room and board for the 43 private colleges in Ohio. On this list, Otterbein ranks 21st, almost exactly in the median position.

When only the Protestant-supported private colleges are compared, Otterbein ranks 18th on the list of 27 such colleges in Ohio, with only eight having lower fees.

Alumni Officers Schedule September Workshop

On September 22-23, the Seventh Annual Alumni Officers Workshop will be held on campus. The Director of Alumni Affairs at Baldwin-Wallace College, Richard Van Almen, will be the keynote speaker on Friday evening. Workshop session topics include "Those Revolting Students—Can We Provide For Them?" "Long Range Plans—Building and Financial," "Alumni Nuts and Bolts," and "Philosophical Grab

Bag—Where is Otterbein Going?"

Alumni Club presidents are urged to attend or have their club represented. Otterbein needs constant help from alumni and alumni clubs as she prepares to meet the challenges of the future.

Alumni Club News

Indianapolis: A picnic meeting was held at the home of Paul and Ruth Moore, '51, on July 15. A good turnout was reported and the food was especially tasty and plentiful. President and Mrs. Turner represented the college. A fall meeting prior to the Otterbein-Indiana Central football game is the offing.

"O" Club News

The annual "O" Club Football Kick-Off Dinner is scheduled for September 6th at Yarnell's Party House in Westerville. The football squad and the coaching staff will be guests. The "O" Club will also have a dinner at Homecoming, October 21, at the Campus Center. Members, alumni, friends and their families are invited. Members of the 1921 football team will be guests of honor.

Dayton: The Miami Valley "O" Club held its annual meeting at Culp's Far Hills Restaurant on June 28. Officers elected for 1967-68 were: Roland Mehl, '49, President, and Jim Moore, '62, Vice President. Bob Corbin, '49, did another outstanding job hosting the meeting. Bob Agler, '48, represented the college, while Smoky Ballenger, '39, Everett Whipkey, '42, Clare Nutt, '31, and Bill Morgan, '42, represented the Westerville "O" Club. Plans are under way for another meeting and a golf outing next spring.

Westerville: An alumni golf outing was held on July 8 at Indian Run Golf course. Thirty-two golfers teed off in contests for blind bogey, longest drive, shortest putt, etc. Virgil Hinton, '34, brought two foursomes from the Canton area. After the golf, a cook-out was enjoyed by all at Dubbs Roush's, '47, party house.

John R. Wilson

J. Hutchison Williams

Clarence R. Cole

Otterbein Serves Ohio State University

It is well known that major universities depend in large measure on the small liberal arts colleges for much of their finest talent. Otterbein's contribution to Ohio State University is a case worth noting, for leadership of its three medical colleges is in the capable hands of former Otterbein students.

Dr. John R. Wilson, '38, has been dean of the College of Dentistry since 1965, Dr. Clarence R. Cole, '41, became dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine this year, and Dr. J. Hutchison Williams, '44, has been assistant dean in charge of student affairs of the College of Medicine since 1961.

In Dentistry

Dean Wilson has been associated with the university since 1940, when he was a graduate assistant in anatomy. He became an assistant professor of anatomy and dentistry in 1946, was made associate professor of dentistry and chairman of the division of periodontology and dental hygiene in 1949, advanced to professor of dentistry in 1953, was made associate dean in 1958 and dean of the College of Dentistry in 1965.

After leaving Otterbein, he was a high school teacher and coach for two years, and later served in the Army Dental Corps for three years. He did graduate work at the University of Michigan and received the D.D.S. degree, cum laude, from Ohio State in 1943.

The list of his memberships in professional organizations is impressive. Among them, he is a fellow and holds an honorary degree from the American College of Dentists, and is president-elect of the Ohio State Dental Association. He has served as guest speaker before many dental association meetings, has written articles for professional journals, and is contributing editor to a textbook on periodontology. Dr. Wilson is married to the former Berenice Molesworth, '39, and they have two children.

The Ohio General Assembly created the Regents' Professorships in 1965 "to recognize outstanding academic and professional service" by faculty members in Ohio's system of state universities, and Dr. Clarence R. Cole is one of only nine faculty members to be so honored in two years. On July 1, he became dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, but will also continue as a Regents' Professor of Pathology.

