POWER PLANT

Your future, and the future of America will be shaped by the kind of power generated in the college classroom

Before the deed, there is always the idea. A single great idea may develop more power than atomic energy.

Never in our history has the need for new great ideas been so pressing as it is today; never have we been under such stress to strengthen through education the spiritual, social and scientific foundations of our American way of life.

Yet the very core of our brainpower plant—the college classroom—is being seriously weakened by two factors: a faculty salary scale that is driving gifted teachers into other fields; and an overcrowded condition that is worsening steadily. Applications will double in less than ten years.

As a nation, and as individuals, our destiny is being determined by the quality of learning and inspiration produced on our campuses. Can we allow these conditions to continue?

Support the colleges and universities of your choice. Help them in their efforts to pay their faculties better, and to expand their facilities.

The returns will be greater than you think.

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, and what you can do to help, write for a free booklet to:

According to recent statistics, a college graduate is in the minor 7.3 per cent of our population aged 20 years and over. This means that only about one in 14 Americans can claim this level of schooling in 1959.

Of course, the educational pattern is improving as there are more to be educated and as more stay in school longer. From the colleges come the leaders of cultural, spiritual, and professional life.

As alumni full-well know, Otterbein offers her students knowledge of their cultural heritage so that they may enrich their experience and provide themselves with sources of wisdom to comprehend the physical world and appreciate the problems of the social, political, and economic world in which we live.

Speaks naught but power

A MATTER OF MONEY

by

DR. LYNN W. TURNER
Otterbein College President

Dr. Lynn W. Turner

I believe that the one aspect of a college about which its friends hear the most and probably know the least is the financial one. The alumni know that the college does not have enough money in spite of constant begging; the faculty and students know that it does not get enough. But very few friends of the college, other than the trustees, ever study the balance sheet, or have a very clear conception of how college income is obtained and college expenditures distributed.

In 1958-1959, Otterbein College became, for the first time, a million dollar business. Our current income for the year amounted, in fact to $1,082,798.19. The circle graph below shows the sources of this income, and the relative proportions of each source.

It will be noted at once that students (and their parents) bear the major portion of annual expenses at Otterbein (82%), but that, even so, they do not pay the entire cost of their education. The remaining part (18%) comes from gifts, ten per cent in the form of current giving from church, alumni, and business friends, and eight per cent in the form of income from endowment, which, of course, consists of past gifts from these same sources.

Annual current income, however, does not by itself present a true picture of college finances, for one must also consider capital expenditures—that is to say, new buildings, major renovations of old buildings, acquisition of more campus, and long-term investments. Although the cost of buildings, such as dormitories, may be self-liquidating, the majority of these additions to the campus come as gifts from generous alumni or from the church members of Otterbein's constituency.

If the pro-rata value of these gifts and of contributions to endowment funds were added to annual income, the relative proportions of student payments would be considerably diminished and of donated income increased. In other words, when the cost of necessary physical equipment is added to that of instruction, housing, food, and maintenance, the cost of college education itself rises to a point far beyond the sums that are collected in tuition and service charges.

It is obvious that there is a point beyond which tuitions cannot be raised without making the cost of education too high for the kind of young people we want to attract to Otterbein. But it is equally obvious that faculty salaries are going to be increased, new classroom buildings erected, and the quality of our services improved if Otterbein is to advance.

Growth can be almost automatic with the oncoming wave of potential students, but every additional student increases the dollar size of that gap between tuition income and the cost of maintaining the college. This is why higher education in America faces a real crisis, and even television networks are pleading with their viewers to "support the college of your choice."

Discovers Otterbein Letter

During the 1958-59 school year, Dr. Harold B. Hancock was granted a sabbatical year's leave of absence by Otterbein College and spent the time in Great Britain in research on a fellowship from the American Philosophical Society.

He had the privilege of working in the Public Record Office in London, where papers and documents dealing with every phase of past British history are assembled. One interesting category

ART EXHIBITION—Contemporary art by Earl C. Hassenpflug, instructor of Visual Arts at Otterbein, will be on display in the lounge of the Association Building, October 10, through November 1. Included will be the portrait of Bishop J. Gordon Howard, '22, former president of Otterbein.

