WHICH JOB WOULD YOU TAKE?

If you're like most of us, you'd take the job with the more tempting salary and the brighter future.

Many college teachers are faced with this kind of decision year after year. In fact, many of them are virtually bombarded with tempting offers from business and industry. And each year many of them, dedicated but discouraged, leave the campus for jobs that pay fair, competitive salaries.

Can you blame them?

These men are not opportunists. Most of them would do anything in their power to continue to teach. But with families to feed and clothe and educate, they just can't make a go of it. They are virtually forced into better paying fields.

In the face of this growing teacher shortage, college applications are expected to double within ten years.

At the rate we are going, we will soon have a very real crisis on our hands.

We must reverse this disastrous trend. You can help. Support the college of your choice today. Help it to expand its facilities and to pay teachers the salaries they deserve. Our whole future as a nation may depend on it.

It's important for you to know more about what the impending college crisis means to you. Write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N.Y.

The primary objective of an alumni club is to promote, by organized effort, the best interests and prestige of the college. An alumni club is a working unit for organized effort in a particular community or area.

Otterbein's twenty-three local alumni clubs are on the march. A new program and new goals are now possible through the Ten-year Plan of Otterbein College. We urge fellow alumni to support the expanding program of the Alumni Association.

A TEN YEAR PLAN FOR OTTERBEIN

A long-range ten-year plan for Otterbein has been adopted by the Otterbein College Board of Trustees at their annual meeting June 3 and 4. The plan is the result of an intensive year-long study by faculty, administration and trustees under the direction of a Long Range Planning Committee composed of Dr. Lynn W. Turner, Dr. Vance E. Cribbs, '20, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Elmer N. Funkhouser, Jr., '38, a member of the Board and Executive Committee.

Objectives

An extensive report of the objectives and goals which Otterbein will reach during the next decade was prepared. The following objectives were approved:

1. We want to continue to be a liberal arts college, dedicated to training intellectual leaders for a Christian society. Our students must be given every possible opportunity to broaden and deepen their cultural awareness and to recognize Christianity as a way of life, a positive force which motivates their intellectual, social, athletic and religious life, not only on the campus but throughout their lifetime.

2. As an integral member of the E. U. B. Church we shall strive for an ever increasing enrichment of values for both.

3. Otterbein must be increasingly diligent in its selection of students and must emphasize the importance of academic achievement.

4. The college faculty must constantly grow in quality. It must be supported by an adequate level of salaries, teaching loads, and professional opportunities commensurate with those of other reputable colleges.

5. Otterbein should remain a college of limited size. After careful review of all factors involved, a limit of 1200 students appears wise to maintain Otterbein's traditional small college character.

6. The college's financial position must at all times be soundly administered.

7. An adequate organization of responsibilities and authorities among the trustees, administration, faculty, and student offices must be planned to ensure that the foregoing objectives are met.

The Long Range Planning Committee further states, "We can and should be providing the kind of Christian education for our young people that our plan implies. We may not be the most outstanding, the richest, or the best-known small liberal arts co-educational college in American by 1970, but none will give its students a better education than Otterbein."

The Ten-Year Plan encompasses not only an increase in the endowment fund and capital improvements, but includes projections for improving the cultural program and atmosphere, student life and academic programs, and other phases of a college's relationship to the community.

Recognizing that increased applications will be forthcoming within the next four years, efforts will be made to become more selective in the acceptance of students for admission. From an extensive study made early in the survey, it was decided by action of the executive committee that the Otterbein enrollment would be limited to no more than 1200 students, which is expected to be reached by 1963 or 1964.

New Additions

To take care of the increase in enrollment will require many new additions and improvements to the physical facilities on campus. A large scale capital building program, together with an estimate of cost and proposed method of financing for each addition is underway.

A men's housing unit, similar to East and West Halls, constructed in 1959, is now under construction. Two additional units are planned for construction later.

A $500,000 federal government loan will make possible the construction of a women's dormitory to house 132 women. This building should be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1961. Another government-financed dormitory, housing 150 women, will be completed in 1962-63. A third women's dormitory, housing 130 women, is planned for completion in 1965.

