A View From the Bridge — Guest actor Mark Mann is memorable as the fiercely protective longshoreman in the central role of Arthur Miller's 1955 drama about forbidden desire and betrayal in a tightknit Italian-American family. Lindsey Powell elicits sympathy as the naive niece, caught between her uncle's controlling demands and Tom LoSchiavo's ardent Rodolpho. Overcoming the awkward stylized scenic design, Dennis Romer knits the 15-member cast into a convincing ensemble. Otterbein College Theatre. (M.G.)
