

RELEASE:

30 sec.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE! Yes, mathematicians for years have struggled with the seemingly impossible task of SQUARING THE CIRCLE. And now a small liberal arts college in nearby Westerville has done it! The Otterbein Speech Department is presenting the comedy, "Squaring the Circle", Saturday evening, February 28th, at eight-fifteen. "Squaring the Circle" is an hilarious account of the Russian system of love and marriage in the 1920's.....at Otterbein's Cowan Hall Theater, February 28th.

30 sec.

Poets, canaries, and revolutionists all merge to form the delightful farce, "Squaring the Circle", presented by the Speech Department of Otterbein College, Friday, February 28th. The comedy presents an hilarious account of the Russian system of love and marriage. For one performance only, Otterbein's Cowan Hall Theatre will resound to cries of "Deviationist!, Octobrist, and Filthy Bourgeoise! All this for one dollar ... on February 28th at 8:15 P.M.

25 sec.

"Liquidate the canary!" is just one of the interesting suggestions made by the Russians in "Squaring the Circle". Presented by the Otterbein College Speech Department, "Squaring the Circle" is a comedy built around the Russian system of love and marriage in the 1920's. It's one night only, at the Cowan Hall Theater on the Otterbein Campus, Friday, February 28, at 8:15 P.M. Admission: 876 rubles or $1.00, American money.