OTTERBEIN COLLEGE

WESTERVILLE, OHIO

HOW MUCH DO LEADERS COST TODAY?

Many costs have risen—and so has the cost of training America's leaders. College-trained men and women help us retain our world position in science and development, business and jobs, living standards and our moral influence in the affairs of nations.

But higher education is at the crossroads. Some colleges face shortages. The prospect is no brighter when we realize more and more applicants are knocking on college doors and soon the number will double!

The price may be high, but to remain a world leader we must pay it. We must see that our colleges have enough classrooms, laboratory facilities and above all, competent teachers. College is America's best friend—support the college of your choice.

If you want to know what the college problem means to you, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N. Y.

To alumni living in the Buckeye State, Issue No. 1, on the state ballot November 5, has Ohio's destiny wrapped up in it — educationally, culturally and economically. The Constitutional Amendment will raise $250 million with state-supported universities, municipal and community colleges receiving $175 million for sorely needed building expansion.

We believe this issue deserves affirmative support from alumni of private colleges. If the issue fails to pass, many Ohio youth will either be denied the opportunity of higher education or the state will have to undergo a crash program of construction that will be more costly to taxpayers and too late for many students. I hope you are personally persuaded that this is a critical issue to which you can give support.

Enrolled at Otterbein as a Freshman is Miss Gretchen Van Sickle of Covington, Louisiana. She is the first student, as far as we know, who has both parents and four grandparents all Otterbein graduates. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Van Sickle, '41, (Mary Jane Kline, '42). Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Van Sickle, '06, (Elsie S. Smith, '03), and Mr. and Mrs. Homer B. Kline, '15 (Norma McCally, '16).

*"Her halls have their own message
Of truth, and hope, and love,
"Her stately tower
Speaks naught but power
For our dear Otterbein!"*

Homecoming Queen Candidates

Thirty years ago in 1933, Marjorie Bowser, '36, now Mrs. James Goddard, was crowned the first Fall Homecoming Queen. All former Fall Homecoming Queens have been invited to be honored guests at this year's Fall Homecoming. A special coffee hour and reception will be held in their honor in the Association Building Lounge from 9:30 - 10:30 A.M.

List of former Queens appears on page 15.

Saw Total Eclipse

Professor Emeritus James H. McCloy and George C. Hertz, '23, a Columbus, Ohio High School teacher, journeyed together to Weld, Maine to see the total eclipse of the sun which occurred last July 20.

They drove nearly 2,000 miles to see an event of about a minute duration. As Professor Jimmy related, "The sky clouded up during most of the partial eclipse, then about a half-minute before totality the clouds opened and showed the total eclipse in all its glory. The splendor of the corona, seen only during total eclipse made the trip a success."

Receive Bequest

Over the years many people have remembered Otterbein College in their wills. Since 1948, when the Development Fund was started, 46 people have allowed Otterbein to share in their estates to the extent of $552,715.44.

The latest person to remember Otterbein was Mrs. Hezekiah Pyle (Nellie M. Adams, x'93) who will be added to the college securities with a market value of $85,808.69, and two properties in Westerville appraised at more than $25,000.

Mrs. Pyle was the wife of the Reverend Hezekiah L. Pyle '94, a Methodist minister, who at one time served the Westerville Methodist church. Mr. Pyle died in 1942, and his wife just twenty years later. Both were life-long friends and devoted supporters of their alma mater.

According to the terms of the will, the securities are to establish the Reverend Hezekiah L. and Nellie A. Pyle Memorial Scholarship Fund. The residences may be kept or sold by the college and the proceeds used for any purpose the Board of Trustees may direct. Temporarily, one of the properties is being used as a college guest house.

Otterbein is most grateful for the 46 people who cared enough about the future of Otterbein to provide that a part of their estates should be used to strengthen the program of Christian higher education at Otterbein College.

