BOY IS DROWNED

Gloom Over College When Arthur Spessard, Son of Music Professor Meets Death in Excavation.

One of the most severe shocks that Otterbein has suffered for many years occurred Wednesday morning, May 28, about 10 o'clock, when little Arthur Spessard, eight-year-old son of Professor and Mrs. A. R. Spessard, met his death by drowning.

While playing with some neighbor children, Arthur fell into a gravel pit filled with water, an excavation recently made in the construction of the new Science Building. His playmates ran home to tell their parents, and after some searching the body was brought up by Merrick Demorest. Expert physicians and a nurse, bringing a lungmotor, were summoned from Columbus immediately, but the child had been in the water too long and life could not be restored.

Little Arthur was possessed of a lovable disposition and little traits that made him loved by all who knew him. He had a marvelous love for nature and a sympathetic understanding for the flowers and birds and trees that made him more appreciative of the beautiful in life than many older folks.

The funeral was held at four o'clock in the afternoon of Memorial Day in the United Brethren church of Westerville, and the child was buried in the Otterbein cemetery.

Bancroft in a fast battle with the opponent's first stringer, lost in a three set match by a score of 7 to 5, 4 to 6, 4 to 6. Martin found his man to be easy for him and wound up the singles with the score 6 to 0, 6 to 1. In the doubles Bancroft and Gray found their hands full but finally succeeded in winning the match with the scores, 7 to 5, 4 to 6, 8 to 6. Gray played an exceedingly fast game at the net. OTTERBEIN DEFEATS ANTIOCH

Dano Pitches Good Ball—Entire Team Plays Like "Old-timers"—Antioch Ahead in First Inning.

Otterbein versus Antioch on last Thursday resulted in a score of 8 to 3 in favor of Otterbein. The game was fast and snappy. The fielding was almost perfect in that there were only two errors for Otterbein while five were noted for Antioch. Dano pitched almost air-tight ball and allowed only three walks. Antioch managed to score one run the first inning but Otterbein tightened up and began to play real ball. In the second inning Pace shoved a two bagger along third base line bringing in two runs.

Up to the eighth inning Antioch was kept with her one tally. After a series of good hitting Otterbein wound up the game with the score of 8 to 3.

At a recent meeting of the Quiz and Quill Club, officers were elected for next year. Helen Keller was chosen President; Edith Bingham, vice president; and Josephine Foor, secretary-treasurer. Two new members, Esther Harley and Violet Patterson, were elected to membership in the club. A pleasant social meeting was held at Lois Adam's Thursday evening.

TEACHERS HAVE VAST INFLUENCE

Doctor J. H. Francis, Superintendent of Columbus Schools, Presents Possibilities of Teaching.

HAS ELEMENT OF SERVICE

Cannot Hope for Large Salaries But Have Opportunity of Determining Fate of World Through Child.

In a vast majority of cases vocations followed are due to environment and accident rather than to choice and selection. This results in greater loss of them are working for less.

Thousands quit teaching to go into government service. Was it for patriotic reasons? Yes, and for the better wages paid by the government for clerical work. Most of them will remain with the government as long as they can for the latter reason. With the teacher largely lies the opportunity and responsibility of shaping the destiny of the nation and possibly we may hope for a time when the government will see to it that men and women are paid as much for teaching as for clerical work, and that they will do this without lowering the clerk's salary.

Upon what basis can teachers hope

John Haywood Francis, A. B., LL. D., 1892
Superintendent of Schools, Columbus, Ohio.

of human power than comes from all other causes combined. If society could create conditions (and it could) that would bring the right man and his job together it would uncover and develop mines of human wealth great enough to stagger the imagination.

Who of us should become teachers? Those who love the work best. Not from a sentimental slant at it but because it gives us a field in which we can best discover and rediscover ourselves, develop and redevelop ourselves, and best justify our existence to ourselves.

What salary can we hope to get in the teaching field? All the way from three hundred to eighteen thousand dollars per year. The latter amount is unusual, however, and I would advise against every teacher hoping to reach it. I know of but one public school man who has arrived, and strongly suspect that even his chances for going much higher on the salary schedule will be better in the business end of the private rather than the professional end of the public school game. The average public school teacher's salary in this country is stated as six hundred dollars per year. This means that a lot for promotion in salary and security in tenure of office? Merit alone would govern and to a considerable extent it does up to a certain point. It is a factor, but unfortunately the fact must be faced that the so-called higher positions in teaching are influenced by political, financial, social and religious elements. The influence of these factors in our schools threatens to become the curse of the nation. This condition will improve but probably not very rapidly. The rate will depend somewhat upon our ability and disposition as teachers to get together and stay together on the slogan that the schools are for the child and with the child rests the fate of the world. We have been too formal, too academic, too traditional. In our earnestness to teach the three Rs we have forgotten to teach the child. It is vastly more important to teach him how to live than how to read, write and cipher.