A lecture hall, seating 400 students will be constructed west of, and as a part of, the Science Building. The lecture hall, which will cost an estimated $225,000, is planned for 1961.

A new Campus Center which will be financed primarily by student fees on vote of the student body, is planned for commencement of erection in the spring of 1961. The Center will probably be in the heart of the campus on the northeast corner of Grove and Main Streets.

A library addition is planned by 1965, and the present number of volumes will be doubled by 1970. Saum Hall will be refurnished, and used for Administrative offices when the construction of the new women's dormitories permits the transfer.

Plans are also being completed for the construction of a natatorium, field house and stadium addition. New laboratories will be added in the Science Building. Construction of the lecture hall will be planned so that laboratories can be included in a second and third floor addition to the hall when necessary.

A central dining hall is planned for construction by 1964. This building, which will cost $450,000, is expected to be financed by a government loan.

Some of the projects, such as the Campus Center and dormitories will be bank-financed and revenues will make them self-liquidating. Endowment funds are the expected sources for other projects in the development plan.

An additional use of endowments is for scholarships. Otterbein hopes to add $500,000 to the endowment for scholarships in the next decade.

Faculty

Also, recognizing the ever-increasing competition in obtaining high-caliber faculty members, an intensive effort will be made to set up a salary schedule to attract and hold outstanding teachers as faculty members. The report states frankly that "the very essence of Otterbein is its faculty. No other single consideration is as important to college growth, the education of its students, or its academic standing in the college and university world. To be the 'best college,' we must have the 'best faculty' and we mean to have it."

The present operation budget of $1,170,000 annually will probably be increased to approximately $2,500,000 by 1970.

Tuition Hike

The present $750 yearly tuition will probably increase to $800 per annum in 1961, to $850 in 1963, to $900 in 1965 and to an even $1,000 per year in 1969.

Even so, it will cost the college additional money to educate each student. During the present year, it will cost Otterbein approximately $256 more for each student than the student will pay the college in tuition and fees. This amount is raised by endowment fund income, development fund drives, church contributions and corporation gifts.

The ten-year plan is not conclusive in all areas. It would, of course, be impossible to present a final, unchanging plan when the project is of such a magnitude. Nevertheless, the plan has been approved, and it is being implemented.

The planners conclude: "Our objectives are as formidable as they are bold. We expect to borrow a total of $1,100,000 from banks, secured by our general endowment fund. We plan to borrow $1,600,000 from the federal government at very attractive long-term rates, secured only by the building constructed from these funds. In addition, we look to our alumni and friends to endow our efforts with a total of $2,500,000 for buildings and scholarships. In total this is a $5,000,000 project."

Many Improvements Planned For Otterbein Campus

Shaded buildings show new construction scheduled for campus in 10-year plan.

COMMENCEMENT, 1960

The Otterbein College 1960 graduating class of 150 received their academic degrees on Monday, June 6. President Lynn W. Turner conferred the following degrees: Bachelor of Arts, 63; Bachelor of Science, 30; Bachelor of Science in Education, 52; Bachelor of Music Education, 7; and Certificate in Secretarial Studies, 1. Two students earned two degrees.

Three students graduated with honors: Arline Speelman Dillman, Dayton, Ohio; James A. Harris, Lima, Ohio; and Larry G. Willey, Mansfield, Ohio. Graduating with honors requires a cumulative point average of 3.7 or more.

Twelve students who had a cumulative point average of 3.8 or more in their major fields graduated with departmental honors: Janet A. Christy, Mt. Sterling, Ohio; Beverly A. Easterday, Ashland, Ohio; James A. Harris, Lima, Ohio; Marjoree M. Kidner, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Harry Lacy, Jr., Portsmouth, Ohio; Paulette R. Loop, Columbus, Ohio; Jean L. Miller, Lancaster, Ohio; Ruth J. Morris, Sunbury, Ohio; Ellen K. Mumma, Dayton, Ohio; Sharon L. Swank, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Carolyn G. Swartz, Birmingham, Mich.; Larry G. Willey, Mansfield, Ohio.

The Reverend Mr. George St. Angelo, Chaplain of North Central College, Naperville, Illinois, delivered the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 5, and Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, Professor of Philosophy, Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, was commencement speaker.