One group of paintings was developed from sketches of flowering crab trees in the Westerville Municipal Park. As the paintings developed they became more and more abstract as the painter endeavored to express, not the form, but the life force which became the dominant theme.

consists of intercepted letters, which were taken by British warships off of enemy vessels during wartime. Many were confiscated from American ships during the Revolutionary War and at times of maritime disputes. While many of these letters had been opened, some still remained sealed after 150 years. By request an attendant would open sealed letters in which the reader expressed an interest.

One such letter was written by William Otterbein in 1804 to his nephew in Germany. It was still sealed but Dr. Hancock hastens to add that the 130 guilders mentioned in it were not found. He had the letter photostated, and through the cooperation of a Dutch friend, the German script was translated.

The evangelistic fervor of this founder of the Evangelical United Brethren Church is clearly visible in its contents. He regarded the times in which he lived as the final hour of which the Apocalypse speaks. He warned that only those who keep the commandments and have faith in Our Lord Jesus Christ would see this hour. He predicted that in the near future the friends of Christ and the Bible would have cause for rejoicing. This interesting letter is reproduced here.

Baltimore
June 21, 1804

Monsieur P. C. Otterbein
Minister of St. Evangelical in Heinsburg, near Aix-la-Chapell
Dear Nephew,

I am sending you together with this letter 130 guilders. I have sent 50 guilders to Professor Pagenstecher in Herborn, via the Reverend Selier through Bremen. This you are to divide between him and his two sisters.

The time in which we live is truly dangerous. It is the final hour of which the Apocalypse prophesies. The times will get even worse and which of us will see them? Only those who keep the commandments and faith in Our Lord Jesus Christ.

In America we still live in peace, but who is to know for how long? The judgment of God is spreading and will reach every corner of the earth. My dear nephew, the time has come to seek Jesus. I recommend you to Him in my prayers and in the gospel, for apart from Him there is no salvation.

Is his brother married yet and how is the doctor in Budingen? I send them my greetings as also to my cousin and his family in Duisburg. What kind of preachers do you have in Duisburg and Mulheim? Are they also schooled in theology? It seems that Bible Christians are rare in Europe, but before long those who deny Christ will tremble and the friends of Christ and the Bible will rejoice. Young Henk is not a good person. Has Johann Ernst returned home again? The Lord give him patience and faith and grace to endure to the end. I send you and your family greetings.

Your devoted uncle,
William Otterbein

Clymer Memorial Organ Gift

Campus News

Irvin L. Clymer, '09

Mrs. Irvin L. Clymer

A member of the board of trustees of Otterbein College, Irvin L. Clymer, '09, of Dearborn, Michigan, gave $54,000 to Otterbein for the installation of a pipe organ in Cowan Hall. The gift is in memory of his wife, Elsa Zell Clymer, who died last March 28.

Until his retirement in 1953, Mr. Clymer was president of the Pittsburgh Limestone Corporation, a U.S. Steel subsidiary, as well as president of the Michigan Limestone and Chemical Company and of Bradley Transportation Company, also a U.S. Steel subsidiary with headquarters in Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Clymer was graduated from Otterbein College in 1909 and received an engineering degree from Purdue University in 1911. He has been a member of the Otterbein College board of trustees since 1953. He is a native of Mt. Cory, Ohio.

It will take eighteen months to two years before the three-manual Moller organ is built and installed.

Cowan Hall is a 1300-seat auditorium completed in 1953 on the Otterbein campus at a cost of $500,000.

Edgar L. Weinland Dies

Dr. Edgar L. Weinland, '91, secretary of the Otterbein College Board of Trustees since 1902, died of a heart attack on Sunday, August 16. He was 89 years of age.

The second oldest living graduate of Otterbein, he had attended eighty-four consecutive Otterbein commencements and was serving his 59th year as a member of the Board of Trustees.

An attorney, Dr. Weinland was a graduate in 1893 of the first law class at Ohio State University. In 1936 he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Otterbein College.

A former Columbus, Ohio, City Solicitor and ex-Columbus Councilman, he was the last surviving member of the fifteen-man Columbus Charter Commission of 1913. As a member of that Commission, he helped draft the charter which, with a few changes, still governs the city's municipal operations.

