PROFESSOR FRITZ IS ENTERTAINED

Junior Cookery Class Gives Breakfast
to Student Heads of Organizations and Professor and Mrs. Fritz.

LEAVES FOR NEW POSITION

Delicious Menu, Dainty Decorations
and Appropriate Speeches Make Breakfast Delightful Occasion.

"Student heads of organizations are too little appreciated around here, and so we take this substantial way of showing some of our appreciation," said the hostess in welcoming her guests to the breakfast given in the Home Economics department by the Junior Cookery Class on Saturday morning.

And indeed, the students who were so fortunate as to receive invitations, begin to feel that some of their strenuous labors are being rewarded. It is to be expected, if this kind of appreciation continues, that some hitherto thankless jobs may become popular.

The student guests were much delighted to find Professor and Mrs. Fritz of the party. This popular professor and his wife will be here for a limited time, only, as he leaves Commencement day to take up new duties at Pittsburg, Kansas.

At ten o'clock, breakfast was served in the daintily appointed dining room. Table decorations of pink candles and pink and white sweet peas made the scene a pretty one. The menu of the delicious two course breakfast follows:

Fresh Strawberries on the Stem
Veal Cutlets                      Potato Apples
Creamed Asparagus Tips
Breakfast Radishes
Strawberry Preserves
Graham Muffins
Coffee

The success of the entire affair indicates a well regulated department. Laura White acted as hostess, Mary Ream as waitress, and Audrey Nelson and Lois Sellers as cooks. These girls are to be congratulated upon the valuable training they are receiving.

At the close of the meal, Grace Armentrout expressed the students' regrets at the resignation of Professor and Mrs. Fritz. They will indeed be missed by the whole student body. In responding, Professor Fritz expressed a similar regret, and spoke of the happy times enjoyed at Otterbein.

The guest list included the following people: Professor and Mrs. C. A. Fritz; Ruth Hooper, President of Professor Charles A. Fritz, A. M.

Cochran Hall Association; Gladys Howard, Editor of Sibyl; Grace Armentrout, President of Quiz and Quill Club; Agnes Wright, Treasurer of Girls' Glee Club; Edith Bingham, President of Y. W. C. A.; Ramey Huber, Editor of Tan and Cardinal; Fred Gray, Business Manager of Sibyl; Carl Smith, Business Manager of Tan and Cardinal; and Herbert Myers, President of Y. M. C. A.

Payments Received Daily.

Treasurer J. P. West is unusually busy these days receiving and recording payments on the Quadrennial and Science Building Funds. At least thirty percent of these payments are in full.

Construction of New Building Is Not Delayed by Weather.

No doubt friends of Otterbein have been wondering about the progress of the Science Building during the last few weeks. Of course construction has been delayed on account of the wet and disagreeable weather, but even yet, the contractors promise to have the building ready for occupation by the opening of school next September, at the rate of one floor a month.

The different professors have turned in their order for the furnishings of the departments. The total cost of the equipment for the Science Building amounts to $25,000, which is one-fourth of the whole cost of construction. If present hopes are realized, soon Otterbein will be in possession of an entirely modern and thoroughly equipped Science Building, which can compare favorably with any in the state.

FRITZ RESIGNS PRESIDENCY

Professor Fritz Resigns Presidency
of Debate League—C. R. Layton,
'13, Elected Successor.

Professor C. A. Fritz resigned the presidency of the Debating League last Saturday. This League is composed of Muskingum, Heidelberg, Wittenberg, Hiram, Ohio Northern and Otterbein and its organization a few years ago was in large measure due to the efforts of Professor Fritz. It has as its object to promote inter-collegiate debating and has done some fine work.

Prof. Chas. R. Layton, a graduate of Otterbein in 1913 and now head of the Department of Public Speaking at Muskingum, was elected as successor to Professor Fritz.

At their meeting in Columbus last Saturday arrangements were made for next year. If possible Otterbein will have a dual debate with Hiram and a triangle debate with Muskingum and Denison or Marietta.

The question will be one of the following:

Resolved that the Government should control the prices of food stuffs.

Resolved that trial by jury for criminal cases should be abolished.

Resolved that the cabinet-parliamentary system of government should be adopted.

