Track Athletics.

Otterbein 92, Capital 17.

Captain Rogers with his track team defeated Capital University by the overwhelming score of 92 to 17 Saturday afternoon. Capital was only able to obtain first place in one event, the relay, and only four second places. The superiority of the Otterbein men was easily demonstrated. Owing to a damp, spongy track the records were not as good as they otherwise would have been. However, Ditmer and Welbaum very nearly equaled the college record in the 440 yd. dash. Stouffer again broke the record in the hammer throw.

1st event—100 yard dash, Griffith and Shua, Capital vs. Ditmer and Welbaum, O. U. Ditmer, first place 10 3/5 sec.; Griffith second.

2nd event—220 yd. low hurdles, Wolf and Monnesmith, Capital vs. Gifford and Rogers O. U. Rogers first place, 29 1-5 sec. Gifford, second, 30 1 5 sec.

3rd event—one mile run, Wiltman and Certia, Capital vs. Eissig and Sayre, O. U. Eissig, first place 5 4 1/5 sec; Sayre, second.

4th event—running high jump, Griffith and Young, Capital vs. Lloyd and Kelly, O. U. Kelly, first place, 4 ft. 11 5/6 in. Lloyd second.

5th event—440 yd. dash, Griffith and Shua, Capital vs. Ditmer and Weibling, O. U. Ditmer, first place, 53 sec. Shua, second.

6th event—half mile run, Zink and Smith, Capital vs. Eissig and Sayre, O. U. Eissig, first place, 2 13 2 5 sec. Sayre, second.

7th event—16 lb. hammer throw Certia, Capital vs. Stouffer and Fox, O. U. Stouffer, first place, 105 6 ft. Fox second.

8th event—high hurdles, 120 yd. s. No contestants Capital, Rogers and Shumaker, O. U. Shumaker, first place, 19 sec. Rogers second.

Dr. Bookwalter Speaks of General Conference.

In chapel Friday morning, Dr. Bookwalter gave an interesting view of the workings at General Conference, at Canton, which formally closes today. There were approximately two hundred and fifty attended the Conference, representing a widely diversified body of people. Ministers composed about one half of the number and the lay members the remainder. The meetings were characterized by a fervent, earnest spirit for the furtherance of the Kingdom of God.

Among the inspiring addresses at the Conference, those of Dr. Lewis and Rev. Consad stand out prominently. Dr. Lewis headed the delegation of the Methodist Protestant Church and read a most excellent paper on the unity and the union of his denomination with the United Brethren. The question is not "Shall we unite?" but—"Why are we not united?"

Rev. Consad of Japan spoke forcibly of the situation in the far east and as he has lived among the Japanese people for so many years, he was able to clearly define the attitude of Japan toward the United States. He stated that this war talk was an absurdity. Otterbein had the best exhibit at the Conference and created much favorable comment from those who saw it.

Death Calls Rev. Hippard.

Rev. Samuel M. Hippard for years a resident of Westerville, died suddenly at his home in Arcanum Friday night from apoplexy. Rev. Hippard was a united Brethren minister, an enthusiastic and loyal friend of old Otterbein and an Agent for several years. He resided here at Westerville until about a year ago when he moved to Arcanum. He was beloved by all who knew him and his loss will be keenly felt. He is survived by a widow and two sons, Geo. Hippard a graduate of Otterbein '88 and Chas. Hippard class of '91.

Mrs. L. K. Miller.

One of the most inspiring books that has recently come into our hands, is a book of poems composed by Mrs. Elizabeth Kumler Miller, '58, who departed this life last October. Mrs. Miller was a sweet characterized woman whose life radiated with love and sacrifice for others, and she has breathed this spirit into her poems. A tribute by her sister, Mrs. G. A. Funkhouser, is so sweet, so simple, so loving that it seems she too must possess the inner spirit of a poetess.

Mrs. Miller's poems touch the tender heart-strings and make us think of higher thoughts. A random selection can give some idea of their worth:

The Isle of the Long Ago.

I feel the winds from that fairy isle,
The Isle of the Long Ago.
They breathe through my soul so strong the while,
As I sit and listen, nor deign to smile
For my tears— they blind me so.
There's a dear, tried friend in the Long Ago,
And his harp hath silken strings,
And I seem to hear when these soft winds blow
As today—from the shores of the Long Ago,
His harp, and the song he sings,
And I feign would echo back his note,
But my lute is now unstrung;
And all the island is too remote,
And the winds they onward and outward float,
But ne'er to those shores return.

Written after reading "The River Time!"

Thanksgiving Bells.

