NOTED LECTURER TO GIVE ADDRESS

Mr. E. J. Pace, of the Class 1905,
Teacher in Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago, to Speak Here.

AUSPICES OF ASSOCIATIONS

Annual Address Before the Christian Associations Is to be the Evening of Baccalaureate Sunday.

Listed among the events of Commencement Week, you will read in your college catalog—"Annual Address before the Christian Associations, 7:30 p. m., June 8." An effort is made each year for this address to be a fine one, and so it has always been in the past. The only trouble has been the poor attendance of students, which has often caused both the speaker and the college authorities some embarrassment. For the last few years, the conditions have been like this: a good speaker is secured, who comes here with a message for college students, which he finds himself obliged to deliver before a medium sized audience of older people, sprinkled here and there with students.

This condition ought never to exist again, and this year, especially, should every student hear the annual address, for it will be delivered by Mr. E. J. Pace. Surely no one who has ever heard Mr. Pace, will miss a chance to hear him again; and those who have never heard him, have a rare opportunity before them. Not many speakers are gifted as Mr. Pace is; for one never hears him without gaining a great inspiration and feeling a great uplift. We are indeed fortunate to have secured such a man to make this address; so let us all plan now to hear him, and show our appreciation by our attendance.

President Clippinger Asked To Deliver Commencement Addresses

President Clippinger has been called upon to make quite a number of Commencement addresses for schools in the surrounding territory. He made one address at the Glenford High School Commencement on April 23rd. On the evening of May 21st he will be at Oldfort, on the 22nd at Summit Station, the 23rd at Kingston, the 28th at Cardington and on the 29th at Ashville, Ohio. He is also scheduled to preach two baccalaureate sermons; one at Grafton, West Virginia on May 25th and the other, June 1st, at Marysville, Ohio.

TEAM WINS OVER CAPITAL

Gray, Bancroft and Martin Play Stellar Tennis Match Against Capital—Win Easy Victory.

In the return tennis match with Capital, Otterbein retaliated for her recent defeat by making a clean sweep of all the honors. Bancroft found his man an easy victim in the singles, running the set to 4—love before his opponent scored. Score of sets was 6-2, 6-4. Martin, playing Capital's best bet, found a hard man to handle. In the first set the games went to 9-9, every game being carried to deuce. Dexal, the Capital player then took the two required games making the score of first set 9-11. In the second set Martin came back strong and carried away the games at 6-4. Beginning the third set both players tightened up and played excellent tennis. The score threatened to run high but Martin, employing a back hand Lawford, forced his opponent into defeat. Score 8 to 6.

In the doubles Gray and Bancroft far outclassed their opponents, Gray doing some very fancy net playing. Score of doubles, 6-1, 7-5.

ENTERPRISING ASSOCIATION GIRLS MAKE USE OF BOYS' FAILING

Proposition: If the girls of Cochran Hall make candy to help increase the Eaglesmere Fund, will the boys buy it? Solution: Yes. Result: On Friday morning after chapel the Eaglesmere candy sale opened in the Association Building, under the capable direction of Genevieve Mullin. It seems that the young men of Otterbein enjoy sweets just as it was presumed they would.

MAKES STIRRING APPEAL

Representative of Bonebrake Seminary Presents World Situation—
Calls for Christian Leadership.

Both morning and evening sermons in the United Brethren church were preached by Professor J. B. Showers, Head of Department of New Testament Literature and Interpretation, Bonebrake Theological Seminary. His coming was arranged by the Association Presidents, together with Reverend Burtner and Doctor Clippinger, as one of the series of life-work discussions.

Professor Showers presented the call of the world for Christian leadership at the morning service. His text was found in Ezekial 22:30, "And I sought for a man among them that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land and I should not destroy it." He mentioned three gaps: first, the gap between God and Man; second, the gap between the generations and third, the gap between man and man. The world's challenge is that men stand in and fill up these gaps.

Professor Showers urged that the ministry offers a greater opportunity for a man of purpose and daring than any other profession and it is the more adventurous field of work.

The evening text was, "It is your father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." God challenges his disciples to win the whole world. He has given the kingdom to his disciples and it is for them to answer the challenge. In establishing a lasting peace great spiritual leaders are needed as much and possibly more so now than during the war.

Sibyls Are Coming.