Students interested in debating are requested to tell Professor Fritz their preference of these three questions.

Quiz and Quill on Press.

Professor Altman reports that the Quiz and Quill is now on the press and will be ready for distribution next Monday. It will be in the form of a booklet of ninety-six pages, with one production from the faculty; one from each literary society; the winning story in the Barnes' Short Story Contest; miscellaneous articles; sketches, poems, etc., by members of the Quiz and Quill Club.

Alumni are requested to mail their subscription with money to Prof. C. O. Altman, Westerville, Ohio, before the second week in June. Price post-paid, 35 cents.

Summer School Begins June 16.

Indications seem favorable for the usual enrollment in the Otterbein Summer School which will begin Monday, June 16, immediately following Commencement week. The College Office has received a number of inquiries and has sent out a vast amount of literature to these and other parties. With the splendid teaching force the Summer School should have a large attendance.

LAW PROFESSION HAS FINE MERIT

Attorney E. L. Weinland, '91, Discusses the Law as a Vocation for College Men to Enter.

DEFINES WORK OF LAWYER

Urges Many and Substantial Inducements for Study of Law—Leads to Positions of Honor and Authority.

While everyone knows something of the law, few have an accurate idea of its sources and its various applications. Many conceive the law to be merely the enactments of Congress and the State Legislature. Yet these statutes, although somewhat voluminous, probably contain less than one—

Edgar L. Weinland, Ph. B., LL. B., '91

Government Sends Check.

On last Monday, May 19, a generous check was received from the United States Treasury Department which reimburses the college for all expenses connected with the S. A. T. C. Unit established here last fall. All who paid pre-induction expenses are being refunded that amount and in addition a part of their tuition from the day of discharge to January 1.

Reverend Burtner Preaches High School Baccalaureate

The United Brethren Church was filled to capacity Sunday night when the Westerville High School baccalaureate service was held, Reverend E. E. Burtner preached the sermon choosing as his text, "What kind of men and women ought ye to be."

Rev. H. A. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church offered the invocation. Reverend Bancroft, a returned missionary from India also had a part in the service.

There are thirty-three in the graduation class, thirteen boys and twenty girls. Clark Cornell is president.

fiftieth of the law by which we are governed.

Likewise the popular conception of a lawyer is an advocate standing before a jury, and with great eloquence defending a man charged with a crime. Yet nine-tenths of the time of the average busy lawyer is spent away from the court room and many of the most successful of the profession have no contact whatever with the criminal law; and it might be added that some lawyers who have risen to eminence have little or no forensic ability.

What then is the law and what are the qualifications of a successful lawyer? In the main the law consists of a great mass of legal precedents, established by the decisions of countless judges from the earliest glimmerings of English history; these decisions having been collected and published in thousands of formidable volumes, and having been analyzed, digested and commented upon in other thousands. Somewhere in this great store house of legal wisdom, the lawyer may find one or many cases similar to the one in which he is engaged, or in which the principle which he is seeking to establish has been convincingly declared; and if none, then he must start from the very foundations of natural justice, and by the application of sound logic and deduction produce an argument which will enable him to induce some court to lay down a new precedent, which in turn may be invoked by succeeding generations of lawyers.

But let it not be thought that the study and practice of the law involves a familiarity with all of these formidable volumes of condensed legal learning. Rather it is the purpose of a study of the law that the student may become so grounded in the general principles that govern human rights and regular human conduct, that he may at least know where to find the law applicable to a particular situation.

The inducements to the study of the law are many and substantial. In the first place, the profession is distinctly one of the learned professions; it carries with it the presumption of culture; and it is indisputable that members of this profession are generally given a high place in the intellectual and social life of the community.

The profession has a special appeal to one who loves to study his fellow man, because of the almost unparalleled opportunities which it affords for an insight into the varying phases of human nature; men come to the lawyer with all sorts of troubles; innocence accused, confidence betrayed, promises broken, property invaded, reputations slandered, life and liberty endangered. The lawyer comes as near as any man can to seeing the human heart completely unveiled.

Again there is the stimulus and the reward of the forum. Here he meets his antagonist in open battle. Here he has an opportunity to win by the power of his logic, the adroitness of his wit, and the brilliancy of his eloquence, if he is so fortunate as to possess all these.

