VOL. II.

WESTERVILLE, OHIO, May 22, 1911.

No. 41.

ATHLETIC BOARD

Officers Elected by Association for Ensuing Year.

One of the most dignified and respected bodies in Otterbein is the Athletic Board. Upon it falls responsibilities which are weighty enough to puzzle the best and most experienced men in school. The ensuing year will not be an exception. The athletics of Otterbein, like the condition of the college itself, are at a crisis. This year they will either go forward or backward. To the new board very important questions will be up for settlement and the result of these decisions will go far toward the success or failure of athletics.

The following men were elected Thursday as officers of the Athletic Association and make up the Board:

President—Homer P. Lambert.
Vice President—Alva D. Cook.
Secretary—Charles R. Hall.
Treasurer—John H. Flora.
Lay Members—John L. Snavely and Milo L. Hartman.

The members of the old board have served very efficiently and have established a high standard for the new officers to maintain.

BISHOP CARTER LECTURES

Message Filled With Humor and Practical Worth.

A good practical lecture was that given by Bishop Carter Thursday evening. His theme was, "Matrimonial Mistakes." He pointed out to his audience many serious mistakes that we are liable to make as young men and women. The wit and humor

New Song.

Otterbein's new college song is now ready for sale. A large number of copies has just arrived and is in the hands of the Senior class. Both the words and music of this song are the composition of Prof. Grabill. See J. J. Dick, sales manager of the Senior Class Publishing Company and buy as many copies as you wish at 25 cents each.

Sacred Concert.

The church choir is preparing some special music for a sacred concert which will be given June 4 and for the baccalaureate service. Prospects are for two most delightful musical treats.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Rosselot Child Burned While in Paris.

The return of the Rosselots from Paris will be delayed for several weeks by the serious condition of the son. Word has been received by Pres. Clippinger that the child is in a hospital in Paris being treated for serious burns about the hands and face. Although the burns are bad, physicians say that they will not be fatal and probably will not leave any scars. The particulars of the accident have not been received.

PRIZE LIST GROWS

Two New Contributions by Columbus Friend.

All friends of the studio will be glad to know that two more prizes have been added to the long list to be awarded at the close of this semester.

Mr. Walter L. Lillie of Columbus is the donor of two beautiful pieces of china to be given as prizes for the best work in china painting; a large vase for the best conventional plate, and a beautifully shaped nut bowl for the best naturalistic plate.

Mr. Lillie has a large art store in Columbus to which he has recently added a very complete line of artists materials and white china and it is from this department the handsome pieces of china were selected which he has so kindly given the studio.

Every department in the studio is now represented in the prize list, which is as follows:

Mrs. William Chandler Beal, five dollars for the best book of sketches.

Mrs. William Clark, five dollars for the best drawing from the antique.

Mrs. Ella Scofield, five dollars for the best water color from life in Class A.

Dayton Ho!

The Otterbein Glee Club will give a concert at Dayton, tonight, in the First United Brethren church. Prof. Grabill will accompany the Glee club as piano soloist. Dayton people have been anticipating this musical event with no little degree of interest, which assures a successful concert for all concerned.

STRONG WOOSTER TEAM DEFEATS OTTERBEIN,

Presbyterians Pitch Great Ball and Hit Hard While Otterbein Fails in Batting Department.

"If it is, it is you know.
If it ain't it ain't.
Maybe you wish that spot was snow

But if it's paint, it's paint."

Out guessed, out hit, out played was our ball team Friday afternoon when they met the fast nine from Wooster and received the stinging defeat, 6-0. The Wooster team proved to be too hard a nut for our boys to crack, but the defeat gives O. U. a victory to strive for in the next combat with the Presbyterians, June 2.

The Wooster nine, which was by far the fastest team seen here this year, showed lots of ginger and snap throughout the game. Blaser their twirler, who by the way has had an offer from the Chicago Nationals, pitched superb ball for the visitors. His quick curves mixed with plenty of steam completely bewildered our batters. The support given Blaser by his team mates was also good. The visiting nine, for a college team was especially strong, their hitters slamming out ten on our pitchers, R. Calihan and Snavelly.

