GRIDIRON SQUAD

Promises to Produce a Winning Team.

Coach Exendine and Cap't Lambert Rounding into Form Some Excellent Material.

Otterbein football squad has been busy for the past week and are already rounding into a likely looking bunch. Most of the veterans are back again, there being seven men for the team who made the squad and won their letters last fall. Although five letter men of last fall are not with us this year, their places can be filled with some of the new recruits who are showing varsity style. In all there has been a squad of thirty out every day for the past week and the spirit manifested so early in the season gives evidence of a winning team.

The team has not indulged in much scrimmage work as yet, Saturday being the first time for scrimmage, but they have been spending most of the time learning the fundamentals of the game, booting and falling on the ball. Quite a great deal of tackling has been done and the team already seems to be in fine fettle.

Probably more welcome than any of the players is Albert Exendine. His superior coaching last year with its splendid results assures a winning team this fall.

To Homer Lambert, cap't of the team, is due considerable credit for the large squad on the field from which Exendine will make his selection. His work with the team we are confident will be as successful as that of last

Dr. Sherrick Soon to Return.

Shortly after returning to her home in Scotdale, Pa. last August, Dr. Sherrick, Professor of English, was taken ill with typhoid fever. She is now rapidly regaining her health and expects to return to Otterbein by the first of October.

The Review in behalf of the students wishes to Dr. Sherrick a speedy recovery.

New Handbook.

The handbook committee is to be congratulated upon the splendid book which they are presenting to the students in behalf of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.

The editorials are well written and show much care. The shape and neat cover of the book gives it an appearance which compares favorably with that of any other college. It contains a fund of information for every student and is of especial value to the new students.

Nolan Rice Best who has been editor of the "Interior" has moved to New York where he has become the head of the "Continental."

PROMISING YEAR

Is Happy Indication at Reopening of University.

132 New Students Enrolled. Dr. Faust Addresses Student Body At Opening Chapel Service.

With 132 new students enrolled, an increased teaching force and many added and improved facilities, Otterbein University last Wednesday morning began what promises to be the best and most auspicious year she has ever enjoyed.

At this writing there are yet students coming in and a correct figure giving the entire enrollment cannot be published but it is hoped that the sum total will reach the five hundred mark.

There are a number of changes noted among which are the substitution of semesters for terms, and the group system of courses, both of which are in line with the leading colleges of the country.

The opening address to the students was given Wednesday morning at ten o'clock by Dr. Faust of the Bonebrake Theological Seminary, his subject being "Education and the Christian College." The address was able and timely and was well received.

He said in part: "Education is not capacity; it is not instruction; it is not good reading. Education is regulation of heart; establishment of good principles; rational control of the affections; formation of mind.

Good character and good education are inseparable.

The Christian College is the conception of the Christian church."

AMPHITHEATRE

Board of Trustees Purchases Suitable Site for Athletic Field.

Senior Class Cooperating.

Possibly no news was received with greater welcome by the students on their return this Sept. than the announcement to the effect that the Board of Trustees had purchased a site for a new athletic field. This site includes the old pit with several adjoining acres located just north of Cochran Hall at the terminal of Grove street.

This location affords admirable advantages for developing upon the plan of an amphitheatre and should it be so developed would be superior to any other in the state.

Last year the class of 1911 decided to cooperate with the Board of Trustees by taking upon themselves $2,000.00 for the development of this field. A part of this amount they agreed to solicit before the work could be started and to this end have been putting forth every possible effort. They hope to realize their purpose within a few weeks, at which event work will be started at once.

Pres. Clippinger in discussing this plan stated that something better would follow. If present plans materialize, it will be but a matter of a short time until a large gymnasium will be erected upon this new site.

It is hoped that the entire student body will heartily cooperate with the Trustees in the solicitation of funds for this project and thus make possible the development of the best athletic field in the state of Ohio.

year and in all probability he will be seen in the line up. In addition to Hartman, Bailey, Mattis, A. Lambert, Sanders, Wagner and Warner, the seven letter men, who are back with us this year, we have the old varsity squad Weinland, Hogg, Hatton, Snavely, McLeod and Funk.

Several new faces are on the field this year and are considered the most likely looking bunch on the field for years. Rex Johns who was out of school last year, not only looks good to fill Ditmer's place at full, but has been also showing good form in booting the ball. Among the other new recruits are Albert Lambert, Patterson, Holingshead and Gilbert. These men are all promising material and will make a strong run for a position on the team. Albert Lambert, a two hundred and sixty five pound lineman, is surely welcome and will look good on our line.

With another week to get in shape before the first game the team will round up in nice form. Everyone who wants to see the game of their life should accompany the team to Ohio State field this coming Saturday.

