Quality of Otterbein Students Underscored by Scholarship Recipients

Since its founding in 1847, Otterbein's principal concern has been its students. And this concern is reflected in the quality of its student body. I have become even more aware of that quality after reading more than a score of letters from recipients of this year's Alumni Memorial Scholarships in which the writers expressed their gratitude and shared with me their campus activities, their career goals and their deep appreciation for their Otterbein experience.

"My education is an important part of my life," one wrote. "I think that a person needs a good education to get anywhere in life and Otterbein offers this."

"Otterbein has given me a lot of good opportunities and experiences," another wrote.

"I am grateful to you, your fellow alumni and friends for having such a scholarship," commented a third student. "This scholarship not only helps out but it is also an honor to be a recipient of it."

"Without it (scholarship), I would not be able to attend Otterbein," still another wrote. "It's a fantastic school that I really like. After next year I will truly miss Otterbein and all my friends and activities."

The recipients are majoring in a wide range of disciplines: mathematics, computer science, nursing, journalism, broadcasting, elementary and secondary education, music, business administration, economics. And all are involved in a host of extracurricular activities, ranging from intercollegiate athletics, the marching band and glee club to student government, campus publications and fraternity and sorority life. One was last fall's homecoming queen.

Alumni Memorial Scholarships, I have been informed, came about in 1963 when alumni and friends began a fund in memory of classmates and friends. To date, hundreds of people have contributed to the fund. Now more than 35 individual funds are combined in the Alumni Memorial Fund.

The scholarships go to fulltime students who, in order to retain them, must show satisfactory progress toward earning a degree. During this academic year, 22 students are being assisted by Alumni Memorial Scholarships. Consideration is given to those students who are relatives of the alumni in whose memory a fund has been established.

The combined funds in memory of classmates are the principal amount in the Alumni Memorial Fund. When the amount in any fund reaches the endowed level—now $10,000—an individually named, independent scholarship is established by the College.

Alumni Memorial Scholars, along with other scholarship recipients, are invited each spring to a scholarship luncheon. Guests include parents of recipients, scholarship donors or representatives, members of the board of trustees, administrators, faculty and staff. This year's luncheon is scheduled for April 20 at the Rike Center.

I look forward to the luncheon so I can personally meet the fine young men and women who in their letters shared their activities and dreams with me.

Grant Will Boost College's Humanities Program

Otterbein College was one of 13 colleges and universities nationwide named to receive a 1984 challenge grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH).

As a part of its receipt of the $250,000 three-to-one matching grant, Otterbein must now raise three times the amount of the federal funds given by NEH. The grant will be utilized to help create a $1 million endowment for the humanities.

"The National Endowment for the Humanities is recognized as the most prestigious center for evaluating humanities education and activity in the United States," said Otterbein President Dr. C. Brent DeVore. "The fact that Otterbein was awarded the challenge grant affirms the long-term quality of humanities studies at Otterbein."

According to Dr. Sylvia Vance, chairperson of the integrative studies department at Otterbein and project director of the challenge grant proposal task force, "Our receipt of the grant reaffirms the importance of the humanities in contemporary education. At Otterbein, we offer our students a core of courses, including the humanities, in a liberal arts setting. We are convinced that there are important kinds of learning that take place there that lead to successful careers, regardless of the field of interest."

Income from this endowment will underwrite three aspects of Otterbein's humanities program. The acquisition of books, professional journals and other resource materials in the humanities for Otterbein's Courtright Memorial Library will be one priority. As projected in the grant proposal, if increased funds were spent entirely on books, the number of volumes purchased could be increased by 50 percent a year.

A second area targeted will be a professional development program for the humanities faculty. This could include such things as a biennial summer seminar, small project grants to humanities faculty, monies to engage outside consultants, and support for travel to professional conferences and workshops.

> "The fact that Otterbein was awarded the challenge grant affirms the long-term quality of humanities studies at Otterbein."

When the grant is fully funded, Otterbein will establish a visiting professorship that rotates among the various humanities disciplines. "By bringing distinguished teacher-scholars to the campus to participate in all areas of the educational program," Dr. Vance said, "we will greatly enrich the humanities at Otterbein."

Dr. Robert E. Fogal, vice president of development and a member of the grant proposal task force, pointed out that this new grant will provide a stimulus to the College's general endowment. "This grant is part of a broad strategy to strengthen Otterbein's fiscal base," he said. "The school has recently generated $4.8 million in new gifts and commitments to the endowment. The NEH challenge will encourage donors especially interested in supporting the humanities at Otterbein."

Led by Dr. Fogal and Dr. Vance, the proposal writing task force was comprised of Otterbein faculty members and off-campus panelists, who spent a year of planning, studying, and reworking drafts before the challenge grant proposal was submitted last spring.

Off-campus panelists who helped develop the grant proposal were Robert Boltz '78, language arts editor for the Charles E. Merrill Publishing Company in Westerville; Dr. Charles Cole, executive director of the Ohio Humanities Council, Columbus; Dr.

Winter Carnival Queen Crowned

Four New Endowed Scholarships Established

Four new endowed scholarships have been established at Otterbein and will be initially awarded to students for the 1985-1986 academic year. The four scholarships are the Dr. and Mrs. N. E. Cornetet Scholarship, the Honda Scholarship, the Dorothy G. VanSant Memorial Scholarship, and the Yantis Family Scholarship.

The Dr. and Mrs. N. E. Cornetet Scholarship was established by gifts from two of his children, Wendell H. '21 and M. Grace '27 (Mrs. Lloyd C. Mackey). The scholarship will be inaugurated in 1985-86 with the first grant to an Otterbein student.

Dr. Cornetet was a prominent figure on the Otterbein campus during the first three decades of the 20th century. A member of the class of 1896, he worked as faculty secretary and director of extension before serving as registrar from 1904 to 1923. He went on to become dean of the College until 1929.

Before attending Otterbein, Dr. Cornetet taught school for eight years, and preached in the Scioto Conference of the United Brethren Church. The struggles he experienced to obtain a college education made him sensitive to the needs of students, as evidenced by the recollection of his daughter Grace. "Though we never had any extra money, if Dad thought a student was needy and worthy, he would sign a note at the bank for him to borrow money for him to stay in college," she recalled. "He was usually a pretty good judge of character, but I know a few times he had to make a note good when a student failed to pay it."

The construction of the "college church," now the Church of the Master on the corner of West Main and Grove Streets, also benefited from Dr. Cornetet's energies. He played a key role in raising the $60,000 needed to construct the building. His leadership as a churchman was also reflected in his work of founding the United Brethren Church in Newark, Ohio, which is now the Faith United Methodist Church.