O. U. on the other hand, for some reason or other, had an off day both in the hitting and pitching departments. But three scattered hits were registered to our boys during the game. R. Calihan did not pitch his usual winning game for O. U. and was retired in the seventh. Snavelly then took up the work in the box and pitched smoothly the remainder of the game.

How they made their Runs.

First Inning.

Wooster—Collins led off by grounding out to John. Beach hit a rippling single over second. Coryton followed by hitting safe in right and sending Beach to third. Anderson singled in right, scoring Beach and Coryton. Anderson went to third on the throw to catch Coryton at home. Wergent grounded out R. Calihan to John. Anderson scored. Corry bounded out, Fouts to John. 3 hits, 3 runs.

Fifth Inning.

Wooster—Eddy was easy for L. Calihan. White hit safe in left. Blaser went safe while L. Calihan threw White at second. Collins and Beach followed with singles to center and right respectively, filling the bases. Coryton walked forcing Blaser home. Anderson grounded out, Fouts to John. 2 hits, 1 run.

Seventh Inning.

VICTORY FOR SECONDS

Mutes are Defeated by Good Pitching and Fielding.

Our fast second team was again victorious Saturday over the Mutes at Columbus, duplicating the first victory pulled off at Westerville, 8-3.

Snavelly pitched great ball for O. U. striking out fifteen O. S. S. D. batters. He had his opponents at his mercy throughout the contest and worried them by his big curves. Jack allowed the Mutes but four hits. Bevis of Otterbein and Shiner were the big hitters of the game each securing two hits, one of Shiner's being a three bagger.

The Mutes used two pitchers, Shiner and McConnell, in order to keep our seconds from scoring.

O. U. PLAYS TENNIS

Denison vs. Otterbein Results
With Honors Divided.

The tan and cardinal were well upheld in tennis at Denison Saturday by the two local stars Dempsey and Young. The tournament was closely and evenly played throughout, but the greater skill of the Denisonians finally established itself in both singles and doubles.

In the singles Dempsey played in great form against Denison's old veteran and champion, Adams. "Skete" took the second set, 4-6, loosing the first, 6-1, and badly scaring the Baptists on the third, before their "tennis king" finally mastered, 9-7. Dempsey is a fast racketeer, being keen sighted, heady, agile and fast on his feet. He has a swift serve which bewilders his opponents.

Again, in the doubles was O. U. well upheld, when Dempsey, coupled with Young, lost to Adams and Hill only by 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Considering the fact that Ira and Curt had only played together twice prior to the tournament, their work was very creditable to O. U.

Otterbein ought to congratulate herself upon such a debut into this new line of college sport.

O. U. Batting.

Our baseball boys are still rather feeble when it comes to the bat. Some little improvement, however, has been shown during the past week. Capt. Wagner is putting special stress on the batting and with such practice as the boys have been getting, it is thought that they will soon come around with the "Big Stick."

"Fifteen Men to Vermillion,"
Adopted as Slogan.

A delightful variation of program and place of meeting gave a very pleasing aspect to the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Thursday evening. In place of congregating in the Association room the young men flocked to the new Athletic field where an open air meeting was held.

The purpose of the meeting was a summer conference rally. The leader was M. L. Hartman. Each of the eight men who attended the conference last year was given four minutes in which to discuss some aspect or aim of the conference.

As set forth by the different speakers the aim of the conference is to hold up before the young men the different vocations in life and the possibilities and requirements in each. The primary purpose of this conference is to help young men who are in college to decide for what vocation of life they are best fitted. This is one of the big problems which the college man of today has to decide. Many young men lose a valuable part of their lives before they recognize their calling.

Among other things emphasized by the speakers were the influence and fellowship of the big men at the conference. Nothing can be more inspiring to the young man just ready to step into the ranks than a heart to heart talk with big men such as are to be found at the summer conference. Not big men as regards stature, but men big in heart, in motive, and in their interest in humanity. Then there is a great benefit to be derived from association with students from other colleges and other states since all are at the conference with a similar purpose. Cottage life, table associations, and the good healthy sports in which time sportsmanship is never lacking are not forgotten.

Along with the athletic contests, bathing and boating furnish ideal amusement and recreation. At the close of the meeting quite a number of men signified their intentions of attending the conference this year and the meeting ended with the slogan, "Fifteen men to Vermillion."