He has served as professor and chairman of the Department of Veterinary Pathology, assistant dean for research and development of the College, and project supervisor of the University Research Foundation. Since 1946 he has also been a professor in the College of Medicine, teaching diseases of animals transmissible to man, and engaging in cooperative research on cancer in man and animals. Under his leadership a comparative pathology building was constructed and equipped at a cost of $2,265,000.

In Medicine

Writing in a recent issue of the College of Medicine JOURNAL, Dr. James "Hutch" Williams challenged his fellow physicians "more than ever before, to be creative, imaginative and responsible."

"We have been kept busy," he writes, "learning to live with increasing urbanization, big business, big labor, big government, big Medical Center complexes and, lately, Medicare. These all seem to depersonalize us and it has been constantly necessary to remind ourselves that a listening ear in human dialogue is our stock in trade and that it can bridge the gap between persons, groups and generations.

"... The time and setting may be different and the words and music may have been rewritten, but our basic role in this real life drama is still the appreciation of the other man as he really is in the here and now. What could be greater than to be alive today in such a setting?"

Dr. Williams serves as assistant dean in charge of student affairs of Ohio State University's College of Medicine and as associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology. He is chairman of the Committee on Admissions of the College of Medicine and of the Committee on Student Appraisal of the College, and serves on the Council on Admissions and Registration of the University.

His private practice is in the field of obstetrics and gynecology, and his major research is in genital cancer and perinatal mortality. He serves as associate director of the Center of Perinatal Studies.

He has been elected as a diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, as a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and a fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. He serves on the Group on Student Affairs of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Dr. Williams holds both the M.D. degree and the Master of Medical Science degree from Ohio State University. He served for two years as a captain in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Army, resuming his practice and teaching in 1954.

Mrs. Williams (Helen Knight, '43, and her husband have four children, one of whom (Sara Jane) is a student at Otterbein.

Veterinary Medicine

Dean Cole is only the third veterinary pathologist ever to serve on the executive council of the International Academy of Pathology, and is vice chairman of the International Committee on Toxoplasmosis. He is a past president of the American College of Veterinary Pathologists, was chairman of the Board of the American Veterinary Medical Association from 1960 to 1965, is a consultant for the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, and is the author of more than 80 research publications concerning cancer and infectious, toxic and nutritional diseases.

He holds three degrees from Ohio State: D.V.M., M.S., and Ph.D. He attended Otterbein for two years, 1937 to 1939, before enrolling in the University. He is married and has three children.

In Many Departments

Other Otterbein graduates who contribute to the education of the 40,000 students on the Ohio State University campus include Merriss Cornell, '33, professor in the School of Social Work; Dr. Donald J. Borrer, '28, professor in the department of entomology; Dr. Roy H. Bowen, '33, professor of speech and director of theatre; Dr. Paul G. Craig, '50, professor and chairman of the department of economics; Ruth C. Bailey, '30, director of the International Students Program; and William M. Drenten, '51, assistant professor of Journalism.

Economics

Dr. Paul G. Craig has been a member of the Ohio State faculty since 1953. He was a University Scholar during the 1950-51 year, became an instructor in 1953 and was advanced through the ranks to full professor in 1961. He received both the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State.

A frequent speaker at professional meetings and community affairs, Dr. Craig was quoted by the Columbus CITIZEN-JOURNAL following the keynote address which he made recently to the United Community Council of Columbus and Franklin County.

"A warm heart needs a big pocketbook, let's start warming up the heart . . . We already have the wherewithal to do whatever we want to do," the article quotes him as stating.

"Unfortunately," he said, "most of the problems of a growing community touch all—rich and poor, core-city dwellers and suburbanites."

Dr. Craig studied at the Institute of Basic Mathematics for Application to Business, Harvard University under a post-doctoral fellowship from the Ford Foundation while on leave in 1959-60; and participated in the Stanford-Iran Management program in Teheran, for top Iranian administrators. He served as visiting professor in the Pennsylvania State University Executive Management program in 1957-58, and as a visiting professor at the University of Hawaii in 1962-63.

He is the author of several monographs and articles in his field, and holds membership in a number of honorary and professional societies. He is married to the former Margaret Ashworth, '49, and they are the parents of two daughters.