One hundred fifty graduating seniors and the faculty assemble on the steps of the Association Building to sing the "Otterbein Love Song." For the seniors, this was their last act as a student group.

Commencement Finale

Honorary Degree Recipients

Four men received honorary degrees at the commencement ceremonies June 6. They are (left to right) Bishop Paul M. Herrick, Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, Reverend Kenneth J. Scott and Irvin L. Clymer.

HONORARY DEGREES

Four honorary degrees were conferred during the Commencement ceremonies.

The Reverend Kenneth J. Scott, Pastor of the Fairmont Evangelical United Brethren Church, Fairmont, West Virginia, received the Doctor of Divinity degree. He was graduated from Otterbein College in 1920 and received the Bachelor of Divinity degree from United Theological Seminary in 1925.

A member of the West Virginia Conference, Mr. Scott has been a member of the Board of Christian Education for 26 years and is Recording Secretary for the West Virginia Conference.

The honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were bestowed on Mr. Irvin L. Clymer, '09, and the Reverend Paul M. Herrick.

Mr. Clymer, until his retirement in 1953, was president of the Pittsburgh Limestone Corporation, the Michigan Limestone and Chemical Company and the Bradley Transportation Company.

Mr. Clymer, a native of Mt. Cory, Ohio, graduated from Otterbein College in 1909, and in 1911 was awarded an engineering degree from Purdue University. He is a loyal alumnus of Otterbein and has been a member of the Otterbein College Board of Trustees since 1953.

The Reverend Paul M. Herrick is Resident Bishop of the Central Area, Evangelical United Brethren Church with headquarters in Dayton, Ohio. He was pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church in Dayton from 1941-1958.

A graduate of Kansas City University and United Theological Seminary, Bishop Herrick received his master's degree from Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma and the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from York College, York, Nebraska in 1937.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters was conferred on Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana.

"The Conditions Of National Greatness"

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS DELIVERED AT OTTERBEIN COLLEGE
ON MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1960, IN WESTERVILLE, OHIO

by DR. DAVID ELTON TRUEBLOOD

The burning question in the minds of thoughtful Americans today is "What will the character of this country be?" This is a question which is a genuine question, but the answer is still undetermined. Will America slide into a long period of mediocrity, burdened with the support of armaments, satisfied with a poor standard of education and with more concern for personal comfort than for national greatness? This is possible and, indeed, there are some factors in our situation which seem to indicate that it is the answer. But, on the other hand, it is equally possible that we may be pointing to another period of greatness, comparable to that which came at the end of the 18th century, when the foundations of our national structure were so magnificently laid. There are some factors in our structure which point in that direction.

The answer to the burning question depends, not primarily on our physical resources, and not primarily on the conditions of the external world, but rather upon the fundamental decisions of ourselves as a people. We are not pawns in the hands of some abstraction called history, and there is more than one way in which we can react to the pressure of events. What is important today is the way we think, the way we believe, and the way we care.

Questions Of Purpose

It is very heartening to see that men of keen intelligence are turning to questions of purpose in their public statements. One indication of this trend is the current publication of articles in The New York Times and in Life, devoted wholly to the clarification of national purpose. Men of the character of Archibald MacLeish, David Sarnoff and Billy Graham are entering a really great debate on this subject. They are concerned almost wholly with ends and only slightly with means. They believe, with Pericles, that the way to build or to rebuild a nation is to etch the ideal. "I wish," said the leader of Athens in a great address, "to set forth the constitution and manner with which we rose to greatness." These men are asking us to fix our eyes, not merely on the elements of triviality and shoddiness which are about us in distressing abundance, but on the potential greatness. "Fix your eyes on the greatness of Athens," was the advice of Pericles, and it is the advice of a serious minority today.

Conditions of Greatness

The important and practical fact at this juncture of our history is the fact that, though we miss greatness in many ways, the conditions of greatness are now appearing. What these mean is not certainty of success, but possibility. The encouraging conditions are chiefly three.

The New Realism

The first condition of national greatness is a new realism, stemming in large measure from the change in world affairs. The facing of the hard facts has been surprisingly beneficent. It has helped us to close ranks, not only as between western nations, but to a large measure in our own country. Nobody now justifies his softness and complacency by reference to "a relaxation of international tensions." Most of us approved the holding of a summit conference for, though we were well aware that the chances of success were not great, we thought that they ought to be taken because the problem of peace is so serious.