There is always the consideration that the law is the only stepping stone to the bench, where as a judge the lawyer takes his place among the most honored and respected of all mankind.

The rather exceptional opportunity which lawyers seem to have to enter other positions of public office and trust may not be a worthy motive for choosing the law as a profession, but it certainly does add weight to the statement that its members are, and always have been, held in high esteem by their fellows. And since faithful and efficient public service is one of the highest duties of citizenship, it is not to the discredit of the profession, that it has a far larger proportion of representatives in legislative and executive positions than any other class.

Notwithstanding the somewhat general impression to the contrary, the law does not offer any especial temptations to dishonesty or chicanery, nor is there any larger proportion of rogues in it than may be found in any other profession. The lawyer has shared with the mother-in-law and matrimony, a prominent position in the joke column, but he can well claim that this profession is as undeserving of the gibes of the joker as are the other two noble institutions just referred to.

It is a trite but very true adage that "the law is a jealous mistress." She will tolerate no platonic affiliations with life insurance, real estate or commerce. Success in this profession can only be achieved by hard and persistent effort inspired by a genuine love and fervor for the work.

If I were giving a recipe for making a successful lawyer I would state it about like this: take an ordinary gourd levelful of gray matter, add a good sized heart full of human sympathy, put in enough perseverance to make the mass stiff and firm, season with a dash of eloquence if at hand, keep stirring incessantly, broil over the hot fire of experience for twenty to fifty years, and you will have a fairly good lawyer.

General Secretary Speaks

Dr. O. T. Deever, Secretary of the Young People's Work of the United Brethren Denomination, visited Otterbein last Monday and Tuesday. On Tuesday morning he spoke in the chapel of the dignity of the ministry and the opportunity for service that it offers college graduates.

Doctor Deever had many personal interviews with students and recruited several for definite religious work. He also explained the need for church leaders inasmuch as there are twenty thousand vacant pulpits in the United States and more than fifty in the United Brethren Church. Besides, he claimed, there are many incompetent and inefficient preachers occupying pulpits today.

EDITORIAL

Wisdom

"Happy is the man that findeth wisdom,

And the man that getteth understanding.

For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver,

And the gain thereof than fine gold.
She is more precious than rubies:

And none of the things thou canst
desire

Are to be compared unto her."

After College, What?

Forty-three young men and women are shortly to be graduated from Otterbein College. Immediately they will find themselves confronted with a stern unyielding sort of a world that wants to know what kind of a part they are going to play.

There was a time when young folks might cast about for several years to find just where they could best fit in; where they could make the most money; where their talents could be best appreciated. Times have changed somewhat in this respect. Drifters are not getting very far in business affairs, and no concern cares to take on a young man or a young woman who has not some special ideas regarding their future.

We are running a series of articles
with the view of assisting students, especially graduates, in making their choice of a life-work and he or she is indeed fortunate who leaves Otterbein prepared in mind and thought for some definite course in life. Of course it is easy to offer advice. A class room is largely given over to advice and suggestion but after all the big broad world is the real class room, where folks study and struggle and finally achieve.

He would be a poor sort of a student who leaves Otterbein next month without a career in mind. A college course should certainly have some definite aim in view else it is scarcely going to fit anyone for life.

What Is Our Business?

When we speak of "our business" we have at least a vague idea of the meaning of the phrase, and yet we do not seem to agree on what the limits of our business might be. For instance, if we want to tell someone else what to do, or talk about his or her affairs, we proceed to do so without asking a question about its being our business. Usually, when we want to start right on any subject, we go to the Holy Writ for authority and guidance. What do we find in this case? "Study to show thyself approved unto God." II Timothy 2-15.
This is the study for everyone.

We spend so little time on introspection, or rather, a laboratory dissecting of our own characters and yet we spend so much time on viewing
through the microscope the characters of our fellow students. If we continually studied ourselves to find out whether we are approved unto God, we would have no time to say some unkind or cutting remarks concerning our brothers and sisters of Otterbein College. Oh! there are a few people who will never be able to see any fault in themselves because they are so busy in discovering the faults in other people. These people are parasites on society and their criticism is always destructive. Intelligence and hard work amount to nothing if the student has not learned to keep his tongue out of other people's business and to refrain from destructive comments concerning his fellow students.

