"Y" SECRETARY GIVES ADDRESS

Orville W. Briner, Secretary of Local Y. M. C. A. Gives Address in U. B. Church Sunday Night.

ROOSEVELT IS EXAMPLE

Urges That Friendships Have Much To Do With Establishment of Strong Personality.

Mr. Orville Briner, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Otterbein, was the speaker at the evening service in the United Brethren church, Sunday, the day of prayer for colleges. Mr. Briner took as his subject, "Personality."

Although most people are susceptible to the influence of personality, it is almost impossible to find an adequate definition for it.

Everyone recognizes the power of a great personality. Theodore Roosevelt was a wonderful example of this force, which he exerted as easily over an audience of thousands as over a small group.

Many have asked the question, "How shall I cultivate this quality that the world calls personality?" Since association begets likeness, it follows that if our daily habits of thought and feeling are worthy, we will have just such an influence upon those whose lives touch ours. Friendship has much to do with the establishment of personality for through friendship many complex and hidden forces are set in motion.

But above all, we need the influence which we can all obtain through prayer and service.

Otterbein Represented.

Sunday, February 23, was set apart as the day of prayer for colleges, a time when the aims, the opportunities and the needs of the various educational institutions were explained and discussed.

In our own denomination, the day of prayer for colleges was fittingly observed. At the Westerville church, Rev. Burtner preached a sermon in which he made a plea for higher service. Several of the students were sent to represent Otterbein in the various churches in neighboring towns. Dr. W. G. Clippinger made an address in Logan; he will go soon to represent the same interests in Rittman and Sterling.

Professor N. E. Cornet spoke in Newark, Dr. E. A. Jones in Findlay, Professor E. W. E. Schear in the congregation at the second church on the Van Lue circuit.

PLANS UNDER WAY

New Science Hall May Be Commenced This Spring, Executive Committee Decides.

The Executive Committee of the Otterbein Board of Trustees met in Columbus, Saturday, February 15, to settle definitely on plans for the new Science Building. This committee is made up of President Clippinger, Chairman; E. L. Shuey, E. L. Weinand, J. H. Harris, S. W. Keister, R. L. Blagg, R. H. Brane and J. P. West, who was chosen to act as secretary. At this meeting the new plans were carefully considered and tentatively agreed upon.

Construction is to be in progress by spring according to the present plans but this depends somewhat on prices. The committee is watching prices of material and labor and if they continue to drop they will defer breaking ground until prices reach what may seem to be a minimum. It is hoped by the committee to construct the new Science Building, furnish and equip it and in addition remodel Saum Hall at a total cost of $100,000. This requires some close figuring but the committee expects eventually to carry out their plans and keep within the amount of money provided for this purpose.

This new Science building is to be

C. E. Holds Patriotic Party.

Section A of Christian Endeavor gave a Patriotic Social Saturday night in the U. B. church basement. The rooms were attractively decorated with flags, and after greetings those present found themselves a great deal better acquainted with one another.

After the following program refreshments were served. Selections by Mandolin Guitar club, vocal solo, "The Marseillaise," Audrey Nelson; reading, "Barbara Fritchie," Virginia Burtner; violin solo, "The Old United States," Heber Askew; Mandolin duet, "Columbia," Alice Abbott and Esther Harley.

O. C. Loses to Antioch.

Handicapped by large floor, Otterbein lost to Antioch by the score of 38-22. The game was close during the first half, the score being tied several times, but Antioch came back strong at the beginning of the second half and obtained a lead which could not be overcome by Otterbein. Little starred for Antioch with his fast playing and accurate basket shooting. Fox was the principle scorer for Otterbein.

CONTEST TO BE HELD

Thursday Evening, Feb. 27, Is Date for Declamation Contest—Interesting Program Planned.

At four o'clock Friday afternoon in Prof. Fritz's room, was held the preliminary Declamation Contest. There were ten contestants and the judges were Dr. Jones, Dr. Sanders, Miss Barnes and Prof. Fritz. Six of the ten contestants were chosen and they will give the final program Thursday evening February 27 in the College chapel. The program is interesting and varied. Ethel Eubanks has chosen "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" for her selection. Beatrice Fisher will read the Library Scene from "The Lion and the Mouse." "Stabat Mater" is Esther Harley's selection and "The Gift of the Magi," Violet Patterson's. Hazel Payne will read, "The Set of Turquoise," and C. K. Pulse will give "The Man with the One Talent." These are all very interesting and well worth hearing. This year, as never before, more interest is being shown in this contest—the students are all working hard and the rivalry is exciting. The public is cordially invited to this Declamation Contest. The admission is free, and the program one of the best ever presented. Prof. Fritz is doing his best to get the contestants ready for their final appearance and they, themselves are working hard. No one can afford to miss this contest. Let everyone come and bring someone else along. Music will be furnished by one of the college organizations so altogether the evening promises to be one of the most delightful of the college year.