Y. W. C. A.

Chloe Niswonger led Y. W. C. A., Tuesday evening. Her subject was "Just for Today." The lesson was taken from Matthew 6:25-36. Catherine Maxwell sang "Just for Today" very beautifully.

Some of the thoughts brought out by the leader and the girls were as follows:

Some think we ought to always look out for tomorrow. It is characteristic of Americans to look forward into the future rather than to enjoy the present. As college people we are inclined to think of the future instead of thinking of the duties of today. In this way we often let the opportunities of today slip by. The master said, "I must work the works of Him that sent me while it is yet day as the night cometh when no man can work."

We can think of this life as the to-day of our lives and the life after death as the tomorrow of our lives. Many worry about the future life but if one does his duty here in the today there need be no thought for the tomorrow.

The following recipe for the well made day was given:

"Take a little dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer,
And a little dash of morning gold
Dissolved in the morning air:
Add to your meals some merriment

And a thought for kith and kin,
And as your prime ingredient
A plenty of work thrown in.
Then spice it all with the essence of love,

And a little whiff of play
Let a well worn book and a glance above

Complete the well made day."

Recruit Club.

"The Young Man and his Life Work," was the subject discussed at the Recruit club Wednesday night. Rev. W. C. Riebel of Columbus was the speaker. He urged every young man to seriously considered his walk of life and to enter a profession which offers service to both his fellow-man and God.

Post Office to Close on Sunday.

In response to the request of a number of citizens and students, Postmaster Stoughton will close the postoffice on Sunday hereafter. No mail will be received or dispatched and the lobby doors will be closed.

Vocal Recital.

The vocal students of Lambert Conservatory will give a special concert Tuesday evening at 6:45 in Lambert Hall. A glance at the excellent program is sufficient to assure everyone that the recital is to be of a high order. The last number is Otterbein's new song, written and composed by Prof. Grabill, which will be rendered by the Glee Club.

New Catalog.

The new catalog of Otterbein University is now off the press. Like all up to date college catalogs, it contains full and complete information concerning Otterbein, together with courses of study and outline of all work, and represents well the college in all departments.

ity of Pennsylvania, speaking of the cost of living, gave 13 reasons for the present high prices of products:

- Increase of gold supply.
- Exhaustion of natural resources.
- Rising standard of living.
- Withdrawal of population from agriculture, and growth of cities.
- Trusts and combinations.
- Labor unions.
- Tariff.
- Growth of population and unscientific methods of farming.
- Extravagance in expenditure.
- Waste and fraud in distribution.
- Uneconomical marketing and housekeeping.
- Speculation.
- Immigration.

That is a very comprehensive list, and each item seems to be so closely related to the condition of things that one can hardly hope for the removal of any. No one is going to decrease the gold supply, or lower the standard of living, or kill off the labor unions. We might stop our extravagance, speculation and waste, if it were possible to separate them from the other causes.

Progress doesn't depend upon a bill of particulars, but does depend upon the sort of moral bent the social and political aspiration gives it. If this results in extravagance, speculation, aristocracy, it will embrace all the 13 reasons for the higher cost of living. If however, health happiness and the simple life control, the cost of living will decline.—Ohio State Journal.

THE PERIL OF SELF SATISFACTION

Oration Delivered by S. A. Grill in Philomathean Open Session, April 21, 1911.

Man is the highest of all creatures. He is endowed with an intellect and the power of reason. He is capable of infinite possibilities of achievement.

It is from this fact that he is confronted not merely with the problem of physical existence, but the problem for existence as a rational being. On account of his dual nature, his position is complicated and he must face a ceaseless struggle towards an unknown goal. In this perplexing world of today and through the hurry and bustle of business transactions, many men forget that there is an ultimate destiny, and strive for the sole gratification of their own desires, or sit idly and console themselves that they have accomplished their labors.

If this life is but a transition period, what right has any one to expend all his energy laying up earthly treasures and neglecting his fellowmen, or what gain is there to the one who sits idly and feasts upon past requirements?

We all realize that the world is becoming better; that its ideals of life are gradually rising high, and higher. It is true, because the life of the individual is moving on a higher plane. The world is becoming more and more one large family, each individual sharing the joys and sorrows of the other.