In 1956 he received the distinguished service award from the Ohio Municipal Association and the designation as "Senior Counsellor" presented by the Columbus Bar Association.

Dr. Weinland was a member of the Torch Club and past international president of the Optimist Club. He was also a member of the American Bar Association, Masons, Lions Club and the First E.U.B. Church of Westerville.

Surviving are his wife, the former Bertie Ford of Zanesville; a son Robert, a mechanical engineer in Canton, Ohio; two daughters, Mrs. Ellen Heath, Johnson City, Tennessee; Mrs. Margaret Brooker, Columbia, South Carolina; and four grandchildren.

SPEECH DEPARTMENT

Speech students in contests last year (1958-1959) amassed the best record Otterbein has enjoyed in the last decade. In individual speaking events, with only six students entered in the state contests Otterbein placed two students first, and two students second and third.

RADIO STATION BEGINS BROADCASTS

WOBN, the Otterbein College FM radio station began regular broadcasts for the second year, on October 1. Programs are broadcast daily from 7:00-11:00 P.M.

HIGH SCHOOL DAY

Over 350 high school students were guests of Otterbein College on Saturday, October 3, for the annual fall high school day. A tour of the campus and scholarship tests were the highlights of the day sponsored by the Department of Admissions. Next High School Day will be on Saturday, March 19, 1960.

OTTERBEIN PRE-SCHOOL

For the seventh year the Education Department of Otterbein College is sponsoring the Otterbein Pre-School for four-year-olds. The pre-school program includes supervised play, story telling, music, art work, socializing activities and explorations to discover the world in which we live and the people who live in it.

RANCH-TYPE MEN'S DORMITORY FOR FRESHMEN

West Hall, one of two newly constructed men's dormitories, with a capacity of forty men each, erected in the area east of Memorial Stadium.

As Otterbein College began the one hundred and thirteenth year of Christian Higher Education, several new buildings have been added and extensive improvements made.

The Board of Trustees last May authorized the erection of two men's dormitories, with a capacity of 80 men, in the area east of the stadium. Known as East and West Hall, the new dorms accommodate forty freshmen each.

Modern furnishings and colorful drapes complete each room and lounge. Asphalt walks leading to the parking lot and plenty of landscaping add a picturesque touch.

Campus Improvements

The painting crew has been busy all summer applying new make-up to the Student Union, Howard House, Home Economics House, Grove House, Towers Hall, McFadden Science Building, and the fences around the Athletic Field and Tennis Courts.

A new kitchen and fountain equipment as well as extensive carpentry work have given the Student Union a new look. The former cloakroom has been remodeled into an extension of the snack room. Booths have been cut down to a more comfortable size and lighted by modern lighting fixtures. A new counter top was installed and the counter stools upholstered. Tile flooring was laid and checked drapes were hung.

Extensive remodeling has been carried on in Lambert Hall, the foreign language laboratory, the chemistry laboratory, Towers Hall and Saum Hall.

Lambert Hall has a new fire-proof stairway from the ground floor to the fourth floor, in addition to a new room for the music library and office.

A new classroom has been added on the basement floor of Towers Hall and the hallway to the business office enclosed. An asbestos covering lines the doors as an effective fire prevention. Final touches have been applied to the Modern Language Laboratory and a new office enclosure constructed at the north end of the second-floor hallway.

A number of new seats constructed of cherry planking will provide safer seating for spectators in the center section of Memorial Stadium.

Sanders Frye, Business Manager, estimates that the campus improvements this summer cost a total of $200,000.

A TYPICAL ROOM

Each student is furnished with a single bed, desk, chair, dresser, clothes closet, mirror, drapes and plenty of electrical outlets. Gas heat in each room is individually controlled.

1959 HOMECOMING

Several features highlight the 1959 Fall Homecoming Program. The coffee hour in the Clements Hall Lounge from 9:00 to 11:00 Saturday morning, October 24, affords an opportunity to greet old classmates, meet President and Mrs. Turner, and enjoy fellowship with Alumni Association officers.

A space age accent will permeate the Homecoming parade, for the theme is "Looking Through the Universe." The parade is scheduled to start at 12:30 P.M.

The "O" Club dinner will be held in the faculty dining room at 5:30 P.M. This organization is generating new enthusiasm in the athletic program at Otterbein.