Interclass Games Begin.

Everyone is well acquainted with the popular boast that "our class is the best in school" and we have heard of various attempts to prove such statements. Although our slumber has often been disturbed by the midnight plotting of these contending forces, the outcome was only the result of circumstances. Now comes the real chance to prove your belief. If you think your class is all you have been saying for it, show it by supporting your class team and making it the winning team in the games for the class championship which begin this week. The complete schedule for all class basketball games follows:

Seniors vs. Juniors—Feb. 27.

Winners vs. Sophomores—Mar. 1.

Winners vs. Freshmen—Mar. 14.

CATHOLICS WIN OVER OTTERBEIN

Wonderful Floor Work, Expert Passing and Close Guarding, Help St. Marys to Score 34-17.

FOX BEST SCORER FOR O. C.

Enthusiastic Rooting By Dayton Alumni and Friends of Otterbein Support Swain's Men.

Last Saturday night Otterbein was defeated, but by no means disgraced, at St. Marys, Dayton, Ohio, where the latter won by a score of 34 to 17.

When the game opened both teams seemed evenly matched but soon the dazzling pass work of the Catholic aggregation became evident and Otterbein was forced to resort to defensive tactics.

Close guarding on the part of the Saints made it well nigh impossible for Otterbein to get the pill near the basket and the scoring for the Cardinal and Tan depended largely on long shots.

In spite of the handicap of a low ceiling the Otterbein men caged several nifty field goals that excited the admiration of even the St. Marys sympathizers.

Some twenty five rooters supported the Otterbein team and managed to make considerable racket in spite of overwhelming opposition from St. Marys adherents.

The line up was as follows:

Otterbein	St. Marys
Hollinger	L. G. Summers
Meyers	R. G. Sherry
Fox, Captain	C. Decker
Albright	L. F. Lards
Freeman	R. F. Hess

Summary:—Field goals—Fox 5, Albright 1, Meyers 1. Foul goals—Fox 3 out of 6. Substitutions—Sorout for Albright, Cornet for Meyers. Referee—Sam Fleet.

Recital Given.

The Conservatory of Music gave the second Recital of this semester last Tuesday evening.

The selections were well rendered without exception and demonstrated the high grade of work done by both the Professors and the pupils of the Conservatory.

The program consisted of violin, piano and vocal numbers, each one showing the result of careful preparation.

The Music Hall auditorium was filled to capacity and judging by the hearty applause the program was enjoyed to the utmost.

67 feet wide by 110 feet long and will have three floors and a basement. The first floor will be equipped with three laboratories and a large recitation room for the chemistry classes. One laboratory will conveniently accommodate seventy-five students at one time. The physics and geological departments will have the second floor and the biological department the third. Each floor will be arranged very much on the same plan as the first. The roof will also be used for biological purposes and will have a biological propagation house. Later an observatory may be added but it is not included in the present plans. Rooms will be reserved in the basement for the development of new departments such as Optics and Photometry. The building will have large recitation rooms and convenient offices for the Department Heads.

In comparison with the old science building this new and modern structure will have approximately five times the floor space. It will be exactly as wide as Saum Hall is in length and a little less than four times as long as the old building is in width. In addition it is to have four floors including the basement, while the old building has only three floors.

Saum Hall has done good service in the past but has long been inadequate in space and equipment. There has been a growing need for a modern structure adapted to and equipped for scientific purposes. This new building will be a valuable addition to the college and will enhance the beauty and glory of Otterbein in no small measure.

Y. M. C. A.

Lessons from the life and poems of Alan Seeger were forcibly brought out by Professor Fritz before a large attendance of Y. M. C. A. members last Thursday night. Professor Fritz gave a brief history of Alan Seeger's life and read several of this brilliant young man's poems.

Among the mass of poetry written during the recent war, that of Alan Seeger is the most remarkable. His poems reflect his intense joy in living and abound with high and noble principles. He was a young American poet born in New York in 1888, passed his youth in Mexico, graduated from Harvard in 1912 and went to France immediately after his graduation. Three weeks after the war broke out he enlisted with forty-nine others in what was called a Foreign Legion. In this enlistment Alan Seeger showed a trait of his character which is worthy of adoption by anyone of high purposes. He loved France and wished to be loyal and considered it his duty to offer his life for a principle which he believed to be right.

Professor Fritz declared that this young poet lived far more in his twenty eight years than many men live in seventy eight and contributed a great deal to the literary world. His poems are filled with a feeling of supreme joy in the living. It was his purpose to live intensely and yet he looked upon dying for a great cause as romantic as well as noble.

Most of his poems were written in the trenches and are not only thrilling but full of profound truths.