Business Manager Gray of the Sibyl announces that the books are expected to arrive within the next few days. There are sixty copies remaining unsold and these will be taken in short order. Those desiring extra Sibyls should see Mr. Gray at once.

ANNOUNCE PRIZE STORIES MONDAY

Winners of the Barnes Short Story
Contest are Disclosed in Chapel
Monday Morning.

CAPABLE JUDGES DECIDE

Miss Lois Adams, Is Awarded First Place, Helen Keller, Second
and Helen Bovee Third.

Winners of the Walter Lowrie Barnes Short Story Scholarship were announced in chapel Monday morning by President W. G. Clippinger. In addition to the honor and recognition accredited these individuals there are prizes of $40, $20 and $10 for the first, second and third best stories. The conditions of entrance are that the stories shall have as their basis some incident in American history, shall be original, shall consist of no less than 4,000 and no more than 15,000 words and the historical element shall not be perverted or colored so as to destroy its pure historicity. It is open to Juniors and Seniors.

This year there were five contestants. A unanimous decision was made by the judges in favor of Miss Lois Adams' story entitled "Meg" for first prize. This story is superior particularly in its historical element. "Meg", a colored woman, shortly after her marriage, suffers the loss of her husband who joins the Union Army, a substitute soldier for her master. In attempting to secure her rightful pen-Eschbaugh, '96; Mrs. Lillian Ressler Harford, '72, and Mrs. Daisy Custer Shoemaker, '95. The Alumna Association is to elect two college trustees each year.

Letters will be sent out to all Alumni giving them an opportunity to return their vote.

CHURCH APPEALS FOR LEADERSHIP

Bishop G. M. Mathews, '70, Urges That Minister Has Broad Scope of Influence and Service.

NEW CHRISTIAN ERA HERE

Ministry Furnishes Ample Opportunity for Those Desiring Power in Throbbing World Life.

The New World with its responsibilities and testings, into which we have entered accentuates the appealing opportunities for the Christian ministry. The demand for constructive planning, and methods of building a righteous family, social, and national life, beside the problem of world reconstruction, present an imperative call for trained workers.

G. M. Mathews, B. S., D. D., LL. D. Class of 1870. Bishop of United Brethren Church.

Both the Church and the State must look to the college man for strong, reliable, efficient leadership. The complex conditions of this New Day call for a higher educational ideal and standard, of the ministry.

There never has been a more inviting field for a true Christian scholar, than today. The Christian Ministry is of superlative dignity, both from a divine and human standpoint. It is the most exalted, enchanting, and sacred vocation in the world. The minister's ambassadorial function, and character, lift him to the highest plane, and broadest scope of service to humanity.

Especially in this crucial period after the war, this is a wonderful time to present to men in all relations, the glorious Gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Never in all the world's history, in America, is there such a call for educated, cultured trained consecrated men and women to present an heroic, aggressive, all inclusive message as comes to them today.

The Christian college student who seeks after truth, and loves it, can ask for no higher function, and honor than that of the Prophet of God. If clear conceptions of the truth, and a desire to understand the deep mysteries of God, will fill and thrill the soul with joy, then that joy and inspiration can be found in the Christian Ministry.

If one has the spirit of altruism, and a passion for humanity, no more attractive field can be found than to be chosen to communicate truth to men in terms that will best instruct, impress, and inspire them to helpful living and service.

As a field for true eloquence, accurate language, attractive phraseology and lucid illustrations, a college man need not look for any better elsewhere.

Most, I believe, of our greatest orators, lecturers, and teachers are found in the Christian ministry. It furnishes ample opportunity for those who desire power, commandship, and recognized influence in this throbbing world life.

It is worth while for the college man to know that God, through the church offers to the college student, who will grasp it, the greatest message that can possibly come from human lips. The Gospel message contains great fundamental, pivotal, eternal truths which underlie all progress, reform, social welfare, and civilization. Its literature, its poetry, its democracy, its moral and spiritual worth, are its real glory.

To be given such ambassadorial dignity, and responsibility, is the greatest distinction that can come to mortals.

Never in the history of the world has there come such a call for sane, intelligent, vigorous, Christian leadership as in this period of reconstruction for a New Era of better things.

This is surely charming, and challenging. Think of championing great world enterprises, and helping to guide mighty forward movements, of the Kingdom in these stressing times. It is a clarion call for moral leadership, and Christian statesmanship.