Campus Is Greatly Improved.

Everyone is remarking how much more beautiful Otterbein's campus is since the recent improvements have been made. We did not realize how bare the buildings looked before agitation was made and attention was called to the need for decoration. We are certainly thankful to the Executive Committee and especially the men who took such active interest in the project.

The firm that was in charge of the planting took several photos before they began work and are expecting to return at a later date to take others which will be very interesting and will surely show a striking contrast.
When the shrubs and plants are in bloom they will be even more beautiful than now, but as they are the campus is certainly improved.

VISITING SECRETARY SPEAKS

Miss Frieda Klink, State Collegiate
Secretary of Y. W. C. A., Sketches
Work of Women's Association.

"Why, I never knew how big the Y. W. C. A. was!" exclaimed one of the girls to Miss Frieda Klink last Monday night, after she had addressed the girls. Miss Klink is a Young Women's Christian Association Worker who succeeds nobly in her task of giving the college girls a vision. She pointed out that the Y. W. C. A. was not a mere dull prayer meeting group.
She showed the vast responsibility which it had assumed, especially in war work. It has been active among munition workers abroad as well as in our country. It stands behind laws for women's labor unions and all laws for improving their working conditions.

Miss Klink sketched the work with foreign girls and mothers in our country, and the activity among professional women, country girls and colored women. Then she put up the challenge to the college girls to get behind the Y. W. C. A. in all its big-ness, for it is the college trained women who must assume the responsibility. The girls were enthusiastic over the talk. A vocal solo was given by Ethel Eubanks.

MEN ADVERTISE OTTERBEIN

H. E. Michael Arranges for High School Boys to Hear What Otterbein Offers.

Thursday evening the Y. M. C. A. had a most interesting meeting led by Mr. H. E. Michael. The topic was that of "Advertising Otterbein."

This was a meeting particularly for the high school students.

"Bill" Evans represented the athletic life of the school. "Bill" told of the great success of the teams of a few years ago and expressed the belief that in a short time we would be back to the old status. The final word that he left was that above all we must have "pep" and discipline.

L. J. Michael spoke for the musical interests of the school. He spoke a word about all the different musical organizations.

Ramey Huber in speaking of the literary societies said, "They stimulate loyalty and devotion. They train individuals to use effectively the knowledge they gain in the classrooms." Mr. Huber gave an interesting history of the societies.

K. J. Scott told of the spiritual life of the school. "We are a school to train Christian leaders," he said. He spoke especially of the work of the "Y" and of the Christian Endeavor.

Ray Harmelink in his talk about the faculty spoke particularly of their personal influence on the student's life. By comparing our faculty and curriculum with those of other schools, he showed that in nothing were we deficient.

L. J. Wood told of the opportunities for self help around Otterbein. He showed that although one did lack money he need not despair of going to college if he had the energy and will power.

"Rats" Moore's speech on the social life of Otterbein was full of striking statements. Mr. Moore said, "One of the greatest factors in having a good time is women. We haven't any 'sticks' around here either. The social life is withal uplifting."

The keynote of the whole meeting seemed to be expressed in these words, "Let's talk it up!"

A friendly social time with plenty of fine eats was enjoyed in the club room after the services.

Plays at Memorial Service.

Professor G. G. Grabill played in Memorial Hall, Columbus last Friday when the Masonic people of that city held their memorial service and gave a dinner to all Masonic soldiers and sailors. Professor Grabill is the accompanist for Aladdin Temple Chorus.

Doctor Jones at Massillon.

Invitation comes from the Daughters of Veterans in behalf of the Heart Post, G. A. R. for Doctor Edmund A. Jones to speak in Massillon, Ohio at their Memorial Day services. Doctor Jones was superintendent of the Massillon schools for many years and this invitation is fitting recognition of his faithful service there.

Boys Are Given Feed.