Perhaps the best testimony to Dr. Cornetet's life and work is a colleague's memorial tribute in a 1931 church publication, Watchword: "This great man was an inspiring scholar. The precision and accuracy of his life was a constant inspiration to those who appreciated better things. No thoughtful person could come under his influence without the realization that he believed that life was worth living to the very height of one's opportunities. The clarity of thinking which characterized Dr. Cornetet as a teacher was a constant inspiration to the ambitious and thoughtful student. Not only was he characterized by high qualities of scholarship, but he knew how to apply these qualities . . . He taught more by example and influence than by precept . . . He was a teacher of people instead of lessons."

Additional gifts to the Cornetet Scholarship fund will be gratefully accepted and acknowledged.

More than 175 family members and friends of Dorothy G. VanSant, who was well known to many of the Otterbein community, have established a scholarship in her memory. Following retirement as a housemother in Garst Cottage and Clements Hall (1952-1960), until her death on September 8, 1983, Mrs. VanSant made her home with her daughter, Joanne (Van), vice president for student affairs and dean of students, and Marilyn Day, chairperson of the women's health and physical education department.

The scholarship will honor Mrs. VanSant's interest and creativity in the arts by aiding an outstanding student in the field of visual arts. The fund will be known as the Dorothy G. VanSant Memorial Scholarship.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard P. Yantis have established a scholarship in honor of family members who have been associated with the Westerville community and Otterbein College. Richard Yantis '53, a retired U.S. Air Force officer, has been an associate professor of mathematics of the College since 1976. Jane Yantis is a past president of the Westerville Otterbein Women's Club.

The scholarship will be awarded to a freshman male student who has demonstrated high potential for excellence in both academics and athletics. The fund will be known as The Yantis Family Scholarship.

As part of its scholarship program, The Honda of America Foundation has established a scholarship at Otterbein and at each of the 35 member colleges of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges (OFIC). The scholarship will assist a student who is a graduate of an Ohio high school and will be known as The Honda Scholarship.

Pittsburgh Ballet to Perform

The internationally acclaimed Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre will perform the classic love story "Swan Lake" at Otterbein on April 12 at 8:15 p.m. in Cowan Hall. The performance is the final event of the College's Artist Series for the 1984-85 school year.

New Windows in Towers Hall Are First Phase of College's Energy Conservation Program

Towers Hall has undergone a face lift of sorts.

Workers in December and January were busy removing the windows in the building and replacing them with new, energy efficient windows.

This is just one phase of a three-part energy conservation program initiated by Otterbein that is expected to eventually save the College as much as $74,000 a year when fully implemented. In addition to replacing the windows in Towers, a new computer-controlled system to operate the heating and ventilation systems in several buildings on campus and new hot water boilers and steam generators are being installed.

Otterbein received a $266,000 low-interest loan to finance the projects last summer from the Ohio Board of Regents as part of the College Equipment and Energy Conservation Leasing Program. Under terms of the loan, Otterbein leases the equipment and, after it pays back the interest and principal, the College will own all the equipment.

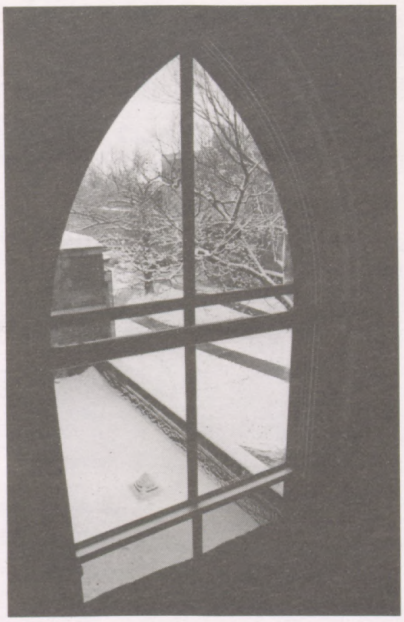
As a result of anticipated savings because of reduced energy consumption, the new windows and equipment are expected to pay for themselves in seven years, explained Woodrow R. Macke, Otterbein's vice president of business affairs and business manager. At the same time, money saved by the College in reduced energy costs will more than pay off the loan.

"Everything should be paid off in less than seven years without any of Otterbein's dollars going into the program at all," Macke said. "At the end of seven years, we own everything, and then all the savings are ours.

"We anticipate annual savings in the neighborhood of $74,000 once the systems are fully in place and fully operational," he added.

A total of 125 windows were replaced in Towers, at a cost of nearly $135,000. The stained glass windows on the third floor will not be replaced but will be placed in new frames. Windows in the Philomathean Room, where storm windows were added last fall, and the old library section of the building also will not be replaced.

Macke said the windows were replaced because many were badly deteriorated. Aside from the advantage of greater efficiency, he said the new windows will also "eliminate long-term maintenance problems" and allow for greater ventilation.



The new windows in Towers Hall give a clearer picture of the campus.

After several delays, the new windows arrived in two shipments in late December and January. Installation work was completed in early February.

The new heating and ventilating system controls are being installed in the library, Campus Center, Rike Center, Battelle Fine Arts Building and Towers Hall and have already been installed in the Science Building. Work on this project is scheduled to be completed by June 20 at a cost of $103,000.

Mini-computers in each building will precisely control the heating, cooling and ventilation systems in the building and constantly adjust the building's energy consumption depending on the weather and time of day. John Wathen, director of the physical plant, said the computer controls will result in the maximum possible energy efficiency, thereby saving electrical and heating costs.

Hot water boilers and steam generators will be installed by April 30 at the Rike Center, Campus Center, Mayne Hall, Hanby Hall, Clements Hall and the Science Building. They will serve as independent sources of hot water for these buildings, enabling the College in the summer to shut down the hot water underground supply pipes leading to these buildings for a substantial energy savings.

As students gather on the first floor of Towers Hall between classes, a workman assembles the molding of the new windows.

TOWERS
Spotlight

by Susan Greiner

If it hadn't been for love, Otterbein might never have had the fortune to meet William E. LeMay; a member of the school's Board of Trustees for the past 15 years.

When LeMay, who had been an engineering student at the University of Dayton, returned in 1945 from World War II after four years of service with the 8th Air Force in England, he joined his bride, the former Helen Hilt, then a student at Otterbein.

While he waited for the start of the next semester (when he planned to resume his pursuit of that engineering degree on the G.I. Bill, possibly at The Ohio State University), the ambitious young man with time on his hands took a job at Otterbein as a janitor, work that included firing up the furnaces of "dormitory" houses each morning.

"To make a long story short, the more people I met at Otterbein, the more I wanted to stay there, so in January I enrolled, and I graduated with a degree in chemistry in 1948," he recalled with a smile.

LeMay is a fascinating man whose life has included enough ventures for ten men—from working as a chemist and inventing a product so essential that it is universally taken for granted today, to operating the first farm in Ohio to successfully raise hogs in total confinement (bringing 1,000 to market each month), to constructing and running a family entertainment complex that included a restaurant, bakery, outdoor theatre, olympic-sized pool and eight tennis courts.