Reconstruction days will come into education. We are not scratching the surface as yet. For one who is seeking to give service that will reach down through the ages teaching offers the greatest field, never so great as now.

EDITORIAL

No beginnings of things, however small, are to be neglected because continuance makes them great.

—Phitarch.

On Being Constant.

One of the slimmest arguments against a man is that he has changed his mind—that he doesn't say what he did a year or more ago. Maybe he was wrong then, maybe he is wrong
now. Maybe he was wrong both times. That is very likely. There is no good reason to think he was right in either case. Standpoints may have changed and standpoints change opinions. Maybe the man has learned something since he first expressed an opinion, and maybe he will learn something more before he expresses another opinion. If a man depends upon his intellect for his opinions, he is sure to change, for his intellect flies with every straw that is blown in the wind. The only way for one to seem consistent is where he makes up his opinion in his heart, and then consults the divine fundamentals.

Must Have Increase

Certainly the board of trustees will have some important matters to consider at their session this June and not the least of these is that of increase in salaries.

It seems that if the professors
do not work to bring about better conditions, they will never be brought about. The administration will see to it that professors are given more work to do and are constantly required to meet higher and higher standards, but this same administration will never bring about justice to professors in the way of adequate compensation unless they themselves demand their rights. Teachers are a meek lot of folks who do not like to create a disturbance, and even the very best of them will leave the profession, rather than to risk the opposition or disapproval of those in authority.

Anniversary of Flag Occurs

The birthday of the United States
flag occurs on June 14, on which date,
in 1777, the National Congress "Resolved, That the flag of the Thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate white and red, and that the Union shall be thirteen white stars on a blue field." During the past year our flag has gathered new glory
through the unselfish heroism of American soldiers and sailors in the Great War. Its birthday deserves to be celebrated, and may be made the occasion for teaching many lessons in patriotism.

Girls Buy Stamps.

Y. W. C. A. girls have put their War Savings Stamp campaign over the top with a bang. They set out to reach the $500 mark and that amount was easily over-subscribed,—the total to date being $630. The committee,— Vida Wilhelm, Helen Keller, and Marvel Sebert are to be congratulated upon their splendid success.

MICHAEL WINS PRIZE

Winners of "Y" Contest Are Announced Thursday Night—Glenn O. Ream Is Leader.

The small number of students who attended Y. M. C. A. Thursday night heard a valuable talk on "Summer Opportunities for Christian Service" by
G. O. Ream, representing Columbus
Y. M. C. A.

The Columbus Y. M. C. A. is preparing to conduct a summer camp for boys, at Bellfontaine, Ohio. Seventy college men are needed as leaders for the boys at the camp. Board and pay will be given. This is an opportunity for someone to do Christian service, and also make money for college expenses.

The contest which has been going on in "Y" for several weeks has closed. The winners, as announced Thursday night are H. E. Micheal, first; Wood, second; Sweazy, third;
Replogle, fourth and Harmelink, fifth.
The prizes awarded these winners were donated, through Mr. Briner, anonomously by persons connected with the college.

Girls Meet On Campus.

Picnics and Eaglesmere booster
meetings go well together, declared the Y. W. girls. Last Tuesday night a delicious picnic supper, with all the goodies from sandwiches to ice cream,
was served on the Cochran Hall campus, and the girls made a pretty picture, sitting on the big cushions in their summery dresses.

The enjoyment was not all eats,
however, for the Cochran Hall ukelele—quite an "orchestra"—gave several selections. Cleo Coppock was in charge of the meeting, and Booster
talks were given by Vida Wilhelm, Helen Keller and Josephine Foor.

Corporal Harry P. Cook Writes.

Corporal Harry P. Cook is in France serving with the "Reserve Mallett" which has grown out of the old field service transport sections started in 1917. This organization has made some record drives carrying supplies, munitions and men according to statistics from "American Field Service Bulletin."

Harry writes that the usual topic of conversation in Co. 368 is when are the French going to take complete charge of our trucks? "When are we going to sail?" "I wonder what is doing in the states?" We shall all be glad when Harry returns.

Capital Defeats Otterbein.

In the return base ball game with Capital last Monday Otterbein was defeated by a score of 5 to 15. The game was rather loosely played, both sides making a great number of errors. In the first inning Otterbein pulled away with three scores to the good. The second and third were uneventful. In the fourth Otterbein went up in smoke leaving at the end, nine runs in the opponents' possession. There was a slight rally in the last two innings, but the odds were great.

Miller and Martin for Otterbein and Roselias for Capital played consistent ball.

Denison Takes Tennis Meet.

