ADA GOES DOWN

BEFORE ONSET OF OTTERBEIN'S AGGRESSIVE ELEVEN.

Outclassed in Weight Local Aggregation in Much Scoring Contest Wins With Score 23-19.

After sixty minutes of hard playing the cause of the tan and cardinal triumphed 23-19 against Ohio Northern Saturday.

The game was called at 2:30. Ada won the toss and kicked off. Otterbein fumbled and their opponents covered the ball on the 25 yard line. In the next play on a clever forward pass within two minutes after the game was called Ohio Northern made the first touch down. They failed to connect properly with the goal post and the score stood 5-0.

In the next play John kicked off, skilfully placing the ball over the goal post. It was brought back to the 25 yard line where Ada failing to penetrate Otterbein's line was forced to kick. After three successive plays Mattis breaking through the line sprinted twenty-five yards for a touch down. John kicked goal. Two minutes later Hartman ran for the second touch down on a forward pass. John again placed the ball over the goal post. Within five minutes more of playing Mattis intercepted a forward pass and cleverly passing his opponents again crossed the goal line. John failed to kick goal. Ada secured another touch down in this half but missed goal. The score for the first two quarters stood 17-10 with Otterbein in the lead.

In the second half Rex on a fake pass covered the necessary territory around the right end securing the fourth touch down for Exendine's eleven. Ohio Northern in this half secured a touch down with goal and a place kick, making the final score 23-19.

ADA GOES DOWN.

Otterbein in every stage of the game until the last quarter out played Ohio Northern. In the last 20 minutes however they were somewhat weakened owing to the weight of Ada's eleven and to the length of the game.

The decisions of the officials were square and excellent treatment was received from the opposing team. This cannot be said however of the spectators who went to so far in their disrespect to the visitors as to surround them during the fifteen minutes intermission in a rude attempt to prevent any coaching.

Although no man was prominent in spectacular plays every man on Otterbein's team played real foot ball. John was in his usual form in handling the punts and kick offs while Sanders at quarter skilfully engineered every play. The back field men exercised excellent team work and executed their plays with remarkable rapidity. The line men were in the game from start to finish and could be relied upon to open up their opponent's line when called upon.

To the spectators it was an exhibition of clean ball and some beautifully executed plays.

120 MUSIC STUDENTS.

This Department Still Growing.
First Concert One Week from Wednesday.

Although five weeks have now elapsed since the reopening of school this fall there are yet students enrolling in the music department. One hundred and twenty students are now lined up in the various musical departments and the tuition from this source has passed the $3000.00 mark.

Prof. Grabill is preparing for the first recital to be held quite probably Wednesday Oct. 26 in the Concert Hall in the Lambert Conservatory. These recitals will be held each month and at the close of each term in accordance with the plans of last year.

They will be open to all students, faculty and friends. This fact will be greatly appreciated as these concerts are the result of extensive preparation on the part of music students and instructors, and are an exhibition of considerable musical talent.

The Value of a well dressed appearance

There's a business asset in being well dressed. No matter in what station of life, we are judge largely by our clothes. For years this store has been building up a substantial business on the kind of clothes that elavate. Not necessarily the expensive kind, far from it, but neat genteel hand-tailored clothes that are faultless in cut and fit. The kind of clothes that give a man a certain self-satisfied feeling which commands respect. Prices range this way.

THREE REASONS

Advanced by Dr. Huber why Missions should be Studied.

Dr. J. G. Huber of the Bonebrake Theological Seminary gave an excellent address on Christian Missions to the men of the Y. M. C. A. on last Thursday night. He said: Your situation here at College is unique; you are just a little this side of the half way place in life. This is the formative period of your life and you want to start right.

There are three reasons why you ought to study Missions. In the first place, it brings before the mind evidences of Christianity. A thousand million people are without Christ in the world and we want to be awake.

