WESTERVILLE, OHIO, January 9, 1911.

SEASON OPENED

GIVES OHIO STATE FIVE VICTORY OVER O. U.

Otterbein puts up Interesting Game but Suffers Defeat by Score of 42-20.

In a fast and rough game Otterbein opened up her basketball season at Ohio State Saturday evening by a defeat of 42 to 20. Although the score itself is evidence of the superiority of State's team over Otterbein's it does not discredit the local five who played good ball throughout the entire game. Young did some good shooting in the first half while John found the basket with ease in the last period.

State's men were husky and showed good team work. Otterbein was somewhat off form in this feature of the game, due largely to the change of floor.

The score registered 24 to 9 at the end of the first half. The beginning of the second half found Stringer replaced by John at right forward and Crosby taking care of the center position.

During this half John placed three goals and Crosby one. Young found the basket on four fouls. Considering the fact that three new men were in the line up the team made a good showing. Cook and Bailey played in their old time form and proved formidable foes to the state forwards who found it no easy task to land a ball safely in the basket.

DEBATE TRY-OUT

Will take Place Saturday Evening, Jan. 21.

According to the ruling of the Public Speaking Council which met Friday afternoon, fifteen men this morning after chapel drew cuts for the side of the question which they will take in the debate try-out which has been set for Jan. 21. All the men of a side will work together as a team in preparation, but in the try-out itself a man of one side will be pitted against a man of the other. Cuts will be drawn the night of the preliminary for speaking positions.

As has been previously announced the question for debate this year is "Resolved that our legislation should be shaped toward the gradual ultimate abandonment of the Protective Tariff." Some time ago it was stated that there was some possibility of a change being made in the question for debate

EXENDINE RETURNS.

Fervent Applause Greets Announcement in Chapel this Morning of Coach's Decision.

The hero of Otterbein's athletics, the man who brought Otterbein's football team in the past year before the college world as one of the strongest in the state, Albert Exendine, will coach the 1911 team.

This long awaited answer from the Carlisle graduate was received with loud and fervent applause as it was announced in chapel this morning by W. L. Mattis.

When Mr. Exendine left at the close of the 1910 season he could give no satisfaction in reply to the urgent appeals of the captain and management that he return, further than if he coach at all Otterbein would receive his services. His delay in making this decision was due, as he wrote, to the poor support of the second

PARIS BEAUTIFUL

SAYS PROF. ROSSELOT WHO SENDS GREETINGS.

Professor on Leave of Absence Writes that Life Is Enjoyable in French Metropolis.

Paris, France, Dec. 6, 1910.
To the Readers of the Review:—
Taking advantage of an earnest and twice repeated request of the editor we, the exiles, send to you our greetings, hoping they may reach you before Christmas.

We set sail from New York September 17th on the steamer Niagra of the French Liner, a steamer of 12000 tons and rather slow but of more than ordinary steadiness and splendidly equipped. It being the dull season for traveling we were only twenty-three on board. You can imagine the amount of space

we had on a boat intended for 500 passengers. In fact it was a real picnic party. No one was seasick and the evenings spent in the drawing room were more than pleasant. Nearly every passenger spoke both English and French but French was the language mostly used.

On the 27th we arrived at Havre and the next morning we had the pleasure of seeing Paris, the end of our journey. We found a good hotel within two hours after arrival, where we had as good accommodations for 60 cents as we had in New York for $2.50. But of course there was no sign "English spoken" for you usually pay for the opportunity of speaking English in Paris.

The next two days we spent in hunting for a place to live during the winter. This we found without very much difficulty, renting an unfurnished apartment which we furnished quickly and at a small cost, for furniture is cheap here. If you expect to stay any length of time in Paris, you should not rent a furnished apartment for these are all for foreigners and the price is set accordingly.

As the course in the University did not begin until November we spent all of October "doing" Paris and we did not get it "done" by far. The first thing which we especially noticed was the ever present beautiful. The streets, the buildings, the boulevards and the parks all bear the mark of beauty. No poles, no wires, many streets of wood, beautiful trees and the blue water of Seine, are things so striking as to awaken admiration in any one although he be merely a transient visitor. But the people are as interesting as the material things. They are not nearly as foreign as you would imagine. In fact you can see a much more foreign looking crowd on the Boston Commons than you can see in Paris. About all the difference which can be seen is that the men all wear a mustache or beard and are nearly all slender. They have a great fondness for outdoor life. The parks are always crowded even on cold days. While standing one Sunday afternoon at the entrance to the Bois de Boulogne we counted in the space of one minute 75 cabs and automobiles bringing people into this favorite park. And this is only one of the many breathing places.

It may be true that the birth rate is decreasing in France but one would never believe it so on seeing the innumerable baby cabs on the streets and in the parks. And if it is true that French men are under the average stature the size of the women ought soon to bring the race up to the normal.