The man who is spending his life, as he thinks, that he may have long years of happiness, and be independent, is placing a barrier in his path, for selfishness is the foe to the soul's highest development. We become monsters by consulting our own interests and gratifications. What, then, is the origin of so much sin and crime today if it is not from the desire to gratify our own pleasures resulting in a complete loss of control?

It is a bad thing to get into the habit of thinking and of studying to please self. It finds us sickening or wearying of one gratification after another, yet constantly seeking something new, till, like Xerxes, we are ready to offer a reward to anyone who will invent a new form of pleasure. The habit of self-indulgence is fatal to symmetry of character. The purest gratifications come to us unsought. As Arthur Harwick says, "Pleasure, like our shadows, flees when pursued, but follows when we seem to forget it."

Then, too, this selfish desire is the foe to our fellowmen. Society makes us mutually dependent. We are bound to think of others. A thousand little obligations are created by our bond of social life. Politeness is a form of unselfishness, punctuality is merely a duty, and any form of monopoly is a crime, for it assumes that the individual is independent. No true love can be won without self-sacrifice. Philip Sidney showed himself to be the "gentleman of his age," when, himself wounded and burning with thirst on the battlefield, he passed on to a dying soldier the vessel of water offered him, saying, "His need is greater than mine." When Muelhouse, in Prussia, plunged his arms into seething pitch to pull out the explosive hand-grenade, accidentally dropped by a workman, the citizens came to him en masse to present him with a splendid sword and watch in admiration of such heroism. Clara Barton's labors among poor, sick and wounded, in the late European wars, brought to her the Black Cross of Germany, the Golden Cross of Remembrance and the Red Cross of Geneva, signs and symbols of self-sacrifice.

Selfish souls are like the Caspian Sea, which receives into its immense basin the floods of many rivers and pouring rains, and sends out not one rill to gladden the wastes. Selfishness is the root of all sin. Sin starts with the love of self, and culminates in hypocrisy, and finally leads to rebellion against God.

Along with this gigantic burden which arrests real progress and which prevents any individual from attaining the highest development, there is in human nature a tendency to a kind of satisfaction with present attainments, a vicious complacency as to one's conditions. It corresponds in water, to stagnation; in vegetation, to the point where development is displaced by decay; and in animal life, to

Jumping at Conclusions.

It would be interesting to know how much strife, how much trouble, how much war has been caused by jumping at conclusions. A nation does something which is not fully understood by a sister nation and consequently that nation jumps at conclusions. A war often results. A person makes an ambiguous statement to an associate, who, in turn, gets the wrong meaning, sniffs the air, and jumps at conclusions. A quarrel follows. A misdemeanor is committed. Some unthinking individual hears a rumor and straightway fixes the blame, often, upon an innocent person,—in short, some one jumps at conclusions.

Do Otterbein people jump at conclusions?

Yellow Journalism.

The American press is greatly afflicted with the plague, yellow journalism. Almost every large city has its "yellow" sheet. This sheet pries into the gossip and scandal of the political, social and religious world with the express purpose of developing, enlarging and falsifying in order that a sensational and morbid story may be given to the public.

But this kind of yellow journalism is dignified and wholesome when compared with that which is sometimes foisted upon the student body of a college either by unprincipled or ignorant individuals seeking to slander, libel and misrepresent officials, faculty and students. It seems that the President and Faculty of an institution such as Otterbein ought to be safe-guarded against the libelous attack contained in the edition of "rot" which appeared Friday morning. No one who possesses the first elements of good judgment or who respects the fundamentals of decency and propriety would cast such a slur upon Otterbein's Coeds as was published in that unsigned sheet.

Again, even the worst of metropolitan newspapers have manhood enough to publish the names of their editors. Those who are responsible for Friday's indecent sheet, however, were too sneaking and underhanded to attach their names to their production.

If those who put out "Odes and Epodes" actually believe what is contained therein, the student body of Otterbein says to them, "Don't stay another day. Otterbein will be fortunate when it loses you."

Hot Days.

