Co-op Aids Student Careers

BY LISA PRICE

Practical work experience, good income, better job opportunities and academic credit are just some of the benefits through Otterbein's Cooperative Education program.

The Co-op program, which is headed by Frank Mitchell, was originated two years ago to provide students with the opportunity of on-the-job training while still in college. Mitchell feels the training provides valuable insight for effectively evaluating the upcoming, "real world," work force.

Frequently it seems that many graduates find themselves totally disillusioned about that rosy-colored career they had anticipated. Instead of finding

Pub Board Seeks Applicants

The Publications Board has announced that applications are now being accepted for all editorial positions of the Tan & Cardinal and of the Sibyl for the 1978-79 academic school year.

The paid positions open in the Sibyl editorial staff are Editor-in-Chief, Assistant Editor, and Photography Editor.

The position of Business Manager is also open for the Sibyl.

Positions open for the T&C include Editor, Managing Editor, Business Manager and Photography.

Any interested students should send a letter of application stating reasons for applying, previous experience, and any other pertinent background information to Tim O'Flynn, Chairman of the Publications Board, 120 Davis Hall. Deadline for applications is noon, Friday, May 12, 1978.

TRUSTEE CANDIDATES SOUND OFF

Nancy Bocskor

The position of student trustee implies responsiveness to the needs of students while maintaining a good rapport with the faculty and administration. I have the experience needed to fulfill these qualities.

Although involvement in the governance system is important it is equally important to avoid being locked into one type of participation.

In addition to perfect attendance at Senate meetings, I am involved in many activities that allow interaction between myself, students, and the administration.

These include, to name a few, Judicial Council, College Republicans and Sigma Alpha Tau (Owls) Sorority. In each I have assumed a leadership role.

Communication with the students should place highly on the trustee's list of priorities. The average student does not readily offer his or her opinion on campus issues. Setting up office hours just is not enough. A trustee must reach out to the students, talk to them, and determine how they feel.

The recent tuition hike prompts our concern. I would like to explore the alternatives to future increased in tuition. The recent released figures indicating telephone vandalism of $11,000 since September totals the tuition of two students. If we eliminate such needless costs as vandalism, money could be more wisely applied to improvement and maintenance of existing college facilities.

I would like to explore the feasibility of alternative meal plans. If students do not have the occasion to dine 21 times during the week they should not be charged for missed meals. This procedure has worked well at other colleges.

The question of health care presents another important issue. The Health Center has been simply the site of too many "mistakes" which jeopardize the well-being of the campus population. More care should be used in the selection of the staff that serves the Otterbein community.

I want to be open to your ideas if I am chosen to represent you. I will be as accessible as possible to answer your questions or listen to your concerns. I would invite anyone to discuss with me my stands on issues. Hopefully this will show that communication is more than just a slogan — it is an important part of my commitment to be an effective trustee.

Kent Stuckey

What students want when they elect a student trustee is for their voice to be heard; for the actions of the governance system to greatly reflect a consideration for the students. Nearly all students have questions about college policies and suggestions for changing them. The issues concerning alcohol, visitation, curriculum, food quality, the Health Center and many more are all influenced by decisions of the governance system. It is to the student's advantage to have a representative at the highest level who is interested in the desires of the student body and knows how to work them into the system. This representative must be qualified, willing to take on the responsibilities of the position, and in touch with the students.

I have been active in governance these past two years as a member of senate, administrative council and regulations committee. I am sponsoring various governance proposals at the present. In addition I have written eight articles for the T&C that explained the system and reported on governmental action.

Living on campus these past three years and having wide involvement in many organizations has given me an advantage in understanding student concerns. I am familiar with the wide range of governance issues, have worked with the trustees on many of them and will NOT be intimidated while representing the students.

I propose a more effective approach to the position of student trustee. I have attended the last four meetings of trustees on this campus (one meeting of the full board).

I have seen students function in the role and have learned from it. Students rarely speak and their voting power is limited since they comprise only 10% of the board.

