A Successful Season.

The final windup of the baseball schedule was to have occurred Saturday with Denison at Granville. However inclement weather prevented the "tan and cardinal" from bringing home a victory. The management has used every inducement to have a return game with Kenyon played but to no avail. Even a final offer to play the game here today for a cash consideration of about $25 was not even considered by them, correspondence not even being answered. What's the matter, Kenyon? Brace up and show your colors.

All a person can do now is to sit in his easy chair and think of our season as a whole. In the first place we were favored with good weather enabling us to play nine out of the eleven hard games scheduled. This is a record and more so when we consider the fact that the games not played were the last on the schedule. Then when we consider the make-up of the team we have reasons to feel proud. Captain Ketner has made us an efficient man and led the boys in a masterly way, always inspiring in them confidence and enthusiasm. In years past it has been noticed that profane language has been indulged in to a certain extent. However its absence this year has been noticed and discussed by many of the boys. If an athletic team is to receive the hearty support of the college the members of that team must show themselves "men" everywhere and always. We would be very glad to make mention of every man but space will not permit.

It will suffice to say that every man regarded the team's interest before his own and was in the game to win.

Financially we have more than held our own, coming through with about twenty-five dollars clear of all expenses. The season just closed has shown a loyalty from the student body not manifested in years. Even on a stormy day when snow and rain were falling, 128 braved the weather to show their spirit and interest in the boys. The Ohio State game proved to be a record breaker in point of attendance, three hundred and twenty-five paid admissions being registered.

The season closed with five victories and four defeats. The best schools in the state were played and Ohio State beaten 13-6. Then the boys gave O. W. U. a run for their money being defeated 1-0. Their hardest defeat came from the hands of O. W. U. 10-0. They consoled themselves in the fact that hardly any college team can win from a bunch of professional ball tossers. Undoubtedly the best game was played with Capital when we came out victors 10-9 in that memorial nineteen inning game on May 29th. It is even more sweet when we know that Cooperider at last was stung.

The team as a whole batted .161. Captain Ketner led in individual batting with a percentage of .225. Keister second with .220 and Lloyd third with .210.

While our opponents scored 44 runs we gathered in forty-three of the same type. Only one regular is lost by graduation and this fact points to a winner for 1910. Then with due regard for the past let us think of the future and what it has in store for Otterbein in this line of sport.

As manager I desire to say that my relations with the boys have been of the most pleasant character.

I shall always remember each and every man for his spirit, loyalty and service to O. U.

L. C. HENSEL.

Personal Items.

M. O. Titus, '08, is visiting us a few days. Looks good to see him among us again.

Mr. Welch brother to C. A. Welch '09, is visiting Westerville for a few days.

We are all pleased to see W. D. Kring, '07 visiting Otterbein again. Mr. Kring's calls become more frequent each year. We all wonder why.

B. W. Saul, '09, spent a few days last week in Pennsylvania where he was employed in the Harrisburg high school for the following year.

Mr. R. A. Wales has returned to us again to enjoy the commencement exercises and to be in summer school.

Mr. Daugherty is visiting his son George during commencement.

Others who are in town are: E. C. Worman, '07; James A. Barnes, '94; E. L. Weinland.

Rev. Mauer, of Beatrice, Nebraska, is here to see Tommy get his sheepskin.

Baccalaureate Services.

The main auditorium and balcony of the college chapel was filled to its limit Sunday morning when Bishop G. M. Mathews delivered his masterful sermon on "Christian Heroism," taking his text in Luke 9:51, "He steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem." He said that true Christian heroism consisted not in meeting and fighting foes from without but in stubbornly contending with foes within ourselves. At 7:30 p. m. Prof. W. G. Clippinger, of Bonebrake Theological Seminary, delivered the address at the Anniversary of Christian Associations. His subject was, "True Greatness in the Average Man."

Presidents Reception.

On Saturday evening, from 7 to 10 o'clock, President Bookwalter gave a reception for all students, alumni and friends of the college on the lawn at the President's residence. The lawn was brilliantly lighted by Japanese lanterns. These lanterns adorned the walk on either side to the street and were hung from tree to tree over the lawn. President Bookwalter, wife and daughter Grace, Bishop Mathews and wife, Miss Myrtle Karg, President of senior class, and Mr. L. E. Walters, Vice President of the class, made up the receiving line. Punch was served indoors to the older persons and on the lawn to the young people.

Sybil.

At six o'clock on June 1st, according to promise the Juniors handed out the result of their year's efforts in the form of the Sybil. We congratulate them on the result of their effort and do not hesitate to say that it is the best Sybil ever published in the history of Otterbein.

Ohio.

alk of Florida's skies so blue,
Or of New York's scenery fair.
But these or skies of a brighter hue,
Cannot with Ohio compare.

Ohio is a land of fruit and flowers,
A land of good things to eat.
Its cities are adorned with buildings and bowers
Making its beauty complete.

