NO HITS GIVEN

BY SANDERS TO WITTENBERG'S
TEAM LAST SATURDAY.

Otterbein's Nine Defeats the Lutheran Aggregation to the Tune of 12-0. Boxwell—Heavy Hitter.

On last Saturday occurred a game on our base ball diamond with Wittenberg that will go down in history as one of the most remarkable games ever played in Otterbein. In the first place Dr. T. J. Sanders tossed the first ball to Prof. Rudy Wagner. The game was played on a soggy field but this did not prevent the infielders from fielding in their usual sharp style.

Only one error was marked up against them. The pitching was possibly the most remarkable feature of the game. Not a sign of a hit was allowed by Sanders. Only 29 men in all faced him. Ten of these struck out. Not a ball was knocked out of the infield.

While Otterbein was displaying their fine defensive work, they were doing just as well on the offensive. In the first inning 4 runs were scored by Otterbein on 3 bases on balls, 3 errors and 2 hits. Possibly Wittenberg was somewhat confused from the hidden ball trick which was worked on Cole, after receiving a free ticket to first. The ball was relayed from Weinland to Boxwell, who touched the base runner out—a play which set the Otterbein rooters yelling.

In the fifth inning after Wagner had singled and stole second, he completed the circuit while Wittenberg's third baseman was

TELLS OF FIRST DAYS AT OTTERBEIN.

For Years She Cooked For 57 Upon a Little Stove. Oldest Survivor of Early Period.

What would you think nowadays of cooking for fifty seven upon a small stove whose only fuel was wood and whose measurements were about four feet by five?

As impossible as it may seem such was the experience of Mary Jane Price, now over 82 years old, the last surviving person of the days of the founding of Otterbein April 26, 1847, and the oldest living charter member of the United Brethren church.

Mrs. Price or Aunt Mary at her home with Mrs. G. W. Bradford on Park street, happy, contented, peaceful, sits in her arm chair and delightfully tells of the first hard struggling days at O. U.

"Yes," Mrs. Price said, "Otterbein has had a long hard struggle and I do not hear the boys talking of the greater Otterbein but what I think of the lesser Otterbein sixty years ago.

The old wooden structure, whose name "Otterbein University" was the most pretentious thing about it, consisted of three stories. On the first lived the President and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Lewis Davis, the members of the faculty, Mr. Griffith and Miss Carpenter and myself. The girls occupied the second floor, the men the third, eleven students in all at the beginning.

"I did the cooking for them all for years, until the number increased to 57. On that little old stove I worked and baked for over half a hundred.

"How vividly I remember the Desks were home made, rude affairs, beds but mattresses, knives of pewter, spoons of tin.

Work? You should have seen those students work. Culture was an unknown quantity then, but education, they wanted and education they received.

"Yes," Aunt Mary said, Otterbein has been a dear old school to me."

Mrs. Price has been a faithful burden bearer. For thirty years she waited upon her husband and invalid son, never leaving the bed side a day at a time. She says the Lord has made it possible for her to bear the tasks.

She will be 83, the second day of June. She enjoys life because it is God's will.

A few months ago she gave what money she had amounting to $1500.00 to the school she has so long loved.

What different music we have now at Otterbein. The boys play in the band or orchestra and the girls sing in the glee club, but years ago, our only music was in an old swamp back of the "main" building where the frogs croaked and croaked and croaked.

Thanks to Journal

In the baseball edition of the Ohio State Journal Wednesday morning E. B. Jackson of Delaware who handled the college dope for Ohio certainly put a feather in Otterbein's cap.

Nearly all the members of the team came in for compliments and as a whole the writer put Otterbein down as having one of the liveliest baseball bunches in the state.

Prof Rudy Gives Three Principles of Success.

Prof. R. H. Wagoner, principal of the Academy, addressed the students at Y. M. C. A. at their last meeting. I. D. Warner led in reading responsively the 103d Psalm and then introduced the speaker.

He started by saying, "I shall talk just as I feel and from my heart." He did it splendidly and every man felt elevated by having listened.

The following are some of his sayings, "The longer I teach the more humble I become. The less I think I know, the more I think there is to know. I have learned to love students. I can overlook mistakes for I have a student's heart. You are facing many opportunities that will never come to me. The most effective character building time is from 18 to 25 years of age. What you learn to think in college will be largely your criterion through life." He said there were three principles for a faithful life, (1) a proper adjustment to moral conditions, (2) a reasonable consciousness of your talent, (3) a purpose that knows no defeat.