This final stage of the governance system only meets in full twice a year. Effective student input can be greatly increased through student proposals and increased student influence at the committee level.

One student trustee, no matter how active, can have as much influence as a motivated body of student senators and committee members. The student trustee can provide the leadership for this increased student influence at lower levels.

The governance system can be an effective tool for the students, if the proper leadership is made available.

WOBN will air the Stuckey/Bocskor debate Tuesday, April 25, at 8 p.m. Students are encouraged to call 557 to address the candidates on pertinent issues.

In My Opinion . . .

Campaign Concern

Dear Editor:

Having once been a contender for the student trustee race, I feel it is necessary for me to comment on a recent development in the run-off campaigns. Somehow I am finding it difficult to justify in my own mind just what the point of a "certain" pizza ad in last week's T&C paper is.

When I first saw the ad, I was quite upset . . . to say the least. To put it bluntly I found it appalling! Having given it a lot of thought, it seems to me that such campaign strategy is not necessary. In fact, I would not even call it strategy, I would call it ignorance.

Rumors have been circulating that in this letter I am going to endorse a "certain" candidate. This I will not do. I will go as far as to state that each one of you should take a close look at each candidate. Familiarize yourself with each candidate's proposals. Do not be fooled by the "double standards" that are going on. Vote for the candidate that you feel will best represent the student body — someone who will voice your opinions.

I hope I haven't stepped on too many people's toes, but I had to let you know how I feel. In closing, I would like to thank those students who voted for me. Remember, your vote counts . . .

Sincerely yours,
Candy Griesinger

It Sounded Amusing

BY JAY KEGLEY

"How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank! Here we will sit, and let the sounds of music creep in our ears."

"The sounds of music," The Sound of Music. I was recently informed, by a professor, that the above Shakespearian words are, or were, the impetus for the movie-musical's title — The Sound of Music. Fine I say. Maybe true I nod. But need one go to Shakespeare for such a common expression? Maybe "the sound" or "sounds of music," is only common because of Shakespeare's prominence; that is, maybe "the sounds of music" is now much used because Shakespeare used it so appropriately. Maybe. Maybe. Maybe. However, I think not.

What else can music do but sound? It is poetic and title-perpetuating to say—the sound which music makes? If so, then why stop at "sounds of music"? Why not include "sweet" from the above quote, in the source-market of movie titles? Proposal — Hush Hush Sweet Charlotte is a movie title derived from the Shakespearian words, "How Sweet." Proposal—Paper Moon is a movie title selected with attention to the Shakespearian words, "the moonlight." If these suggestions seem ridiculous—good. Perhaps the reader will experience the same thinking as I did upon hearing the above mentioned application.

Excuse me Rodgers and Hammerstein; Excuse me Shakespeare; Excuse me Dr. . .

American Professional Schools Ranked

Does the consensus about the standing of professional schools extend beyond deans to the faculty members and practitioners in the profession? For two types of schools, recent research makes it possible to answer the question of whether the reputations of professional schools among deans reported here are indicative of their wider reputations in the field. In an as yet unpublished study of medical schools, the results of which have been made available, Jonathan R. Cole and James Lipton of Columbia University asked a stratified random sample of 583 medical faculty members to evaluate the quality of schools of medicine. Four of the five top-ranking medical schools in the judgment of deans, as shown here, are also among the top five in the judgment of faculty members. The sole exception is Duke, which ranks only seventh in the faculty ratings. Eight of the ten top-ranking schools are the same in the two studies. Thus, there is considerable agreement between deans and faculties in the evaluations of medical schools.

The reputations of professional schools in different areas and among different groups of professionals appear to be sufficiently similar to make overall ratings of their reputations meaningful. The reason that recognized quality in various areas is similar might be that qualities of all kinds in professional schools depend on economic resources. Higher education of good quality is an expensive enterprise. Indeed, research has shown that the affluence of universities is closely related to their academic standing.