Writes Composition

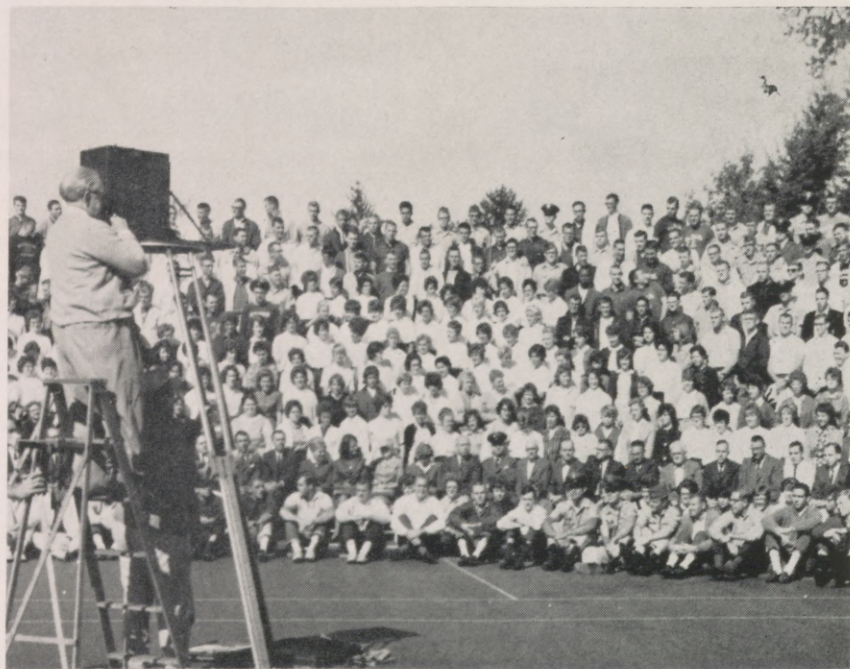

Emeritus Professor James H. McCloy has written a beautiful musical composition based on "The Twenty-Third Psalm." It was sung for the first time on Sunday, September 1st in the worship service of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church, Westerville by H. William Troop, Jr. '50, current president of the national Alumni Association.

European Tour

History, geography, and art became living experiences to the students who travelled through Europe during the past summer. The tour was planned and led by Dr. and Mrs. Paul Frank; travel and hotel reservations were made by a travel agency. Sixteen students, most of them from Otterbein College, participated; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Price joined the party for most of the tour.

The group flew by jet plane both ways across the ocean. Most of the travelling in Europe was done by railroad. After a few days in beautiful Switzerland, the travelers went to Italy. There they studied and admired many centuries of past culture, found in the Greek ruins of Paestum, the excavations of the Roman cities of Pompei and Herculaneum, the churches and monuments in Rome and Florence. The early-Christian mosaics in Ravenna were particularly enjoyed. After having experienced the wonders of Venice, the group dispersed for one week during which the participants travelled independently.

After having gathered again in Salzburg, Austria, the group went to Paris. The last three days were spent on a bus tour through Normandy, Brittany, and the Loire Valley, visiting the famous abbeys and chateaux. The Otterbein students were well prepared for these experiences, which added greatly to their educational value. They benefitted from lectures given by professional guides and the tour leaders.

"O" Club News

The 6th annual "O" Club dinner was held Sept. 4, 1963, at Yarnell's Party House for the Otterbein football squad, their coaches and special guests. Over 185 members and guests attended the dinner which had as its principal speaker, Robert "Moe" Agler, Director of Athletics and head coach at Otterbein.

Clare Nutt was toastmaster and there were interesting comments by Dr. Lynn Turner, Mrs. Frank O. Clements and Dwight Ballenger, president of the "O" Club.

"Moe" Agler was presented a portable transistor in appreciation of his excellent coaching record at Otterbein. Special guests at the dinner included Dr. and Mrs. Royal Martin, Mr. William Morgan, Miss Mary B. Thomas and Miss Ellen Jones.

On September 26, 27 and 28, the "O" Club sponsored a magician show, "The Magic Of The Ages," which was presented by William G. Bale, '50. The proceeds of this show will be used for new athletic equipment for the college teams and grant and aid funds.