Y. W. C. A.

Grace Heller Speaks of God's Plans of Life

"Every Girl's Life a Plan of God," was the subject discussed at last Tuesday evening's meeting of the girls' association. Grace Heller was leader and read the scripture lesson which was followed by a vocal solo by Ethel Smith entitled, "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Here are some of the leader's thoughts: "We often hear of round men getting into square men's positions. Such men are doing a work for which they are wholly unfitted. God has given us much, yet He expects something in return. He may have a very small plan for our lives, yet it may be a very important one in its place. The leader made application of the parable of the talents. We should perform the duties that lie nearest. By so doing we come nearer the place God has for our lives.

A letter from Miss Agnes Hill was then read and a committee appointed to prepare the May morning breakfast to be held the first Saturday in May.

R. E. A.

"The Vine and the Branches," was the subject of J. F. Smith's address to the men of the Religious Educational Association on last Wednesday evening.

The meeting was opened with song and sentence prayers. The address was one of the best that the Association has listened to this year. A goodly number of the membership were present. A lively interest seems manifest in the meetings of the organization.

CAMPAIGN ON

Great Effort to Raise $15,000 Under Way.

What is termed a whirlwind campaign is in progress for the gathering of $15,000 to make up the deficit this year.

The committee appointed, President Clippinger, Dr. W. W. Williamson, Prof. N. E. Cornet, Dr. T. J. Sanders and W. O. Baker are going after the money in good business style.

To secure the co-operation of the eight conferences, five men were appointed in each to push matters.

Already two conferences have reported that they are in harness.

Instead of the usual $2000, for the support of the school, $10,000 will be asked this year.

It is interesting to note the evidence of a growth. Five years ago, the expenses were $18,000, this year $51,000, three times as much. The income in the corresponding time has been twice that of five years ago.

May 15 has been chosen as Otterbein University Day and on that occasion will be given sermons by the pastors, talks by the Sunday School Superintendents and a general appeal made in behalf of Otterbein.

THE FORUM

Editorials by Otterbein Review Readers

The editorial in the last publication of the Otterbein Review on the wearing of dress suits at college functions by Mr. Broadminded was no doubt read and appreciated by many. However I wish to take exception to the gentleman's criticisms. A college man above all classes of men is expected to know and to show the proprieties of all social affairs. In all up-to-date colleges, and many not as large as Otterbein, the wearing of dress suits is a fixed custom.

They add a certain dignity and air to any affair which can be supplemented in no other way. It must be admitted that the social affairs of our college have been too loose.

During the past few years we have often heard of the Greater Otterbein, and every one has been enthusiastic in helping to make her so. We have made rapid strides in athletics and why should we not keep pace in other things as well? Must we always hold fast to some antiquated precedent, to the detriment of the entire student body?

A college training should consist of more than book learning—it should have a cultural side as well and a college graduate should not go forth into the world utterly ignorant and unacquainted with an up to date social function.

It is true that an excess of dress-suit affairs would be a detriment; but such a thing is not at all probable in Otterbein.

Suppose after graduating from college one should be called upon to preside at a banquet, where such things were the custom. If such an affair were entirely new to him of course he would appear very awkward and green, a thing which a modern college is supposed to overcome. When a father sends his son to college he expects to see him become cultured, refined and dignified. The spirit of Otterbein students is neither so aristocratic nor haughty as to make the correctly dressed man feel above anyone. For these reasons I feel that the wearing of dress suits is a progressive step in the social affairs of Otterbein.

WAS THE JUNIOR-FRESHMAN BANQUET LAST WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Feasting, Music, Roasts and Jokes Were the Special Features of the Occasion.

"Everybody happy" fitly expresses the feelings of both guest and host at the annual banquet given by the Freshman to the Junior Class last Wednesday evening in Cochran Hall.

After the reception which was held from seven until eight all moved to the dining hall, to music furnished by the Junior-Freshman orchestra.

A five course menu was then served. Following the last course, Mr. R. H. Brane introduced the toast master for the evening, Mr. J. L. Snively, who in a fitting manner announced the various numbers on the program.

The following program was rendered.