With everything starting off so favorably this year, nothing but a winner can be expected and it is up to us all to boost the welfare of the team.

SIMPLIFIED ENGLISH.

The approval of "joint" in the sense of gambling resort by the Columbia professor of English as a legitimate word will shock the purists. It is not, however, the first jolt (if they will pardon the term) which their theories of usage have recently received. What with college professors standing up for slang and split infinitives and learned judges ruling on the use of "grafter" and words of the kind, it has been a bad year for the pedantry that seeks to stereotype the language by excluding the new inventions of popular speech.

"Joint," like "graft," "bunco," "boss" "cinch," etc., is one of a large number of words exact and concise meaning which have cropped out in the English of the people and have made their way into the general vocabulary. They serve a well-defined purpose and to attempt to repress them is merely to confess the importance of self-constituted linguistic authority to "regulate" the language. The initiative and referendum existed in speech long before they were applied to politics, and direct primary of popular words would show that they will be continued in use until recalled at the public pleasure. There is no boss rule in English speech, and the Columbia professor shows wisdom in recognizing the facts as they are.

His indorsement of simplified English, nevertheless, coming as it does from distinguished simplified speller, is cause for satisfaction. One of the characteristics of slang is that it conforms to the rules of simplified orthography, as "bloke," "guy," "cinch," "stiff," "bunch," "pipe," "grouch," "plunk," and the words quoted above indicate. It is English reduced to its compactest possible form.—New York World.

TO INDIA.

Mr C. E. Worman and Wife Leave this Morning for New Field of Labor.

After addressing the students at chapel this morning, Mr. Clark E. Worman of the class '07 with his wife Mrs. Emma Guitner Worman left for India where Mr. Worman will engage in Y. M. C. A. work. Last evening he spoke to the Volunteer Band in behalf of this cause.

After graduating here Mr. Worman attended Yale university one year at the end of which time he was graduated from that institution. The same year he received his master degree from Otterbein. Since that time he has been general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.'s of New York State.

The Review joins the many friends of Mr. Worman and wife in wishing them a pleasant voyage and unbounded success in their work.

HANDS.

Oh, wonderful hands of toilers, Graved with the signs of your crafts,

White pricked fingers of sewers
And gnarly hands of the field!
Stained hands of textile-dyers; Flying hands of shuttle and wheel;

I love your pathetic, outspoken,
Unconscious biographies.

I honor you, hands of toilers,
I kneel and I kiss your hands,
Ribbed hands of the storm-beaten sailor,

Withered hands of weary age.
I have seen the hands of a baby,
Little and wandering, Crumpled like half-shut rose-leaves,

Vague and adorable—

Like a tiny wind in tiny trees
Saying nothing, murmuring.
I have seen the hands of death,
Explicit, fixed and stern,
Autobiographic,
Revealing unalterably.

I honor you, hands of toilers
I kneel and I kiss your hand.

The Unfair Advantage.

No man ever did it but he was glad all the rest of his life. It is a deed that pays the biggest possible percentage of pleasure. A step that, as often as one refers to it in memory, thrills him all through with delight. It is as precious as a keepsake, and every time you take it out of the pocket of your recollection it looks brighter and seems worth more. A never-failing satisfaction, it is worth trying for.

It is that you decline to take advantage of the mistake of an associate. You two young fellows worked in the same office. He was careless one day and the error would have been a costly one for the house. You detected it. You knew that if you left it uncorrected the other fellow would be gravely censured if not discharged. If he was discharged, why, you were next in line for promotion. Even if you pointed out the mistake to the house you would get honor.

But you did not hesitate. You put away the temptation with generous manliness. You pointed out the blunder to the poor fellow himself. You never appeared in the matter. You did not get his place, for he is still ahead of you. But what you did get was that pocketpiece of pure joy, neither silver nor gold, the memory of a deed that is rare and true.

An unfair advantage will always turn out a bad coin. It may seem precious metal at first, but it will show corrosion, green and spotted with regret, but never to be gotten rid of. The counterfeit has been proved so often that it is strange it escapes any man's eye.

We all have had occasion to notice a palpable mistake in another man. He is our rival, our competitor. Many think it merely part of the game, like two tigers fighting, to seize the advantage. Not so the wise and high minded man who claims to be better than a feline. He may or may not feel called upon to enlighten the other man. But for himself he prefers legitimate success and not a rise by the other man's fall.

He will win by merits of his own. He declines to keep his nose to the ground, scenting other men's failings.

Few hearts are so hard that they are not touched by the disinterested kindness that points out where they lost something of great value. We can name the place and the benefactor as long as we live. We are anxious to repay and we insist on it till we do repay, though no reward was sought.

