MIGHTY BIG SPLASH!

"What good is my gift?" you ask. Does your contribution provide the additional highly trained college professors we will need in less than 10 years? Can your gift build the thousands of new classrooms we will require? And equip them with the latest educational aids? Yes! Your contribution may seem like a drop in the bucket. But combined with the contributions of others it will help to halt the growing college crisis. Drop. Drop. Drop. Splash! Give the gift of knowledge. Give to the college of your choice . . . so that it can give to the future of America.

Learn how you can meet and beat the urgent college crisis. Send for your free booklet, "OPEN WIDE THE COLLEGE DOOR," Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N. Y.

"Focus on Achievement" is the name of the One Million Dollar Capital Gifts Campaign at Otterbein to raise money for an addition to the Science Building, Library and Endowment Scholarships. The campaign is off to an excellent start with the announcement that Mrs. Frank O. Clements, '01, has contributed $150,000.

Through the years, the interest, loyalty and generosity of Mrs. Clements have been an inspiration to all officially connected with Otterbein. Alumni can show their appreciation by giving to help reach the goal.

Of truth, and hope, and love,
"Her stately tower
Speaks naught but power
For our dear Otterbein!"*

OTTERBEIN
PRESIDENT SAYS

Dr. Lynn W. Turner

"A haze on the far horizon;
The infinite tender sky;
The ripe, rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high;
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the goldenrod—
Some of us call it Autumn,
And other call it God."

Call it what you will, it is incredibly beautiful as the scarlet and amber leaves fall through the afternoon sunlight and cover the campus. Generations of Otterbein students have felt their lives enriched by this recurring miracle of nature. The mood is one of calm and serenity.

But this is part of the restless, ever changing cycle of life and we know that no tomorrow will ever be quite the same as today. We cannot remain in the past, nor even in the present. Life is really lived in the future, and it is there that our plans must be made and our achievements recorded.

Last week, Otterbein College played host to thousands of campus visitors as men and women of national prominence came to our campus to speak on the theme of our great convocation, "Crisis in Freedom." At the end of the con-

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER FOUNDED JULY 1, 1871 — EVENING AND SUNDAY

Intercession for a Fellow

AN Otterbein College freshman lies gravely ill at Grant Hospital. He suffered a fractured skull when he fell from a truck while trying to grab his freshman beanie, blown from his head by the wind.

The young man was riding on the truck's running board as he and fellow students collected materials for the college's annual bonfire preceding last Saturday's homecoming football game.

These facts, however, tell only half the story.

A FEW HOURS after the accident, a handful of the injured boy's colleagues, feeling helpless but wanting to do something for their friend, met with the head resident of the dormitory in which they all lived.

They said they would like to offer an intercessory prayer and asked the head resident to inquire of the college pastor if they could use the chapel for this purpose.

Word of their plan spread rapidly over the campus "grapevine." Within less than an hour, more than 300 students — almost one-third of the student body—had assembled in the chapel to offer silent meditation and open prayer for the well being and recovery of the injured youth.

THIS HEART-WARMING display of faith and devotion offers sound and dramatic confirmation that today's college student, although often criticized for being carefree and thoughtless, has a quality of seriousness for which he seldom is given credit.

It also speaks well for the wholesome training offered by Otterbein College and the spiritual atmosphere that prevails on its campus.

Moreover, it is reassuring to know that with students such as these equipping themselves to become tomorrow's leaders, the future of this nation will be in capable hands.

The above editorial appeared in the Columbus Evening Dispatch newspaper, Thursday, October 11, 1962, and was written by Norman Dohn, '43, Editorial Writer. The injured freshman is Isaac Harding, Jr. of Knoxville, Tennessee. His condition, two weeks after the accident, is much improved.

vocation, we announced the launching of our 1962-63 "Focus on Achievement" campaign for the raising of a million dollars. It would be pleasant simply to enjoy these autumn days and to bask in the afterglow of convocation oratory, but life insists that we look forward. Forward to united effort on the part of all, faculty, students, parents, church members, and friends of Otterbein. The days ahead will be strenuous and full of insistent demands upon our time and energy. But the rewards will be great. Let us focus upon the achievement of a new Otterbein, with all the color and tradition of the past, but with the capacity and determination to serve the future.

Theater Season

The thirty-ninth season of the Otterbein College Theater began October 18-19-20, when the Theater and Music Departments combined forces to present the musical comedy hit, "The Pajama Game." Some of the hit songs included "Hey There," "Hernandos' Hideaway," and "Steam Heat."