Universities are academic communities that make intellectual as well as financial contributions to their professional schools. The stimulating academic atmosphere at a major university helps to attract good faculty and students to its professional schools and enhances the school's reputations. One might therefore expect that the reputations of professional schools are closely related to the reputations of the universities to which they belong. This expectation is strengthened when one looks at the rankings, which show that five universities with outstanding reputations — Berkeley, Chicago, Columbia, Harvard, and Michigan — have the greatest numbers of top-ranking professional schools. Nevertheless, the data on all professional schools do not support this expectation. The reputation of a professional school and that of its university (based on the Roose-Anderson ratings) are only weakly correlated. But there is a condition in universities that is substantially correlated with the reputation of professional schools of all types, with the partial exception of nursing, and that is the size of the university library. A university's large library is indicative of a strong academic climate in which professional schools flourish. Such a climate provides incentives for mobilizing whatever resources are necessary to improve a school's quality and its reputation.

The following lists represent the rankings of the professional schools named as the top five by at least 10 percent of the responding deans in their profession. The deans were not asked to rank schools but simply to list the five they consider best in their field, and the rankings are based on the number of deans who mentioned a given school as one of the best. (Self-ratings — that is, nominations of schools by their own deans — are excluded.)

Foreign Language Festival Slated

Otterbein's annual Foreign Language Festival will take place this Saturday, April 22. Although the festival is designed primarily for the 400 to 500 high school students who will be in attendance, Otterbein students are encouraged and welcome to attend the events.

The French film Traffic may be of particular interest. The 90-minute film, starring Jacques Tati, will be shown continuously in Lemay Auditorium from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Other activities include an International Variety Show in Cowan Hall from 1-2 p.m. and a dance show which will be presented by the Philippino-American Society of Central Ohio from 2 to 3 p.m.

The Foreign Language Department urges Otterbein students to attend these functions.

The high school students will be dining in the Campus Center, so college students might want to eat lunch early or late on Saturday to avoid the rush.

Field Trip

For those members of the Winter Term I.S. 36 Class who would like to join us on a field trip to Perkins Observatory, we are planning to go tomorrow (Saturday, April 22). We leave from the King Hall parking lot, west end of the Science Building at 2:30 p.m.

The tour includes a short hike to the Radio Telescope followed by a tour through the main building of the observatory. We should return to the campus by 5:30 at the latest.

If you wish to go please check in on the sign-up sheet in Room S144 this afternoon or you may call Dr. Barnhart at 882-6711 this evening or Saturday morning.

Whatever Shel-by!

Hitch Your Wagon to a Star

BY SHELBY

The social life at Otterbein leaves much to be desired. When I can spend a Friday night doing nothing, but watching the Incredible Hulk turn green, something has to be wrong.

My case is not unusual. At the Jonda house, their big excitement is watching Paul Johnson do Marlin Perkins for the 402nd time. And not to go into any detail, the rumors about the Twinks are true. On any weekend, Sphinx keeps the Jello market in business.

Dorm life is no better. In Mayne Hall, Mike Liebher and Steve Fackler are having a contest to see whose hair will grow the fastest. First Floor Hanby is holding cockroach races between the rest room and the fire extinguisher. Davis Hall is trying to sell the Annex back to the Indians. And finally, Clements Hall is building a life-size Burt Reynolds out of Dining Hall French Fries.

For my own part, I have decided to relieve some of the boredom by running a contest. I have titled my contest the

"Become the Girlfriend of a Famous T&C Columnist" contest. This is a chance for all you young women out there to be seen with a famous celebrity. Me.

The rules are simple: Any female between the ages of 18 and 23 is eligible. There are a few restrictions. Females only, no transvestites. I have enough complexes already. Those over 6'2" need not apply, unless you have an extraordinary personality.

Send all applications to:
THE SHELBY CONTEST
161 N. State Street
Westerville, Ohio 43081

Please include your qualifications, a photo, and any references. Use pencil or pen, no crayons, as some of the guys in the house may try to steam open the letters.

This is really an opportunity, women of Otterbein. I am reasonably healthy, have all my teeth, and have a great sense of humor. This is your chance to say "I'm going out with Shelby." Don't pass it up. I am looking forward to hearing from you. Avily.