Shakespeare's THE TAMING OF THE SHREW will be presented by Cap and Dagger under the direction of Professor Charles Dodrill at 8:15 P.M. in Cowan Hall.

Fall Homecoming, 1959, needs you to make it complete. So "Come on down to Otterbein" and be a part of the fall Homecoming festivities.

Help Keep Otterbein in the BLACK

When the auditors finished their work last August, they reported that Otterbein had operated during the school year 1958-59 with a small surplus. This was good news for the opposite had been true for several preceding years.

The Administration of the college extends special thanks to the 1530 alumni, who by their gifts made this record possible. Every member of the faculty also feels indebted to the alumni for helping to make possible the increases in salaries. Students, too, are grateful for alumni contributed $7,500 last year for scholarships. Without that help some students could not have come to Otterbein.

What will the record be a year from now? Alumni response in the next few weeks will be the deciding factor.

The 1959 Fund year ends December 31 and we must have 710 gifts and $23,132 to equal last year's record. The Development Board had hoped for a 10% increase in the number of gifts this year. This will require 820 gifts during the next three and a half months.

The record of giving up to August 31, 1959 was as follows:

Source	Number	Amount
Alumni	820	$ 41,465.71
Non-alumni	84	3,847.61
Annuities	1	5,000.00
Alumni Clubs	6	1,298.68
Organizations	12	2,119.46
Foundations	3	30,244.18
United Crusade		106,810.10
Total		$190,785.64

Honoring a Grand Lady

The many friends of Edna "Mom" Priest will be glad to learn that a $1,000 scholarship has been provided in her honor by her son-in-law, Dr. Verle A. Miller, '35.

The announcement of the award was made at her eighty-fifth birthday party given by her family in the Westerville City Park on Thursday, July 30.

Dr. Lynn W. Turner, President of Otterbein College, presented to the honored guest a plaque which reads as follows:

With Sincere Appreciation

As a token of love, admiration and appreciation of Edna Priest and in order to perpetuate her memory and continue her good work on the Otterbein College campus, a $1,000 scholarship has been provided by a member of her family to be administered by Otterbein College and to be known as

THE "MOM" PRIEST SCHOLARSHIP

Although possessing very little in material goods, she truly many times over has given of her "widow's mite" and the sweat of her brow that many a young person could continue his education. She has been blessed with an abiding faith that God would take care of tomorrow if we would have the courage to take care of today. Her example of a truly Christian life, her practical motherly advice when a confidant was needed, her utter belief in the goodness of people, her jovial manner and optimism that God is in his heaven and all will be right in the world, as well as her frequent sharing of all she possessed, have had a profound influence upon the lives of hundreds of Otterbein students who lovingly refer to her as "Mom."

This scroll, signed by the president of Otterbein College, with the seal of the college affixed, is presented on this the 30th day of July, 1959—the 85th birthday of Edna "Mom" Priest.

Lynn W. Turner
President, Otterbein College

For an indefinite period of time, Dr. Miller will contribute $1,000 annually through the college scholarship committee to a person of his selection. If he fails to make a selection in any year, the Department of Chemistry of the college shall nominate a suitable candidate.

This is a fine gesture on the part of a loyal alumnus honoring a grand lady.

Independent College Alumni Associates

A new organization of independent college fund directors came into being last year. The name of the organization is Independent College Alumni Associates (of Ohio). Any accredited private college is eligible for membership. The first president of the organization was Dr. Roland Matthies and Dr. Wade Miller of Otterbein is the president for the 1959-60 school year. Early in 1959 seventeen private colleges conducted simultaneous personal solicitation campaigns in Akron and Toledo with fantastic results. For example, 90% of Otterbein alumni in Akron and 76% in Toledo made contributions to the 1959 Development Fund.

It has been decided that four cities will be covered during this school year with simultaneous solicitations as follows:

Cincinnati — November 9-16
Akron — February 1-8
Toledo — February 15-22
Dayton — February 20-March 7

Cincinnati Solicitation

Another experiment will be tried this year in connection with the Cincinnati solicitation. During the same week that the college presidents are in Cincinnati calling on leaders of industry, the alumni fund directors will be in the same city directing the campaign for alumni gifts.