The production, under the direction of Charles Dodrill, featured nine major settings and a cast of thirty. Allen Bradley conducted the orchestra; Dr. Lee Shackson was choral director; and Lloyd Lewis, '54, was choreographer. Richard Chamberlain and Miss Joanne Van Sant, assisted.

"Bell, Book and Candle" by John Van Druten, will be the annual arena theater production on December 5-6-7-8.

Pictured above is a model of the proposed Campus Center Building to be erected on the Otterbein campus. Structure of the $800,000 building to house recreational and dining facilities, is expected to be started before the end of this year. Architect's plans call for a three-floor building with the dining hall and kitchen on the top floor.

Receive Bequest

Otterbein College received a bequest of nearly $25,000 from the late Dr. Herbert E. Hall, a 1902 graduate, who died February 12, 1961.

The Executive Committee of the Otterbein Board of Trustees voted to apply the bequest to the renovation and refurbishing of the auditorium in Lambert Music Hall and the auditorium will be known as the Herbert Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Hall's wife, the former Bessie R. Detwiler, who died in 1950, was also an Otterbein graduate in the class of 1902. Her parents, Henry Fretts Detwiler and Josephine Van Gundy, graduated from Otterbein in 1875. The Hall's daughter, Mrs. Josephine Hall Graham, Evanston, Illinois, stated that her parents "had always been close" to Otterbein since their graduation, and had been grateful for the fine education they received at Otterbein.

Academic Honors

Sixteen students attained a perfect four-point average during the second semester of the 1961-62 school year at Otterbein. The total number of students on the Dean's List (at least a 3.5 average) were 10.8% of the entire student body.

Circulating trophies are given to the top fraternity and sorority having the highest accumulative averages. Kings Fraternity won first place for the men students, while Country Club and Zeta Phi Fraternities were second and third respectively.

For the sororities, Greenwich placed first. In second place was Talisman, with Arcady in third.

Parents' Day

The second annual Parents' Day at Otterbein was held on Saturday, October 21. Over 600 parents were in attendance. The program included a coffee hour, entertainment, luncheon, musical play, open house on the campus and the Otterbein-Hiram football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Sims, Jr. of Circleville, Ohio, were selected as "Parents of the Day." They have a daughter, Marguerite, attending Otterbein and serving as one of the cheerleaders.

Poetry Awards

Mr. Lloyd Kropp, instructor in English at Otterbein College, received three poetry awards at the 24th annual Ohio Poetry Day meeting held at the Southern Hotel, Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Kropp received first prize in the Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper contest for narrative poems on a romantic subject; first prize in the Verse Writer's Guild of Ohio contest for any subject; and second prize in the Dayton Poet's Round Table contest for lyric free-verse.

Banquet speaker for this year's Ohio Poetry Day meeting was Dr. Robert Price, chairman of the English Department at Otterbein. His subject was "Some Front-Page Poetry."

Writing Scholarship

The English Department of Otterbein College announces establishment of the Kathleen White Dimke Writing Scholarship, effective with the current school year.

In honor of the late Mrs. Dimke, Mr. T. E. Dimke, of Dayton, together with a group of friends, has a growing endowment fund, the income from which is to be used each spring for a scholarship award to the member of the Junior class who has attained the greatest distinction in writing throughout his college career.

To be eligible for this scholarship, a student must rank in at least the second semester of the Junior year. He must be in good standing both academically and socially, must have at least a B in all his English courses, and (most important) must have shown outstanding skill and versatility in the area of writing. Evidence of these skills will be considered from class work, prizes and awards won in college and elsewhere, publications both on campus and outside, special writing projects or employment such as editing, newspaper reporting, etc. The award will be made each year by vote of the English Department who have the privilege of dividing or withholding it should occasion give need.

Mrs. Kathleen White Dimke was a graduate of Otterbein in the class of 1924. One of the early members of the Quiz and Quill

LIFE STORY OF FAMOUS PHYSICIAN

Editors Note: The following article appeared in the Los Angeles County Medical Bulletin and is quoted verbatim except for the deletion of one paragraph describing technical work. Dr. Pottenger was a distinguished alumnus of Otterbein College who died June 10, 1961.

Francis Marion Pottenger, M.D., "Beloved Physician" of Los Angeles, lived his ninety-two years in the period of the most rapid advance of medical knowledge the world has ever seen. Doctor Pottenger early assumed a role of firm leadership in the advance of medicine in America, maintaining his leadership throughout his professional life.

His academic work was in Otterbein Preparatory School and College at Westerville, Ohio. There he acquired a thorough working knowledge of French and German. His medical work began at the Medical College of Ohio at Cincinnati, but he transferred to the Cincinnati College of Medicine and Surgery for his second and final year in medicine. He graduated April 3, 1894, receiving his medical degree and the First Faculty Prize Gold Medal.