Now the entire mood is changed. It suited the position of the Russian leader to destroy the conference before it began, and this destruction has, in some sense, cleared the international air. No thoughtful person believes that the U-2 incident was the sufficient cause of the debacle. After all, there is no moral difference between spying in the sky and spying on the ground.

What is important now is the recognition, on the part of the American people, that the struggle of the communist leaders for world domination is not abated. To know this bitter truth may be saddening, but it is better to be sad than to be deluded.

One fine fruit of the new realism is the increasing recognition, on the part of many, that extermination is not the worst possible event for the human race. As long as men are so over-awed by the fear of atomic explosions that their fear becomes an asset to the program of potential aggressors, the desire for survival can be actually damaging to the human race.

Here we need to be reminded of the great tradition of our philosophy in the western world, which had its first really brilliant expression in the thoughts and words of Socrates. The classic words of Socrates, when he faced the possibility of death at his trial in Athens, were as follows: "For neither in war nor yet at law ought I or any man to use every way of escaping death." In so far as Socrates has been the teacher of the world, we should have known that death is by no means the worst of all events. "The difficulty, my friends," said Socrates, "is not to avoid death but to avoid unrighteousness."

Though this magnificent philosophical analysis has been sometimes forgotten, it has been recovered at various periods by strong voices in our culture. An illustration of this is found in the poem by Stephen Vincent Benet: "Life is not lost by dying! Life is lost

Minute by minute, day by dragging day,
In all the thousand, small uncaring ways."

There is a chance that the characteristic men and women of contemporary America may recover today the ancient wisdom to the effect that it is not life but the good life that should be chiefly valued. It is not a foregone conclusion that we shall be able to recover this, but recovering is possible and the conditions are favorable.

The Drive For Disarmament

A second favorable condition, which could lead to greatness in our time, is the determination on the part of so many to work relentlessly for genuine disarmament. In many minds in many parts of the world there has come with vividness the dream of what human life would be if only it could be liberated from the burden of maintaining expensive equipment which would not be needed at all if something could be done to eliminate the rational fear of aggression. One important factor which enters into this dream is the recognition of the strong possibility of aerial reconnaissance. If lines a few inches wide can be seen on a photograph taken more than 13 miles above the earth, we know that very few things on the surface can long be hidden. Nearly every person recognizes that paper disarmament, without adequate and careful and mutual inspection, might be worse than nothing, but the drive for disarmament with inspection is now so great that it becomes a live possibility of our time.

It is good for us to give our minds to the wonderful conception of how much could be saved if we did not have to put our labor into guns and submarines and bombers and atomic war heads. It does not follow, necessarily, that men would use their time in better ways, if they were thus liberated, but at least they would have the opportunity of doing so. It is good to think of the time and money that could be available to work against hunger and poverty and ignorance if men were freed from the great burden of arms.

Rejection of Mediocrity

A third condition of potential greatness in our country is the mood, recognized in the recent past, which is expressed in the phrase "the vision of excellence." For a good many years there has been, at various levels in our culture, the cult of mediocrity, and the good news is that today we have a multitude of clear voices raised in criticism of this cult. The change is most obvious in our schools and colleges, where men and women are no longer reticent about the desire to excel. There are, of course, many who are still soft, complacent, and undemanding in their lives, unconcerned about any excellence in the human product, but it is good to see that their mood no longer dominates the field. If one tries to be sensitive to changes, he is bound to notice a new emphasis in the writing of books, in the study of science, in the work of the church and in journalism. The change is represented by the fact that many are now extremely critical of the soft picture of life which the advertisements still stress.

The willingness of hundreds of Negro students in the South to refuse to go on with the manifestly unfair system of service is one of the marks of the new mood. They distinguish between the easy way and the right way, and some pay a high price in suffering. Indeed, the action of the Negro students may turn out, in the end, to be the most hopeful single development in the educational experience of this immediate generation.