After the address by Professor Fritz, Messrs. Askew and Bay played a violin duet with Miss Abbott as accompanist.

Y. W. C. A.

Lorna Clow led an interesting meeting on the subject "Beacon Lights." In olden times women were denied the rights which were due them, but now they are taking their place in politics and social affairs. In the future we may expect more than ever of women, because of the steps of progress that are being taken now.

A great, broad-minded, large-hearted woman of today is Jane Addams. In the early days of her work in Chicago, she was called Jane Addams of the Hull House, later Jane Addams of the United States, and now she is Jane Addams of the world. One of her great tasks is to interest women in their own homes, thus making them valuable to the nation.

The life of another splendid woman was brought before the girls. Edith Cavell is a modern martyr who will never be forgotten by the world. She aided in hospital work in Belgium, and then she made the supreme sacrifice, which act recorded her name among the noble characters who have laid down their lives for liberty.

There lived a woman in Westerville whose life was one of sweetness and sacrifice for others. Miss Lela Guitner was for years a consecrated Y. W. C. A. leader. She spent several years in India as a missionary. By her spotless life and noble work, she played her part in the redemption of the world.

Madame Schumann-Heink is a woman who ministers to the world by her lovely voice and her motherliness. Many boys in camps heard her sing for them, and then became acquainted with the generous woman who called them "Her Boys." These four women are examples of the noblest women the world has known, and uplift always comes when we study their characters.

'18, '17. Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mase, (Grace Moog) made a flying trip to Westerville over Saturday and Sunday. "Pearly" is perfecting an industrial gas mask in the employment of the Mines Safety Appliances Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Propellers" must be dispensed with by the girl students at Depauw, Prof. W. W. Carson has announced. No male student may "propel" a girl from one class room to another.

Intensity Means Success.

What a quality that is which enables a man to express himself so briefly, so exactly, so clearly and with such intensity that hardly he himself for the moment realizes his own achievement. Take, for instance, the life of Alan Seeger, a young American poet. Professor Fritz said of him at Y. M. C. A. meeting last Thursday night that he lived more in his twenty-eight years than most men do in seventy-eight. His poetry is a clear and clean-cut expression of his deep emotions and intense loyalty to high and noble principles.

Napoleon was a nature so intense in working that it took years and a dozen nations to finally subdue his restless spirit.

"Away with this man," they cried against Jesus. For in a nature so gentle and sweet as His, there was yet such an intensity of great purpose that the people among whom He lived became so wrought up against Him,
that He finally was crucified.

So it costs to be intense. Yet it is worth while. The men whose pictures appear on the pages of history are those who were willing to be intense that they might best express their hearts and the spirit of the time in which they lived.

All worth must have DRIVE.

What Is It?

What is it that comes along once in a while, breaking the monotony of the struggle for perfect grades, and sending a shining ray down the student's sometimes homesick way?
What is it that can take the sting
from a professor's rebuke or eliminate the word "blues" from the ordinary vocabulary?

What is it that has the power to cast a halo over the commonplace, elevating us to a state of mind where we count our blessings automatically, and unconsciously forget to enumerate our causes for tenderly fostering a grouch?

What is it that forms the center of many a gathering in the dormitory;
the recipient of toasts and cheers, the dispenser of peace and good will?

It must be an extraordinary thing,
you say, to have such a broad sphere of usefulness. As a matter of fact,
it very often is not of gigantic proportions—size doesn't always count, you know—but the amount of love and thought packed into it is nothing less than wonderful. We all agree on that when we get—

A Box from Home!

Let's Be Happy.

Why be a grouch? Any human being who can find no reason to be happy now that the war is over and spring is coming as fast as possible,
deserves to be thrown into Alum Creek. It is rumored that the first robin has arrived, and indeed we have heard his cheery twitter. How unpleasant we find it to hear some one grumble and sneer and fuss at the weather, the roads, the meals, the people, the college, the town, the carline, the government, the state—everything! He spends all his time in finding fault with conditions that he could not change by a life-time of grumbling. Compare this with what joy we experience in meeting a person who will take all these things with quiet calmness, even when five dismal rainy days come in succession. This person is wise, for he is saving a great quantity of breath, and keeping the disfiguring vertical wrinkles from between his eyes.

Of course every normal human being is attacked by a blue day now and then, which turns things upside-down, puts thunder clouds in the sky, and makes everyone else look like a villain. But days of such a deep indigo hue should not occur more than once in every three months and a half.
All other days should be joyous and sparkling with youth, especially for us who are in college, learning things every day which make us understand people and conditions better than ever before.

It is worthy of repetition; why be a grouch? Why make our associates miserable? Instead, let us be happy—think happiness, live happiness, and be happiness itself.

Denison University will receive full amount of insurance for the damage done to Marsh Hall, a dormitory which was recently destroyed by fire.