LeMay's list of contributions to Otterbein is impressive, from establishing the Michael-LeMay Scholarship in 1969, in honor of former professor, Dr. Lyle Michael, to serving in a number of leadership positions on the Board of Trustees, including vice chairman of the board, and chairman of both audit and budget committees. The latter is a position he has held for the past 10 years.

In his role as National Leadership Gifts Chairman for Otterbein's 125th Anniversary Campaign in 1972, LeMay guided major contributions to the College's "Venture Into Opportunity" program, which included construction of the Rike Center complex and renovation of both Towers Hall and the former Alumni Gym.

A native of Lancaster, in eastern Kentucky, the soft-spoken member of the Otterbein "family" has his own immediate Otterbein family: wife Helen graduated from the school in 1947, and both daughters attended the school, with Bonnie (Helen Bernice) earning an Otterbein degree in 1973. Younger daughter Connie went on to Michigan State University, where she graduated in 1975.

The decision to enter the field of chemistry after graduating from Otterbein turned out to be a good one for LeMay. After pursuing advanced work in chemistry at the University of Colorado, he launched his own company in 1952 called Ohio Sealer, which sought new applications for vinyl. He worked actively in the area of polyvinylchloride, or PVC, which was then in its infancy. Along the way, the enterprising chemist invented disposable examining gloves, now used by physicians worldwide. The invention has brought the modest man both fame and fortune, a fact that LeMay shrugs off with the explanation, "success depends on timing."

He later founded Dayton Flexible Products, which manufactures disposable products for the medical field. The company was acquired by Baxter Laboratories, where LeMay remained as president of the Dayton Flexible Products Division, and later became corporate vice president of Baxter. Although he "retired" in 1979 as chairman of the board of yet another venture, Phoenix Medical Technology, LeMay never has slowed down, and today he is president of the corporation.

His family's recreational complex, named Millview because of its historic location near the Little Miami River in Waynesville, Ohio, became a household name in the town the LeMays call home. The LeMays operated Millview for almost five years before leasing out the park's operation in 1982. The experience left this Otterbein trustee with many fond memories, especially of the productions, from light opera to ballet to comedy, that were presented by groups from Cincinnati and Dayton in the outdoor amphitheater.

Today the amphitheater is no longer the scene of entertaining musicals, but instead has been converted into a research and development lab of LeMay's Phoenix Medical Technology plant. He is at work converting an 1805 log cabin that he had moved to the property into his office, which will eventually be furnished in cherry and walnut reproduction pieces carefully created by none other than William E. LeMay, the wood worker.

"It all ties together, really," the energetic 60-year-old suggested, in explaining his numerous accomplishments. "Cash flow and mass production have always been my main interests."

Helen moved her gift shop business about a year-and-a-half ago from Millview to Waynesville's main street, which is filled with dozens of antique shops. Today she sells her special gifts in a reproduction of an old train depot (Winton Place) that was located in Cincinnati.

Now both girls have grown, married and moved away, and LeMay says he has slowed down. On a biographical fact sheet completed for Otterbein, he listed woodworking, farming and nature study as his hobbies. While it is true that LeMay the farmer grew plenty of corn and soybeans on his land ("mostly to feed the hogs" once raised there), and he retreats to nature as often as he can, there is so much more to the modest man, who confessed he has always "liked to keep to myself."

Trustee William E. LeMay and his wife, Helen.

At home in Waynesville, the LeMays live in a rustic home of rough-sawn cedar set on 430 acres of woods, a lake, riding trails, fields of wildflowers and more. Named Stonybrook, the property was originally part of a 1,000-acre farm. Now, the other half is Camp Stonybrook, owned by the Middletown Girl Scout Council.

The boy who grew up in the Bluegrass State with "Good old Kentucky horses," today has a pair of Tennessee Walkers, Bud and Blue. He invites any visitors to the farm to ride his horses "as long as they promise to give them good rubdowns afterwards."

The generous man shares his farm with numerous groups, from Audubon Society or Lions Club meetings to Otterbein golf outings. A local nursing home schedules visits there, where a Waynesville librarian reads to the elderly patients in the outdoor setting, and they enjoy the birds, woods and flowers.

LeMay even had a huge shelter house built on a rise west of the lake to better accommodate visitors. The Oakwood United Methodist Church meets there annually, and the congregation enjoys dinner in the shelter house after an outdoor service.

LeMay has always made time to volunteer his expertise, not just at Otterbein but also in a variety of church and community projects. Currently president of the Waynesville Development Corporation, LeMay is due to become president of the Waynesville Rotary in July, and he is proud to be a Paul Harris fellow in the Rotary foundation that provides scholarships to deserving young people.

Under his chairmanship five years ago, a committee of concerned citizens was able to get the funding necessary to build Stubbs Health Center, where he remains a trustee. He also sits on an advisory board at Sycamore Hospital in nearby Miamisburg, Ohio.

His list of assorted church, civic and club affiliations is lengthy, but one gets the impression that it will continue to grow before the mild-mannered chemist takes to reading his journals while rocking in a chair near the fireplace.

"The emphasis is going to remain on quality: quality of the programs, quality of the student, and quality of the student's involvement at Otterbein."

In the meantime, William E. LeMay says he's not sure how the other trustees on Otterbein's board view him. "Of course, I'm a financial man and try to see that we spend our dollars in the right places," he said. "But I hope they think of me also as a team man. I think the board has tried as a team to play a supporting role to the faculty after reviewing their needs."

As for the future, "A student today is searching for an extra commitment that private schools like Otterbein are in the best position to serve, because they can be so personal," he explained. "The board has always wanted to be careful about the number of students who could enroll at Otterbein and still be handled in the first-class manner they are used to. We want to maintain that balance of characteristics that makes Otterbein what it is.

"The board was happy to welcome C. Brent DeVore to Otterbein and observe a new approach. In the future, don't look for major changes or a big recruiting drive. As we continue to modernize the campus, the emphasis is going to remain on quality: quality of the programs, quality of the student, and quality of the student's involvement at Otterbein," he stressed.

William E. LeMay understands what is meant by quality; for the hard-working trustee who almost didn't come to Otterbein personifies the word.

Career Development Comes of Age

Modern Offices Reflect Progressive Thinking

by Susan Greiner

It may have been winter outside with frigid temperatures and howling winds, but inside, the newly-relocated Career Development Center in the western wing of Barlow Hall looked like spring.

Greenery abounds in the warmly decorated facility which opened in October, where the spacious new offices, private interview rooms and comprehensive career library — complete with bright purple chairs and abstract art — resemble a contemporary business suite.

According to Marlene Suter, director of career planning and placement, that's just one of the ends she and her staff hoped to accomplish in moving to their new professional-looking location from much smaller offices in the basement of Towers Hall last fall.