Merriss Cornell

Social Work

Professor Cornell has been a member of the University faculty since 1935. He received the master's degree from Ohio State in 1937, and has had additional graduate work at Columbia University and at Ohio State.

He was promoted from instructor to assistant professor in 1946, to associate professor in 1954 and to professor in 1960. He served as secretary of placement for the School of Social Work from 1955 to 1962 and a lecturer in the College of Medicine from 1954 to 1960.

He is a past president of the Columbus chapter of the American Statistical Association, and holds membership in the Royal Statistical Society, the Population Association of America, the National Conference on Social Welfare, the National Association of Social Workers and the Academy of Certified Social Workers. He has written articles for professional journals and research monographs for the Bureau of Business Research of Ohio State.

Donald J. Borror

Entomology

Dr. Donald J. Borror is widely known for research, particularly for his studies of dragonflies and, more recently, for new developments in the analysis of bird and insect songs.

Since 1948 he has been making tape recordings of many bird and insect songs and has released one long-playing record on insect songs through the Cornell University Press and three records on bird songs through the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. Two more long-playing records are being released through the National Wildlife Federation and Dover Publications.

He is co-author of "An Introduction to the Study of Insects," an entomology textbook published by Rinehart and Co., and of many articles in scientific publications. His dictionary of word roots was published by National Press Publications in 1960.

As a Navy officer during World War II, most of his service was in the Southwest Pacific and Japan as an entomologist. Dr. Borror has been a member of the Ohio State faculty since 1930, and holds the master's and Ph.D. degrees from that University. He attained his present rank as full professor in 1959.

He has been elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Entomological Society of America and the Ohio Academy of Science, and holds membership in other learned societies. He is a past president of the Columbus Audubon Society.

Roy H. Bowen

Theatre

Dr. Roy H. Bowen is well known for his work with the Columbus Players Club, which he served as managing director from 1948 to 1958, and for his work in the Ohio State University's Stadium Theatre. He has also done much of the organizational work for the American Playwrights Theatre, which was formed in December, 1963, to bring first-run plays to non-commercial stages throughout the United States, and serves as an officer of the organization.

From 1933 to 1941, Dr. Bowen taught at Circleville and then at Columbus West High School. He entered the U.S. Army in 1941, serving until 1946 in the Adjutant General's Office and reaching the rank of captain.

From 1946 to 1949 he was a graduate assistant and assistant instructor at Ohio State, and served as visiting assistant professor while he was associated with the Players Club. He became an associate professor on a full-time basis in 1958, and in 1960 was named director of theatre.

He has written articles for professional journals and is working on a book on theatre appreciation. He is married and has one daughter.

Ruth C. Bailey

In International Student Relations

Miss Ruth C. Bailey has been associated with the University since 1937, and became director of the International Students Program in 1962 after five years as international student adviser. Providing for foreign students the services not usually needed by other students is the task of her office, and the counseling function of the office is an important one. A new international student is sent information concerning special programs for him, and he is met on arrival in Columbus.

The office also furnishes information concerning U. S. laws, immigration regulations, and those concerning extension of passports and visitors' permits, travel, employment, and health insurance. The office serves as liaison with other University offices, the Institute of International Education, the U.S. government departments, and other sponsors of foreign students.

During 1966-67 a total of 934 international students were in attendance at the university and were assisted by Miss Bailey and her staff. In addition, approximately two hundred exchange visitors, including faculty members, lecturers, and postdoctoral fellows, are assisted each year.

Miss Bailey was selected for the 1963 Summer Asian Seminar and spent eleven weeks in Asia. In 1961 she participated in a workshop on "Asian Culture and Educational Exchange" at Stanford University.

She is secretary of the National Association of Foreign Student Advisers, and was on its board of directors from 1960 to 1965. She is a member of AAUW and the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, and is an honorary member of Mortar Board.

In Journalism

William M. Drenten has been on the School of Journalism faculty since December, 1959. He previously served as a reporter and news cameraman for WBNS-TV (Columbus) from 1951 to 1958, and for two years, 1958 and 1959, was news director. He has also worked as a stringer for CBS News and Sportlite, Inc.