Everyone longs for the good old summer time with its balmy atmosphere, its beautiful sunlight and its delightful days. Then when summer comes, almost every one grumbles over the sultry air, the blazing sun and, above all, the hot days. A noted preacher once said that many people lose their religion in the summer time. Hot days, such as we are having now, no doubt may claim their share of back-sliders. What man wants is summer without summer days.

Jokes or No Jokes.

At the editors' conference in Delaware, May 12, the fact developed that one of the best college papers in Ohio possessed no joke department. The editor of the paper maintained that the publication of jokes lowers the standard of a college sheet. Ought jokes to be eliminated from the Otterbein Review? What say our readers? Answers will be published in the Review next week.

Editorials by Readers.

Almost everybody likes to see himself in print. If you have an uncontrollable desire to write for publication, write an editorial for the Review "Readers' Column."

Again, if you know of a better heading than "Readers' Column," for readers' editorials, please suggest it. "Forum," "Open Court," "Senate" and "Readers' Column" are almost worn out. Propose something new.

EXCHANGES. BE COMMON.

What a grand thing it is to be common! It seems that one's highest regard for his fellow-man, the deep ambition, should be the altruistic re-esteem for his co-worker.

We look backward upon past history and see how our forefathers struggled in order to establish a union of peace and fellowship, a union in which freedom and equal civic rights should reign supreme. Now we see how society, instead of nature, is gaining the ascendancy. We see how avarice and the desire to appear in splendor is undermining our social realm. What a blessed thing it would be if man would let nature's divine, instructive impulses rule him instead of being influenced by the narrow social restraints which hedge him in on every side.

Leander Clark Era.

Crime a Bad Investment.

It is perfectly amazing to what trouble some men will go in order to become criminals. Almost any criminal act costs more in its execution, outside of the penalties and punishment, than to accomplish the same results would cost if done honestly. Yet there are always a plenty of persons who seem to be willing to go out of the way to do the wrong thing. Sociologists claim it is due to distorted views of the operation of the law of cause and effect.

Captain Porter, of the federal secret service, took into custody recently a counterfeiter who made bogus nickles. The operator of the "queer" possessed one virtue; he believed in doing his work well, and the secret service man is authority for the statement that those nickles cost their manufacturer more than fifteen cents each. To begin with, they were made of good metal, fully up to the government standard in purity; then they were most carefully made. Yet this deluded fellow had gone on for years making nickles that cost him more than fifteen cents each to produce, taking desperate chances on life, liberty, and finally ending up in a felon's cell. No better illustration can be cited to prove the efficacy of the saying that "honesty is the best policy." Run to its final analysis, nearly every criminal act will show a distinct loss as a business proposition, leaving out of the account the chances the criminal takes with society.—Public Opinion.

Mars.

According to an article in the Ohio State Lantern, Dr. Svante Arrhenius, director of the Nobel Institute, delivered the last Sigma Xi lecture of the season before a large audience Monday evening. His subject was, "The Planet Mars." Dr. Arrhenius said that observations do not lead to the belief that Mars is inhabited. The temperature of the planet is far below zero even at the equator, and the climate is much like that of our deserts.

The seas and rivers are of course frozen. There is supposed to be very little water vapor on Mars, clouds having been noted only in rare instances. The so-called "canals" which figure strongly in all observations of this planet are believed to be cracks in the crust through which issue gases and water. These cracks, which are of volcanic origin, are believed to be similar to cracks of the same origin in the earth's crust.

Oberlin Changes Grading System.

The faculty of Oberlin College recently voted to replace the numeral system of grading by a literal system, which will take effect next year. A will represent high credit; B, with credit; C, fair; D, passing; E, conditional; F, failure.

Hereafter ninety of the one hundred and twenty hours required for graduation must be completed with a grade of C or above.

O. S. U. Year Book.

The first copies of the Makio, the Ohio State University year book which corresponds to our Sibyl, were delivered on Thursday of last week. The entire edition was expected to be disposed of by the end of the week. The date of this delivery is somewhat earlier than usual.