Present officers of the "O" Club are: President, Dwight "Smokey" Ballenger; Vice president, W. R. "Tilly" Franklin; Treasurer, William Barr; Secretary, Don Sternisha; Directors, Clare Nutt, Roger Moore, L. William Steck, Ted Benedum, Robert Cornell.

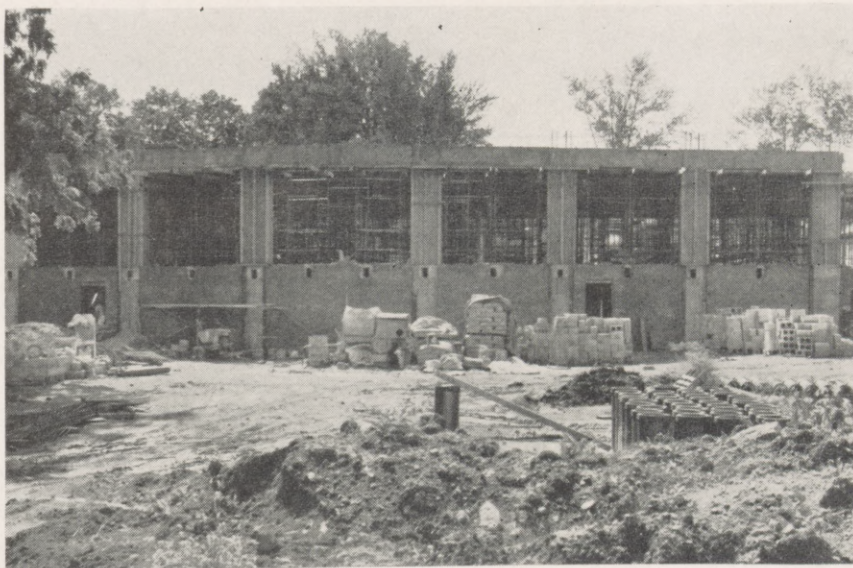

During the past few years, the "O" Club has presented new bleachers, players' benches and much athletic equipment to the Athletic Department of the college.

The "O" Club Homecoming Dinner will be held on October 26, 1963, at 5:30 p.m. in Barlow Hall.

Music Gift

A quantity of violin music has been given to the Otterbein College Music Department from the estate of Mrs. Ora Bale Hartman, '07, and Mrs. Ila Bale Hayes, '12. This is a valuable addition to the music library.

Building Construction Progress

This picture taken in the middle of September, shows the north elevation of the Campus Center Building, facing the Athletic fields and men's dormitories. A third floor is still to be constructed before the outside work is completed.

The new four-floor Women's Dormitory is within a month of completion when this picture was taken. The contractor hopes to have the building completed by Fall Homecoming, Saturday, October 26th.

In Memorium

Mrs. Eleanor Merle MacKenzie, since 1956 secretary to Dr. Wade S. Miller, Vice President in charge of Development, died September 15, after an extended illness since last June. She is survived by her husband, William and two daughters, Mollie Jane, a 1952 graduate of Otterbein and Mrs. Don Kobel, as well as grandchildren William and Kathryn Kobel. In lieu of flowers, contributions are being received for the Eleanor Merle MacKenzie Scholarship Fund at Otterbein College.

Editor's Note: Mrs. MacKenzie's work brought her in contact with many Otterbein alumni. For the past seven years she has been a valued colleague in helping the Alumni Office serve more effectively. She will be sadly missed by our office but her good life of many worthwhile deeds and thoughtfulness will live on.

In Business To Help Otterbein

Every Wednesday, September through May, faithful workers from the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club operate a Thrift Shop in a college owned house on Maple Street beside King Hall. They sell clothing, shoes, used furniture, dishes, kitchen utensils, garden tools and many miscellaneous items.

Proceeds from this business venture go for projects of the Otterbein Women's Club. Last year year $2200 was raised and along with other funds in the club treasury, they contributed $2,000 to the "Focus on Achievement" Campaign, four $100 scholarships to worthy Otterbein coeds, and $450 for risers used by Otterbein musical groups such as the A Cappella Choir and Glee Clubs.