Better than all the forests of Maine
Or the great wide plains of the West,
Are Ohio's vast fields of grain;
And her industries, too, are the best.

Wide valleys have been formed by rivers and rills

Whose waves dash over the shore.
Rich coal mines lie among the hills
With beds of red iron ore.

In New York the people say "naow and caow,"

And many words strange to hear.
But in Ohio we just say "now,"
So their talk to us sounds queer.

Ohio men get there,
Ohio men never are late,
Ever engaged in warfare,
Hurrah! for the Buckeye state.
—X. Y. Z., '12.

The Art Department Display.

While enjoying the various commencement exercises do not fail to take a walk through the Art rooms and see some evidence of what has been done this past year. We have an excellent Art Department under the supervision of an excellent principal and instructors and the articles on exhibition but attest the high character of the work done.

Captain Weinland.

At 7:30 this morning the diamond defenders of the Tan and Cardinal assembled and chose Park Weinland '12 to captain next year's team. From the enthusiasm manifested, the new captain is assured of the hearty support of each of his teammates.

Autobiography of Alum Creek Bridge.

"I stood on the bridge at midnight,
As the clocks were striking the hour,
And the moon rose over the city
Behind the old church tower."

They say it's good taste to head chapters of stories and things with a verse or two and that's the reason I put this little verse above my autobiography. I am only a common, ordinary bridge over Alum Creek. I haven't lived for centuries, but my! I could write volumes on what I've seen and heard. I came into existence when some engineers came along (I suppose that is what you call them) and with some carpenters they put me together. You see I was just iron railings and boards and beams before that time. Any of my parts singly are not worth a bolt, but altogether we make a pretty good bridge. Sometimes I imagine I am something like a man. I give good service until one of my parts begin to decay or give way and then a man comes and puts in a new beam or two, patches me up and I am alright again. If I wasn't repaired, I would become so bad that nobody could use me any more. When a man gets sick he has to be repaired and fixed up and then he is as well as ever.

I have had quite a romantic life. Of course I couldn't help where they were going to put me and when they threw me across Alum creek at Westerville I was glad for you know this is a college town and college towns have young people and young people like to take walks and—well that's how I became acquainted with so many of 'em. Some of them are very nice, they talk real nice and quiet like and I can scarcely hear what they say, but some are noisy, boisterous things who jump up and make a great disturbance,

These young people come down to see me at all hours in the day. One morning 'long 'bout four o'clock, a couple woke me up and I heard the girl say she had to slip out of the "Dorm" (whatever that may be) real easy for fear of waking the matron. I heard the boy say he was going to hunt mushrooms, and I laughed at this for I could imagine seeing the number of mushrooms a young couple would gather. I am most popular in the evening 'long 'bout twilight, I can see 'em come from Everall's corner and they are never in a hurry, always slow, slow, slow, and when they get to me they stop, about the center on the south side. Then they look down in old Alum Creek. They stay a long time and say pretty things about me and the creek and the moon. I often wondered why those foolish people talked to the moon the way they did. If the old fellow only knew, he'd stay up all the time. Some call him, "Good old moon," "dear old moon" "pretty moon" and the old fellow winks and seems to nod his head as if he were pleased mightily.

Sometimes these lovers coo coo isn't that what you call it? and say pretty dear things to each other and yes, one time, mind you just once, I saw a young man kiss a young lady right in the cheek, (beg pardon) I mean in the moonlight. I promised I wouldn't tell, but here I've broken my promise already.

Of course I could tell you of the wagons and buggies and people that pass over me, but it's the young folks that I like to talk about. You know it seems that I can hear 'em say, "Let's go down to the bridge." I am flattered then for I know they are talking of me.

I could tell heaps and heaps and heaps about myself but I am a modest timid bridge and don't want to attract attention. Maybe I'll tell some more some other time.

"Daniel"

"Daniel," the sacred cantata given by the college chorus and assisted by Miss Mary Weinland and Miss Mary Best, was highly appreciated by a large audience. Mrs. Whalen and Professor Grabbill are to be congratulated on the splendid success or the chorus. The program follows:

Editorials.

This is the last issue of the Review for the school year. In our maiden effort, seven weeks ago stated that it was our desire to give all the news of old Otterbein every week. We have tried to be faithful to our trust. If we have succeeded, in a small measure at least, we are glad. The task of running a college paper is not a small one and it is only by hearty cooperation of every one in school the paper has succeeded. To our friends who have assisted us we give our heartiest thanks.

The Otterbein Review will live. This spring has just seen the start. Next year, with the help of students and friends, we shall continue our task of disseminating news and good cheer to all those who have a kindly feeling toward Otterbein. We do not wish to prophecy, but it is hoped that the Review will be one of the fixtures of the institution.