Young Men and Women

Every day without a Bliss Business Education is so much of a loss to you. It's the education you will soon demand. You may get other education and do WELL, but you can get a Bliss Business Education and do BETTER. When, in less than six months, we can qualify a young man under twenty, and earning no salary, to fill a $75.00 per month position; a girl of nineteen, with us but eight months, now drawing $1200.00 per year; a school teacher, who took the combined course, for a secretaryship now paying him $5200.00 a year, don't you think it is time that you were letting us fit you for a good position—ALL BLISS GRADUATES ARE HOLDING GOOD POSITIONS.

We will teach you to overcome your inferiors, rise above your equals, and compete with your superiors. We will make you ten times more valuable to yourself and assist you to a position that will pay you 50, 100, 200 and perhaps even 300 per cent more than you can earn now.

Places obtained for students to earn board while in attendance; railroad fare to the city allowed; and to the first representative of any town a discount of five per cent deducted from regular rates.

New classes formed each Monday. Write for the "Seal of Fortune." You will marvel at the records of success our students are making, and will be better able to judge what we can do for you. Address Dept. C.

THE PERIL OF SELF-SATISFACTION.

dwarfism, which is only a form of disease and deformity. In society it is a sign of ignorance and sensuality.

In the memoirs of Barron Bunsen it is related that calling one day on the great sculptor Thorwaldsen, he found him greatly depressed. He explained his discouragement and melancholy by saying that he had just finished his large statue of Christ for Copenhagen and feared that his genius had reached its best and would henceforth decline, "for," said he, "I have never before been satisfied with any of my works, but I am satisfied with this and shall never have a great idea again." Spinoza once said, "There is no foe to progress like self-conceit, and the laziness which it begets."

It is true that Nero was a great ruler. He seemed to think since he had always succeeded, that his position was secure, but he deceived himself, for while he was revelling in Greece, the people became dissatisfied with his rule and in a short time the senate almost openly intrigued against him, and the populace, once so lavish of their applause, were silent or hostile, and soon, in order to save himself from this disgrace, he ended his life by suicide.

Some people think because they do not possess some great talent, they will be content with their station and life and will make no effort to advance.

Sure enough, innate genius in some particular channel is an important factor in the success or failure of any individual, but if that genius is unattended by energy, aspiration and confidence in ability to succeed, the gift is valueless to its possessor, and may lie dormant forever. There have been persons possessed of the most brilliant minds and rarest genius who have never contributed anything to the advancement of art, science, literature or mechanics, or to the progress of civilization, or for the welfare of mankind. On the other hand, there have been those who, with meaner minds and less talent, have been so ambitious, energetic and indomitable, that they have achieved imperishable glory and have rendered great benefits to mankind. If persons fold their hands and wait for something to come to them without their making any effort themselves, they are likely to wait indefinitely.

To be ambitious does not mean to make an array for one's own benefit, but to bring one's self more nearly in harmony with the higher things of life, and to do this will require a high ideal. Would it not be better to aim at perfection and fall short of it than to aim at imperfection and fully attain it. There was never a time when unselfish men were more in demand. There was never a time when active men with high ideals could do greater good. There was never a time when the world could furnish to those taking up its duties greater promise of opportunity for success. May the heart beat quicker as we learn more clearly our relation to our fellowman and our relation to the world at large.

Our Flag.

The following beautiful lines on our flag were written by Mr. Dexter Smith and were sung for the first time, by an audience consisting of many thousands, on the occasion of the U. S. Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, in 1876.

"O'er the high and o'er the lowly
Floats the banner bright and holy
In the rays of Freedom's sun,
In the Nation's heart imbedded,
O'er our Union newly wedded,
One in all, and all in one.

Let that banner wave forever!
May its lustrous stars fade never,
Till the stars shall pale on high,
While there's right the wrong defeating
While there's hope in true hearts beating,
Truth and freedom shall not die.

As it floated long before us,
But it ever floated o'er us,
O'er our land from shore to shore,

There are forever yet to wave it
Millions who would die to save it.
Wave it, save it, evermore.

Note—Prof. E. A. Jones was present when these words were sung. He recently recited them from memory.

O. U. In Big Six.

Otterbein will be well represented in the Big Six track meet this year which will be held on the Ohio State field Friday, May 26. Such of our worthy athletes as John, Rogers, Hartman, Gifford and Van Saun will be entered in the shot-put, pole vault, discus, broad jump and half mile, respectively. We need but recall the success of these athletes to know that the tan and cardinal will be well represented Friday.

