The Otterbein Review

Vol I WESTERVILLE, OHIO, May 31, 1909 No. 6

Nineteen Innings. — ONE GRAND VICTORY.

We’ve met the enemy and they are ours, ten runs, twenty hits, and nineteen innings of desperate effort. Let the many readers of the Review might think the game was easy, we need only remind them that Otterbein pounced upon Cooperider so hard that Capital has at last decided to ship him. He is scheduled to arrive in Zanesville next week and will doubtless keep in hiding for a few days. However, no one knows what day he will arrive for he has taken a peculiar liking to aerial navigation during the last few weeks and on last Saturday at 2:30 p.m. he bravely resolved to take the flight. Otterbein boys, anxious to see the ascension, were toiling away at the ropes below, loosening one after another.

Strike one! Strike two! biff! and the rubber. Capital came right back and it was the last inning of the game. Wagner flew to plate and Young struck out. Captain struck out. But Chan had nothing in their half. The shades of evening were beginning to fall when the eighteenth began. Wagner flew to Helby, Ket singled, Sanders following. Hope was high when Wineland was safe on Helby’s error. On a Fielder’s choice Coopy cut off Ket at the plate and Young struck out. Capital did nothing in their half.

On coming in Ket told the boys to gather up the bats as this would be the last inning of the game. “We’re going to win right now boys, let’s after him.” John struck out. Lloyd straightened out a fielder’s error. On a Fielder’s choice Coopy cut off Ket at the plate and Young struck out. Capital did nothing in their half.

The boys that this not sufficient to win and garnered three in the next frame, with hits by McFarren, Young and Lloyd. Capital came right back in their half with three, produced by two triples, a single, and a sacrifice fly. In the seventh they tied the score at 9-9 and here began one of the most grueling games in which our boys ever participated. Numerous spectacular plays abounded on both sides. Sanders was now rounding into form and began to shoot his ‘sizzlers’ over the pan, much to the disgust of the Capital players and roosters. As a sample of his splinter didn’t twist, and the excellent support back of him, we note that in the last twelve innings he caused Capital batters to pop the ball to fielders seventeen times and striking out ten men. While ‘Tink’ became stronger and surer in his delivery as the game advanced, Cooperider’s hot ones became less frequent.

BIG SIX TRACK MEET.
Prof. D. S. Finton Hypnotist.

Prof. D. S. Finton, Professor of Psychology in Findlay High School gave an address and a number of demonstrations before Dr. Sanders psychology class and friends in the chapel, Wednesday evening. Wonderful! Astounding! I am the only adjectives that can describe the great power of Prof. Finton. In a brief talk he showed the great benefit to be derived by the practice of hypnotism in the medical world, of the hypnotic influence of the teacher over the scholars and of the influence of the mother over the child. This influence will, only be of benefit to the child when positive suggestions are made. He deplored the fact that so many children have been ruined in mind and disposition by being "don'ted," "don'ted," "don'ted" in the first years of their life.

It was with comparative ease, that he brought under hypnotic influences those subjects that he so desired. About twenty-five students were on the stage and he hypnotized them singly and in groups.

Prof. Finton was with us two days and everyone who saw and heard him was greatly pleased and benefited.

Sandusky Conference Students.

The students of Sandusky conference held a rally and weiner roast Saturday evening May 22. A short business session was held and a constitution and by-laws were adopted. Arrangements were made for a rally to be held at Findlay in August. It was also suggested that as many students as can attend should attend the C.E. convention to be held at Chicago, O., and to take with them their pennants, Sibyl and college papers and make an effort to secure new students for Otterbein.

The officers of the association are:

President, L. E. Waiters.
Vice President, J. J. Dick.
Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Lella Bates.

Leander Clark Cardinal.

The Junior classes of Otterbein University and Leander Clark College are exchanging Junior Annuals for the libraries of their respective colleges.

The Leander Clark Annual, "The Cardinal," has been received and placed in the display case of the library.

While the general plan of the Cardinal is similar to the average Junior publication, nevertheless it has several original and unique features. Between its covers the reader will find much to provoke smiles and laughter, also beautiful poetry and interesting historical sketches. The book is well illustrated with half-tones and cartoons—we regret that there are not more of the latter.

To be brief, we are pleased to give The Cardinal a place in our library.

College Education According To "Life."

"Life" for May 20 is a college number and contains at least a few pointed and piquant sayings about colleges in general. Of course "Life" knows all about colleges, college spirit, college athletics, etc. for "Life" knows everything or is supposed to. The following is an "essay" on "College Education."

"Education is the art of rememering what the dead Greek said in Athens and forgetting what the live Greek is doing in the shoe-shining emporiums of our large cities, of glorifying the graces of ancient Roman literature and glossing the grease of modern Roman railroad construction crews.