"I'm a big believer in the influence of a person's environment. Our new center says to both employers and students: career development is important; and, consequently, they are both more comfortable in the interview setting," she said.

"The fact that we had to use classrooms for interviewing purposes before," she pointed out, "was a critical problem, and our lack of space (the center has tripled its amount of physical space) surely gave visitors the impression that ours was an unimportant service."

"Our new center says to both employers and students: career development is important; and, consequently, they are both more comfortable in the interview setting."

Now, it is obvious even from a visitor's first impression when entering the center, located at 60 North Grove Street (across the street from Mayne Hall), that Otterbein feels career development is an essential area.

"We have had to run at full speed to keep abreast of everything happening in this young field, but our career counseling program is considered by many to be one of the most comprehensive services of its kind in the state of Ohio," Ms. Suter related.

"Our function has gone through an evolution so that what started out as an educational placement service for teachers is now a vital retention tool for the College," she explained. "Studies show that students who are undecided about their future are more likely to drop out of college, so what is happening, especially in smaller colleges, is that we are realizing that we must offer this service for our 'customers,' the students."

Otterbein's career development program begins in the freshman year and includes career planning workshops and classroom career speakers. By the time they are seniors, students have established credential files, have researched employers and have taken part in workshops designed to prepare them for all phases of job hunting.

"We have moved away from the sole idea of placement because national statistics show that most college graduates keep that first job only two years," Ms. Suter explained. "So it's really not in a student's best interest for us to act just as a job service. In the long run, what we want to build is his or her self-confidence and a sense of power in finding their own jobs.

"We are not as much interested in placing the new graduate in a job, as in teaching a set of principles applicable in any field. That includes how to go about a job search, how to make the most of an interview, how to compose a good resume and cover letter, and how to seek out the hidden job markets."

The center is interested in the jobs that Otterbein graduates choose, though, and publishes a follow-up survey of the students each April. Statistics indicate that more than 90 percent of all graduates are employed fulltime or enrolled in graduate school within nine months of graduation.

For the past four years, Ms. Suter and her staff have been complemented by a group of peer career advisors, or PCAs, who are responsible for making Otterbein students aware of the center's services. "Their main thrust is outreach," Ms. Suter explained. "We don't assume that all the students who can benefit from our services will come here on their own. The PCAs really lengthen our arms in terms of pointing out available resources to the campus community, tallying up 200 student contacts per year.

"I'm really excited about this program," the career development head smiled. "The PCAs take their jobs very seriously. There is no payment, although they may earn internship credit. Many have elected to become PCAs after their own successful use of the center's resources.

"The way I see it," she continued, "everybody wins. The campus benefits, because helpful information reaches a greater number of students; the staff benefits, because the PCAs can give us a clearer idea of student needs; and the PCAs benefit, by gaining valuable experience in dealing with people and developing related skills."

In its new, highly-visible locale, even more students are likely to utilize Otterbein's Career Development Center and be assisted in exploring the options available and making informed decisions about their career direction. But career planning is a lifelong process and interested alumni are welcome to call the center (614-890-3000, ext. 1456) or at least drop by for a tour.

WOBN Undergoes Overhaul of Facilities With Grant Funding

Campus radio station WOBN, located in the basement of Cowan Hall, underwent quite a transformation over winter break, as a result of receiving a grant of $15,100 by the Clements Foundation.

While classrooms across campus sat lifeless with most students back home for the holidays, the activity level at WOBN was at a steady hum as a core of hard-working "friends" threw themselves into the major task of completely overhauling the station's facilities.

The grant was approved by the Clements Foundation in September, after having been submitted last spring by John Ludlum, chairman of the Department of Speech Communication, who has been assisted by the speech faculty and local engineering consultants.

"This updating is something that has been needed for a long time," he explained. "We had to improve our facilities to stay up with our competitors. We didn't want to lose prospective students because of the physical appearance of the studio that had remained unchanged for the last 20 years. In addition, the other equipment was breaking down, leaving us with diminishing returns due to the cost of repairs and replacement parts."

The group of volunteers was comprised of faculty, staff, administration, students and their parents, who, according to John Buckles, station advisor and instructor of speech communications, were able to basically create and wire two modern rooms—the main control room and a production studio—in just seven weeks.

Buckles praised the carpentry skills of Dr. Donald C. Bulthaup, vice president of academic affairs, saying, "He designed all the new cabinets and the console for the production studio and helped build them too."

The remodeling project also called for the installation of a new soundproof ceiling and soundproof walls, which Buckles called "a major improvement with a twofold purpose. Internally, WOBN is able to achieve a better sound quality on the air, and externally, sound can no longer 'leak out' of the station as easily as in the past, leaving the basement of Cowan Hall a lot less noisy."

New equipment purchased with money from the Clements Foundation grant includes a distribution amplifier, which routes sound energy to the proper places, and a compressor-limiter, which controls output levels and makes dead air less noticeable.

The station was also able to purchase equipment needed to complete its conversion from mono to stereo, including stereo cartridge players, cassette players and new microphones. Additional equipment was purchased to finish WOBN's remote sound system. "Our remote system is an educational tool, but also a wonderful public relations tool," Buckles pointed out.

"With the Clements grant, we were able to complete what we call phase I or our general improvement, and made changes that were vital to our basic operations," Buckles explained. "Phase II plans call for equipment and facility improvement that is not immediately critical to the department, and phase III plans for our long-term growth."

WOBN disc jockey Sean Woodson (top), a freshman from Columbus, and sportscaster Richard Klempay, a junior from McMurray, Pa., broadcast from the station's newly-renovated studios in the basement of Cowan Hall. The renovation, accomplished thanks to a $15,000 grant from the Clements Foundation, was completed during winter break.

Buckles did not speak just for himself when he said that those involved with WOBN are grateful to the Clements Foundation for having the foresight to respond to the radio station's needs.

"The morale has really been lifted in the older students who want to attempt more challenging things," Buckles stressed. "We didn't want any student to be limited by technical capabilities, but limited only by their own creativity and investment of time.

"Now, our station can match any other school in the state. Oh, some schools may be bigger, but they don't have better equipment, only more of it."

New Service Gives Prospective Students Answers About Financial Aid Eligibility

It may be too early to draw any conclusions about the impact of Otterbein's new Estimator Service instituted this past fall, but Director of Financial Aid LeAnn Conard is very excited about her department's innovative answer to prospective college students and their parents who need a quick response to their queries about financial aid.

"An Estimator Service is not a commonly accepted idea by all colleges. But at Otterbein, we believe that if we admit you to the College, we should be prepared to help you finance your education," she said. "For some people, the Estimator Service means the difference between the family even considering a private institution like Otterbein or not."

The hope behind the Estimator Service is that by offering estimates of prospective students' potential financial aid eligibility, young people will be encouraged to pursue their desires of continuing their education and be able to make well-informed choices.