Foundations For Greatness

The best philosophy is never mere speculation about what ought to be or about some abstract standard. In contrast, the best philosophy builds upon what is and seeks to guide it. In the three developments we have mentioned, namely, the new realism, the drive for disarmament, and the rejection of the cult of mediocrity we see something on which we can build if we will. These developments do not necessarily insure greatness, but they provide some of the conditions of greatness. The classic text for our time in the midst of the world civil war, may be that which arose in another civil war, more than 300 years ago, when one of the greatest poets of the world said in unforgettable prose:

"Methinks I see in my mind, a noble, and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks." The nation which John Milton had in mind when he wrote Areopagitica was not ours, but the words apply to us today as they applied to an endangered yet hopeful England, in the middle of the 17th century. The vision itself is wonderfully clear. The only question is whether enough of us will really see it.

Otterbein's Mock Political Convention

Otterbein held a mock Democratic Convention April 28 at Cowan Hall. Students from the college and surrounding high schools made up the delegations representing the states and territories.

Lyndon B. Johnson, the United States Senate majority leader from Texas, was given the presidential nod on the second ballot with a 1179 total.

Massachusetts senator, John F. Kennedy held the advantage on the first ballot with 519 votes, but lacked the 718 votes necessary to assure the nomination.

Johnson polled 459 votes on the first tally, and Missourian Stuart Symington received 395 votes. A shift of votes in the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio delegations gave Johnson the strength to win on the second ballot.

Symington was chosen Vice-presidential candidate on the first ballot, as he downed his closest rival, Kennedy, 911 to 552.

The party adopted a platform advocating a stiffer foreign policy and a sounder domestic economy. The delegates from the Southern states opposed the civil rights plank as being too strong, but did not prevent passage of the platform.

Keynote speaker and convention chairman for the convention was Nelson Lancione, Columbus attorney. He rose to national prominence in 1957 as national president of the Young Democrats.

He has served as Assistant Attorney General of Ohio and as a Treasury Attache of the United States Embassy in Manila.

Lancione received the gavel from the national committee chairman, Alfred Scholz. Scholz, a junior from Westerville, is president of the Otterbein College Young Democrats.

The Young Democrats worked closely with Dr. John H. Laubach, professor of history and government, in planning the convention.

Students from Otterbein and high schools in the surrounding area assemble in Cowan Hall in Otterbein's mock Democratic convention. Approximately 800 students played the role of delegates in the April 28 event.

Convention secretary, Bernice Glor, Grand Island, New York, permanent chairman, Nelson Lancione and Otterbein Young Democrats president, Alfred Scholz, Westerville, preside over the convention balloting.

Victorious Demonstration

Supporters of Lyndon B. Johnson stage a demonstration for their candidate. The Johnson backers were successful in their efforts, and elected the Senate majority leader on the second ballot with a total of 1179 votes.

ON FACULTY

John Franklin Smith, '10, emeritus professor, has not been content to remain in a position of retirement. A former speech and drama instructor, Smith is now janitor in Alumni Gymnasium.

"I'm busy earning the degree of Master of Maintenance," he explains. "I think a man can dignify any job."

"Prof" Smith, as he is affectionately called by students, enjoys his role as janitor. Professor in the Speech and Drama Department from 1927 to 1950, he did not wish to leave Otterbein after his retirement, so he took the job of janitor.

His connection with drama, however, is still strong. He directed a three-act play, "The Highest Challenge", which was presented by a group of Otterbein students and alumni this month at the quadrennial Christian Education Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren at Indiana Central College.

Smith was graduated from Otterbein with an A.B. degree in 1910. He taught for 17 years in public schools before returning to his alma mater in 1927.

A capable professor, he organized an active forensic program, and taught courses in all areas of speech. He was also active in planning the stage facilities and auditorium of Cowan Hall, which was erected after his retirement. In 1949 he was elected Governor of the Province of the Lakes of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic honorary.

While a student at Otterbein, Smith ran the 440-yard dash, and earned a letter in track. After his retirement, his students presented him a cardinal sweater with a tan "O", which he proudly displays while polishing the gym floor with his big push broom.