The eternal salvation of souls, their development, enrichment, and direction to noble ends and service, is a work of incomparable attractiveness. The ultimate rewards of a faithful, well equipped, minister of the word are measureless. Eye hath not seen, nor earth heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man, the riches that God hath prepared for the faithful minister of God.

Any one who goes forth from Otterbein College, and especially from the class of 1919, to engage in that high and holy vocation, will not only have stars in his crown of rejoicing, but the consciousness here on earth, that he has well fulfilled his highest mission among men.

Who can ask for a higher and more noble call to instruct, inspire, and bless humanity?

—G. M. Mathews, '70.

EDITORIAL

Books, like proverbs, receive their value from the stamp and esteem of ages through which they have passed.
—Sir William Temple.

Be Strenuous.

For one in college it is the easier to be lazy than industrious, especially so toward the end of the college year. To attend a few classes each week, work in the laboratory and go to a few meetings now and then takes but a small amount of time. What of all that other time? Some folks waste it while others use even the minutes to splendid advantage. It is the latter class that gets things done and who are recognized by their fellow students.

There are many ways of being strenuous. In the first place it should be the ambition of every college student to identify himself with the organizations of the college. But merely membership should not be all.
Active work should be taken up. If such were the case there would be a greater growth and prosperity enjoyed by each organization.

Folks who are spending their time and money securing an education should study lines outside of their particular courses in which they are engaged. How narrow we would become should we be intelligent in only those subjects in which we have specialized. And all this should be done with intense interest. Then in our studies as well there should be a spirit of determination shown which would insure not only a general knowledge of the subject but a real understanding and appreciation of it.

All that time which is wasted in gossip and idle dreams should be made to make all one's time productive of some good. To enter all kinds of work and enter that with the greatest interest and enthusiasm should be the desire and aim of every Otterbein student.

Stay for Commencement.

Otterbein's commencement this year has every indication of being the greatest in its history. Not that the class of 1919 is the largest or most renowned class that ever graduated here but because of conditions in general. The war is over. We are again able to plan ahead and at the same time feel reasonably sure that our plans will materialize.

Already most of the men who have been in the army are discharged and those who are still across the sea may return within the next few weeks. All are expecting to return to the old college for the big week of the year.
Alumni everywhere are thinking favorably of coming back this commencement. Classes are planning reunions. The alumnal banquet bids fair to be the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the college and the society banquets are always great events.

Certainly no one wants to miss all of the pleasureable events of commencement week. All students should stay.
It is their duty to see that the "old grads" have accommodations, besides, it is a privilege to meet and get acquainted with these folks.

Make it the slogan of everyone to stay for commencement and make this week a memorable one in Otterbein life.

Westerville—World-Center.

The votes of the necessary thirty-six states having been secured, America will soon be a dry country. Many Otterbein alumni have been active workers in the campaigns of the last few years which have made such a notable and unprecedented victory possible. Westerville has the distinction of being the center of the Prohibition Movement and all Otterbein
students and Westerville residents can take just pride in this achievement. On next Saturday, May 24, all saloon licenses expire. That closes the wet season so far as the law is concerned. However, it is no time to rest on our arms. We have reason to believe that a social ideal such as this cannot be maintained merely by legislative enactment. We shall all have to help enforce the law.

This destructive traffic has socked itself so deep into the vitals of society and business that it is almost impossible to get rid of it. The wet forces will take every bit of opportunity to continue their evil traffic.

Already they have bought the authority to sell liquor another day. By some arrangement they are able to have another wet day, the 26th, if they will pay $305 costs and the "State Journal" reports that eight drink resorts, in Columbus have signified their purpose to pay it and maintain their traffic another day. Think of the outrage of paying such a price to sell the dangerous "stuff". Think what little good so much money will do, how much suffering and want it will produce. How happy everyone will be when society has none of it.

A Silver Lining.

"Every cloud has a silver lining."
This is maintained by a good many folks but it is not always our experience. This business of editing a college paper is anything but pleasant, at any rate it has a good many trials, and if anyone is the "goat" on the staff, it is the Editor-in-Chief.

If the ads are short we must fill the space with reading matter. If—"if" we say—the advertising managers should mayhap have an increase in business, an over supply perchance, we must "cut out" the news. Such a state of affairs exists regardless of the amount of news available. Consequently, we are continually in "hot water" to know how much ink to splash in news writing.