Mime Artist to Appear

Mime Artist Graciela Binaghi will present a lecture-demonstration Tuesday, at 10 a.m. in Cowan Hall in conjunction with the Otterbein Lecture Series. The last Otterbein appearance of Affiliate Artist Graciela was in October 1976.

Graciela has studied with Marceau at his school in Paris. In 1972 her group, The Mask and Mime Theatre, joined the Affiliate Artists program. In 1975 Graciela's group represented the United States at the Inter-American Mime Festival in Buenos Aires, Argentina. The group was awarded a Gold Medal for a piece entitled "In the Fun House", which dealt with magic and illusion.

Graciela's lecture, as well as her Affiliate Artist appointment in Central Ohio, is being co-presented by Otterbein College and the Greater Columbus Arts Council, with sponsorship coming from the Pantasote Company and additional financial support from the Ohio Arts Council.

The Lecture is open to the public with no admission charge. Students and faculty are encouraged to attend.

the job adventurous, exciting, and rewarding, it is boring, underdemanding, and simply NOT what they expected! Certainly Co-op isn't a cure-all to this common problem, but it does aid in allowing a person to evaluate objectively whether he has come close in choosing the proper field.

Junior Eric Merz spent the last six months working in sales and public relations for the Cleveland Indians. About the experience he said, "I feel so much older, more equipped in defining my priorities and knowing what I want to eventually do."

Senior Ricardo Murph shares similar feelings about the Co-op experience. "It makes me that much more hireable to a perspective employer." Additionally he feels that he gained knowledge about people "that isn't taught along with the rest of the theory I received in the classroom." Murph worked for Huntington National Bank as a customer service representative. He felt the job gave him a more "well rounded perspective."

Recently Ray Bauer, general manager of accounting for Landmark Inc. of Columbus, came to Otterbein to interview interested Co-op students for a position in the accounting department. He sees the program as a "two way street," designed to benefit both the employer and the student. Contrary to popular belief, he felt grades were not what was important, but rather personality, maturity and degree of seriousness. These elements are much more significant for being successful," Bauer said.

The Co-op program is open to any upper classman and has a total number of 20 students in participation. The student involved in Co-op works with the employer for a minimum of six months and is awarded some academic credit. Placement in Co-op will correspond with the student's major. Interested parties may call Frank Mitchell at ext. 321.

WOBN's remote coverage of last Saturday's CPB Scavenger Hunt was a success under Janet Willeke, WOBN's special events director, who organized the disc jockies and engineers for this event.

Two Recitals Highlight Weekend

Miss Marianne Watkins will present her senior flute recital Saturday, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Hall Auditorium.

Miss Watkins, a senior Music Education major from Sidney, Ohio, will be accompanied by Rande Blackwood on "Senatine for Flute at Piano" and by Professor Larry Rhoades, playing organ on "Sonata II in Eb Major for Flute" by Bach.

Linda Jones, a senior piano and music education major will assist Miss Watkins on "Sonata No. 1 in D Major for Two Flutes" by Telemann.

The final number will be "Trois pieces breves" by Ibert for Woodwind Quintet.

Thomas McLeish will perform a very unique percussion recital Sunday, April 23 at 8:15 p.m.. Tom, a senior music education major, is originally from Newark, Ohio and now resides in Columbus with his wife, Kathy.

The recital will include a variety of percussion instruments. Such as marimba, vibes, piano, log drums, triangle and ping pong balls.

Among the numbers to be performed are "Granada", "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" and "November 1974." Pat Wallen, an elementary education major, will accompany Tom on piano during "Sonata No. 1 for Timpani and Piano" and also "Concertine for Marimba." Ron McClelland, a music education major, will also assist on Tom's original composition for two field drums, entitled, "Flash."

The recitals are free and open to the public.

Otterbein Sports

Otters Take Two More Meets

BY SCOTT BROCKETT

The Cardinal cindermen continued their infallible performance in dual, triangular and quadrangular meets last week by registering victories both Wednesday and Saturday.