"We have invited all interested students to take advantage of the new service even if they haven't decided whether they want to attend Otterbein," Ms. Conard explained. "But while applying for admission here is not a requirement for using the Estimator Service, the most prominent group serviced has been Otterbein applicants. They simply complete and return a brief questionnaire. We ask that they refer to the most recent income tax returns when compiling estimates, and usually in one to two weeks, the students have received a detailed response from Otterbein."

The Estimator Service enables the College to approximate a student's total potential eligibility for financial aid, with a calculated range of possible aid in four areas: grants (may be from a combination of college, state and federal sources); loans (low-interest educational loans to be repaid only when a student is enrolled in college on less than a half-time basis); campus employment (a student may earn a specific allotment, to be paid monthly); and scholarships (to be confirmed once a student submits a high school transcript and is admitted to the college).

Talent grants are awarded only after an audition or portfolio review and cannot be determined by the Estimator information.

"A uniform methodology is employed by the Estimator Service," Ms. Conard explained. "We use a standard published formula that assumes a certain standard of living, determines objectively how much a student is permitted to have, and uses standard awarding procedures." (The estimate is not an actual application for financial aid. Students must wait until January 1 of the year for which they are requesting aid to file appropriate forms.)

"A lot of people mistakenly think that all the formula asks is 'How much can you possibly pay?' But the estimate is based on many more factors. People might be surprised to discover that last year more than 80 percent of our students received financial aid, totalling more than $3.5 million," she continued.

"The majority of our students come from middle-income families, but the facts and figures show that Otterbein is financially feasible for students from families of all income levels.

"Since we believe that a college education is one of the most important investments a person will make, the financial aid awarded by the College utilizes all available resources to offer the best possible assistance to students and their families.

"We decided only to send information about our Estimator Service to the people who requested it," the director of financial aid pointed out. "Our initial response has been just what we expected it to be." By last December, the Office of Financial Aid had about 50 people who had used the Estimator Service.

"We have had to shift priorities in our office because our staff understands the importance of this service to the student, so they have really put their hearts into it," said Ms. Conard, "especially my secretary Anne Gage and Assistant Director of Financial Aid Phil Bovenizer. In addition to staff support, a project like this requires plenty of computer support too, which we have received particularly from Carol Taylor, program analyst at Otterbein's Data Processing Center, and, of course, the Center's director, Roger Wiley.

"We feel our program is special and very helpful," she continued. "Only a handful of colleges that I'm familiar with offer an estimator service of this kind, and of those that do, not that many have made it a well-known fact.

"We are most interested in a follow-up survey to re-evaluate and to determine the cost effectiveness on our first-year experiment, but we are confident that this was needed.

"We feel that once the word gets out to current high school juniors and their parents," Ms. Conard concluded, "we will be very busy."

Fraternity Re-chartered; Signs New Pledges

Lambda Gamma Epsilon fraternity has been re-chartered at Otterbein, and a pledge class of 13 men was activated in the Philomathean Room on January 14, 1985. The new chapter members worked hard during winter rush and signed 19 pledges.

Currently the new Kingsmen have a chapter room located in Davis Annex.

"Your continued support is needed and, with your help, the ideals on which the fraternity was founded in 1948 by Dick Pope and Ford Swigert will continue to grow," said Craig W. Chaleston, alumni president.

The formal re-chartering dinner ceremony for the new chapter will be held on October 12, 1985 as part of Homecoming '85.

Chaleston reminds alumni that 1985 alumni dues can be sent to Bill Marshall, alumni treasurer, 9250 South Old State Road, Westerville, 43081. Checks can be made out to Lambda Gamma Epsilon Alumni Association.

Reaching Consensus on Nursing Competencies Purpose of Grant-Otterbein Workshop

Reaching a consensus on nursing competencies for the improvement of nursing care was the purpose of a December 5 continuing education workshop held by Otterbein's Grant-Otterbein Nursing Program and Grant Hospital at the Campus Center.

More than 220 nursing educators and nursing service representatives from Ohio and nearby states participated in the workshop, entitled "Deficiency and Differentiating Associate Degree Nurse/Bachelor of Science Nurse, (ADN/BSN), Nursing Competencies."

The workshop was part of an ongoing project sponsored by the Midwest Alliance in Nursing, (MAIN), an organization of nursing service agencies and nursing educational programs.

Entitled "Associate Degree Nursing-Facilitating Competency Development," the MAIN project is partially funded by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation as part of the Foundation's $6.5 million commitment to associate degree nursing. The Grant-Otterbein Nursing Program is one of five demonstration centers throughout the Midwest chosen for the project by MAIN. The project, begun in 1983, is being coordinated from Grand View College in Des Moines, Iowa.

According to Mary Ann Burnam, assistant professor in the Grant-Otterbein Nursing Program, the workshop was designed to bring together nursing education and service to discuss the roles, competencies, and specific performance capabilities for associate degree and bachelor degree nurses.

"The MAIN project was expanded to include BSN competencies," Mrs. Burnam explained. "The demonstration center teams have now developed the competency statements that can be used as a common basis for job descriptions, orientation, and education programs.

"For many of the participants, the workshop was the first opportunity to discuss these competencies and to consider adapting them for use in their own institutions," she said.

The Grant-Otterbein workshop was one of four workshops held this fall in MAIN's 13-state region. Workshop participants received continuing education credit through the Ohio Nurses Association. Heading the workshop were the members of the Ohio demonstration team including Mary Ann Burnam and Jerry Hoffman, assistant professors in the Grant-Otterbein Nursing Program; Patricia Roam, director of medical surgical nursing services, Grant Hospital, and Karleen Streitenberger, assistant vice president, Grant Hospital.

As the MAIN project progresses, future workshops will be held at Otterbein College and the other demonstration sites. The project is scheduled for completion in December, 1985.

Cooperative efforts between Grant Hospital and Otterbein College began when the hospital contracted with Otterbein College for courses to be taught to students enrolled in Grant Hospital School of Nursing, a three-year diploma program.

Pietila Named Alumni Relations Director

Jack Pietila, director of annual giving at Otterbein for the past year-and-a-half, is now performing a dual role at the College since recently being named Director of Alumni Relations as well. He replaces Ms. Eileen Thome.

A retired major with the United States Air Force, Pietila is a 1962 Otterbein graduate, with a master's degree in industrial management from the University of North Dakota.

He is looking at Otterbein through new eyes as a member of the development staff, since he had been away from the institution for 20 years during his Air Force career. He says that he is proud of what he sees and wants all alumni to be proud as well.

"Otterbein has changed, of course, since many of us were students," he remarked, "but it will always work to maintain the characteristics that make it the special place it is. I feel that it is my job to communicate with alumni to keep the spirit of pride alive."