It makes a clean record when success is won by a man's own worth and not a step of it by using another's unworth. If there is a man who is to be pitied, it is he who has so often sought to make capital of other people's mistakes that he is dogged by others seeking revenge. Sooner or later he will be erred, for to err is human.

Emory J. Haynes.

Reliance.

To talk of reliance is a poor external way of speaking. Speak rather of that which relies, because it works and is. Who has more obedience than I masters me, though he should not raise his finger. Round him I must revolve by the gravitation of spirits. We fancy it rhetoric when we speak of eminent virtue. We do not yet see that virtue is Height, and that a man or a company of men, plastic or permeable to principles, by the law of nature must overpower and ride all cities, nations, kings, rich men, poets, who are not.

Entered a second-class matter October 18
1900, at the postoffice at Westerville, Ohio under the Act of March 3, 1879.

We bid you welcome, both old and new.

Do you have the "blues?" Have a good chat with a fellow student who is all optimism. It is contagious.

The reopening of old Otterbein has been one of bright anticipation to her old students and one of hopeful expectation to the new.

We who have been in attendance in former years have on our return found the campus more beautiful and the faces of our fellow students brighter. The firm grip of the hand in greeting has given us an inspiration for many days to come. The "glad to see you" with its ring of true sincerity has suggested true and worthy friends who do and always will mean much to us all. We have indeed welcomed the return to old Otterbein.

To the new students this campus is beautiful but not possibly so dear, these faces are strange and environments are new, but we are satisfied that you are not disappointed. You have recognized the royal welcome attended you as coming from those who are indeed glad to greet you as fellow students.

New students, we congratulate you upon your decision to enter Otterbein. The importance of your step is beyond your comprehension. You cannot nor can we fully appreciate the value of the training in store for you.

Make good your opportunities.
Do not make it necessary to express regret at the end of your course here for costly mistakes.

Be an all around student. Develop the social, the moral, the physical, the mental side; they are all vital.

The attempt to eulogize at this time the late Samuel E. Kumler would undoubtedly mean repetition for already his good works and excellent character have been given utterance by countless friends and in the columns of numerous publications.

But as a student publication representing the college which was so endeared to him and which to a great extent owes to him its present existence we must at least make mention of his connection with the university at the most critical period of its history.

Few there are having any knowledge at all of the history of Otterbein university who have not heard of the strenuous times of this university during the early nineties.

It was at this time that Mr.
Kumler allied himself with our own Dr. Sanders in helping to raise the eighty-five thousand dollars necessary to liquidate the indebtedness resting upon this institution. He gave up his business at the time and devoted himself exclusively to the canvass for this money.

He not only did this but he paid his travelling expenses and gave sums amounting to $5,000.00.

In enjoying the many advantages offered us as students we are prone to forget the sacrifices and devotions of these men in behalf of this worthy cause.

But we cannot look upon the walls of our beloved University without a feeling of gratitude for the immense energy and untiring efforts of Mr. Kumler in behalf of this institution.

GRIM REAPER.

Calls to Reward Miss Zeyla Counsellor, Student Last Year.

Students who were in attendance at Otterbein last year were greatly grieved on their return this fall to learn of the death of one of their number, Miss Zeyla Counsellor, which occurred Sept. 7 at Cincinnati. About two months ago she entered the City Hospital at Cincinnati to become a trained nurse, and while there contracted typhoid fever, culminating in her death a few days later.

Miss Counsellor was enrolled at Otterbein last year during the winter term and part of the previous year. She was of a happy disposition, always bright and cheerful, and a firm consecrated Christian. Although in Otterbein but a short time she won for herself a host of friends here, all of whom feel keenly the loss of this one departed.

She was always active in church work and in calls for service was ever ready to respond. The thought that she might be of greater use to humanity led her to the decision of becoming a trained nurse. Owing to her enthusiastic devotion to her calling she made rapid advancement and already held places of responsibility usually given to those of longer service.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Counsellor, and one remaining daughter Clona reside at Elida at which place the funeral services were held.

The Review in behalf of Otterbein students expresses heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents and sister.

After his graduation he secured a Rhoades' scholarship and spent two years and a half abroad, graduating from Oxford last year. Eighteen months of his stay abroad were spent in studying language in France.

City Editor (confidently)—
 What did Kubleigh ever do to you?

Exchange Editor (astonished)— Do to me? Why, nothing that I know of.

City Editor—Oh, come now;
 I just caught a whiff of a cigar he's smoking and which he said you gave him.

