She is a member of the Westerville Historical Society. She and her late husband, Frank, are the parents of two daughters, Marsha Deman and Julie Norman, both of Westerville. Dr. Frank M. Van Sickle
Frank Van Sickle, vice president of Wagner & Traux, Better Homes and Gardens, one of southeastern Louisianas largest realty firms, spent nearly 35 years in the fields of aeronautics and astronautics and was closely associated with the manned space program. After graduating from Otterbein in 1941 with a degree in physics, he studied meteorology at the Boeing School of Aeronautics in California. For the rest of the 1940s, he forecast in-flight weather conditions for airplane pilots as a Washington-based meteorologist, first with the Army Air Corps and later with United Air Lines. In the 1950s, Dr. Van Sickle joined Chrysler Corporation in Detroit as an initial member of a technical team organized to design and develop a ballistic missile weapon system for Dr. Werner von Braun of the U.S. Army. Dr. Van Sickle headed an organization which was kept secret until the direction of Dr. von Braun, at the Chrysler-operated Michoud plant near New Orleans. As a chief engineer, he was responsible for the development and administration of scientific computer programs which helped design space hardware, predicted and evaluate space vehicle performance, and control the flow of data and materials through the engineering, manufacturing and flight operations. Dr. Van Sickle participated in the Apollo and Saturn development launches, the launch of Skylab and the Apollo-Soyuz joint U.S.-Soviet space experiment. In 1975, at the end of America's first generation of manned space programs, Dr. Van Sickle took early retirement from Chrysler, obtained a brokers license and became a realtor. A lifetime member of the Presidents Club and a contributor to the Development Fund since its inception 33 years ago, Dr. Van Sickle has been a loyal Otterbein alumnus. He and his wife, Mary Jane, have two children, Robert W. Kahn, a 1942 Otterbein graduate ('67 and '66), live in Reynoldsburg, Ohio. Their younger daughter, Kathryn Van Sickle Buch, and her husband, Robert reside in Mission Viejo, California.

Otterbein Love Song

Words by Celia Ihrig Grabill
Music by Glen Grant Grabill, '00

1. In a quiet peaceful village there is one we love so true, She ever gives a welcome to her friends both old and new,
She stands serene
'mid tree tops green,
She's our dear Otterbein.

2. Her halls have their own message
Of truth, and hope, and love.
She guides her youths and maidens
To the life that looks above,
Her stately tower
speaks naught but power
For our dear Otterbein!

Chorus:
Old Otterbein our college,
we sing of thee today,
Our memories round thee linger in a sweet and mystic way.
O Otterbein, we love thee,
our hearts are only thine,
We pledge anew, we will be true,
Dear Otterbein.