The Thrift Shop was founded in 1952 through the efforts of Mrs. Vida Clements, Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Mrs. Anne Bercaw, and Mrs. Ora F. Haverstock. Through the years many individuals have found bargains at the Thrift Shop and those who have met with tragedy or misfortune were supplied with material goods and clothing.

Today the Thrift Shop is operated by a committee of twenty members of the Otterbein Women's Club under the leadership of Mrs. F. O. Clements, Mrs. George Henderson and Mrs. Ralph Smith. The Shop is open for business every Wednesday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. One of the feature items for sale are the "Vida Dolls" made by Mrs. Clements with the assistance of the women on the committee. The dolls make an excellent gift and are always in demand.

Objective of the Thrift Shop for the 1963-64 year is to continue the scholarships, provide a cyclorama for the stage of Herbert Hall Memorial Auditorium in Lambert Hall, as well as any other needed projects of the college. Greatest need to meet these objectives is for prospective buyers and contributors of merchandise. You are cordially invited to support this very worthwhile project of the Otterbein Women's Club.

1963 Football

With the largest football squad in Otterbein's history, Head Coach Robert "Moe" Agler expects to put on the field every Saturday a team which will more than hold its own against an array of worthy opponents.

The Tan and Cardinal eleven got off to a good start in holding North Central from Naperville, Illinois, scoreless as they easily won 34-0.

Remaining games on the 1963 football schedule are:

September 28—at Wittenberg
 October 5—at Kenyon
 October 12—Oberlin
 October 19—at Hiram
 October 26—Marietta
 November 2—Ashland
 November 9—at Ohio Wesleyan
 November 16—Capital

A five game schedule has been set for the Otterbein Junior Varsity football team as follows:

September 23 - at Akron

September 30 - Wittenberg
 October 14 - at Denison
 October 21 - Ohio Wesleyan
 October 28 - Capital

AWAKENING INTEREST IN NATURE

By DR. EDWARD WALDO EMERSON SCHEAR, Emeritus Professor of Biology and Geology.

It's an old story but it serves to introduce a thought I have in mind. An elderly man was taken on a trip to a zoological garden and when, for the first time, he saw a giraffe he said, "It ain't so." "What do you mean?" said the guide. "There hain't no such animal," said the astonished visitor. Of course, we smile at the visitor's incredulity but after all, isn't nature just full of creatures just as fantastic looking as the giraffe, and even much more so?

However, it is not of such creatures that we are writing today, but of the very common and exquisitely beautiful things that lie all about us, plants and animals. Devious indeed are the ways of nature. Beautiful beyond description, charming in the nth degree. But how much we miss in the hurry and flurry of the work-a-day world! Did not Christ say "consider the lilies of the field, how they grow, they toil not, neither do they spin, yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed as one of these." It appears to some of us that Christ must have been a great naturalist. So often he turned to nature for illustrations. In fact, throughout the whole Bible, nature touches are of rather frequent occurrence. No doubt the people of olden times lived closer to nature than we do now.

But let us take a walk in the fields. All about us we find flowers. Some very inconspicuous, others quite showy. Each is adapted to a particular habitat, and incidentally, we might well add, that each is doing its very best in the situation in which it is placed. We might even not go so far. Just walk across any college campus, where the grass is mowed regularly, perhaps weekly, and you will find down very close to the ground, half hidden by the grass, many flowers in bloom — speedwells, chickweeds, ground ivy, and others that ordinarily are entirely unnoticed by people in general. Oh, yes, you see the dandelions, and what do you say about them? Beg pardon? Just what was that you said? Just think a moment, please. Did you ever examine a dandelion flower closely? Isn't it rather beautiful? Oh, we wouldn't say it is as beautiful as an orchid, but if it were as hard to grow as an orchid we wonder if it would not be much more highly prized than it now is, at least the "tables would be turned" in its direction. But lay aside the beauty of the dandelion, does not its very tenacity hold a great lesson for us. We get weary in well doing, but the dandelion doesn't seem to get weary in ill-doing, when the going is really tough. Perhaps it wouldn't be too amiss for us to say, when the going gets a little rough, "consider the dandelion."