However, faculty and students seem very appreciative of our efforts
so through the dimness we see a faint glimmer of sunshine and hope eventually to be repaid.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen!

Has anyone seen the assistant editor? He left with the baseball team for New Concord last Friday and has not presented his appearance since, to our knowledge.

10:00 a. m. Monday—Just appeared.
But, where is the athletic editor?
The baseball story was not received by us and so at the last minute before going to press we wrote a short article.

No wonder we become disheartened
at times.

C. M. Sweazy Gives Talk.

"Learning to Live by the Experience of Others" was the subject of an interesting talk by C. M. Sweazy at Y. M. C. A. Thursday night.

Mr. Sweazy said in part: "The experience of our ancestors should be of inestimable value to us. We would do well to spend much time in the study of the lives of others in order that we might better fashion our own. Many times, I believe, we misjudge and criticize each other simply because we do not understand one another's intentions and purposes.
Perhaps we have many things in our past which we are justly ashamed of but we should never have anything in our present which we would be ashamed to confess. We should be careful therefore, that our daily lives will be of greatest and best influence to those around us."

The last part of the meeting was given over to a discussion by those present of experiences and observations that had helped them.

'13. Miss Mary Clymer has just finished her three months' probation in the Cook County Hospital in Chicago and is now registered as a regular first year student in nursing.

'11. Walter R. Bailey and wife of Columbus, Ohio, were week-end visitors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bailey on West Park street.

'94. William S. Sackett, who for a number of years was superintendent of schools in Ohio towns, is now superintendent of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home near Xenia, Ohio.

'16. Lehr W. Biddle was a member of this year's graduating class at Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, and received his degree there early this month.

'14. Miss Agnes Drury, who has spent the last year in the Philippine Islands as a missionary of the United Brethren Church in San Fernando, has been forced to return because of her health. Miss Drury is now on her way to her home in Dayton, Ohio, where she will take a complete rest.

'88. Dr. J. G. Huber has been asked to make the Commencement Address at the Shenandoah Valley Collegiate Institute at Dayton, Va. June 7th. Mrs. Huber will go along and they will visit Dr. and Mrs. Francis in Washington and Dr. D. E. Lorenz in New York on their return trip.

'15. Miss Opal Gilbert, teacher in the High School at Trotwood, Ohio, was a visitor at Cochran Hall over the week-end.

'18. Miss Helen Ensor of Westerville, Ohio, left last week for her home in Olney, Illinois, where she expects to make a short visit, returning toward the end of this week.

'78. Dr. T. J. Sanders was called to Wooster, Ohio, last week by the serious illness of his sister.

'81. Rev. M. S. Bovey, pastor of the United Brethren church at Circle, Montana, has been visiting his father, Rev. H. A. Bovey at Salem, Ohio, and other relatives in this state.

'15. Samuel Randall Converse has just returned from overseas service and is visiting at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. C. P. Landon, '59, on South State Street. He was a member of the 332 Infantry, which was sent to Italy. He is one of the few Otterbein men to serve in Southern Europe.

'18. Miss Marie Wagoner of Westerville has been guest of honor at a number of social affairs during the last week. Miss Wagoner's marriage to Ray W. Gifford of Akron, Ohio, will occur on June 2.

'92. Nolan R. Best of New York visited his father, Rev. James Best, in Westerville early last week.

'15. C. R. Bennett of the 324th Heavy Field Artillery is in a hospital at Coblenz, Germany, suffering from a severe case of tonsilitis, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett, Monday. He will not be able to accompany his regiment to the U. S., which is scheduled to return soon.

Compliments Miss Wagner, '18.

Honoring Miss Marie Wagoner, a bride-elect, Mrs. Wm. Troutwine of Columbus entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles Moss, North State street, with a miscellaneous shower Thursday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock. Twenty-five invitations were issued.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Arthur Peden entertained with a six o'clock dinner for Miss Wagoner. The guests were Misses Gladys Swigart, Lois Neibel, Virginia Burtner, Harriett Raymond, Grace Armentrout, Edith Hahn and Miss Wagoner.

UNITED BRETHREN PRAISED

United Brethren Colleges Hold Their Own Young People Better than Other Denominations.