During Wednesday's meet against Marietta and Heidelberg, Otterbein grabbed victories in 11 events to ice an easy conquest with 101 points. The Pioneers followed with 50 points while Heidelberg trailed with 18½.

Sophomore Chuck Amstutz qualified for the OAC Championships in the triple jump with a leap of 43'9½". He joined Bob Talpas, Marlon Mathews and Roger Winemiller as Cardinal qualifiers in that event.

Saturday the Otters hosted and captured a meet against Ohio Northern, Wittenberg and Capital. Otterbein compiled 72 points to out-distance the Polar Bears and their total of 48 points.

According to Coach Porter Miller the highlight of the meet was the team's performance in the 220 yard dash. Sophomore Curtis Whitmore won the event, posting a time of 22.1, and directly behind him were Jeff Jones (22.3) and Kevin Brown (22.5).

All three sprinters qualified for the OAC Championships to bring Otterbein's total number of qualifiers at present to eleven.

Kyle Yoest turned in his top vault of the season when he cleared 14' in the process of taking first place. Yoest has already qualified for the conference meet.

Another solid effort came from senior Jim Oman. He won the 440 yard intermediate hurdles in 52.1, a time which Miller termed as "excellent for this early in the season."

Overall, Miller analyzed the meet favorably. "We had a tremendous team effort and I think we had too much depth for the other teams," he said.

Tomorrow the Otters will try to extend their recent successes, as they host Denison and Oberlin in a meet to begin at 1:30 p.m. in the stadium.

The Old is Replaced By the Young

BY GEOFF LAYMAN

When looking at the teams in the N.B.A. playoffs I just can't help thinking that something is missing. But what is it? The New York Knicks are there and so are the Los Angeles Lakers. No, it can't be these old stand-bys, for they're in the play-offs most any year.

I know what is bothering me now, it's those Milwaukee Bucks. They just don't fit the characteristics of a play-off team. There is no dominant center or any so-called superstars. There aren't any real veterans on the team except Center John Gianelli.

It has to be all those young players like Marques Johnson, David Meyers, Kent Benson, Quinn Buckner and Brian Winters that, game in and game out, have the so-called "veteran" teams exhausted by halftime.

Now I know what is missing. The Boston Celtics aren't in the play-offs. What happened? Where are the old favorites? Where is Coach Tommy Heinsohn, forwards Paul Silas and Don Nelson and guard Charlie Scott?

Now, there are only old stand-bys Dave Cowens and JoJo White left with the retiring of John Havlicek. What went wrong? Heinsohn was fired, Silas and Scott were traded and Nelson is coaching the Milwaukee Bucks.

Why didn't the Celtics make the play-offs? Simply because the old fire was gone, as well as the teamwork.

The old Celtics are the young Bucks, thanks largely to the coaching of Don Nelson. Instead of Havlicek there is now Johnson, and instead of White there is Winters.

But what of the Celtics? Obviously Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe aren't in the Celtic tradition and, thus, General Manager Red Auerbach has a big job ahead of him.

First he has to motivate Cowens and White. Second, he has to use his two first-round draft picks wisely. And last he has got to find some team players to get rid of the ones that aren't.

Red will bring the Celtics back but it will take time. As for now, the Milwaukee Bucks are the old Celtics and here is my vote for them to go all the way.

Face Marietta Tomorrow

Baseball Could Move to Lead

With the second best hitting team in the Ohio Athletic Conference, Otterbein (4-2) has a chance to take the top spot in the OAC Southern Division as it faces number two Wittenberg (6-2) at home Wednesday at 3 p.m. then travels to Marietta (7-1) Saturday for a 1 p.m. doubleheader with the division leaders.

A sweep of the Wittenberg-Marietta contests would place the Cardinals in sole possession of first place in the South, quite an improvement over Otterbein's 5-9 fifth place finish in '77.

Hitting .335 as a team last week, the Cardinals outscored their opponents 33-13 on the way to a 3-2 record, which boosted the season record to 15-6.