Pietila and his wife, the former Mary Jean Barnhard '61, and their two daughters live in Westerville.

Leaders in the MAIN project workshop, held at Otterbein December 5, were (from left) Karleen Streitenberger, assistant vice president of Grant Hospital; Otterbein nursing program faculty members Mary Ann Burnam and Marjorie Hoffman; and Patricia Roam, director of medical surgical nursing services at Grant Hospital.

Former Members: The Alumni Choir Wants You!

Alumni Choir was a real joy for those of us who returned to Otterbein's campus for Alumni Weekend '84, except . . . we regretted not seeing more fellow alumni singers. We discussed how we could encourage more choir alumni to join us in future years. The following thoughts are printed to make you realize that Alumni Choir is an experience you should not be missing!

Mary Alyce Holmes '53 likes ". . . to come back and sing for the sheer thrill and fun of it. It's exciting to see people I sang with in college days and to meet new musicians, too. Music unifies people in ways few other activities do." Thomas Lloyd '74, who served as president of the Alumni Choir for several years, also enjoys ". . . singing with alumni from a wide variety of years — all blending together."

"How often does one get to sing good choir music with a group that sings like this? It's great! In most home communities there is not that opportunity," comments Nancy Bone Hollifield '62. Dick Dilgard '53 agrees: "I especially enjoy singing with really fine vocalists. I enjoy church choir, but it is a real 'high' to sing with this bunch!"

Ernestine Gearhart '33, who has to travel from Florida, has sung in the Alumni Choir twice and says she has ". . . enjoyed the selection of music each time." Knowing that some peo-

Don Liming '70 enjoys the time to ". . . renew friendships . . . to remember the good times in choir and sing the music we loved once again." "A chance to sing and represent Otterbein once again, realizing that others feel the same," is special to Dawn Armstrong Farrell '67. Dorothy Sardinha Pickering '60 also appreciates ". . . a chance to sing on campus again and relive some wonderful memories which otherwise would remain only memories." Patty Daniels Pohl '79 finds it ". . . exciting to come back and perform with the Alumni Choir. I'd love to see some of my old choir friends. We'd have some great times to talk over!"

As the group's newly-elected president, Don Lutz '67, says, "Alumni Choir is wonderful, and the experiences can never be duplicated anywhere else!"

All of us who comprised Alumni Choir '84 want you to give serious consideration to the letter you will receive regarding Alumni Choir '85. Jean Jacobs McCready '71, sums it all up by inviting you to, "Come, join with us — you'll love it!"

Verda Evans '28, LHD '57, trustee emeritus of Otterbein and former directing supervisor of English Language Arts for Cleveland schools; Dr. Samuel N. Gibson, College trustee and executive director of the United Methodist Church Union, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Ray McLane, president of the J.C. Penney Casualty Insurance Company, Westerville.

The panel also included Judge Alan E. Norris '57, of the Franklin County Court of Appeals, Columbus; Rebecca Princehorn '78, an attorney with Bricker and Eckler, Columbus; and Dr. J. Hutchison Williams '44, Otterbein trustee and associate dean of The Ohio State University's Medical College, Columbus.

Members of the Otterbein College faculty who were part of the task force were: Dr. Lyle T. Barkhymer, associate professor of music; Dr. Donald C. Bulthaup, vice president for academic affairs, academic dean, and professor of physics; Dr. Ursula Holtermann, professor of history; Dr. Alison H. Prindle, associate professor of English; and Dr. James B. Recob, chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy and associate professor of religion and Greek.

Edwin L. Roush, chairman of Otterbein's Board of Trustees, said. "The Alumni Humanities Endowment will clearly help us strengthen the contribution of the humanities to our students' education and to the College itself. I firmly believe that the future of the College must continue to include having the humanities at the center of what we do."

Concurring, Dr. Fogal added, "Once the endowment is fully established, we will help assure that for many decades to come, the humanities will continue to play a vital part in the education of Otterbein students, and we look forward to the many friends of Otterbein helping us to achieve that goal."

A total of 46 educational and cultural institutions from across the country received NEH challenge grants amounting to $14.9 million. In addition to colleges and universities, these institutions included university presses, museums, public libraries, research libraries, historical societies, professional associations, and public television stations.

A Different Look For May Day Set This Year

May Day at Otterbein will have a different look this year.

Instead of the traditional booths and games run by the Greek organizations, Becky Smith, student activities coordinator, and student representative Jennifer Merkle are planning to feature a 1900s-era crafts display, featuring works from alumni, faculty and Westerville area crafts people. May Day will be held May 11.

The new May Day activities, Smith explained, will allow more people to be involved, both within and outside of the Otterbein community. In addition, it eliminates many of the events which coincide with the Greek Olympics, which will be held May 3.

Among the traditional May Day festivities still planned will be the strawberry brunch for past queens and the coronation of the new May Day queen.

Any alumni, faculty member or community crafts person interested in participating in May Day can contact Becky Smith for further information.

Sports Report

It Was A Record Year For Men's Basketball Team

The 1984-85 version of the Otterbein Cardinals began the season with six distinct goals in mind.

One was to remain undefeated, according to Cardinal head coach Dick Reynolds. "We wanted to try and go undefeated because it was our first year we had not scheduled a major Division I school—one where you absolutely resign yourself that you're going to lose that ball game," Reynolds said. "I talked to the team last year before the end of school and just kind of dropped that seed to them."

Otterbein rolled through their first ten games of the season, achieving their first two objectives in the process: winning the Catawba Civitan Classic in North Carolina and the "O" Club Classic at home.

The roll continued on through game 16, a 70-65 win over conference foe Capital, and Otterbein—at 16-0—was one of only three teams in the entire country to remain unbeaten in 1984-85. Division I Georgetown was 17-0 and Division II Virginia Union was 16-0. Otterbein, with the only perfect record left in their division, was ranked No. 1 in Division III during the first three weeks of the national poll.

The Otterbein starting five—senior point guard Ray Zawadzki, junior guard Frank Gioffre, junior forward Dave Langdon, sophomore forward Dick Hempy and junior forward/center Mike McKinney—were making all the right moves through their 16-0 beginning, the best start in the school's history since the 1933-34 squad went undefeated in 12 starts.

When they needed to go inside, McKinney and Hempy were there to score on a Zawadzki assist. If they couldn't go inside, Langdon would hit from outside. When they needed a steal, Gioffre would get it. Whatever it took to win, they did it. Sixteen times in a row.

The Cards were one point short, however, in game No. 17.

. . . Seventeen seconds to go, Otterbein is one up over Marietta, 70-69 . . . four seconds left . . . Marietta's Todd Higdon throws up a shot from about 10 to 12 feet out, it misses . . . three seconds . . . Marietta's Kurt Etter goes up and over Otterbein's Gioffre for the rebound . . . two seconds . . . Etter puts in two on a reverse layup . . . one second . . . the nation's seecond longest winning streak—second only to Georgetown—is left behind on the floor of Marietta's Ban Johnson Field House.