It can tell the exact cause of the Crimean War, but not the cause of the criminal war, much less the remedy. It can tell how to conjugate irregular verbs but not how to correct conjugal irregularities. It knows the inmost life of the cave dwellers of prehistoric times, but very little of the life of the cave dwellers of modern tenements. It knows all about Gaul that Caesar described, but pays no attention to the gall manifested by our frenzied financial Cresars. It knows the inmost life of the permanent-class memento. Get them.

Relay Record Smashed.

The Big Six meet has come and gone and Otterbein was again victorious in the relay. Weibling, Rogers, Essig and Ditmer trotted in Class A and showed up our old opponent, Capital in fine shape. When the tape was touched their man was lost in Ditmer's dust.

In short, education is so busy with the classics of the dead past that it has no time for the classes of the live present.

Editorials.

Examinations are almost here. We have already heard some pupils say "I must begin to study for exams." Crank, crank, crank, is the one thing heard on all sides near the end of a term of school.

We do not advise cramming, no professors advise it, and ten chances to one the things you cram will not be the things asked in the examination.

There are reasons, too, from a physical standpoint why we should not cram. It necessitates a greater amount of mental effort than one is in the habit of expending. This, coupled with the nervous worry which some students seem disposed to inject into examinations is why so many come out of half dead, as we say.

Again, that knowledge which we gain in cramming is forgotten immediately. When we crank we do it with the intention of remembering it only until the examinations are over. Thus nothing has been added to our store of knowledge. Why not distribute these extra cramming hours evenly throughout the term and thereby be able to keep the facts which you cannot keep by cramming. Give this matter your best judgment and don't crank.

A business house rule is, "Be loyal to the house." Business men of today know that the men who are worth most to them in dollars and cents are those men who are loyal to the House. Can we not get a lesson from this? We should be loyal to our Alma Mater, Old Otterbein. This loyalty is not just a passing word, but consists in standing up for O. U. no matter what is said against her. It also means an Otterbein spirit through and through—to be so filled with that spirit that you think and feel Otterbein. Only a few more days and we leave Otterbein for a little while at least. This summer shall we not speak a good word for Otterbein wherever and whenever we can? Who knows? a word at the right time and place may bring a student here in the fall. There is one man in college who has been instrumental in bringing seven persons to college. This man should set an example for us. If every student should bring just one, look at the school we would have in the fall. We hear some fellows from the Eastern schools say there is no place like Yale, Harvard, or Princeton. Can we not say in reply, There is no place like Otterbein! Be loyal.

Once more the file and drum! Once more the veteran old. Once more the march to the cemetery where his departed comrades lie. Once more to strew flowers on the graves of those he loved so well. Once more, but ah! the ranks are thinner this year, the banner is a little more faded, the steps of the heroes are less steady. Every year they are fewer and fewer and time will come soon when they will be no more. The Blue and the Gray are passing. A few years and but their names remain. On this Memorial Day let us stop a moment from the rush of life and give a thought to the passing veteran. For the dead, a little flower placed on the grave will give you joy even if no one but yourself knows it. For the living, a cheerful word, a glad smile, a kind act will bring gladness to the heart of the veteran and peace to your soul. They are passing—let us make them happy while they are with us. Today, hats off. Honor to whom honor is due.

Love’s Vassal.
By Mrs. T. W. Farrin.
If I were God and had the world at my command,
Or if his dear Son were to ever near me stand,
To plend the passion that man denied
Before the cruel spear had pierced his side,
And if possessed of this world’s fairest charms,
I felt the thrill of love’s faint, sweet alarms
And had all gifts from Heaven above
And from earth too, but that one great gift, Love
Should choose from all the rest but one face, Thine,
I’d ne’er contented be, till thou, too wet’t mine.
Mine to love till dawn’s most witching hour,
Where no shades of night should creep into my bowers,
But ever and continual, one bright golden light
That entirely deepened the jeweled stars of night,
I’d love thee, nay, the words but tell the half,
As thou didst lead me on through wisdom’s path,
And once arrived within their magic gate,
Together kneeling we would wait
And crave solution to the mystery
Of two souls locked in sweetest unitv
Thou holdest the key to mine which I have loosed,
In one wild winged flight throughout love’s universe
For thou art so strong, that thy base
Doth force my quivering soul to rest,
When too much love should set me alight
Thou art the glorious sun and I the beam.

The devotional committee has been especially active this term in receiving the services of speakers outside the student body. The truth of this statement is demonstrated by the good attendance. Last Thursday evening Prof. Cornet led the meeting. His topic was a comparative study between the Gods of these two nations were both Gods of power but that the God of the Hebrews surpassed in this stage of the meeting Miss Walter led the meeting. His topic was a comparative study between the Greek and Hebrew religion and ethics. He said that the Gods of these two nations were both Gods of power but that the God of the Hebrews surpassed in that, he was a God of goodness also. He discussed the teachings of the founders of philosophy Socrates and Plato, and showed how nearly akin they are to the teachings of The Great Teacher.

The subject was made very interesting and instructive. Prof. Cornet also presented diplomas to those who had completed the four year Bible course as outlined by the Y. M. C. A.