GREATNESS OF LITTLE THINGS

I believe a blade of grass is no less than the journey-work of the stars,
And the pismire is equally perfect, and a grain of sand, and the egg of the wren,
And the tree-toad is a chef-d'oeuvre for the highest,
And the running blackberry would adorn the parlors of heaven,
And the narrowest hinge in my hand puts to scorn all machinery,
And the cow crunching with depressed head surpasses any statue,
And a mouse is miracle enough to stagger sextillions of infidels,
And I could come every afternoon of my life to look at the farmer's girl boiling her iron tea-kettle and baking short-cake.
—Walt Whitman.

What Is Fame?

What's fame? A fancied life in other's breath;
A thing beyond us, e'en before our death;
Just what you hear you have; and what's unknown
The same (my lord) if Tully's or your own.
All that we feel of it begins and ends
In the small circle of our foes or friends;
To all beside as much an empty shade,
As Eugene living as a Caesar dead;
Alike or when or where they shone or shine,
Or on the Rubicon or on the Rhine.
A wit's a feather and a chief a rod;
An honest man's the noblest work of God.
Fame but from death a villain's name can save,
As justice tears his body from the grave;

When what t'oblivion better were resigned
Is hung on high, to poison half mankind.
All fame is foreign but of true desert,
Plays round the head, but comes not to the heart
One self-approving hour whole years outweighs
Of stupid starers and of loudhuzzas;
And more true joy Marcellus exiled feels,
Than Caesar with a senate at his heels.

—Pope.

The Main Question.

William C. Gannett.

How do we treat our difficulties? That is the question that has no second. It stands all by itself in importance. The answer to it gives our destiny. How do we treat our difficulties? Do we take their maiming only, or do we win their blessing, too? The question that has no second. Difficulties, not difficulty. They are many, and of different kinds, although their hurt in essence is the same and their gift in essence is the same.

Clarence Surrel of Grove City student of Martin Boehm Academy last year was a visitor in town Monday. Surrel will enter Starling Medical this week.

Chlor Parent student in the Ohio Medical school was a visitor here last week.

EXCELLENT TALENT

Secured in Citizens' Lecture Course for Season 1910-1911.

Arrangements for the Citizens' Lecture Course for the season 1910-1911 are now completed, seven numbers having been procured by the committee in charge.

Otterbein has always boasted of the superior talent offered in these courses and a glance at the names of those appearing this season assures the retention of that reputation. These lectures and musical numbers afford great advantages to the students, and citizens of Westerville for having the best talent available at an exceedingly reasonable price. Season tickets, which will soon be on sale, may be had for $1.00. Reserved seats can be secured as heretofore for ten cents.

The following numbers comprise the course for this season:

Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus, Gov. Jos. W. Folk, Judge Geo. D. Alden, Alton Packard, Isabel Beecher, The Pasmore-Clark Trio and the Whitney Bros. Quartet.

P. N. Redd visited his home this week.

B. W. Saul '09 and L. L. Custer '10 drove from Dayton in the latter's machine June 17th. They visited friends for a couple of days.

Prof. W. B. Kinder, '95 of Cleveland High school spent the last week in July with his parents Mr. and Mrs. I Kinder of South State street.

Be sociable.

Take plenty of exercise.

Attend Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.—not both.

Make good your promises.

Be systematic in your program for the week.

Pay your club steward promptly.

Consider the other fellow: let him do some of the talking.

Cultivate the true college spirit and use it.

Don't

Shirk.

Get homesick.

Become lop sided.

Be satisfied with good enough.

Make paths across the campus.

Assume to know it all. There is always one or two things to be learned.

Discuss "ego" longer than one hour at a time.

Be too critical. Criticism belongs to those who understand the situation.

Worry if popularity is slow in coming. To be unusually popular at the start invariably means fading from view at the finish.

SOME WISDOM.

I am an old man, I have many troubles, but most of them never happened.

Smile and work.

Don't put your good nature in the same class with the fire escape—to be used only in an emergency.

Yesterday is dead—forget it; Tomorrow does not exist—don't worry; Today is here—use it.

The world is always again you if you are again the world.

The reason some men do not succeed is because their wish bone is where their back bone ought to be.

If all wasted talk could be utilized to run motors electric companies would go out of existence.

He said a man's life consists of what he takes in. His character is largely a result of impressions received through the eye and ear.

The Literature he reads and the company he keeps are important factors in determining his character. Watch the secret imaginations of the soul.

After the meeting the men gathered in the association parlors where Pres. Clippinger, Coach Exendine, Capt. Lambert and Donald Shumaker gave short talks on Y. M. C. A. as related to athletics.

PERFECTLY AWFUL.

The sweet young college graduate was taking a little sight-seeing trip, properly chaperoned, through Bohemia.

"I understand you Bohemians are awfully unconventional?" she said.

"Indeed, we are," gaily replied the struggling painter; "why, it's nothing for us to eat breakfast food for supper!"