Two days after graduation he married his Otterbein College sweetheart, Carrie Burtner. Also, the Faculty of the Cincinnati College of Medicine and Surgery elected him Assistant to the Chair of Surgery. On April 11, he and his bride sailed from New York for Europe. This was the first of his four trips to Europe. During these trips, Doctor Pottenger sat under the spell of many of the world's greatest teachers, always bringing their best ideas back to America. He met and studied under Koch, Von Bering, Brauer, Forlanini, von Leyden, von Pirquet, Anton Ghon, Wright of St. Mary's College, England, Sir Robert Philip of Edinburgh, Simms Woodhead of Cambridge, Wolff-Eisner of Berlin, Bulloch of London, Bartel and Hamburger of Vienna, Carl Spengler, Virchow, Gerhardt, Henoch, Ewald, Conheim, Neusser, Nothnagel, Kovacs, Gower, Freund, Cornet, Fluegge, Calmette of the Pasteur Institute, Turban, C. Theodore Williams, Hans Weicker, Petruschky and Sir James MacKenzie. All left deep impressions upon his absorbing mind.

In Senator's Clinic, he learned one of the great lessons of his life. A patient was brought in, stripped to the waist. A student was given an opportunity to study the patient by observation alone and then state his findings. In a very few minutes the student stated all that he could see. Senator then lectured for one hour on what could be seen by visual inspection alone, of the revealed portion of this patient's body. Doctor Pottenger never forgot this lesson. The power of observation it taught him was to form the basis of some of his most important discoveries.

In Doctor Pottenger's later visits to Europe he was able to carry back to Europe some of his own original observations, the importance of which was coming to be known throughout the world. In all of his travels he was greatly helped by his College of Otterbein grounding in French and German. On these trips, too, Doctor Pottenger observed that men of creative minds did not always welcome truth and that a closed mind obstructed progress. He learned personally to avoid this danger.

Francis M. Pottenger, M.D.

Having returned from his first trip, Doctor Pottenger, according to plan, opened his office in Cincinnati in November, 1894. He was then 25 years of age. Established in the medical school, well liked by his seniors, he was busy immediately. His future in surgery seemed secure. Then on the last day of June 1895 he was startled to hear his young wife in a fit of coughing. He examined her and realized that she had tuberculosis. The discovery was terrifying since virtually nothing was known about this disease. While Koch's discovery of the bacillus had been announced, the significance of his discovery was hardly realized. Tuberculosis was "the great white plague," and meant almost certain death. Consultations were held. There seemed no hope. The only advice was: "Leave Cincinnati and go at once to Colorado or California." Within a month they were in Los Angeles, a city of 100,000. Soon Monrovia was selected as a place of residence and practice and Doctor Pottenger launched upon his life's work: the fight against tuberculosis. In spite of her husband's deep study of her problem and his intensive care, Carrie Pottenger died in November of 1898. Doctor Pottenger, however, continued his study of tuberculosis, the status of which at that time was: "In the early stages, God Liver Oil; in the late stages, Morphine."

He read extensively, but most of all he observed. His discoveries began to accumulate. He discarded the exercise theory, advocating rest. He introduced open-air living. He established a tent sanatorium in a shell-like valley in Monrovia, first having to teach the Monrovia citizenry that a sanatorium would not bring a plague upon the health of Monrovia. Ultimately, the Pottenger Sanatorium made Monrovia world famous.

As a result of his study of tuberculosis in children he was one of the first to point out the occurrence of primary infection, early in childhood, with the production of tuberculosis glands in the hilum, associated with a temporary immunity, which could be broken down later.

Doctor Pottenger was made a corresponding member of the International Central Committee to combat tuberculosis. He was elected to the position of Lecturer on Tuberculosis and Climatology in the Medical Department of the University of Southern California and two years later in 1905 was made a full Clinical Professor of Medicine with Diseases of the Chest as his department, the second chair to be established for the teaching of tuberculosis in the United States. He was appointed assistant editor of the Southern California Practitioner and established a Department of Tuberculosis in that Journal. The Southern California Anti-Tuberculosis League became the California Tuberculosis Association in 1907. Doctor Pottenger served as its President, 1931-32. For 22 years he had served as director of the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association. In 1946 Doctor Pottenger was elected President Emeritus of the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association with full power of membership on the Board of Directors. In 1947 the California Tuberculosis and Health Association awarded Doctor Pottenger a medal for his pioneer work in the prevention of tuberculosis in California, the death rate of which had fallen in the nation from 200 per 100,000 population in 1894 to 22.2 per 100,000 in 1947.