Mr. Drenten teaches broadcast journalism and photojournalism at Ohio State. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, and is a director of the Central Ohio Professional Chapter. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1943 to 1946 and was a reservist for ten years.

Mrs. Drenten is the former Shirlie Dennis, '53, and the couple has three sons and a daughter.

Campus Busy in Summer

More than 2500 people attended conferences on the Otterbein campus during the summer just past. Included were a three-day conference of librarians, four different Eastern Star groups, a YWCA conference, a Farm Bureau youth school, two Methodist adult groups and two for youth, the Ohio Society of Christian Churches, a Wesleyan Service Guild conference, the annual conference sessions of the Ohio Southeast and Erie Conferences of the EUB Church, the EUB Laymen's Weekend, an EUB laboratory school, and groups from several local churches.

Three hundred ninety were enrolled in the regular summer school sessions. The summer theatre group also stayed on campus, bringing the total to nearly 3,000 who attended classes, theatre workshop and conferences.

Lucile Gerber Ritter

Auxiliary President Installed

The new president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Medical Association is an Otterbein graduate. She is Mrs. Karl Ritter (Lucile Gerber, '24), of Lima. She was installed during the auxiliary's annual convention in Atlantic City June 18-22, and was the guest of honor at a special reception.

As an example of the work of the Auxiliary, two young Vietnamese mothers are being trained at Georgetown University School of Medicine in a short-term specialized medical course, under the newly established Vietnamese Student Aid Project.

Mrs. Ritter is the wife of a general practitioner, also a graduate of Otterbein, in the class of 1925. She has served previously as treasurer, finance chairman and AMA Education and Research Foundation Committee chairman, has been an auxiliary member for 25 years, and founded the Lima-

Allen County Auxiliary.

In recognition of her services and achievements, the new president was named Lima's "Woman of the Year" in 1951. She has served on the boards of the Lima Community Welfare Council; Child and Family Service; Mental Health Association, and the League of Women Voters. She is a past president of the YWCA, Lima Open Forum and the American Association of University Women, and a state officer of AAUW in both Ohio and Indiana.

A professional librarian, Mrs. Ritter was county chairman of Ohioana Library for 15 years and, until 1960, spent one day each week as librarian in a local hospital. That year, after having worked for some time to help establish a Lima Branch of Ohio State University, she became its librarian when the school opened. In 1964 and 1965, scholarship awards to the O.S.U. Lima Campus were named and given in her honor.

In addition to her degree from Otterbein, Mrs. Ritter holds a library science degree from Western Reserve University.

Otterbein Graduate Given WR Alumni Award

Dr. A. C. Siddall, '19, long-time resident and physician in Oberlin, was honored at the annual Alumni Day Banquet of the School of Medicine of Western Reserve University on May 24th, when he was presented the 1967 Alumni Award.

The framed and illuminated certificate reads: "Western Reserve University Medical Alumni Association takes pride in presenting the 1967 Alumni Award to Alcines Clair Siddall, M.D., Class of 1922, in recognition of his distinguished career as a physician, missionary, teacher and scholar. He has long brought honor to his medical school."

A. C. Siddall

After receiving his M.D. degree from Reserve's School of Medicine, Dr. Siddall interned at the Cleveland City Hospital, and in 1923 went to Canton, China as a medical missionary. He remained there until 1933, making significant contributions in his field. Among these were the development of a milk substitute from soy beans for infant feeding and evolving a new type of test for pregnancy known as the Siddall Test.

On his return he entered private practice in Oberlin where he is a member of the staff of the Allen Memorial Hospital and the Oberlin Clinic. He was also active in the development of the Oberlin Plan for Community Health Services.

He served as senior clinical instructor in the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Reserve's Medical School from 1955 through 1958, and has served the Medical Alumni Association as a member of the Board of Trustees.

TOWERS salutes Dr. A. C. Siddall as a splendid example of the many men and women of high professional excellence who received their undergraduate degrees at Otterbein and who have distinguished themselves in the field of medicine.

Appointed Associate Dean

Dr. Paul R. Cone, '49, has been appointed associate dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Southern California, effective August 1. He has been an advisor to the Haile Selassie I University, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, for the past two years.