Baseball Talk.

This week means great things for Otterbein in baseball, as we meet two of the strongest nines in the state. Our boys will meet the Ohio Wesleyan team Wednesday, May 24, at Delaware. The Methodists are in for state championship this year and are especially eager to take revenge for their two defeats of last year. The Ohio State nine, which has been winning consistently will be here Saturday, May 27, to cross bats with O. U.

To meet two such Universities as these is a fact of which O. U. may well be proud. To win from two such schools means nothing more or less than the state championship. The question arises, Can we do it?

Ex-Capt. Wineland—"We have got baseball material here in O. U. not equaled by any school in the state. And if we get our nine going smoothly in the Delaware and Ohio State combats there will be no state champions other than Otterbein."

Capt. Wagner—"Our two defeats will only help us to win from O. S. U. and O. W. U. They both will now be over-confident. Just watch us."

"Daddy" Resler—"It only takes a little revival in batting for us to be 'champs'. We are going to win both these games and I am going to help win them by rooting."

Otterbein Day Speakers.

President Clippinger spoke at Anderson, Ind., Sunday. Next Sunday he will speak both morning and evening at Ogden Center, Mich.

Prof. Cornet spoke Sunday at Wellston, Ohio in the interests of Otterbein.

C. D. Yates made an Otterbein Day speech in Rittman, Ohio, Sunday.

I. D. Warner spoke at Auburn near here Sunday morning in behalf of Otterbein. The Otterbein collection amounted to about $20.

Sibyl Progressing.

The students of '12 is working hard almost day and night on the Sibyl. The class is determined to make it the best ever and will very likely succeed in its determination.

From an interview with Editor "Sherm" Bilsing we quote the following:

"The Sibyl may be out in about two weeks."

"We are receiving splendid support."

"400 copies have been ordered."

"We are working like fury."

T. H. Bradrick, '94, was in Toledo last week attending the Sunday Revival services.

Karl H. Rymer, '07, and Elmer M. Rymér, '06, were in Westerville Friday and Saturday.

L. E. Myers, '07, paid O. U. friends a visit the latter part of the week.

Miss Louella Smith, '10, entertained fifteen of her friends at her home in Arlington Saturday afternoon. At the luncheon the announcement of the date of the wedding of Miss Smith to Prof. J. H. Nau, '10, of Plain City was made in a very unique manner. This is to be an event of the evening of June 27. On the same day will occur the wedding of Prof.

I. R. Libecap, '09, and Miss Mary Kalter of Dayton at the First U. B. church.

Anti-Saloon League.

Many improvements are being made in the Anti-Saloon League printing plant. New equipment is being installed to the amount of $12,000. The office rooms will soon be moved to the Weyant house, which has been recently purchased by the League.

A new periodical of the magazine type known as, "The American Patriot," will appear from the League press in September. This publication will be devoted to the interests of reform in general. E. H. Cherrington, editor of "The American Issue" will be editor-in-chief and Dr. H. H. Russell associate editor.

Owing to the fact that a limited number of such positions are available and that they are largely sought after, Otterbein stands high among colleges to receive such favorable recognition by large state institutions.

READERS' COLUMN.

Courtesy

Not all people are interested in the same kind of things. Perhaps it is a good thing that they are not. There are, however, occasions when people should give attention to things whether they are interested or not. You may be attending a lecture or musical, you may not be pleased with what is being said or you may have heard the only numbers that you care to hear; your disposition is to go home, and as far as you are concerned, perhaps you could do so; but should you do it? Do you not owe it to the speaker to remain until he has finished? Put yourself in his place and think how it would effect you to have ten of fifteen people leave the room just as you were in the midst of your address; or imagine that you were on the program for a music recital or an oratorical contest and that just before you were called, a number of persons should get up and walk out. If all would think of this, there would be fewer interruptions on this account, for it is merely through thoughtlessness and not on account of any intention that people violate this rule of respect.

Much as it is out of place to leave, as above suggested, it is a great deal worse to remain and not only fail to give attention yourself, but by your actions to keep those about you from enjoying the entertainment and at the same time disturb the one who is giving the production. It is the testimony of the best speakers and musicians that they can not do their best when there is unnecessary disturbance in the audience.