Today, men of wealth and of statesmanship are going abroad to study the situation of Christianity there. Now if scholars and professors are going abroad then you owe it to the world, to your church and to your college to at least study missions here. The best evidences of Christianity in the world today is the work in the slums and in the foreign mission field.

In the next place this is the churches greatest enterprise. It is also the greatest enterprise of the world. A prominent Englishman says: "When a missionary is on the field one year he is worth $50,000 a year to English commerce."

The political life of a country is greatly shaped by the missionary. The New Turkey is due largely to the training given by missionaries.

The educational life of great countries like China and Japan is being molded by a few missionaries. Mr. Burbank and the missionaries of China are sending a few Chinamen over here who will go back and mold the educational life of China.

Again it is an uplifting enterprise. Nowhere has woman such a place as in those countries where the missionary has lived.

Finally every college man wants to be a leader. You want to count for something in the local church. To do this you must be broad and sympathetic, you must have an insight into other people's lives.

Heidelberg next Saturday.

MISSION STUDY.

Discussed at Y. W. C. A. Meeting Last Tuesday.

Grace Coblentz chairman of the Missionary committee led the Y. W. C. A. meeting Tuesday evening. Scripture lesson was taken from Gal 5: 14-26. The association was favored by a vocal solo "Crossing the Bar," by Miss Denton. Miss Slusser, head of Young Women's Department, Womans' Evangel, Dayton, O. gave the girls a talk along missionary lines and along lines of service. Some of her thoughts were: The Word gives many beautiful pictures of Christ. In the upper room He teaches His disciples the lesson of humility. Many misunderstand what the word "service" stands for. Coming to God's House is only a preparation for service.

We cannot be excused by giving thousands of dollars and not a little part of ourselves. When the church begins to give itself for service, money and workers will come. If every christian were a tither, the world would be evangelized in this generation.

The tithe is the Savior's. We ought to know the conditions in order to help intelligently.

In South America there are 40,000,000 people without any faith and only one preacher to every 50,000.

Make your life count wherever you are and make others better by giving something of yourself.

Jesus says, "Every man to his work." Have you found yours? He who wins souls to Christ is wise.

Pushes are over; superfluous descriptions of these events we hope are set aside for another year. In accordance thereof we suggest a day of thanksgiving.

We like the idea of using photographs of Otterbein's various organizations etc. for advertising purposes but here is hoping that such an ordeal as we experienced last Wednesday morning will not come oftener than once every week. To the student who on the morning of that particular day boasted of having been excused from five and six of his classes, we are safe in saying that he would prefer twice that many to his standing before that nerve-racking camera for six consecutive hours—more or less. The first one was fun and caught the smile of the entire student body—and possibly the faculty—but the last one was—well, awful and surely got nothing but the longest of the long facial expressions.

The moral: there are other things worse than sitting under the penetrating gaze of the professors.

Coming in contact with college men, the first thing we naturally expect is treatment characteristic of gentlemen. In our athletic relations with visiting teams we are conscious of a peculiar responsibility devolving upon us as students for our conduct toward these visitors.

Otterbein may well boast of the excellent reputation which she holds in "handing out a square deal" to her opponents, both from the field and from the side lines. Just as we expect to give this treatment, so do we expect to receive it. In this however we were disappointed last Saturday. Although fair play on the part of the opposing team and the officials was always in evidence such cannot be said of the spectators at Ada. We do not believe however that this element among the spectators made up the larger class of the students nor do we think that this conduct was prompted by anything more than thoughtlessness, but with these considerations such action is inexcusable, and is detrimental to the reputation of any school.

Spirited and lively rooting with good natured remarks thrown at individual players is perfectly in harmony with occasions of that kind, but when these remarks take on the form of hissings and inimical expressions such action in beyond the decorum of gentlemen. Treatment of this kind is naturally resented by a visiting team.

READERS' COLUMN.

Does Otterbein Need a Men's Dormitory?

Does Otterbein need a men's dormitory? Those who have considered the matter say "No."