That weekend, Georgetown lost to St. John's.

The 1984-85 Otterbein men's basketball team recorded the best record in the school's history at 23-4. Three key players who helped the Cardinals enjoy their successes during the season were sophomore forward Dick Hempy (upper right photo), from Waldo, who averaged 20 points and 7.7 rebounds per contest; senior captain Ray Zawadzki (upper left photo), from Vandalia, who, from his point guard position, was the glue that held the Cardinals together and led the team in assists and free-throw percentage; and junior forward Mike McKinney, from Columbus, who averaged 18.1 points and 7 rebounds per game. Hempy and McKinney were named first team All-OAC, while Zawadzki received honorable mention All-OAC honors.

1984 Honor Roll Contributors

Dear Alumni and Friends:

Since arriving on campus last summer, I have spent considerable time traveling the country talking with alumni and friends about Otterbein.

As I reflect on those meetings a distinctive pattern begins to emerge. Regardless of background or position in life there is a shared commitment to the College, to maintaining academic excellence, to assuring that the "Otterbein Experience" will be available for current and future generations of students.

That commitment is expressed in many ways: by referring prospective students to Otterbein, by assisting with job placement for graduates, and certainly through gifts to the annual fund or for special projects.

Last year you helped raise over $1 million for the seventh consecutive year. To put it in perspective, without that annual support the College would be out of business within a few years.

Rather, Otterbein faces toward the 21st century eager to develop a new challenge while continuing to refine its historic educational commitments.

Thanks to all of you for your continuing support of our common effort.

Cordially,

Brent DeVore

1984 FUNDRAISING REPORT

For Seventh Straight Year, We Go Over $1 Million!

"Thanks A Million" (x) 7 equals OTTERBEIN SUCCESS!

Seven straight years of million-dollar giving by the Otterbein family marks a milestone never before reached and probably undreamed of a decade ago.

After the first Otterbein million-dollar year in 1973, giving dropped somewhat. Five years later, back-to-back million dollar years totaling nearly $2.8 million set a new standard. In 1982 the Trustee Challenge generated over $1.6 million in total giving—still the highwater mark for one year. Then 1983 saw more donors give to Otterbein than ever before. We are pleased with 1984 giving of over $1 million. Why? Because in a year of transition . . . of changing leadership . . the Otterbein family stood strong. They showed they care about the College.

Volunteers again proved essential to the success of the development program. Phonothon callers dialed in the spring and fall and secured pledges; class agents wrote classmates to encourage support of the Otterbein Fund and reunion committees met to discuss class projects and functions. Significant achievements in 1984 included:

- $1,066,110 in total giving marking the seventh consecutive year over one million dollars.
- 4,042 individuals made gifts to Otterbein College in 1984.
- Unrestricted gifts to the Otterbein Fund totaled $498,245.
- Endowed gifts reached $282,764.
- Restricted and unrestricted gifts to meet current operating costs exceeded $738,800.
- The President's Club strongly totaled 131 members, the third highest in history—behind only last year's record-setting 148 and 1982's Trustee Challenge year of 144.
- The Towers Club grew nine percent to a record 87 members.
- The Cardinal Club topped 100 for the second straight year with 105 members.
- The Centurion Club's 777 members ranked third best in Otterbein history.

Well done Otterbeiners! Let's make 1985 another record-smashing year!

"After the game," Gioffre said, "we were burned out. None of us knew how it felt to lose, it had been so long.

"We didn't have the eye of the tiger," he continued. "Marietta came out fired up right from the beginning."

Then came Wittenberg in game No. 18.

Trailing by as much as 19 points in the first half of the game against Wittenberg at home, the Cardinals mounted a comeback in the second half to take a three-point lead with 2:48 left in the game, but couldn't hang on to win. Wittenberg won the game, 82-76, handing the Cardinals their second loss in a row.

The dreams of an undefeated season vanished, the Cardinals, with four regular season games left, now had to figure out how they could overcome conference leader Wittenberg, who held a 2½ game lead over Otterbein in the Ohio Athletic Conference (OAC). Wittenberg was 11-0 and Otterbein, 10-2.

"We've got to win out and somebody has to beat Wittenberg," Reynolds said Monday morning following the Wittenberg loss.

Following another victory over Capital at home in game 19, the Cardinals traveled to Wittenberg for the second and final meeting of regular season play between the pair. Wittenberg, still atop the OAC at 12-0, was now ranked No. 1 in Division III.

It was no contest.

On the heels of a 37-point explosion by Otterbein's Mike McKinney, the Cardinals trottled the Tigers, easing their way to a 97-83 victory. Those 97 points Otterbein scored in Springfield, incidentally, were the most given up by the Tigers in head coach Larry Hunter's nine seasons at Wittenberg.

Wittenberg suffered another conference loss in its next game at Baldwin-Wallace, while Otterbein won its final two against Muskingum and Baldwin-Wallace.

When regulation season was over, Otterbein and Wittenberg shared the OAC title, each with 14-2 conference records. The Cardinals had achieved their fourth objective.

Otterbein's success on the court earned Reynolds "OAC Coach of the Year" honors and Hempy and McKinney "First Team All-OAC" status. Langdon and Zawadzki received "All-OAC" honorable mention honors.

The post-season OAC Tournament—Otterbein's fifth objective—featured Otterbein and Wittenberg in the championship final held at Otterbein's Rike Center. The winner was to gain an automatic berth in the NCAA Division III Tournament.

Wittenberg was victorious, 68-64, and headed into the Great Lakes Regional of the NCAA Tournament as the No. 1 team in Division III. Otterbein, at 22-3, was ranked No. 7 and received an at-large bid to the regional. Rounding out the four-team field at the Great Lakes Regional, hosted by Wittenberg, were Hope (Mich.), ranked No. 3 in the country, and DePauw (Ind.), ranked No. 16.

Despite jumping out to an 11-point halftime lead, 46-35, the Cardinals could not out muscle Hope's 6-8 center Dan Gustad—with 13 rebounds, 7 blocked shots and 17 points—nor out shoot forward Chip Henry and guard Dave Beckman, who combined for another 37 points. The Cardinals were eliminated, 78-71, from the NCAA Tournament by Hope, which was making its fourth straight trip to the regionals. All three previous trips had ended in losses.

Wittenberg, who defeated DePauw in the semifinal, also beat Hope in the championship final to advance to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament. Otterbein's sixth objective, making it to the final four in the NCAA Tournament, would have to wait another year.

The Cards came back the next night, however, and held onto a 79-78 win over DePauw in the consolation game.

But that's not the only consolation the Cardinals walked away with from the 1984-85 season. Everyone from this year's 23-4 team will return in November for another crack at the national championship except senior point guard and captain Ray Zawadzki.