Gradually, as the years went by, patients who had been treated at the sanatorium began to return annually to celebrate Doctor Pottenger's birthday. The Sunday nearest his birthday was chosen as "Homecoming Day." 550 patients and friends attended homecoming in celebration of his eightieth birthday.

Doctor Pottenger has written a thrilling and dramatic autobiographical story of his amazingly forceful life "The Fight Against Tuberculosis." In his final "Chapter XXIX—My Eighty Years," Doctor Pottenger states, "And now a word from the vantage point of 80 years. What have these 80 years taught me? What have they brought me? They have taught me humility when I realize the many things of great importance I have failed to grasp and understand in spite of the fact that I have been generous of my time spent in study. They have brought me satisfaction when I realize that my mind is still open to progress and that I still have a thirst for the new, which makes growing old an exciting adventure.

"My eighty years do not worry me. I would not change those years for any like period in history. To be sure, I would like again to have the keenness of youth. On the other hand, I would miss the mellowness of age, the store of experience which guides me in my every moment and act.

"I have tried not to live too much in the past, but to be alert to the problems of the present and future. This I have accepted as an antidote to aging. It does not prevent the years from rolling by and the birthdays from arriving, but it does prevent that fear of the future which otherwise might make one unhappy in the twilight of life.

"I have no fear of death. It is often ruthless. Again it is a great blessing. I have had a full life. If I knew this was my last year or month or day of life, I would be sorry only because it would take me from my family and friends and terminate the possibility of completing many unfinished tasks."

Mr. Otterbein Writes To Otterbein

Editor's Note: Last year we published an article by Professor Paul Frank who was on sabbatical leave for further study and research in Europe. While in Dillenburg, Germany, the birthplace of Phillip William Otterbein, for whom Otterbein College is named, Dr. Frank visited with a native son by the name of Otterbein and wrote about the visit in the TOWERS article. Mr. Erich Otterbein is replying to the article and sends the picture above of Dillenburg and the home of Otterbein.

To Otterbein College—

Dear Sirs:

It has now been a half a year since Prof. Frank was here and I had the honor of becoming acquainted with him. He was so amiable over his visit here in the city, from Wilhelm der Oranier, who was the liberator of Netherlands, and wrote an article about his visit with me in the "Otterbein Towers". A short time later my wife and I had another American visitor. This time it was Miss Jackie S. Cooper from Westerville, who studied at Otterbein College. Her time in Nurnberg, if I remember correctly, was spent as a teacher in the American school.

Following these visits, which made me very happy, I received more publications from Otterbein College. For these I would like to heartily thank everyone, especially Professor Frank and Miss J. S. Cooper's parents.

If I were to thank personally all of the ladies and gentlemen who sent these things, the need would arise to include in my thanks those who are responsible for the publications.

It was a great surprise for me to learn of the missionary works of P. W. Otterbein in Penna. and of his activities in founding Otterbein College. It has not yet become established that I am from the same family as P. W. Otterbein or I would speak more of it. It is known, however, that my ancestors were from Hessen, (I myself was born in Frankfurt) and some of them emigrated to America. As a result, my father strove toward this anticipation for our family. This aim, toward which he worked for ten years, came to an end with his death. Until now it was unfortunately not possible to continue with his aim. The reason for this was my many-year's-work (till 1956) restoring church books and documents from the effects of the war. But I hope that I will soon have the time and opportunity to intensify my investigations and will come to new results. It is understandable that I have you and your inquiries to thank for my renewed interest in finding out about my family history, and will gladly make communications.

But nevertheless, whether I am directly related to Philip W. Otterbein or not, it is with great pleasure and pride that I bear the name Otterbein, which you regard with such great esteem. From the reading of the literature which has been sent me, I have been able to become familiar with the religious emphasis of Otterbein College; I have also studied some of the work, activities and the life of the students of Otterbein College. Also the understanding that I have is of the strong and impressive bond and faithfulness of all graduated students for their dear Otterbein Towers. My wife, who is a little more familiar with the English language than I, has translated most of the articles that we now have in our Publications. And each time it is a pleasant hour for us when we can reflect over the large and small occurrences that take place in the college that bears our name, and thereby enjoy a vicarious visit to Westerville.

Allow me in closing to greet the ladies and gentlemen of the faculty, and the students with the best of wishes for your revered college. And please keep in mind that my wife and I will always be happy to have a guest from your midst, and to receive news of your college and town.