Otterbein Chairman for Cincinnati

Dr. Perle L. Whitehead, x'15, Regional Director of the Boy Scouts of America, will direct the Cincinnati campaign. As TOWERS goes to press he is in the process of effecting a working committee.

Alumni in Cincinnati who have already contributed in 1959 will not be solicited personally; however, their gifts will count in the final tabulation for that city.

A contribution was received in the Alumni Office from Sun Valley, California with no name or designation for the gift. If the donor will contact the alumni office and identify the size of gift, proper credit can be given.

GRIDIRON VICTORY

Spearheaded by Larry Cline, junior quarterback, and hard hitting Gary Allen, junior fullback, the Cardinals of Otterbein rank high in the Ohio Conference football standings midway in the 1959 football season.

Prospects are bright for a winning season, although the team lacks depth and veteran lettermen. A strong defensive line and a speedy backfield seem to characterize the 1959 football team.

Mrs. Frank O. Clements, '01, is pictured giving her check to Dwight Ballenger, '39, president of the "O" Club as Athletic Director Robert "Moe" Agler, '47, looks on. Mrs. Clements is the first woman to make a contribution to the "O" Club Grant-in-aid fund.

The Grant-in-aid fund assists financially worthy student athletes at Otterbein. In establishing additional financial aid for student athletes, the "O" Club seeks to raise an annual fund of $5,000.

Purpose of the "O" Club is to acquaint more student athletes with Otterbein College; assist worthy students in obtaining grants-in-aid and employment while they are in school; and to promote the well-being of Otterbein and its athletic program in cooperation with the college administration and the rules of the Ohio Athletic Conference.

Alumni President Says

Dear Fellow-Alumni:

No one can tell you what it will mean to you to get back to Otterbein for this Fall Homecoming. Coming home to the College magically calls up personal experiences, varied excitements, poignant memories, and even unthought feelings. If all this sounds sentimental, it's because it is a sentimental time. I welcome you to it, I urge you to visit with old friends and familiar places. The lively weekend awaiting you is described in this issue of the TOWERS.

But reminiscent though Homecoming is, we won't help the college much by only holding hands with the past. With the other hand we need to reach for the future, because any future the college has depends in large part on alumni activity and support. There are ideas about an active year for the Alumni Association, continuing alumni efforts of the past and building on them, and working in cooperation with college administration aims and with promotional programs managed by the college staff.

I hope to have occasion to ask you for money this year, and in doing so I will not be apologetic about it. All of us are aware of the strengths Otterbein has which money cannot buy, including priceless people now and in the past. The college has the vision and the will to serve and train and inspire more and larger generations of young people. But money is the muscle to do things with. The vision and the will are not enough without the muscle to get the work done. I am on the job of raising other people's children, and trying to repair and replace what has gone wrong in previous neglect of them. Of course, in a child-care program personal values are paramount, and indeed our work gets done only by means of personal relationships. Yet what do you suppose I worry about most in order that the values we want in the lives of children may be promoted? You're right! And so also the values of Christian liberal arts education at Otterbein College have price tags on them, and if we don't pay the prices we won't have the values.

Richard Allaman, '33

By the time you read this, the Alumni Council will have met the first time this year on September 19. I hope we will have accelerated movement by the Alumni Association in two directions.

One is the setting of realistic goals for our support of the college. Should one-third of the alumni annually contribute to the support of the college? Is annual support by three-fourths of the alumni a sensible aim? Whatever the percentage, how many years do we expect to take to reach it? There are dynamics in goals. We should define where we want to go and get organized to go there.

The other is increased participation by alumni in the life of the college, by personal activity and financial support both. President Turner has some planning to do which we will be hearing more about, in which many alumni may help. For the Development Fund a further progressive program is being formulated which alumni can enthusiastically support. Some plans may present themselves for the Alumni Association to step up its organization for more direct and continuous increased participation.

By the way, on another subject, what do you think of this publication, the TOWERS? Able Editor Art Schultz gets practically no comment pro or con, and he would appreciate hearing from us how we like it, what things we want to hear more about, and so on. So if you have any free advice to offer, drop Art a note about it.

See you at Homecoming!

Sincerely yours,

Richard Allaman