Loyalty to Otterbein also holds true for the entire Smith family. Smith's wife, the former Emma Katherine Barnes, was a 1901 graduate. The elder two of their four children, Edna Smith Zech, '33, and Dr. John A. Smith, '33, live in Puerto Rico. Ella Smith Toedtmann, '36, Berea, Ohio, and Ruth Smith Strobeck, '42, Toledo, Ohio, are also Otterbein graduates.

Two of the Smith's grandchildren, Robert Zech, a junior, and Charles Zech, who will be entering this fall's freshman class, are also at Otterbein.

Smith has now served Otterbein for the past 33 years in his several capacities. Speaking of his new role, he comments, "Age is a matter of attitude. I'm retreaded, not retired."

Beloved Professor Retires

James H. McCloy, professor of physics at Otterbein since 1913, retired at the end of the second semester. On vote of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, he is an emeritus professor of physics.

On May 10, McCloy was given an appreciation dinner at Barlow Hall by the faculty. After the dinner which commemorated his outstanding service of many years, he was presented a book of letters written by his present and former students.

This fall, McCloy will go to Wittenberg College, where he will relieve for one year, the chairman of the Physics Department who is on sabbatical leave.

McCloy was graduated from Purdue University in 1913, and became an instructor at Otterbein that fall. In 1923, he received the Master of Science degree from Ohio State. In addition to his teaching at Otterbein, he taught physics for two years in the Navy V-12 program at Denison University.

He is a member of the American Association of Physics teachers and the Ohio Academy of Science.

The above figures represent the alumni goals for this calendar year - 2,000 gifts in 1960 totaling $80,000. Can we reach these goals? They represent 300 more gifts and $10,000 more than in 1959.

On June 21, the books showed that we had received 1,179 gifts and pledges totaling $29,334.70. Thus, it would appear that we are well on the way toward reaching the goal for the number of gifts, but somewhat behind in the amount hoped for. The Development Office believes that Otterbein alumni will rise to the challenge not for the sake of reaching the goal but because the needs of the college require it.

Alumni Give When Asked Personally

Otterbein is one of the charter members of the Independent College Alumni Associates, an organization of seventeen private colleges in Ohio which conducts simultaneous, personal, solicitation campaigns for alumni gifts.

Last year campaigns were conducted in Cincinnati, Dayton, Akron and Toledo. In those four cities, 973 alumni were solicited, 686 gifts were received, totaling $12,546.50. The percentage of participation and the average gift for each city were as follows:

City	Percentage	Average Gift
Akron-Barberton	71%	$17.68
Cincinnati-Hamilton	76%	9.50
Dayton	68%	20.98
Toledo	78%	12.12

Six men deserve much of the credit for the outstanding success of the four campaigns last year. These men served as chairmen of the campaigns and handled all the details of organization and promotion of the efforts. They were as follows:

Akron-Barberton—Robert Roose, '18

Cincinnati-Hamilton—Perle Whitehead, x'15, and John Clippinger, '41

Dayton—Kenneth Shively, '50, and Harold Augspurger, '41

Toledo—Donald Williams, '41.

In Dayton the five divisions of the General Motors Corporation sponsored the "kick-off" dinner attended by 650 workers. Herman F. Lehman, '22, Vice President of General Motors and General Manager of the Frigidaire Division, gave the principal address. Copies of his address are available by writing to the Development Office of Otterbein College.

Alumni Giving in Ohio Colleges

The figures below indicate how the alumni of 25 colleges and universities in Ohio respond to their alumni fund appeals. These figures are taken from the last Survey of Annual Giving and Support published in March, 1960.

It will be noted that of the 25 colleges and universities in the State for which records are available, Otterbein stands twelfth in percentage of participation, eighth in the amount contributed and second in the amount of the average gift.

The percentage of participation column is the one which should elicit most attention. Otterbein's record of 26% is above the national average of 20.9%. Of the Ohio Schools, only Dayton, Heidelberg and Wooster were above the 30% participation. With a little effort, Otterbein alumni could stand at the top of Ohio colleges in percentage of participation and in the amount of the average gift.

Traditional May Day Program Highlights

May Day Queen Miss Marilyn Allton reigns over the 1960 May Day program at the Westerville bandshell.