Erich Otterbein

P.S. I am enclosing a map of Dillenburg with the castle and Church-hill-motive. Below the Wilhelms towers, which were erected with the castle of the Oranier in the memory of Napoleon, you can find the Evangelical Church in which the rule of the royal family rested. Directly near the church you can find also the Otterbein House, where the sextons of the church lived for a long time. Should you be interested in the foundations of the birth of P. W. Otterbein, please let me know. It would give me much pleasure to fulfill your wishes as much as possible.

PICTORIAL VIEW OF HOMECOMING — CONVOCATION WEEKEND

More than 7,000 persons converged on the Otterbein campus, October 5-7, for the three-day Convocation, "Crisis in Freedom," which was held in conjunction with the annual Homecoming festivities.

Bishop Richard C. Raines, Methodist Bishop of Indiana, opened the Convocation on Friday afternoon with an address about his recent three-week trip to Russia. He said that "we do not live in a bad day but in a wonderful day when the common man is demanding an opportunity to live. We have to try to be more successful than we are doing, to live up to the ideals we profess."

Outstanding laymen in the Evangelical United Brethren Church from the Otterbein territory received Distinguished Laymen's Awards at a Citation Dinner held Friday evening, October 5. Citations were presented to twenty laymen by Dr. Harold L. Boda, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Dr. Lynn W. Turner, Otterbein President.

A panel discussion on the convocation theme was held Saturday morning with Dr. Harold Eibling, Columbus, Ohio, Superintendent of Schools; Dr. Paul Sharp, President of Hiram College; and C. The final address of the Convocation was delivered by Miss Pauline Frederick, NBC News United Nations Correspondent, who told the group that freedom cannot long remain or peace be everlasting until the two giants, the United States and Russia, worked together instead of against each other.

SPOTLIGHT

Murn B. Klepinger, '23

Dr. and Mrs. Murn B. Klepinger, '03, were honored on September 16, 1962 at a reception given by the Belmont Evangelical United Brethren Church, Dayton, Ohio, upon completion of 25 years of service as pastor. The congregation presented gold watches to the Klepinger's and a check for over $800.00 in appreciation for their years of dedicated service. Nearly 600 friends attended the reception.

The congregation has grown from 660 members in 1937 to 1740 persons at the time of the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration. The pastor has led the congregation from a one unit frame church building to final completion in 1961 of the present educational buildings and sanctuary at the corner of Smithville Road and Bellaire Ave. The present buildings are valued at more than $700,000.00.

The congregation has had a series of young men from United Theological Seminary who have served as student assistants in the youth work of the church. Dr. Klepinger has contributed in this way to training pastoral leadership for many churches across the nation, in addition to those of the Ohio Miami Conference. The church has the honor of having the most students at Otterbein College at the present time from any one church. Twenty students are enrolled at Otterbein this fall from the Belmont congregation. High standards of education for Christian living are constantly lifted up before the young people by the Pastor. The large number of college students from this church is a tribute to the fine leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Klepinger.

Dr. Burn B. Klepinger has distinguished himself as a churchman. He is President this year of the Greater Dayton Ministerial Association. He serves as a trustee of Otterbein College. When the General Conference of the E.U.B. Church meets in October, it will be the ninth time that he has represented Ohio Miami Conference there.

Francis P. Bundy, '31

Francis P. Bundy, '31, Research Physicist for General Electric, Schenectady, New York, has come up with a new "direct" diamond-making process for General Electric.

Bundy was on a team of four G.E. scientists who in 1955 announced they had succeeded in producing man-made diamonds.

The new process featured in a recent issue of Chemical Week and The National Observer of September 17th, uses an "improved super-high pressure apparatus in a large hydraulic press" to obtain pressures at temperatures above 9000 degrees Fahrenheit . . . both temperature and pressure are three times higher than those of the previous process which required a molten metal catalyst.

The diamond made by the new process is "very small" and many of the tiny crystals are quite transparent," according to Bundy. By the previous process, the diamonds varied from black, if made at a low temperature, to yellow to white, if made at high temperatures . . . with shades of green in between.

The new process also establishes experimentally carbon's "triple point" (The point on the pressure-temperature scale at which carbon exists simultaneously as diamond, graphite, and liquid). The point is about 3800 degrees centigrade and 1.8 million pounds per square inch.

Bundy received the Otterbein College Distinguished Alumnus Award in 1956.

"The scientific achievement of effecting this rearrangement of carbon crystals structure by pressure and temperature alone," says Dr. Guy Suits, a GE Vice President, "is something which many scientists have doubted would ever be accomplished."