Zawadzki, who mastered the Cardinal offensive charge this year by leading the team in assists and free-throw percentage, couldn't speculate on his replacement in a locker room interview following his last collegiate game against DePauw.

"I can't answer that," Zawadzki said. "They are a great bunch of guys and I'm sure they can overcome this obstacle of me leaving because they've overcome others.

"I'm just so glad that I chose Otterbein. It's been great for me and I just hope I've put something in other peoples' lives to cherish forever. I've enjoyed every second of it and I wouldn't trade it."

Women Netters Aim For Top Spot in OAC

The Otterbein women's tennis team —all eight members—opened the 1985 season with a non-conference match against Aquinas College March 9 at home.

"We have eight people out," said head coach JoAnn Tyler, "so we're certainly not depending upon quantity, but quality."

The Cardinals have four of their top six singles players returning from last year.

Leading the way this season is senior Wendy Miller, from Westerville, who'll probably play in the No. 1 singles spot, Tyler said.

"She's played in an awful lot of tournaments since last spring," Tyler added.

Other returnees from last season include juniors Amy Pangalangan (Westerville) and Anita Huggins (Galion), and sophomores Erin Workman Techanan (Reynoldsburg) and Lyn Peterson (Dayton).

This marks the first season of competition in the Ohio Athletic Conference for women's tennis.

"We'll be tops in the conference if we can get by Wittenberg," Tyler said. "Ohio Northern will be tough also."

The Cardinals opened conference play April 2 when they hosted a match with Heidelberg.

Baseball Team Seeking Tourney Trip—Again

The 1985 Otterbein College baseball team will be leaning upon a trio of veteran pitchers to get them back into the NCAA Division III Tournament for the fifth straight year and, possibly, another crack at a national championship title.

The 1984 Cardinals advanced to the Mid-Atlantic Regional after finishing the regular season in second place in the southern division of the Ohio Athletic Conference. Otterbein was eliminated from the tournament after falling to William Paterson and eventual national champion Ramapo in the regional.

"We should be strong this season in pitching and in the infield," said Otterbein head coach Dick Fishbaugh, who recorded his 300th career victory last season while raising his overall mark to 311-219-7 over 18 seasons at Otterbein.

"The big question mark is the outfield."

Leading the Cardinal pitching attack are senior right handers Kirk McDonald (7-5), Ob Hartman (6-4) and Doug Gates (4-5), all of whom were responsible, as sophomores, for getting the Cardinals into the championship game of the 1983 World Series, which they lost to conference rival Marietta.

Those three chalked up 17 of the Cardinal's 21 victories last season. McDonald and Hartman were selected by teammates as MVPs in 1984. It was a repeat performance for McDonald, who was tabbed MVP in 1983 based upon an outstanding 13-3 record and a trim 3.27 earned run average. McDonald was hampered by a finger injury for part of last season.

Bullpen ace senior Ed Conard (1-2) will join a group of seasoned and rookie pitchers who will be battling for the one remaining spot on the four-man pitching rotation. Other candidates are sophomore Bill Pearce (2-0), last year's freshman MVP, sophomore Craig Stone (1-0), or freshman Dan Harris, the only Cardinal left-hander.

Cardinal pitchers will throw to a pair of solid catchers led by senior Mike Goodwin and junior Tim Harris who, between them, knocked in 57 runs last season. Harris led the team with six home runs on his way to a .309 batting average.

Despite the loss of first baseman Dave Whitehead and shortstop Jon Mastel to graduation last season, Fishbaugh feels comfortable with his remaining infield talent which includes sophomore Greg Masters at first, juniors Bill Moler at second, Tim Bates at shortstop, Dave Eckelberry at third, and Bruce Gifford at either second or third. Moler led the team in hitting last season with a .329 average, while Eckelberry was third best in run production, picking up 29 RBIs.

During the off season, Fishbaugh latched onto a couple of recruits who should provide plenty of depth at several of the infield positions. Freshmen Greg Cox, from Hebron, and Ron Plunkett, from Upper Arlington, both played shortstop in high school.

It will be difficult, however, to replace the loss of center fielder Dave Weaver.

All three outfield slots are "wide open," according to Fishbaugh. "We're going to have to find our best nine hitters and play them, regardless of position. We may have to give up some defense in the outfield."

Probable starters in the outfield include sophomore Jerame Davies in center field and senior Keith Evans in right field. Evans led the team in stolen bases last year, a perfect 14 of 14.

Swinging the bat well for the Cardinals in pre-season were Harris (Tim), Goodwin, McDonald, Hartman, Masters, Moler and Gifford.

"That's my big problem," Fishbaugh said. "Hartman and McDonald are pitching. Who's going to come in and score runs for us? Who's going to hit for us in left field, center field and right field? That is the key.

"We might be a bunting ball club for the first time in the history of Otterbein."

Luck Didn't Smile On Women Cagers

Otterbein's women's basketball team, under head coach Amy Backus, began the 1984-85 campaign as though they would be serious contenders in their first season of play in the Ohio Athletic Conference (OAC).

Although the Cardinals lost the services of the school's all-time leading scorer, guard Kathy Cole, to graduation, they still had three returning starters from last year's 15-8 team—senior forward Susan Ogier, sophomore center Lori Povisil and junior point guard Lisa Shaver.

The Cards zipped through their first six games, winning five of them. Unfortunately, all five wins were against non-conference opponents.

In the fourth game of the season, Povisil, who was averaging 16.7 points and 8.3 rebounds per game, suffered a broken bone in her right hand in a collision with a Muskingum player. She missed the next three games and played the rest of the season with her right hand in and out of casts as she later re-injured the same hand.

Lady Luck was not smiling on the Lady Cardinals. After compiling a 6-4 overall record, 1-3 in the OAC, leading scorer Ogier suffered a stress fracture in her right foot in a game against Heidelberg. At the time, Ogier was averaging 13.2 points and 5.7 rebounds per game. She missed the next ten games.

Junior guard Tamie Rawn (9.3 ppg.), sophomore center Jeannine Ruh (6.9 ppg.) and freshman forward Angie Heintz (6.8 ppg.) tried their best to pick up the offensive game, but to no avail. The Cardinals finished the regular season in eighth place in the OAC with a 4-12 conference record.

By the time the OAC Tournament rolled around, Ogier and Povisil were back in the starting lineup. The Lady Cardinals easily rolled over Baldwin-Wallace, 80-61, to make it into the quarterfinals—a matchup with Capital, undefeated in 15 conference games.

The Cardinals fought gamely—actually took a one-point lead with about three minutes to go—but tired and dropped a 78-68 decision.

Otterbein finished the season 10-14 overall and head into the 1985-86 campaign with plenty of experience. Twelve of the 13 players eligible to return next season accumulated playing time in 17 or more of the 24 games played this season.