Sunday is not the rest day here which it is in Westerville. Most of the small shops are open and even some of the larger stores. Flowers especially are sold on that day. They are very cheap and pretty. On All Saints' Day, the 1st of November, over 200,000 people carried flowers to the different cemeteries to place them on the graves of relatives and friends.

One thing which is noticeable is the immense number of books sold in Paris. There are almost as many book stores as grocery stores and they sell books at prices ranging from one cent to $10.00. Many second-hand books of standard worth sell as low as two cents each.

The climate here has been a puzzle for the last two winters. The excessive rainfall and the high temperature are the two characteristics. Only one day has the thermometer been as low as freezing. Today it stands about 55. As coal is $14.00 per ton, we are truly thankful for the warm weather.

There are so many things to tell that this letter might be continued ad infinitum, but with greetings to you all and with the heartiest congratulations to the football team we remain,

Your Friends,
The Rosselots.

EX-GOVERNOR HANLY

Will Lecture in College Chapel, Jan. 16, for Hanby Memorial Association.

"The Personality of Christ" is the theme of a lecture to be given in the college chapel, Monday evening, January 16 by Ex-Governor Hanly, of Indiana.

All the proceeds of this lecture will be added to the fund for the erection of a suitable monument to Benjamin Russel Hanby, author of "Darling Nellie Gray," and who was a graduate of the class of 1858.

Mr. Hanby who died in 1866 is buried in the Otterbein cemetery. It was while visiting this cemetery last November and seeing here the grave of Mr. Hanby that the Ex-Governor expressed a desire to aid in erecting a monument to the memory of the author.

The fund started by the Hanby Memorial association has been rapidly growing and already there is a neat sum in the treasury.

Broken any resolutions?—not too late to re-new them.

Review readers will be pleased to hear from Professor Rosselot who writes with that characteristic enthusiasm which is always conspicuous in his every word
and deed. "Rossie" as his intimate friends familiarly speak of him, by his close touch with the students, his untiring and enthusiastic efforts on the football field
with his efficiency in the class room has won for himself a host of friends. The Review wishes him a pleasant sojourn in Paris and a safe return to Westerville.

The opening of the year 1911
finds Otterbein students again
busy with their college activities.
The short vacation at home with relatives and friends has been the source of inspiration for better and more consistent work.
With those who are so near and dear to us in our respective homes, watching our progress with a pride which is known only to them we cannot but at least put forth a strenuous attempt to make good and to live up to their expectations. With this thought in mind throughout the remaining months of this school year
there should be a general satisfaction felt on the part of each student next June as he makes a survey of the work actually accomplished from the opening of the new year.

The urgent appeal of Professor Heltman for debating team candidates should meet with hearty response. There is no consistent reason why at least twenty-five strong men should not compete for places on one of these teams.
Otterbein has the material and under the direction of the public speaking instructor should put out two of the strongest teams the school has ever known. Why not respond?
By so doing you are not only abetting the interests of your college but you are enhancing your own development. There is a keenness and alertness of mind
derived from this kind of training that cannot be found in the pursuance of any of the college curriculum studies. If you have any doubt on this matter, prove it for yourself.

SCHEDULE CHANGED.

Otterbein's Basketball Team
Plays Bliss and Delaware,
Wednesday and Saturday.

The first game on the Home
floor will be played next Wednesday at 7:30 with the strong Bliss team of Columbus. Otterbein has met this team each season and in every game the spectators have been treated to a hard and interesting contest. The price of admission will be twenty-five cents and reserved seats which will be on sale to-morrow can be purchased for ten cents. The coming Saturday will find Otterbein on the Ohio Wesleyan floor at Delaware. This team is an old rival of the tan and cardinal
and spectators from Otterbein will see an exhibition of some good ball.

These two changes with the cancellation of Grove City
for Feb. 24 make the only alterations of the schedule as announced in the last issue of the Review.

There was some dissatisfaction it seems with the management of pointment followed this resignation.

Much responsibility attaches
itself to this office as the holder has direct charge of the publica-

since his graduation last June has been connected with the Bobbs

because of the wishes of another proposed triangle. It was decided however that a change at so late a date would be impracticable.

Otterbein takes the affirmative against Heidelberg on the home platform and the negative against Buchtel at Akron. Buchtel will meet Heidelberg at Tiffin. This triangular debate will take place the evening of March 17.

The Public Speaking Council has also decided to ask the State Peace association for a representative to give an address on the subject of "Peace" in order to furnish material for those intending to enter in competition for the state contest.

team of last year. However this failure of the second team to respond will not likely be in evidence next year as the efficient coaching of Exendine is possibly better recognized and appreciated than ever before.

Class Teams Working.

The opening of the basketball season finds the class teams already organized and getting in shape for the inter-class games. These games which have always proved of great interest to the students will be played within three or four weeks unless the management should deem it wise to change this time.