A USC faculty member since 1952, Dr. Cone took a leave of absence to go to Ethiopia under the USAID program of the State Department, and designed and administered the budgets of the Ethiopian University. He advised the university on administrative and financial procedures, recruited and trained native personnel, and taught business policy and accounting.

While at USC, Dr. Cone has been chairman of the Department of Management of the School of Business Administration, became faculty coordinator for USC's Managerial Policy Institute, taught business policy and management theory in the master's and doctoral programs, and was coordinator of the first USC-Lockheed Management Institute.

Dr. Cone and Dr. Douglas Basil have written two books on "Executive Simulation," and five studies of management strategy cases in the U.S. rubber industry. He has written, with Dr. John W. Gould, a study of the company creeds and policies of 400 major corporations.

He received a B.S. degree in business administration and an M.A. in accounting from Bryant College, R.I. He later earned the B.A. in history and government at Otterbein, an M.B.A. at Ohio State University and a Ph.D. at UCLA.

Robert H. Cavins

Chemistry Teacher Honored

Robert H. Cavins, '26, has been honored as the Columbus area Outstanding High School Chemistry Teacher by the Columbus section of the American Chemical Society. The presentation was made after a special committee chose him on the basis of interviews with former students, colleagues and administrators.

Last January, Mr. Cavins was featured in a COLUMBUS DISPATCH story for his unique method of finding chemists—letting them find themselves.

"If a kid really wants to be a chemist," he is quoted as saying, "You don't have to look for him—he'll look for you. He wants to use the lab and he won't miss a chance when he is a potential chemist."

In 1953, Cavins began opening the chemistry laboratory of the Upper Arlington High School on Tuesday nights to students who wished to drop by to do original experimentation. Ever since that time students may be in the laboratory on any Tuesday night during the school year. From this idea was born what one student called "Alchemists Anonymous."

Eight of Bob Cavins' students have received doctor's degrees in chemistry and two others are now working on them. One of his students is Capt. Dean Axene, now stationed with the Navy in Washington, who was the first executive officer of the submarine Nautilus and the first commander of the Thresher.

The honored teacher says that the teaching of chemistry has changed "almost completely" in his 41 years in the field.

"We used to teach descriptive chemistry and as much theory as they needed to make the description understandable. Now, we teach theoretical chemistry and as much descriptive as we can. It's largely theoretical—more rigorous and mathematical," he said.

Mr. Cavins earned a master's degree at the University of Michigan, and has been at Upper Arlington High School since 1930. He is married to the former Lucile Roberts, '28.

Ross J. Wilhelm

Michigan Professor Named Banking School Head

Dr. Ross J. Wilhelm, x'41, associate professor of business economics in the Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan, has been appointed Director of the Michigan School of Banking, sponsored by the University and the Michigan Bankers Association. The school brings a hundred bank executives to the campus each summer for a two-week series of lectures and study.

Since 1960 Professor Wilhelm has presented a weekly radio program, "Business Review," over WUOM, the U-M station, covering economic and business problems. The program is now carried by about 100 stations throughout the United States, and some 60-70 programs have received wire service coverage as news stories.

The topic which received the widest publicity, according to Dr. Wilhelm, was his suggestion about three years ago that the draft be abolished and that military pay be increased to provide an incentive for young men to join and stay in the military services.

His television series, "Challenge of Change," has been shown in every major market area in the U.S. He says commercial stations use such programs to meet public service time requirements, and that usually he ends up competing with Captain Kangaroo or some other such program and that the captain usually wins!

Behind the scenes political activity during the past year has found him directing research and writing for a Michigan state representative, a probate judge and a school board trustee, all of whom were elected. His major effort in this area now is directed toward "helping George Romney get elected president and trying to find ways to keep Ann Arbor from having a city income tax." He serves on the mayor's Committee on Taxes and Revenues.

Dr. Wilhelm has some 400 publications to his credit, the latest (co-authored with Charles Davison) being a monograph for the University of Michigan Bureau of Business Research entitled "Economics Effects on the Wage-Price Guideposts."

Joe Ayer enjoys school party

Becomes University Coordinator

Joseph Ayer, '40, principal of Cincinnati's Withrow High School, has resigned that post to take the newly created position of coordinator of student affairs and guidance at Miami University's expanding Middletown campus.

