The Editor's Corner

On the next page is a story by President Howard explaining why this will be the last issue of TOWERS I shall edit during the coming year. I relinquish this responsibility with a great deal of reluctance, for the editing of the magazine has been one of the most enjoyable phases of my work. This marks the thirteenth year I have visited with you through our Otterbein publication—which must be some kind of record.

Although it has not yet been determined how the alumni work will be handled, I am sure that TOWERS will come to you regularly and that it will be well edited.

Thank you again for all the nice things you have said about the magazine. I hope to be back with you in about a year.

Towers Editor On Leave of Absence

by President J. Gordon Howard

Upon authorization of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Wade S. Miller is being given a one year's leave of absence from his duties as Director of Public Relations and Executive Secretary of the Development Fund.

For one year, beginning April 16, he will serve as the Executive Director of the United Crusade for Colleges, Theological Seminaries, and Church Extension in the Annual Conferences and Churches in the Otterbein College area.

The General Conference of the EUB Church last November authorized a financial campaign for $5,150,000. Of this amount the seven EUB colleges will receive $3,100,000, the two EUB seminaries will receive $1,050,000, and Church Extension will receive $1,000,000. The church extension funds will be used to help construct new church buildings in the many new residential areas that are springing up all over the United States.

Of the total $5,150,000 to be raised in the whole denomination, the amount to be raised in the nine Conferences in the Otterbein College area for all colleges, seminaries, and church extension is $1,511,525. This is a vast sum, and to reach the goal will require the united cooperation of all Annual Conferences and local church leaders, both clergy and laity. It will also require the services of an Executive Director who can help the Conference and local leadership in the plans, organization, promotion, and follow-up. It was the unanimous opinion of all concerned that Dr. Wade S. Miller is the right man to serve as Executive Director.

The Executive Committee of Otterbein College is reluctant to lose the full-time services of Dr. Miller in his regular duties this year, but since Otterbein College has a very great stake in the success of the United Campaign in the churches, it was felt that the college should be willing to loan Dr. Miller to this larger enterprise for a one-year period. Of the $1,511,525 to be raised for all beneficiaries in the Otterbein College area, Otterbein College will receive $500,000; hence it is evident that the success of this effort means much to the future welfare of the college.

Fortunately, Otterbein College this year is not promoting its Development Fund with the annual fund-raising campaign among our alumni. During the calendar year of 1955 the entire fund-raising program of the college is consolidated in the Advancement Campaign under the direction of Mr. Frank O'Hern. This means that this year Dr. Miller can be spared from his customary duties without too much disruption to our usual fund-raising program.

NEW FRESHMAN DORMITORY NEEDED

by PRESIDENT J. GORDON HOWARD

On the desk beside me as this is written is an impressive document entitled "Constitution of the Otterbein Student Government." It covers more than six legal-size pages, closely typed, wherein are defined the duties and responsibilities for orderly campus life delegated to the student body by official action of the trustees and faculty.

The Women's Student Government Association and the Campus Christian Association each have a constitution, as do the Varsity "O" and the Women's Athletic Association. Each of the fraternities and sororities is governed by a constitution. At last count there were approximately fifty organizations on the Otterbein campus, each operating under student leadership according to the provisions of a constitution or its equivalent.

Student government is wide in scope, takes various forms, and has three distinct values. In the first place, student government takes care of many routine and detailed operations of campus life in an efficient manner. In the second place, many campus regulations are enacted and many disciplinary measures applied by the students themselves, after careful study and due consideration, with a minimum of friction and resentment.

A third value derived from student government is the educational benefit of working as a citizen in the campus community. By serving in campus organizations, students learn the duties and privileges of good citizenship. Students teach each other many significant lessons as they work together under democratic rules and follow orderly procedures.

A serious handicap at present is that Otterbein has no men's dormitory where freshman men can learn the duties of campus citizenship. The various men's organizations, with their traditions, their upperclass leaders, their faculty advisers, and their interested alumni, perform an essential service in training incoming freshmen, but a general all-campus process of orientation for freshman men is lacking.

Otterbein College is now in the business of raising funds. Part of these funds will be used for a new residence hall which will partially relieve the student housing shortage, so that some freshman men can live in a dormitory of their own. Such a new dormitory is long overdue. Otterbein is the only college in Ohio, to our knowledge, which does not have a dormitory for its freshman men. When this new building is in operation with competent adult counsellors, the meaning of campus citizenship can be taught to men students much more effectively than can now be done.

Bundy Makes Diamonds in GE Laboratory

On February 15, every TOWERS reader heard the news that four General Electric scientists had succeeded in manufacturing diamonds. Probably not many realized, however, that one of the four successful scientists, Francis Bundy, is an Otterbein alumnus.

Your editor wrote immediately to the company to obtain a statement of the specific contribution which Dr. Bundy made to the discovery. The following letter was received from Herbert B. Nichols, Manager, Public Information, General Electric Company:

"In response to your inquiry for additional information on Dr. Francis P. Bundy's contributions to the G-E diamond-making success, I'd like to submit the following:

"He was responsible for an early survey for the Research Laboratory, covering the scientific history of diamond synthesis. This was followed by a preliminary study of the thermodynamic and physical conditions under which diamond would be expected to form and participation in the initial overall planning of G.E.'s recently announced diamond-making successes.