The classes have selected their captains as follows: Senior, C. D. Locke; Junior, C. R. Hall; Sophomore, C. W. Foltz; Freshman, C. E. Lash.

Plan Meeting of Trustees.

The Executive board of the university met last Friday afternoon in the President's office in their regular monthly meeting. Questions of interest were discussed at length but no definite movement of any particular interest was launched. Plans were worked out and formulated for the coming meeting of the Board of Trustees which occurs the first week in March.

Hemminger—"Sunshine."

OTTERBEIN PROFS.

Read Papers at Ohio College Association Meetings.

At the Ohio College Association meetings in Columbus which were held in sections during the holidays three of Otterbein's Professors had leading parts on the program. At the meeting of the section in Psychology, Philosophy and Education President Clippinger read a paper on "Vocational Training in Colleges and Secondary Schools." Professor Weinland presented a paper on the subject, "First Year Collegiate Chemistry."

Dr. Jones was chairman of the committee on framing a bill providing for a state wide pension law and was highly complimented for his untiring efforts in its behalf.

Professors N. E. Cornet and F. E. Miller were also in attendance at these meetings.

ASSUMPTIONS

ARE FOUNDATIONS TO BELIEFS OF MANKIND

Dr. Miller at Y. M. C. A. Gives Logical and Forcible Evidences of Christianity.

The first Y. M. C. A. meeting of 1911 proved thus far to be the best of the college year. It was also one of the largest in attendance, there being one hundred and thirty-three men present. Before the address of the evening the Otterbein Quartet very feelingly sang "Peace, Peace, Wonderful Peace."

Each one of the large number present Thursday night expected to hear a great talk from one of Otterbein's greatest men. They heard the address and the man, and not soon will they forget either. When Dr. Miller arose to speak he was greeted with probably the most extended and fervent applause ever accorded to anyone who has appeared before the local Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Miller spoke not merely concerning a problem of life but his theme was life itself. He opened with a proposition upon which, as he stated, we can all agree,—conscious existence. Existence gives us duration of life which results in experience. Here he noted that the element of time, while we live, favors no one above another. Time is the same for all. However we, all of us, have our individual experience.

In our life of experience we have something of knowledge and something of ignorance. We know only in part. A mixture of knowledge and ignorance produces probability. We live in the atmosphere of probability. We must remember that probability is not in events but in our mind. Law alone governs events. For example, we toss up a coin and we say that the probability that it will come down heads is one half. Now if we knew all of the laws governing that coin, the exact nature of the flip it received, the air currents that affected it, we would know exactly how it would fall. Where there is full knowledge there is no probability. Again we can not create law. We may combine law, and its combination turns out its own result. So it behooves us to learn, in-so-far as we may, the laws concerning our business, our life.

However, at the best, our life must have much of probability in it. This is the soil of assumption. Assumption is the accepting of some thought as true without proving it. We live on assumption. We enter college on the assumption that we will be benefited. The farmer, manufacturer, merchant and all other classes of people pursue their various lines of activity on assumption. An assumption always has an object in view. A harmony of events producing that object proves the validity of the assumption. For instance, take surveying. A corner must be assumed before anything can be done. When the corner is assumed, then observations are made from it in order to find out if conditions are as specified in the deed of the tract being surveyed. If they harmonize in every respect then we may say that the corner, the assumption is correct.

So it is plain that our life is based on assumption. Still men, many men, would change all of this when it comes to religion. They say if you can not prove to me this or that I will have nothing to do with it. Here they refuse to assume. Much emphasis is given to foundations. Start on a well proven foundation and build up is almost universal advice. However even in the physical we can only trace the foundation to the earth. The foundation of the earth itself must be assumed. Science cannot move one step until an assumption is made, namely, "the uniformity of law."

Likewise the foundation of Christianity is based on assumption. God is that foundation. We cannot prove it. We assume it. But as in science let us test this assumption.. Does it not fit our lives? Any man who will assume God and live accordingly will finally find Him. Furthermore we have the deed by which we may test the assumptions controlling our lives. It is God's Word. In thoroughly testing ourselves we find that our moral and spiritual nature calls for a great all-knowing friend which can not be found among our earthly associations. Such a friend is Jesus Christ. Does not "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that who so ever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life" ring true to our nature. Then we may term the assumption a good one

Life is a great problem. A solution is booked for each one of us.. Do we never in some moment of solitude hear God's voice directing us? In working our life problem here I wish that one thing might be entirely eliminated from Otterbein because it is based on a false assumption. That thing is—tobacco. One may not realize that tobacco dwarfs cause it blunts his discriminating power.

Again we need a heavenly leader. Of course if we assume that there is no immortality we need no leader to the life beyond. But if we think of life only as a beginning we need a leader who