He has served the Cincinnati Public Schools as teacher and principal for 26 years. After leaving Otterbein he attended the University of Cincinnati on a fellowship, and received the B.Sc. in Ed. and the M.Ed. degrees. He served as assistant principal of Hughes High School and principal of Witter Junior High before assuming the Withrow post in 1960.

Starting his work for Miami in August, he is an assistant professor at the same time in the Cincinnati University Summer School, and notes that there seems to be less rivalry between the schools at the academic level than on the athletic field.

Mr. Ayer has studied at Xavier University and at New York University, and has completed all his work for a doctorate at the latter institution except for the thesis, which he hopes now to do.

Lecturer Recognized

"Mr. Enthusiasm, the Man with the Golden Rule," is the title of an article on Dr. Carl C. Byers, '32, in the May-June issue of ACTION TIME Magazine. Carl has carried a small golden rule over a million air miles in his ten years as a public speaker, according to the writer.

"Like a modern-day Will Rogers," he writes, "Byers combines a folksy wit with thought-provoking ideas. In his own words, he

Carl C. Byers "at work"

'sells education, better human relations, practical Christianity and good, sane Americanism.' His talks are made at sales and safety conferences and to chambers of commerce, youth and church groups, bankers and service clubs . . .

"Answering the question 'How can the human race keep pace with the space race?' Byers says: 'Science and technology can never hope to build a better world unless morality builds better people. The world needs a return to the simplicity that will make the Golden Rule a living reality.' If Carl Byers is any example, this is a philosophy of a happy, useful citizen."

After fifteen years as Superintendent of Parma City Schools, Carl Byers resigned in 1957 to become a full-time lecturer in the areas of education, human relations, and sales motivation, joining the speakers' staff of the General Motors Corporation.

Many associations publish in convention proceedings all or part of Doctor Byers' addresses at their area, national or international meetings. In addition, he has had two booklets published, entitled "Prescriptions for Happy Living," and "Prescriptions for Happy Teaching."

His constant involvement in community activities includes membership in Rotary, trusteeship of the Lakewood Presbyterian Church and chairmanship of the Facilities Review Committee of the Greater Cleveland Regional Hospital Planning Board. He received a master's degree from Ohio University and two honorary degrees, the Doctor of Humanics from Salem College and the Doctor of Education from Otterbein. Mrs. Byers is the former Bertha (Bea) Durfee, '32.

Honored At Ohio University

Carroll C. Widdoes, '26, center, receives a Varsity "O" blanket from Bill Rohr, Ohio University Athletic Director, as Mrs. Widdoes (Viola Peden, '28) looks on. Inscribed on the blanket was: "In recognition of outstanding service to Ohio University since 1949 as Head Football Coach, Athletic Director and Tennis Coach. An excellent, versatile teacher of Intercollegiate Athletics, an intense competitor, a leader of men whose great patience and understanding are outstanding virtues." Widdoes was national College Football Coach of the Year at Ohio State in 1944 and "Ohio College Coach of the Year" at Ohio University in 1953, when his Bobcats won the school's first Mid-American football championship. Mr. Widdoes began his coaching career at Massillon. He now serves as tennis coach at Ohio U.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yohn

Teachers Retire

Among this year's retirees from teaching careers are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yohn of Shelby. Mr. Yohn, '26, has taught science subjects at Shelby Senior High School for 23 years, and until last year served as golf coach after reviving the sport in 1946. During those years his teams had a record of 307-90-20, won six golf titles in the Northern Ohio League and the district title in 1965.

For eight years he served as reserve football and basketball coach for the Whippets, and was a sports writer for a Shelby daily newspaper for ten years. He will retain his posts as football equipment manager and scorekeeper for the basketball team after retirement.

Mrs. Yohn (Agnes Tryon, '25) began teaching in Richland County schools and for the past eleven years she has taught elementary classes in Ontario Schools. She was previously employed at the Shelby Business Forms, and Mr. Yohn and his wife owned and operated a grocery store in Shelby for 17 years before returning to teaching.

The Yohns were married in 1924 by the Reverend Mr. Sager Tryon, '06, and are the parents of Dr. David Yohn, '51, Richard, x'54, and Joanne (Mrs. Paul Colberg, '56).