"There had been no previous experience in this field at the Research Laboratory when the high-pressure project was started. Dr. Bundy picked up the threads of known high-pressure techniques and reached pressures of 2,000,000 pounds per square inch and temperatures of 2000°C for periods of a fraction of a second. In this equipment the sample volume was very small but it was a good start. Later Dr. Bundy, along with the other members of the group, developed high-pressure apparatus having a much larger volume for the sample and capable of sustaining extreme pressures and temperatures for long periods of time.

"When it came time to order a new and sizeable press with which to strive for still higher temperatures and pressures, Dr. Bundy contributed to the overall planning and design of the 1000-ton hydraulic equipment and the electrical heating and controls required for larger high-pressure chambers.

"Finally, he played one of the major roles in the analytical phase of the work. He took part in the thermodynamic and kinetic studies of the processes involved.

"In this project as well as in other projects in which he has done research, Dr. Bundy has shown the highest level of cooperation—fitting his work in with that of his co-workers. According to Research Laboratory authorities, 'It is obvious that he added great strength to the team of four scientists, Bundy, Hall, Strong, and Wentorf, who have succeeded in making real diamonds in the Laboratory.'"

Dr. Bundy received the Bachelor of Science degree from Otterbein and the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the Ohio State University. His fields of specialization are physics, mechanics, optics, radiation, and heat transfer.

Joining the G.E. Research Department in 1946, his present position is that of Research Associate, Mechanical Investigation Section. He is the author of many technical publications in his field of specialization.

Dr. Bundy is a fellow of the American Physical Society, the Acoustical Society of America, and a member of Sigma Xi. In 1945, he received the Naval Ordinance Development Award and in 1947 an Army-Navy Certificate of Appreciation.

He is married to the former Hazel V. Forwood, '34. They have four children and live at R.D. 7, Box 234, Schenectady, New York.

CLASS REUNIONS

Plans are underway for the classes of 1895, 1905, 1915, 1925, 1930, 1935, and 1945 to have reunions on Alumni Day, Saturday, June 4.

Committees have been appointed and members of the classes mentioned above can expect to receive specific information later.

According to present plans, the classes will have their reunion dinners in Barlow Hall. The dinner will be followed by a short program, and the remainder of the day will be free for fellowship.

Make plans now to be on the campus on Alumni Day. Be sure to inform the committee that you will be present, so that you can sit with the other members of your class at the dinner.

TO BE HONORED

Five persons will receive honorary doctors' degrees at the commencement exercises on Monday, June 6.

The persons to be honored and the degrees to be conferred are as follows: Roy D. Miller, '26, professor of Sociology at United Theological Seminary, Doctor of Divinity; Merle H. Hayes, superintendent of the Ohio East Conference of the EUB Church, Doctor of Divinity; Miss Zola Jacobs, '12, superintendent of schools, Findlay, Ohio, Doctor of Education; Earl R. Hoover, '26, common pleas judge of Cleveland, Ohio, Doctor of Laws; Donald R. Clipping, '25, dean of the graduate school of Ohio University, Doctor of Laws. All five are distinguished leaders in their fields of endeavor.

Early reports from local alumni centers have brought the total subscriptions to Otterbein's Advancement Program to $150,000. As TOWERS went to press, this announcement was made by Mr. Irvin L. Clymer, '09, General Chairman, and Mrs. Frank O. Clements, '01, Associate Chairman, who pointed out that these additional alumni subscriptions have come principally from Columbus, Dayton, and Detroit.

Kick-off meetings launching solicitation have been held during the past month in Akron, Ashland, Canton, Cincinnati, Middletown, Chillicothe, and Hamilton in Ohio, and Altoona, Pittsburgh, Greensburg, and Johnstown in Pennsylvania; Chicago, Illinois; Boston, Massachusetts; Buffalo, Rochester, and New York City, New York. Volunteer leadership in these areas is shown below. Reports of subscriptions received from the local soliciting organizations are due in the weeks immediately ahead.

President J. Gordon Howard addressed all the meetings in Ohio and Illinois, and Dr. Wade Miller, Director of Public Relations, spoke at the meetings in Pennsylvania, New York, and Massachusetts. These administrative officials reported to the local groups the activities of the college to date and explained the needs and the urgency of the Advancement Program.

General Chairman Clymer, following an analysis of the subscriptions received to date, re-emphasized the importance of the realization on the part of the alumni that the Advancement Program is a capital gifts project which calls for participation on a much more generous scale than the annual alumni giving. Mr. Clymer said: "Our first objective in the $1,080,000 program is a new dormitory. It is the hope of your campaign committee that sufficient subscriptions of adequate size will be in hand by Commencement in order that construction may start this summer. The $150,000 mentioned above is concrete evidence that our course is set. There can be no turning back until our objectives are reached, and we are calling on every Otterbein alumnus to extend a fair share of help to the school which has done so much to fashion the lives of all of us."

Mrs. Clements called attention to the "Guide For Contributors," which was published in the last issue of Towers and is being placed in the hands of every alumnus. Trustee Clements recalled that these suggested gift figures were arrived at by a group of Otterbein alumni and said that an honest effort to approach them will make for success.

FULLY ACCREDITED

From two sources have come queries as to whether Otterbein is still accredited. What is the origin of such questions? Otterbein has been accredited by the North Central Association since 1912, and during the past forty years Otterbein has at no time been in any danger of losing its accreditation. If any alumnus hears such a rumor, he should speak up vigorously for Otterbein.