Thanksgiving bells, oh hear them call
Across the beautiful snow;
And arm in arm, 'long winding ways—
As our fathers did in the olden days,
Their hearts with love all aglow,
We'll heed the call, at the altar kneel,
In glad response to the bells' sweet peal
And the heart chimes of long ago.

My Day.

What have I done today?
I cannot say;
The hours have come and gone
—The snow came down.
In beauteous stifled showers,
For hours and hours,
The wind shook hard the pane,
The jealous rain

Chased all the snow away
In seeming play.
Thus all that I have done,
As sets the sun
Seems lost, as lost the snow!
And yet I know
That He who counts our hairs,
And makes the snow transformed,
Refresh the ground,
Can cause some deed or word
That he hath heard
Transformed by his own grace
Some life to bless.
And he reviews my day,
He, kind, may say
In accents sweet and mild,
"Well done, my child."

Reds Win.

A contest of any kind is always interesting. Last Sunday completed a contest in Dr. Sanders' Sunday School class in the matter of attendance. Four weeks were allotted to this contest and the class was divided between the reds and the whites. The side having the most men present for the four weeks was to be banqueted by the losers. Fox and Bungard captured the whites while Welch and Richer marshaled the reds. The reds won by a small margin.

Totals: reds, 214; whites, 195.
An average attendance of 102, an increase of 100 per cent, over the corresponding Sundays last year.

Our base ball men were disappointed that rain prevented their playing Kenyon Friday. Each man on the team had the spirit of vengeance against the old time rival and no doubt Kenyon was saved a drubbing. The manager is endeavoring to have the game played this week, however, and we are looking for this scalp if the two teams come together.

Misses Pearl Stringer and Opal Shanks gave a vocal duet. A solo, "Business for My King," was beautifully rendered by Miss Sue Gable, of Dayton.

Y. M. C. A.
The men of the Y. M. C. A. were fortunate in having as their speaker on last Thursday evening, their fellow townsman, Dr. A. H. Keefer.

After song and prayer, Mr. O. W. Briner gave a cornet solo entitled "Face to Face."

Dr. Keefer started his address by referring to the choice of a life work. He said the manifold opportunities of today urge the young man to a choice. The fields are many and broad, a work for each individual. The extension and variety of life callings was illustrated ably by the example of two rivers having their sources in the self same lake, the water of the one rolling out through the great Columbia into the placid Pacific the water of the other being lost in the depths of the great gulf.

Five requisites for success were pointed out. Ability, intelligence, energy, integrity and above all, consecrated purpose. He emphasized being an optimist instead of a pessimist.

We may justly say that Dr. Keefer gave us as helpful and as inspiring an address as we have had this year. Attendance 70.

Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, the Y. M. C. A. boys assembléd on Bishop hill back of the cemetery for a good time. There was no tug of war this time as has heretofore been the custom, but leapfrogging up and down the hill, the blind folded boxing match of Warner and Spring, the six-round bout on barrels by Fox and Surrell, a three legged sack race, and a chariot race were some of the chief amusements.

Some short spirited speeches were made and then a grand dive for the weiners and buns which the acrobats devoured ravenously.

Such stunts are held yearly by the social committee and this year the spirit manifested showed that F. H. Menke and his committee had done their work well.

A Chapter From Not in the Curriculum.

"Not in the Curriculum," is a book recently placed in the Library by our college pastor and is certainly worth your while reading. The authors of the book are not given, they modestly tell us that the work is by "Two Recent College Graduates." The book is brimful and running over with good common (or uncommon spicuous when they return to visit her.

This time of year, when we are thinking of leaving old Otterbein, some of us forever, it may be expedient to call attention to chapter XIII., "Relations to Your College."

Your college is just what you and your fellows make her. Keep her standard high. Do not criticise her failings but work to remedy them. Give her some return for all she gives you. If she provides you with the opportunities and influences suitable to many development of character and intellect, she has a right to expect you to make good use of them. Do not be bluntly telling outsiders what a fine college yours is, but give them a chance to see what fine material she turns out in the way of men. Support her teams, but do not bet on them; do not place your fellows in the category of race horses or game cocks.

The college gives you her name; be ashamed to disgrace it.

Do not talk about college spirit and then continually act in a way which shows you do not know even what it means. You could as consistently boast of family honor while in the act of disgracing the family name. True college spirit is a fine thing to have, but its roots must find nourishment deep down in a man's better self.

Remember that all members are your guests and at all times and all conditions treat them as such.

Never be ashamed to confess your Alma Mater and never do a thing for which she can rightly be ashamed of you.