But out we go to the woods. First we must cross a little stream. How peaceful it is! Remember last spring when the excessive rain made this little brook very noisy, boisterous, and muddy? But the storm passed, and now it has settled back to normal, quiet, and even companionable. No wonder poets can declaim on "The Song of The Brook." Do we as readily settle back to an "even keel" when some storm of adversity passes? But again, here is a shrub, beautiful beyond description, yet growing in an almost inaccessible place. How came it there? Ask the poet, Emerson, for example, who speaking of, or in a sense to, Rhodora says, "The selfsame Power that brought me there, brought you."

Did you ever observe the opening of a flower, the evening primrose, for example, or the very beautiful and fragrant night blooming cereus? Someone seeing this for the first time said, "Why, it seems to be alive!" Certainly, are not plants as truly living things as animals? How intricate are the life processes of plants! What riot of colors are found in the showy petals, and sometimes even in the leaves! A colleague once said to me, "Is nature a good artist?" Should he not have better said, "Is God a good artist?" A prominent naturalist once said, "All things seem possible in nature." How true, for is it not all the handiwork of God? John Burroughs once wrote, "Nature's impetus goes out in all directions, covers all ground and is sure to reach the goal; man moves in straight lines toward predetermined ends and may miss the mark."

How interesting it is, perhaps even inspiring, while walking in a field or woodland, to find a very beautiful flower. Especially is this true if it be one we can recognize but have not seen for a long time. It is like meeting an old friend after years of separation. Even more significant is a case like the graduate student in an eastern university, who, having been brought up in the McGuffey Reader days, was as a lad of seven, so deeply impress-

Herbert Hall Memorial Auditorium

When Otterbein College received a bequest of nearly $25,000 from the late Dr. Herbert E. Hall, a 1902 graduate, who died February 12, 1961, the Board of Trustees voted to apply the bequest to the renovation and refurnishing of the auditorium in Lambert Music Hall. The auditorium is to be known as the Herbert Hall Memorial Auditorium.

During the past summer, work on the project was completed by the college maintenance staff under the direction of Business Manager Sanders A. Frye. A new concrete floor was laid, wood paneling placed on the walls, new heating, ventilating and lighting systems installed, elimination of the posts under the balcony and new upholstered seats installed. A glass front door into Lambert Hall and a new door into the auditorium was also completed.

Herbert Hall Memorial Auditorium has a seating capacity of 170. There are side aisles only and these will be carpeted by the time of dedication, Sunday, October 26 at 2:00 p.m.