One had better go home; but is either one necessary? Why not use our will power and make ourselves give attention, thus mastering ourselves and winning a victory that will last throughout life?

Athletics et Scholarship.

A recent editorial in the Ohio State Journal entitled, "Baseball and Study" which is based upon a paragraph quoted from the Polaris, a publication by the North High School of Columbus, contains some wholesome advice which could be heeded with profit by some of our college men. Although the quotation is taken from the columns of a High School periodical, we feel that is very applicable to some conditions as found here in Otterbein. We here quote the paragraph: "But the one greatest trouble that North's baseball team has experienced thus far is the inability of the players to keep up in their studies. Indeed, some of the regulars have shown a sad lack of perseverance and earnestness. Some have given up hope of keeping up their studies and have turned in their suits. We have the greatest sympathy for these weaklings, for it is said they have a bad case of spinal 'lack-a-meningitis,' otherwise known as a lack of good backbone."

The situation here is not so grave as the paragraph portrays, however it exists in a milder form. Yet we know that the success of our various varsity teams have frequently been impaired because of certain players being temporarily barred on account of their studies. Should this condition be so? By no means! We would think that the men who have the privilege and honor of representing their college in various athletic activities, would also endeavor to represent her at least in some good measure in her literary activities. This ought to be the aim of every man who participates in athletics.

Working One's Way Through College.

The financial consideration is one of the greatest problems which confronts a young man or woman who desires to further prepare himself or herself by spending four years in college.

A certain gentleman who is a staunch friend of the University remarked that he was favorable to impressed with Otterbein because many of the students were practically making their own way through school.

Each year a number of students drop out of the institution because they are short of money. Now the question is for each one to settle for himself, is this necessary? It seems very true that no person who is willing to work should be discouraged of completing a course at Otterbein either before he has entered, or after he has spent a year in making an effort to work his way

A few years ago, a certain young man entered school and after paying his tuition for the first term, he had thirty-five cents. He was energetic and was able to make his expenses for the year.

This is but one example of what can be done. A great number could be named who are making the greater part of their expenses. What has been done by others in the past can be done by you in making an effort to go through school. If there be any who are thinking of dropping a college course for lack of funds, or if there be those who fear to enter college from the same reason, why not say to yourself that you will master the situation? It can be done and there need be no fear of any well-minded person speaking lightly of one

OTTERBEINESQUES.

Daly (translating Greek)—"Shall I kiss you?"

Prof. Cornetet—"Stop!"

Prof. Wagoner—"Where do we find didicissem?"

Parish—"Out on the campus."

One Who Knows.

Prof. Moore—"What is a dramatic situation?"

Spafford—"When my wife enters with a rolling-pin while I am kissing the hired girl."

"Oh, will you marry me?" he cried,
While he his wooing waged
"I'm sorry to say, 'No'," she sighed;
"But we can be engaged."

C. V. Roop was taking notes on the "Mistakes of Matrimony."

Amelia—"So he said my singing is heavenly?"

Helen—"Yes, not exactly that, but I think he said unearthly."

He (after five minutes of embarrassing silence)—"Don't you think the floor is unusually flat tonight?"

Fan—"What happens when the bases are 'full'?"

Man—"A discord."

Mother said she would surprise me,

Come and see my college days;
But I telegraphed to mother:

"Don't! Surprises work both ways."

Prof. Snavely—Just then they crawled over the fence and made for the peaches. That was on "Memorial Day."

Jim Cox—"I never knew that peaches grew that time of year."

Prof. Snavely—"Well,—er,—uh ?-?-?-?"

—It was not kind
To leave me, like a Turtle here alone,

To droop and mourn, my wrath atone

When thou art from me my heart is torn;;

And I methinks am lonely and forlorn.

Thy presence only now could but console,

Heal my unquiet mind, and tune my soul.

Or else, Camp, a new-love I'll seek and find;

And your Irene shall be no more.

Freshman Math.

"Professor, is it ever possible to make the greater out of the less?"

"There is a pretty close approach to it," replied the Professor, "when the conceit is taken out of a freshman."

Bierly to Prof. Miller—"When can I know I am going up?"