It is always sad to say Good Bye to our friends. This year thirty seven Seniors leave Old Otterbein, some of them never to return. Four years at least have been spent in these old walls. Four years we have talked with you, walked with you, played with you, and in fact have got right down into your very hearts. Yes, it is sad for us to say fare well to you we know, so well but there is joy as well. We are all proud of you, glad you have conquered the battles of college and are ready to receive a diploma from your Alma Mater. They say we are a part of every one we meet, then we have received some of your life and you have imbibed some of ours. We shall miss your familiar faces but then we know that you are here in spirit for you will be using every day something of your college life. We just learn how to live here and put that knowledge into practice when we depart. Of course, you are the greatest class ever graduated from Otterbein. It is natural—this class egotism—but it is good we have such a feeling. Let us maintain this spirit after receiving our diplomas and show to the world that "our" class is in reality the "greatest." Records count. Make a record.

Y. W. C. A.

The last meeting of Y. W. C. A. was held in the Association Hall on June 1. It was the annual alumnal meeting led by Otis Flook. Special music was rendered in the form of solos by Miss Mary Best, accompanist, Miss Lulu Baker, and by Miss Myrtle Saul. Scripture reading was from the 91st Psalm. The chief address was given by Mrs. Pilkington, on the subject, "My Mistakes in College." She told the girls of her mistakes while in Otterbein and expressed the desire that they might profit by the mistakes of others and that if a knowledge of her her mistakes would be a benefit to any girl she was anxious to tell them.

Y. M. C. A.

The annual Senior meeting of Y. M. C. A. occurred Thursday evening with G. C. Daugherty as leader. His subject was "The Parting Word," with scripture reading from the first chapter of Mark. Prayers were offered by Mr. Menke and Mr. Cooper, of Dayton. Mr. Daugherty in the course of his remarks said that seniors, on coming to the close of college days realize the mistakes they have made. We are apt to neglect are religious duties. He advised against this, as Seniors all join in saying that had they their college college life to live over would devote a greater amount of time to Y. M. C. A. He affirmed that the greatest thing in college was Y. M. C. A. Great possibilities and opportunities await the college man if he is a whole man and he cannot be a whole man without the religious element in his life. He closed by saying that it is up to the college man to be a man-maker not a money-maker. All Seniors present gave splendid talks. The Y. M. C. A. wishes its outgoing Seniors the greatest possible success.

WHEN YOU'RE IN A PECK OF TROUBLE, AND THE WORLD SEEMS TO DERIDE,
DON'T LET YOURSELF FORGET IT—
THERE IS A SUNNY SIDE.

Miss Nelson seeing Gifford with four fishing poles—"Are you going fishing?"

Hensel, a Senior—"My father used to be a Democrat all his life."

The same old points—no one being canned—commencement week.

Speak gently professor, the day is so warm.

Speak gently, I'll sing thee a song from the Dorm,

My Tommy's asleep right
under your nose,

Speak gently, Professor, disturb not repose. MARGARET.

Anyone know why some one called cook a heathen the other day? Guess.

Wenger making an announcement in chapel—"Tis a sad occasion. We who have sauntered up and down the paved streets of Westerville may never meet again. I say we may never meet again. I say"

Muskoff (eight o'clock in the morning)—"Locke, aren't you ashamed to be caught in bed this time of the day?"

Locke—"Yes, but I would rather be ashamed than to get up."

Dick observed singing in chap-most lustily—"Tis Grace,—'tis Grace, 'tis wonderful Grace."

Some more nice people in the institution. Did you notice the Mis—Giffords the other evening?

Perce, what did you do in the chemistry test?

"Flunked, what do you suppose I would do?"

Any one know why Horace Drury is so pale and nervous lately? He told me not to tell and so I won't. You know some one took the tapper out of the college bell, but I won't squeal.

Bessie—"Roy, you are the light of my life."

A voice from above—"Besse, put out the light,"

Prof. Weinland to Prof. Grabill: "Professor if you don't stop eating so many apples you will die of apple-lexy (apolexy.)

Clatter, clatter, clatter,
All the livelong day,
Men may come and men may go,
But on goes Hazel May.

There is a young man named Banteen,
He's not fat nor awfully lean;
To be a sport he does try,
How we pity the poor guy,
For he still looks like a big bean.

Prof. Weinland seeing Perce and Miss Fouts coming down the street with a wooden box 6x2x2 ft.—"What do they have in that box?"

Helen Weinland, seriously—
"I suppose it is a new dress for Helen (Fouts.)"

Weaver seeing Agnes and De-vaux acting over affectionate as usual—"Yes, I used to be foolish like they are, but I am too old for that now."

"How about it, Miss Gifford?"

Why was Minnie the last to leave the second year French Test?

A few who will remain in Westerville this summer—

Prof. Kohler—Ada.

Devaux—Agnes.

Bennett—Almira.

Grise—Blanche.

Thompson—Margaret.

Nunnemaker—Edith.

Williams—Rhea.

Tink—Ruth.

Brooks—Helen.

Mattis—Bessie.

Prof. Dodger—Miss Not-to-be dodged.