While still a freshman, do not be concealed enough to think that your college will be benefited by your telling everyone through act by your apparel that you represent her. And when you become an alumnus remember that we do not go back to mother and the old home to celebrate in excesses which savor of club or bar room and especially when the "kids" and their mothers' friends are all there.

The men who are most prominent in the world and who have the interest of their Alma Mater most at heart are not the ones who make themselves more conspicuous when they return to visit her.

Sense, sincerity, simplicity— the college man's "Three Graces."

The other day, the Sophomores of Columbia, made an effigy of Calculus and burned him at the stake until he was good and dead. Served the old fellow right, too, for meddling up a fellows' poor brain. In other schools, they have a yearly burning of calculus books, just to celebrate their gratification that this torment is over. Well, we all have little of the barbarian in us and it just has to crop out now and there. Poor old Newton and Leibnitz. If they would see these demonstrations, I am afraid they'd feel a little roasted themselves.

Editorials.

The athletics of a college are to a great extent, the index of the real college life. When the student body demands clean and upright contests, and the various athletic teams go out with a full sense of their responsibility in representing their school, it shows the right spirit for a college. We are glad to say that here in Otterbein the student body demands clean athletics, and its teams work to the end of maintaining the honor of their Alma Mater.

This year we have had fast and winning teams. In football half the games were won, although four of the Big Nine teams were played. In basketball, we were proud of our team for it, too, had a good record: And now we have the best baseball team Otterbein has had for years, and a track team which is surely breaking records. Truly, Otterbein is in a healthy growing condition, as this athletic record shows.

We are a garrulous people, we never, never run out of talk. It is alright to talk; I pity the one who hasn't this accomplishment, but the trouble is, we don't know when to stop. In respect our friend, the Frenchman can teach us a lesson. He is an able conversationalist and when he talks he generally says something—but he knows when to keep still too—and we don't. When he attends a recital, a lecture, whatever it might be, he pays close attention. We go to recitals and lectures and prattle away as if we were the sole occupants of the room—that is, of course some of us, not all. The other evening in a nearby town the performer, stopped and refused to continue his selection until the audience became quiet. Of course, when their attention was called to the matter, the people ceased talking. Imagine the mind of the performer; he couldn't possibly do his best work when an incessant chattering is going on. Let us put the other fellow in our place, and at lectures, entertainments, etc., let us be Frenchified. At least try it.

A student is a round shouldered animal who wears specs. Well, now that strikes some of us, doesn't it? Yes, it seems that round shoulders and students go hand in hand, but this should not be. This is an age of square shouldered men, who are straight as a die with eyes of steel. How natural it is when we study, to assume a bent-over position and scratch down over desks or tables. Consequently our shoulders are getting rounder and rounder all the time. Now we can have square shoulders if we will. Let us have our tables or desks at proper heights so that we do not have to double ourselves up to read. In walking, walk head erect, eyes up and not on the ground. When we look down we receive our negative thoughts of evil, despair, etc. When we look up, we receive our thoughts of love, inspiration, optimism. Miss Student, Mr Student, come take a brace.

Election of Officers.

The local Alummal Association of Otterbein met Monday evening and elected the following officers: President, Dr. Snavely; secretary, Miss Alice Keister; treasurer, Miss Lulu Baker; chairman of banquet committee, Dr. O. B. Cornell.

New Park for Westerville.
A park is in the process of making around the C. A. & C. station. Cinders and dirt are being dumped by the car load filling up the place by several feet. Soil will be planted and several flower beds will add beauty to the scene. This idea has been agitated for some time and it is gratifying to see the work going on now. But this is merely one of the improvements in our village. With our new buildings, new park, etc., who knows we may annex Columbus as a suburb next.

Prof. D. S. Finton, professor of Psychology at Findlay High School, and noted hypnotist, will make some demonstrations before Dr. Sanders' Psychology class Wednesday evening. This will be a private demonstration and only members of the class will be admitted.

Monday evening the town team "Wiggle Stick" defeated the Brooks "Hasheaters" by the small score of 2 to 0.