The week started out with a 13-4 OAC victory over Capital.

Otterbein slugged 13 hits as junior Dan Griffith picked up his second win of the year without a loss.

Saturday, Baldwin-Wallace ended the Otterbein winning streak at six with a 4-1 victory in the first game of a twin bill, but the Cardinals turned things around in the second contest with a 10-run, 11-hit third inning which propelled them to a 12-1 win.

Sunday's split with Division 1 foe Dayton (1-4, 5-4) still left Otterbein with a 3-2 season mark against the Flyers with a May 9 contest at Otterbein remaining in the '78 series between the two. Home runs accounted for four of the five Cardinal runs in the second game. Ric Lainhart hit his fifth of the year with one on in the third and Randy Pontius smashed his second of the season with one on in the fourth.

Netters Lose Close Encounter

Going into the final match of the day last Saturday, the score was tied — Otterbein 4, Heidelberg 4. After three sets of that deciding match, Cardinal captain Jon Hargis and Heidelberg's Brian Deal were still tied and the pair took the nine point tie breaker to 4-4 before Deal came out on top to give Heidelberg the win and drop Otterbein to a 2-3 season mark.

"I thought we were pretty even with Heidelberg going into the match," said Coach Sam Covault, "and I thought we could have won it. But our guys have a lot of character and are getting better every match so there are going to be some more wins before the season's over."

Otterbein's next chance for a victory comes tomorrow when Marietta visits for a 1 p.m. encounter.

Golfters Split Two Matches

In their only dual matches of the season Otterbein's golfers took a split last Friday at Granville, beating Muskingum 12-7 and losing to Denison 15½-13½.

Cardinal senior Doug Addis was the medalist for the whole event with an 18-hole total of 77.

Otterbein will compete Tuesday in the 36-hole Wittenberg Invitational at Springfield's Reid Park Golf course. The linksters will then remain idle until Monday, April 24, when they participate in an 18-hole, best-ball tournament at Denison.

McLaughlin Holds Meet Record

Judy McLaughlin of the Otterbein College Women's Track and Field Team still holds the best time in the 800m run. The record was set at the 1977 Bowling Green State University Women's Track Invitational, with the time of 2:16.1 (distance time run in yards). Judy also held two other meet records in the 1500m run with the time of 5:10 and in the 300m run in 11:10 (distance times run in yards).

"The weather was a contributing factor in the times of the girls," says Coach Bob Mersy. Even though the wind was bad and the temperature was cool, it didn't stop sprinter Rhonda

Smith from placing well in the quarter finals in the 100m and the 200m, moving on to thee semi-finals. She had the fasteste 4th place in the quarter finals ofe the 100m and placed well in thee semi-finals, with the time ofe 13.0. Rhonda placed 3rd (27.7)e in the 200m giving her the opportunity to compete in thee semi-finals.e

"The Women's Track Team is further ahead now than any other team that Otterbein College has had as far as conditioning and talent, in the three years that I have coached the team," said Coach Mersy. He also expects that the team will be setting several new records this season.

This past Wednesday, the Women's Track Team had a home triangular meet with Ashland and Heidelberg Colleges. Next week, there will be more statistical information from this past weekend's Bowling Green Invitational and Wednesday's home meet.

Women Gain Victory

"It's coming," said Coach Jo Ann Tyler after the Cardinal netters defeated Muskingum 5-4 Saturday, upping their record to 1-1 following a 2-6-le loss to Wright State last Tuesday.e

Otterbein will host Wooster Saturday at 10 a.m. for its next encounter.

Softball Team Pounds

Cardinal pitcher Julie Wiget had a perfect day on the mound Saturday at Marietta and did not do too bad at the plate, either. The Wilmington junior lead Otterbein to 10-7 and 11-10 victories over the Pioneers and helped her own cause with a two-run home run in the second game.

Junior Carol Comanita also smashed a four-bagger in the second game, a solo shot in the fifth inning which helped the Cardinals to a 2-0 season mark.e