"United Brethren Colleges claim and hold more of their own people proportionally than other denominational colleges."

This commendable statement was made recently by Mr. B. Warren Brown who is the Executive Secretary of the Association of American Colleges. He adds that "Judging by the figures the United Brethren Church is above the average in holding students in its denomination."

At the present time a survey is being made by the college office of the attendance in denominational colleges and state institutions of Ohio and other states. This survey is not completed as yet, but so far, the figures prove Mr. Brown's statement to be correct.

This survey also shows that the charge against the United Brethren colleges is false when it is said that so many of our young people go to other colleges. The fact is that we have more students, proportionally, of other denominations than other denominations have of ours.

Statistics showing the number of students in Otterbein this fall during the S. A. T. C., with their church relationships, are indicative of the large number of United Brethren students and also makes a comparison of the relatively large percentage of other denominations presented.

ANNOUNCE PRIZE

sion "Meg" gains an interview with President Lincoln through "Tad" Lincoln and this incident is strikingly related. President Lincoln's sympathetic nature is portrayed and "Meg" acquires a deep respect for him. She has one son who is killed in an accident and his three children are left for "Meg" to support. She works heroically as proprietress of a bake shop until the world war begins and the grandchildren, now fully grown, enter the service. They are killed and finally only the aged grandmother remains. "Meg's" supreme devotion to the memory of Lincoln and a burning love for her country makes her character beautiful. It is a story of high merit because of its qualities of pathos and admiration and its element of fact which is very significant.

The second and third places were strongly contested but finally Miss Helen Keller's "Cyril Sterling-American" was awarded second prize and Miss Helen Bovee's, "Two Warriors" third prize. These are eminently worthy of the places given them but a detailed description cannot be given for lack of space in these columns.

The winning story will appear in the Quiz and Quill which is soon to be issued.

Judges of the Scholarship were: Mrs. Frank Lee, Mr. Walter Jones and Professor A. M. Schlesinger, Department of American History, Ohio State University.

Drayman Found Dead.

Frank Lubasky, Westerville drayman, was found dead early last Monday morning in a barn on East College avenue where he kept his horse. Death was due to a sudden attack of heart trouble, suffered presumably when he went to feed his horse about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Frank was known to many Otterbein students. He was faithful to his job, friendly with everyone and always anxious to serve. He will be missed by all who knew him.

Tennis Match With Wesleyan.

The Otterbein tennis team will meet Ohio Wesleyan some time this week on the Otterbein courts.

Tennis matches with Wittenberg, Denison and Ohio Wesleyan were cancelled last week on account of inclement weather. Otterbein's tennis record is splendid and it is hoped the students will be out to support the players at every home game.

Freshman Girls Lead Y. W. C. A.

At the Freshman meeting last week, with Alice Abbott as leader, the girls discussed the famous proverb, "To Thine Own Self be True." The necessity of faith in ourselves and entire faith in God was shown, and the value of a strong personality emphasized. Lois Clark gave a vocal solo.

"Unto Him that Hath" is the subject this week, with Pauline Stubbs as leader. Now girls, let's all rally to the Y. W. meeting and not lose our interest at the very end, after "doing things" all year! It's worth while!

Ohio University is observing Stunt Day on May 23. What about Otterbein?

BASEBALL TEAM LOSES

Muskingum Again Defeats Otterbein on a Muddy Field—Dano Pitches Good Ball.

On last Friday Otterbein lost the second game of the season with Muskingum at New Concord by the score of 14 to 3. A thunderstorm, which broke just before the game, made the diamond a sea of mud and errors were numerous. Muskingum proved the best mud horses and hit the ball hard. Carman for Muskingum, and Dano for Otterbein, both pitched splendid games with a wet ball.

Score and lineup follows:

Otterbein	R.	H.	E.
Martin, ss.	0	1	0
Albright, 3b.	0	1	0

All the things you need for fancy costuming or appropriate dress and serving for formal and informal occasions. Flitter for the sparkling silver and gold spangles. There is only a limited supply in this country but we have secured enough to care for the needs of the community. Candles to mints and flowers we have or will get for you quickly. Japanese fans and other goods.

The beautiful crepe paper costumes designed by Dennisons and executed by the artistic fingers of the women of Westerville lent a charm to the Midsummer's Eve play of the grades.

All the things you need for commencement occasions.