Denison, in the tournament with Otterbein Saturday, succeeded in retaliating for her defeats of last year. Martin, playing the famed Denisonian who was placed as second man in the all State meet, proved more than a match for him, giving him his second defeat this year. Score 6 to 3, 7 to 5.

Gray's man proved too much for him and evened the singles by a score of 1 to 6, 1 to 6. In the doubles the playing was close and a hard fight ensued. Otterbein was finally worsted in a two set match by a score of 6 to 2, 7 to 5.

Special Chapel Service.

At 7:30 Thursday morning there will be a special meeting in the chapel at which time announcements may be made and any unfinished business completed. The Athletic Association Officers will possibly be elected at this time.

REQUIRES MANY GOOD QUALITIES

Albert A. Kumler, '88, Doctor of Dental Surgery, Writes About Requisites for Successful Dentist.

NEEDS MECHANICAL ABILITY

Honesty, Cleanliness, Good Business Scruples, Recreation and Friendliness Are Essentials of Success.

In every one's life there comes, sooner or later, the time to choose the line of work for which he seems to be best fitted. Each one has the possibilities, from nature, to do some one thing better than anything else, and happy is the person who can choose the right thing. After making the choice we ought, as far as possible eliminate everything else and bend our whole energies to the making a success of our choice. At this stage, much depends upon the effort and will of the individual.

In choosing the business or profession, we should take our personal make-up into consideration. We must remember that there is no easy path to success. Dentistry is no exception. In the ordinary work, dentistry is mostly mechanical, and unless a person has a natural mechanical tendency or ability, it is very much a question as to the ultimate success. First a dentist should be honest with his patients and also with himself. Never allow anything to go out until he is satisfied with it. Be strict and prompt in paying all debts. Don't buy anything until it can be paid for—cash.

Make a name that is as good as a bond. Be scrupulously clean, mentally as well as physically and have everything around the office the same. There is nothing that inspires confidence more than to go to an office and the first thing the dentist does it to wash his hands in plenty of hot water with soap. Be a gentleman and courteous to every person. Friendly but never familiar. Be willing to work harder than you ever thought you could. Have no hours for beginning or stopping your day's work. Let your demands for work decide how many hours you put in. In other words give your whole life to the success of your calling. After a few years, when your efforts are showing some results, you can take up something as a hobby or divertimento. No one can become most efficient in any line, unless there is some recreation or side line to take your mind off the real things of life. As you go along don't overlook the business side of your work. It would be a good thing if every professional man would take a short business course, in order that he would be able to arrive at a correct idea of carrying on his own business and to tell what a given service costs him, so as to make a proper fee to cover his expenses and give a legitimate profit. This part of the business is overlooked by a large number of dentists, and then they wonder why, at the close of the year, their bank account is so small. In order to pay your debts promptly you must collect your bills promptly. Just remember that as soon as your work is done your money is due you, and the longer you put off the collection the harder it will be to get it. Keep out of debt and keep everybody out of your debt, is a pretty safe rule to follow.

As a professional man a dentist to be successful must be a surgeon, an artist, a sculptor and a mechanic. He must have the same grasp of the laws of physics, chemistry and biology as is needed by the physician. He must have the manipulative skill that is required by the surgeon in his most delicate work. He must be able to take advantage of the finest requirements of the mechanic and must have the ability to carry out those mechanical operations on living tissue in such a manner as to cause no irritation thereto. His workshop is a hole in the face about two inches in diameter. In that hole he must perform all of his operations, and the patient take the work away from him. In nine-tenths of the work done by the physician or surgeon, nature is expected to complete what he leaves. The dentist has to do his work. His failures stand out where he can always see them. The doctor buries his.

When I say a dentist has to be an artist, I mean he must have a knowledge of color, which enables him to properly match missing teeth with those remaining. When I say he must be a sculptor, I mean he must have a knowledge of symmetry which will enable him to restore contours, either in gold, or silver or cement. The calling of the dentist is most exacting. He must word hard if the business comes to him, and he will worry hard if it does not.

But the man who starts within his means, does his work honestly, keeps himself clean inside and out, attends strictly to business, has some good hobby and can make and keep friends, is sure to succeed.

10:00 a. m.—Sixty-third Annual Commencement. Address by President W. O. Thompson, D. D., LL. D.

Miss Helen Ensor, '18.

Miss Helen Ensor of the class 1918 has been secretary to President Clipping for several years. In this time she has made many friends among students and townspeople. Miss Ensor has been elected teacher of domestic science in Olney, Illinois, which position she has accepted to begin next fall. We regret to have Miss Ensor leave us but we wish her success in her new work.

Quiz and Quill on Sale.

We are a day late this week because the printers were busy getting the Quiz and Quill ready for distribution. They will be on sale Wednesday and no doubt all copies will be sold in short order.