Because of inclement weather, in place of the usual picnic, this year's Boys' Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. gave a feed for the town boys

TO GIVE HYPNOTIC SHOW

C. R. Busch, Senior, Demonstrates and Explains Mysteries of Hypnotism Under Auspices of "Y".

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the college chapel we are to see unveiled at the hands of Mr. C. R. Busch, our entertaining senior, all the mysteries of hypnotism. "Beezlebub," as he is commonly known, is a master at this art. In the role of hypnotist, Mr. Busch causes a sensation with his long flowing hair and his shining teeth. Psychologically strange and wierd is Busch's presence on the stage. And can he do the stunts that are claimed for him? We'll vouch that the men he uses for his subjects will be cutting all sorts of capers. There is also an educational side to the entertainment which will be instructive and interesting.

This is Mr. Busch's first appearance in the public light at Otterbein. He is donating his services to the local Y. M. C. A. A small admission will be charged which money will go into the "Y" budget.

Athletes In Prospect.

Orville W. Briner, as field manager of the campaign for new students, reports favorable prospects. Mr. Briner has spent several weeks in the Northwestern district of Sandusky Conference visiting young people who are expecting to enter college next fall. He left on last Friday morning for the eastern territory of the same conference. It is especially gratifying to hear that there are several good athletes among the prospective students from this section of the state.

LOCALS

Elmer Barnhart was a welcome guest in Westerville over the weekend.

A glorious (Overland) trip to Dayton (and Middletown) was enjoyed by Myrna Frank, Gladys Yokum, Gordon Howard and Herman Michael. The party left Friday and returned from their visit Sunday evening.

Shelby, O., was the stopping place for several Otterbeinites for the past few days. Hazle Payne, Leora Gochenour, "Rats" Moore and Herb Meyers were guests at the home of Emily and Kenneth Arnold, former Otterbein students.

Mother nature was the hostess at a basket luncheon enjoyed by Irene Campbell, Mary Siddall, Fred Gray and "Jud" Siddall Sunday evening.

Last Sunday the Sunday Afternoon Swimming Club held it's first meeting of the season somewhere along Alum creek.

Columbus was the scene of several Otterbein parties last Saturday evening. Aw now! Dry up.

A new record was broken at Otterbein last week end. "Rats" says he reached his seventeenth heaven of bliss.

COCHRAN HALL NOTES

Twenty jolly girls with an almost equal number of guitars, mandolins and "ukes" made lots of fun and noise, on last Monday evening, at a "push" given by Edythe Eby and Lillie Waters, for Miss Freeda Klink the visiting Y. W. C. A. Secretary. The magical disappearance of the "eats" spoke volumes for their part in the evening's program.

The dining room annex of Cochran Hall was the scene of a very pretty dinner party, Sunday noon. The guests were Miss Arabelle Campbell, Russell Palmer, Robert West and Roger Mills.

Sunday dinner guests of Gladys Swigart were Lois and Mary Catherine Helfer.

Mrs. Keister gave a dinner party Friday evening for the following girls: Ruth Drury, May Freeman, Elma Lybarger, Harriet Raymond, Genevieve Mullin, Vida Wilhelm, and Florence Loar.

Mrs. S. S. Hough and daughter Josephine Albert of Dayton, Mrs. Davis and family and Faith Siegfried were guests of Dean McFadden at Sunday dinner.

Lois Clark visited a friend at Delaware over the week-end.

Paul Lyon, of Pickerington was the guest of Ida Marie Snelling Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Whistler and daughters Marjorie and Harriet motored up from Dayton to spend the week-end with Esther Harley.

Edna Dellinger and Esther Harley entertained about twenty-five girls in room 11, Fourth floor, Saturday evening, in honor of their guests.

Miss Florence Reese entertained with a six o'clock dinner at her home in Columbus Saturday. The following were present: Cleo Coppock, Mary Siddall, Mary Tinstman, Josephine Foor, Harriet Hays, Genevieve Mullin, Ilo De Hoff and Nellie Mae Moon.

A few college folks surprised Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Counsellor Thursday night at their home on State street. Those present were: Helen Ensor, Kathryn Warner, Gladys Howard, Florence Loar, Fay Morrison, Bernice Heeter, Ralph Smith, Fred Grey, Paul Sprout, Rollin Durrant, Herman Lehman and Leslie Dano.

Eda Bollinbacher of Norwalk is the week-end guest of Edna Dellinger.