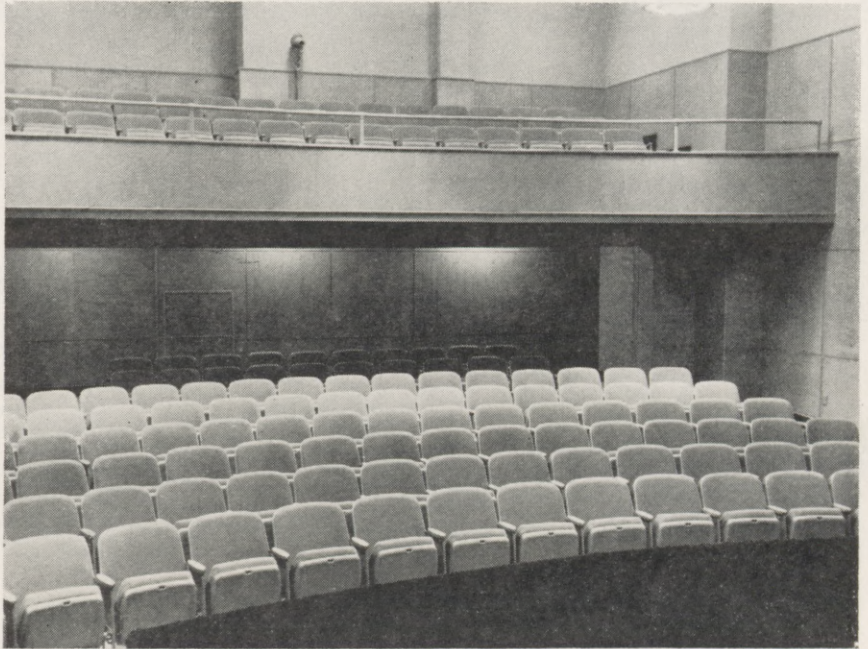

Alumni and friends of Otterbein are cordially invited to attend the Dedication Service. Taking part in the service will be the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Josephine Hall Graham, Evanston, Illinois.

Dr. Hall's wife, the former Bessie R. Detwiler, who died in 1950, was also an Otterbein graduate in the class of 1902. Her parents, Henry Fretts Detwiler and Josephine Van Gundy, graduated from Otterbein in 1875.

ed by the poem, "The Little Harebell" that he wished to see one. It was twenty-five years later, as a graduate student, that he found one on a ledge of rock up in the Adirondacks, truly as the poet had said:

*"Clinging to this bit of earth
As if in mid-air."*

Tho he had never seen one before, he knew it at once and called to his professor saying, "see, here is a harebell." The professor looked and said, "yes, that is a harebell," but went on looking for rocks and fossils. How different the impression that little flower made on the two men!

Let us not, however, confine our observations to flowers alone. Even as we enter a woodland, we see a bird as it alights on the branch of a shrub. Note how it clings to the branch. Listen and we hear it sing. Sentimental folks may say that it is singing to us. Not so, it is singing to its mate. However, the joy and pleasure the bird song brings to us is surely not diminished by knowing that fact, rather, is not our delight really enhanced by our knowledge of the purpose of the bird's song. Who taught the bird to sing? How different are the songs of different species of birds? We might even ask how it comes that the song of a given kind, wren for example, continues so alike from generation to generation? Perhaps you may be thinking of so called mocking-birds. We might also counter with the question, how did they learn such tricks — or did they? How about the cat-bird? Did it learn that peculiar outcry from a cat? Remember, it too is carried on, and has been for countless generations.

Thus, we might continue to multiply examples, all showing the marvelous ways of nature and with it all, an incomparable design not of man's making but challenging us to give attention to the marvelous works of God so close around us. We are so prone to become engrossed with the affairs of our every-day life that we fail to see the infinite beauty which lies all about us. We seem to become engaged almost in a sort of unconscious idolatry, worshiping the things we ourselves have made, never thinking of the source of our every skill and power.

What a precious God-given possession is ours that we have a mind to see some of these mysteries of nature and can understand them to at least a limited degree. Nature, it has been said, is the grand expression of the idea of God and man is included in this idea. As we delight in the achievements of our children, so may we also feel that God delights to see us decipher the beauties and mysteries of nature and perhaps, to some very limited sense, "think His thoughts after Him."

ALUMNI

PRESIDENT

SAYS

H. William Troop, '50

Dear Fellow Alumni:

As you read this greeting, I hope that you will feel the nostalgia which is in the air surrounding Otterbein's stately Towers at this time of year.

Those of us who live in Westerville welcome the fall season. With the turning of the leaves come the sounds of laughter and general chatter as the students return to the quiet peaceful village.

On behalf of your Alumni Council, I extend to you a cordial invitation to come and join in the Homecoming festivities — October 26 and 27.

Perhaps you'll come to renew old acquaintances, or visit with a favorite "Prof", or view the progress of new buildings, or watch the football game, but whatever the reason, don't put off coming.

At the regular meeting of the Alumni Council, held in September, great plans were made for this year. To start off the year we plan to honor the first thirty fall homecoming queens. Why not be on hand to help us salute them? This is just a starter, for the Council is working for all of you throughout the year. Let's all remember that a college is no stronger than her alumni make her.

Hope to see you at Homecoming.

Bill Troop, '50