Named Department Chairman

When we learned that Dr. Robert T. McLean, '46, had been named chairman of the department of mathematics at Loyola University, we wrote to ask him for background material. His letter belies any thought that the life of a mathematician might be a dull one.

"I cut my eye teeth by teaching mathematics for four years at Upper Sandusky High School," he writes. "I then picked the M.A. in mathematics at Bowling Green State University. I saw a lot of Emerson Shuck ('38) during the year . . . The following year I was signed up to go on at O.S.U., when on opening day at Westerville High School I got an urgent call to bail them out, since their math man had walked out the day before. It was an interesting year.

"I followed this with a year at O.S.U., but in 1952 I answered a

Gift Matching by Industry Increases

During the past several years Otterbein has received gifts from some thirty-five companies through their matching gift programs. Under such a program, the corporation matches dollar for dollar (in some cases doubling the amount) given by an employee to an eligible institution as part of its aid to higher education.

Since the Corporate Alumnus Program of General Electric was started in 1954, a total of 328 gift-matching programs has been established. Conditions vary to some extent, some companies matching gifts by all employees, some only those made by employees or spouses who attended the college. Most corporations match gifts from $25 to $500 or $1,000, but many match smaller amounts and a few match gifts of an individual up to $3,000 or more in a single year.

The matching gift program is evidence of industry's willingness to support higher education. It is also evidence of the fact that it expects alumni and close friends of the college to do their share.

Whether a corporation makes matching contributions or gives independently, most such organizations depend upon the small liberal arts colleges for much of their best managerial talent. They are therefore whole-hearted in their support of strong institutions like Otterbein.

A list of companies which have gift-matching programs follows. In some cases wholly-owned subsidiaries have been omitted from the list, but are considered part of the program, and a few companies prefer that their programs not be publicized. Get details of your company's program and include the proper forms when you send your contribution to the college. The gift of an alumnus, parent or other friend of Otterbein may be worth twice or three times the initial amount.

Giving Property and/or Insurance

Dr. Wade S. Miller, Vice President in Charge of Development, announces two methods of giving to Otterbein which can benefit both the donor and the college. He will be glad to talk with alumni and other friends who are interested.

Property

Would you like to give away your house and keep it too? There is a way you can do this with specific advantages to you. We do not mean giving the house to the college in your will although many people do this, and such gifts are always appreciated. However, this does not provide advantages to you while you live.

Consider this attractive alternative: Transfer title to your property now, reserving the right to occupy it as long as you live, or as long as you and your spouse live. By deeding the property now to the college, you get an immediate contribution deduction for income tax purposes. The exact amount is determined by your ages from official Treasury tables and the value of the property.

Example: A man and wife, ages 65 and 60, deed to Otterbein a house valued at $20,000. The "remainder" value of such a property is $10,515 (Table III, IR's Publication No. 11), and this amount may be claimed as an income tax deduction. The deduction is larger for single persons.

Although you can deduct only 30% of your income in a single year, you can distribute your deduction over a six-year period.

There is still another tax advantage. While living in your house, you can continue to deduct real property taxes you pay the same as you did when the title was in your name.

Insurance

When you were younger, you no doubt felt a need for life insurance because you were buying a home, rearing a family, and taking business risks. For many of you the need no longer exists. Your home is paid for, your children are educated, and your income is adequate.

Consider, therefore, naming Otterbein the irrevocable beneficiary of one of your insurance policies. Suppose you own a $10,000 policy with a cash surrender value of $5,000. This amount, or the policy's replacement value, can be claimed as an income tax deduction. If you continue to pay the premiums, they are also deductible. Thus, you can accomplish several things by such a transaction: (1) You can get an immediate income tax deduction; (2) the policy will no longer be a part of your estate; (3) you will be making a gift which for generations to come will help make it possible for young people to secure a Christian college education.

call from the Franciscan Fathers at the College of Steubenville to join their staff.

"This started fifteen fabulous years of involvement in every phase of a young, progressive, growing liberal arts institution. I became chairman of the department of mathematics in 1956 and chaired the institutional self-study committee during the successful challenge of the North Central Association's accrediting committee. We got into this exclusive club in 1959. I became chairman of the science division in 1964.