The general character of the students in Otterbein is such that they do not need to be curbed in any way. If they were rowdies, given to dissipation and lawlessness like that which does obtain in schools of larger size and different character, then Otterbein should have a dormitory and military rule.

Take for instance a certain college in Ohio which would best go unnamed where a dormitory is maintained. In that school every student when matriculating pays a breakage fee. The student is expected and invited to break so many windows and tear down the doors. Is there such an element in Otterbein that they should be imprisoned and guarded by a warden? Furthermore, would not

UPPER CLASSMEN

AND ACADEMY STUDENTS ENJOY ANNUAL FESTIVITIES.

Thorough Preparation by Social Committee Make these Scenes of Merriment "Big Hits."

Senior

Loaded on a large hay wagon, last Monday evening thirty-five dignified Seniors made their way to a grove some distance beyond Central College. Here a large bonfire was built over which a kettle of oysters was hung. While the festal board was in process of preparation a good social time was enjoyed. Arrangements for the event were so thorough, atmospheric conditions so perfect and the eatables so inviting that the outing was brought to a close without a hitch.

Miss Catherine Thomas efficiently chaperoned the crowd. In short this annual jollification was up to the standard and high flowery language of description will be left to the lower classmen.

Junior.

Around a festal board loaded with chicken, potatoes and gravy, peaches and cream, pumpkin pie, and many of the other good things that you eat at "home" the class of '12 enjoyed a truly sumptuous repast on Monday evening. The scene of this feast was at Central College, to which place the Juniors journeyed by hay-wagon, taking all their spirit with them. Theirs is a spirit of mutual friendship and unity.

The early part of the evening was spent in jollity with all participating. "Everybody happy" seemed to be the characteristic feeling. Next came the chicken and plenty of it. After all appetites were satisfied a number of witty speeches as well as several songs and readings served as further entertainment. Here some of the talent of the class became manifest, talent of which it can truly be proud.

No less pleasant was the ride to Westerville. The quiet of the village was broken by the sounds of the "Wah Hoo!" and the "Oskey Wow Wow!" Cochran Hall was given farewell greetings and the crowd dispersed.

The Junior push was a great success. May this not be a sign of the success which will crown the efforts of the class of '12 in its heavy tasks? Keep up the spirit. '12

Academy

Last but not least, the annual "push" of the Martin Boehm students was pulled off last Wednesday eve on the Lambert farm, a few miles south of town.

Full of enthusiasm these daring preps boarded the 5:30 car enroute to their rendezvous of festivity. Here a sumptuous feast of turkey, ice cream, pie a la mode, hubbard squash, fruit salad, tooth picks et-cetera was awaiting them. Needless to say appetites were appeased in "short order" and then began the secondary feature of the evening, extemporaneous speaking. Floods of oratory echoed and re-echoed for miles around by speakers overflowing with patriotism. Unmolested the spirit of good cheer caught all like a mighty whirlwind carrying them to off for the time into oblivion.

Wishing of course, to apprise the dormant Westervillities of their approach into the village at a late hour this party gave utterance to their vociferous yells to such an extent that the old college building rocked on its foundation—almost.

THIRTY-FIVE PHOTOS

Taken of Various Buildings and Organizations.

Wednesday of last week was an unusually busy day at Otterbein although few classes recited. Beginning at 9 o'clock with the chapel hour almost the entire day was given over to photographing students and teachers in various groups.

Dr. W. R. Funk and photographer Frank Hermes, of the United Brethren Publishing House, Dayton, were there with their large rotating camera and in a few days the tale will be told of each individual, better than words could express. Among the groups photographed were the members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., Christian Endeavor society, Religious Education association, Volunteer Band, the entire student body and faculty, the academy, freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes, the faculty, music and art students, college and society orchestras, college band and organizations of the school of music.

Photos were also taken of the science students in front of the science building, of the ladies of Cochran Hall in front of the dormitory. The four literary societies were photographed in separate groups on the campus and in their respective