OFIC CONTRIBUTORS

The preceding six-page insert carries a complete list of 1959-60 donors to the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges. Otterbein received $31,772.48 out of a total of $973,108.00 This was the ninth year for the OFIC fund-raising program from corporations and business concerns in Ohio.

An "Old English Frolic" greeted a capacity crowd at the 1960 May Day program on Saturday, May 14. This theme set the atmosphere for the morning's ceremonies at the Westerville City Park bandshell.

Miss Marilyn Allton, a junior from Westerville, was chosen by vote of the student body to reign as 1960 May Day Queen. An education major, Miss Allton is a member of Sigma Alpha Tau (Owls) sorority.

In the queen's procession were Miss Suzanne Vietor, Greenville, Ohio, retiring queen; Miss Melinda VanSant, flower girl, and Johnny Recob, crown-bearer. Attendants to the queen were Miss Ann Cherry, Altoona, Pennsylvania; Miss Grace Wolfersberger, Shiloh, Ohio; and Miss Rita Zimmerman, Sugarcreek, Ohio.

The May Day program consisted of a number of acts presented by Otterbein students which characterized the "Old English" theme. Bruce Hickin was Master of Ceremonies for the occasion. Acts presented were a precision exhibition by the AFROTC Saber Team; a minuet performed by the Modern Dance group; a one-act farce presented by the Quiz and Quill Club; musical presentations by the Spring Madrigal singers, a group of kindergarten children, and Miss Dorothy Sardinha and Mervyn Matteson; and a trampoline performance by Miss Judy Colwell and James Moore. Concluding the program was the traditional May Pole Dance by the freshman women.

Activities in the afternoon consisted of the Otterbein - Wittenberg baseball game, the Otterbein-Kenyon track meet, and sorority teas.

A revival of the temperance melodrama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom", directed by Charles Dordrill, was presented at Cowan Hall in the evening. The day's activities concluded with the May Day Dance at Barlow Hall.

The Distinguished and Honorary Alumnus Awards for 1960

Dr. Robert Price, curator of the Otterbein Historical Room, checks over a manuscript for the collection.

The recipient of the Honorary Alumnus Award on Alumni Day, Saturday, June 4, was Dr. Robert Price, chairman of the English Department.

Dr. Price, who has been a professor of English at Otterbein since 1945, was cited for his dedicated service as a teacher and counselor of students.

A distinguished scholar, he is the author of numerous articles and several books. He is co-author of English for Engineers (1942), and the author of John Chapman: A Bibliography (1944) and Johnny Appleseed: Man and Myth (1954). He also wrote the script for the Otterbein College Centennial Pageant in 1947.

He organized the Otterbein Room Collection of Otterbein history, rare books and manuscripts, and has served for the past ten years as curator of the Otterbein Historical Room.

In 1955 he received the Ohioana

Library Award, and in 1956, the American Association for State and Local History Award.

He is presently faculty sponsor of the Quiz and Quill Club. He was made an Honorary member of this organization last spring.

Dr. Price was graduated from Denison University in 1928. He did graduate work at Ohio State University, where he received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1933.

Before joining the Otterbein faculty, he taught at Ohio State University and Franklin University.

He is a member of the New York State Historical Association, Ohio Historical Association, Westerville Historical Association, the Grange, the College English Association, American Studies Association and the Ohioana Library Association.

Dr. Price is also a member of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church in Westerville.

Dr. F. DeWitt Zuerner, '10, received the Otterbein College Distinguished Alumnus Award at the annual Alumni Day banquet, Saturday, June 4. He is now retired, after 38 years service with the North Braddock, Pennsylvania schools, including 28 in the post of superintendent of the Allegheny County schools.

An educator and administrator, Dr. Zuerner received the award in recognition of his distinguished services to the educational field.

It was under his direction that lights at the North Braddock Scott high school football stadium, the first ones in western Pennsylvania, were installed during the depression era.

Dr. Zuerner, with the aid of several others, was responsible for a concert presentation of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at Scott High School in 1952. This was the first performance by the orchestra outside Pittsburgh.

In 1933, with the cooperation of his school board, the Allegheny County federal education project and the University of Pittsburgh, he set up the first junior college in Pennsylvania. This was a system where high school graduates attended night classes and then received credit for their work upon transferring to the University of Pittsburgh.