Produce.
Produced! Cut loose! Be something of use! Turn a trick that's worth while, and don't stop for the style!
Let the method go hang,—what you need is some bang!
All the college degrees stretching down to the Z's
Will not hold you a bit if you dwindle and sit
In your arm chair, expecting that Fort une will hit
You a whack on the back with a gold laden sack!
It's not what you learn while the mid night lamps burn,
But the knowledge you use, that keeps up your dews
And pays for your laundry and han soms and shoes.
The chap who is "it" may not suit you a bit,
Because he has not even heard of San skrit;
But he's chock full of grit and "get up and git."
What he knows, he applies;
So he's ten times as wise
As you with your learning; for you are not turning
Your knowledge to power.
Come down from your tower!
You're too near the crowds,
And too far from the crowds.
You must learn how to mix,
Or you won't count two sticks,
And you'll never catch onto the prac tical tricks.
Conditions are drifting, and phases are shifting.
Your moth-eaten theories are getting a shift.
It's time to be turning,—what you need is unlearning, While you grope for the rule that they taught you in school,
Some A B-c less fool whose judgment is cool,
But whose ambition's not as likely as not
Has already managed to get on the spot.
And while you're hesitating, he's in­ testing
Life's cupboard to find where the jam jar is waiting.

The Hard Work Plan.

BY JONATHAN JONES
In The Business Philosopher.
From the lowest depths of poverty
To the highest heights of fame
From obscurity of position
To a bright and shining name,
From the mass of human beings
Who compose the common class
You can earn your way to greatness
By the Hard Work Plan.
'Twas the key to Lincoln's progress
'Twas the route to Webster's fame
And the path, by this method to destruction laid his claims
And all earth's noblest heroes
Since this old world began,
He called their way to honor
By the Hard Work Plan.
Go read the lives of note,

Consider their success;
What gave them wealth and eminence
Did lack or genius bring?
Biography will tell us that
The race through which they ran
Was the contest known to history
As the Hard Work Plan.
Don't worry over genius
Don't say you have no brains;
Don't sit and watch the stars of hope
Till the clouds bring up a rain;
But up and toil along the road,
And travel with the van,
And earn your way to greatness
By the Hard Work Plan.

straight? You know this is my first point and I must make a hit.

Miss Bookwalter (Discussing a theological question)—Doctor,
I don't want you to think me a heathen.

Richer (In Greek class)—Prof.,
I can't find the page to which you refer.

Prof. Cornetet (Examining Richer's book)—I should say you can't when you try to find it in the book we used last term.

Thompson—While we were out fishing the other day, Miss Bone-brake caught a good sized fish.

Grise—Yes I saw you (Thomson) coming home with your arms full.

Thompson—Full of what?
Grise—What do you suppose?

Somebody saw Luella Smith hem-stitching some linens in the English class last week.

It must soon be your turn to pass the cigars John.

Prof. Durant—Name a means of seed dissemination.

Hanawalt—Plant explosion.
DeVaux—(Laughing loudly,) its
the seed that explodes isn't it

Professor.

Rogers—What time did you get home last night?

Cornetet—At six o'clock this morning.

Miss Stouffer—You're just like a parlor lamp.

Daub—How's that.

Miss Stouffer—I turned you down but you won't go out.

$25 Reward offered to Finder of Parent's girl. Finder please leave at Hoffman's Drug store and receive Parent.

Mary Brown—I ate hash this morning—have felt like every-ing thing all day.

Sprin—Columbus disgusted America.

Strahl—While I was in Columbus they had an awful explosion!

Delpha—What was it?

Strahl—The wind blew up Gay Street.

Under the spring's ethereal bower.
Set Irene Wright and Tommy Mower,
Tommy's face beamed with delight,
And so did that of Irene Wright.

Said Irene to her Tommy dear
The end of school is nearly here.
How long must I be forced to wait?
To be the happiest in the state?

To soothe your heart, to fill with bliss,
I will with friendliness say this,
That Irene Wright and Tommy dear
Will announce—less than a year.

Bosard—I hear you had trouble
at the Bank?
Arnold—Just lost my balance,
that's all.

Some one would like to know,
if it costs "Bert" anything to ride
the book we used last term.

Dan Cupid is a marksmen poor,
Despite his love and kisses;
Far though he always hide the mark,
He's always making Mrs.
A freshman stood on the burning deck,
But as far as he could learn,
He stood in perfect safety,
For he was too green to burn.

"Bandy" growling about grub
at Brooks club ended in saying,
"Oh well, blessed are the persecuted."

Parent—"Yes, Bandy, you
'purr-so cute.'

Drury coming home after a long hunt, and with his clothes very muddy—"Oh! see this fine mess of mushrooms I have found."
On examination of them, it was found that Drury had about two dozens toadstools.

Miss Gehr—"Prof. Wagoner, why don't you learn to teach French too?"

Rudy—"I always have the catarrh so badly that I can not speak it."

The date for the rendering of the Cantata is June 2 instead of May 26, as recently announced.