"Paralleling the past fifteen years were two other fascinating episodes of this saga. The first of these started in the fall of 1953 when I began study toward the Ph.D. in mathematics at the University of Pittsburgh. I completed the course work in 1956 and managed to squeeze in oral preliminaries, comprehensive exams and research in time to defend the thesis in 1961.

"The richer episode began in 1953 when Betty Weaver became Mrs. McLean. This part of the drama has been held over for a long run. During these years Betty and I sang in the Chancel Choir of Westminster Presbyterian Church, she taught a Sunday School class, and I led an adult study group and served on the Board of Elders.

"Since receiving the Ph.D., I've had a gnawing sensation that I was loafing, so decided it was time to look for new challenges. The most exciting was Loyola University, where my main responsibility, besides pulling a sagging department together, is to start the Ph.D. program in mathematics.

"Our home is about ten minutes from Basin, South Rampart, Royal, Desire, Bourbon, St. Louis, and all the other streets in the Vieux Carre where jazz was born."

Bob attached a postscript to the effect that as far as he knows he was the first of Prof. B. C. Glover's students to get the Ph.D., and that his first student to get the degree has assumed chairmanship of the department which he leaves in Steubenville.

Financial Support Received

Corporate Gifts

Nearly 2,000 corporations doing business in Ohio contributed $1,577,711 during the past year to the thirty-four colleges which are members of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges.

Otterbein's share of this amount was $46,565.90. During the sixteen years the foundation has been in existence, Otterbein has received a total of $482,426—all for operating purposes.

Sixty per cent of each dollar contributed by the corporations is divided equally among the thirty-four colleges, and the remaining forty per cent is divided on the basis of enrollment.

Scholarship

On March 16, Otterbein received $10,000 from the estate of Flora Belle Bittinger of Woodville, Ohio, to establish a scholarship fund for needy students. Miss Bittinger was a member of the Woodville EUB Church.

Library Grant

Congressman Samuel Devine announced on June 16 that Otterbein College would receive a grant of $10,400 from the U. S. Office of Education to improve the college library. The grant from this office last year was $5,000.

Physics Department

A $9,200 grant has been received from the National Science Foundation for the purchase of instructional equipment for the physics department. The Otterbein grant was one of 299 made out of a total of 2142 requests. The total amount awarded to all colleges amounted to nearly $4,000,000.

BULLETIN BOARD

"O" CLUB GOLF OUTING SEPTEMBER 30

Prior to the Otterbein-Muskingum football game on Saturday, September 30th, the "O" Club will sponsor a golf outing complete with prizes, food and fellowship. All Varsity "O" winners and Honorary "O" Club members are invited to attend. Moe Agler, '48, Bill Barr, '46, and Dick Pflieger, '48, are in charge.

ENROLLMENT DOUBLED

Enrollment at Otterbein this fall is expected to be 1,475, as compared with 1,087 five years ago, and 722 in the 1957-58 school year, just ten years ago.

ATTENTION: TOP STUDENTS

Exceptional applicants for admission to Otterbein are already being admitted for the fall of 1968, and the admissions committee would be glad to accept applications early for others in this category. For early application, a student should be in the upper 10% or 15% of his class, have strong recommendations for college work, and have high scores in college entrance board examinations. A complete set of credentials is required before consideration can be given by the committee.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES TO MEET

The annual meetings of the Otterbein Board of Trustees are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, October 27 and 28.

FELLOWSHIP FOR WOMEN OFFERED

The Danforth Foundation has announced the fourth competition for its Graduate Fellowships for Women. The objective of the program is to find and develop college and secondary school teachers among women whose preparation for teaching has been postponed or interrupted.

The fellowships are open to any woman who holds a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university in the U.S. and who is not at present eligible for another fellowship program of the Foundation. Detailed information may be secured from Dean James V. Miller at Otterbein.

PLANS FOR FUTURE TOWERS

One issue of TOWERS during the coming year will feature details of the new "Three-Three" curriculum, which is expected to go into effect in the fall of 1968. We expect to interview a number of faculty members, students and trustees in preparing our report.

Members of the Class of 1967 are asked to keep the Alumni Office informed of their activities and addresses, so that they can be included in a special feature in the Winter issue.
