HANCOCK RETIRES AFTER 40 YEARS

Dr. Harold Hancock's face has been a familiar one on Otterbein's campus for the last 40 years. As chairman of the History and Political Science Department for 30 years as well as adviser of both Torch and Key and Phi Alpha Theta, he has become as much a part of Otterbein and its history as the Philamtheon room in Towers Hall. This year, however, a little bit of history will leave Otterbein as Dr. Hancock retires.

Dr. Hancock came to Otterbein in 1944 after teaching in both a high school and a junior college in his home state of Delaware. He made the move to Otterbein because he was seeking a doctorate in history, and Ohio State was close by. He also wanted to teach in a college that did not offer an ROTC program, which Otterbein did not at that time, so that he would have a better chance of finishing his doctorate during the war.

Dr. Hancock attended a variety of schools before he came to Otterbein. He graduated from Wesley Collegiate Institute in Delaware in 1932, Wesleyan University in 1936, where he received his B.A., Harvard University in 1938, where he received his M.A., and finally Ohio State University, where he completed his doctorate in 1955.

Ever since elementary school, Dr. Hancock wanted to become a teacher. He has changed his mind, however, about which type of teacher he wanted to be. While in high school, he wanted to be a high school teacher. When he moved on to college, his ambition turned to college teaching. According to Dr. Hancock, if he hadn't become a teacher, the only other job he would have considered was a librarian because of his love for books.

Dr. Hancock has taught a wide range of subjects such as Russian history, ancient history and European history. He has also taught typical courses that were of interest during certain periods of recent history in America such as black history, urban history, the history of the Civil War and the history of American women. Although Dr. Hancock has dealt with all these different topics, his favorite remains American history.

"You'd think that I would be tired of it by now. What makes it interesting, though, is the reaction of the class. Each class has a personality, and each one is different," he said.

Another love of Dr. Hancock's is 19th century history, especially of 19th century Delaware. He has written over 50 articles on Delaware history as well as 10 books, some with co-authors. Every summer he returns to his home state to teach history at the University of Delaware, as well as to research his books and articles.

Dr. Hancock enjoys Otterbein because of the students. He feels that in a smaller college there is more opportunity to get to know the students.

"Students are individuals here. At Ohio State, for instance, you don't know people," he commented.

Dr. Hancock likes being personally involved with his students. He knows what their majors are as well as their career aspirations. He also enjoys the opportunity of discovering interesting facts about his students. In his classes, he has discovered people whose great-grandparents came to America as indentured servants. He even talked to one student whose ancestor came from Norway where she herded cattle for a living.

Teaching isn't work for Dr. Hancock. He said his sister has often accused him of not working at all, and in a way he feels she is right. He likes the hours that teaching provide him to do his research and writing, as well as the opportunity it provides to interact with students.

After his retirement this year, he plans to still teach in Delaware every summer. During the academic year, he will live in Westerville to do his "research and dabbling." Some of his other interests are cooking and spoiling three Dachshunds of which he is very fond. He will also be active in renovating the Philamtheon room.

"I'll still be around," he said cheerfully.

Concert Band this year crossed the border in search of the Great White North while other spring breakers headed for the warm sun of Florida.

The group toured throughout Ohio, playing in school gymnasiums and auditoriums. The weekend in Canada, however, exposed them to other experiences in addition to musical ones. Band members had the adventure of dealing with money worth 12% less than ours, learning to read bilingual labels and coping with the metric system.

Opus Zero, directed by Craig Johnson and assistant director David DeVenney, is Otterbein's most diverse choir. It is made up of about 16 singers who perform many times during the year. They are called upon to perform at conventions and organizations throughout the Columbus area.

Opus has quite a contemporary repertoire, and songs are choreographed by Catherine Johnson; Opus members must be able to dance as well as sing. Their talent puts them in great demand.

Each year, Opus does a fall show on campus as well as "Pizazz," their spring show, and this year marked the first tour for Opus. Five days of spring break were spent by the choir in western Pennsylvania.

C. Y. Woo, International Artist Exhibits in Battelle

C. Y. Woo, a Chinese artist and the calligrapher who is known around the world was at Otterbein to attend a reception for his show that was in the Battelle Fine Arts Center this January.

Woo, who was born in Shanghai, had to flee to escape the political revolution in 1962. He came to the U.S. and Ohio to live near his son in Worthington.

Woo made his living as a calligrapher, watercolor master and teacher of classical fencing.

Woo, who is 86, said, "I've enjoyed natural beauty all my life. I am proud of my art. I draw everything."

CAP-OTTER BLOODMOBILE

Otterbein defeated Capital for the first time in the Cap/Otter Blood Drive this year. The Red Cross blood-mobile, coordinated by Michael Hitt and Shonda Keckley, was sponsored by IFC and PanHel.

Each year, two blood drives are held as a competition between Capital and Otterbein. In the September blood drive, Capital won the competition 129 to 102 units, but in January, Otterbein took the trophy, beating Capital 123 to 121 units.

There are 49 hospitals dependent on the Central Ohio Red Cross for blood, and they request 2500 to 3000 units of blood week (500 units a day.) Because of donations by the Otterbin students, faculty and staff, this year we were winners in two ways--we beat Capital and we helped the Red Cross to meet hospital needs.

C.P.B.

Campus Programming Board is the student organization which plans and carries out campus activities and major events at Otterbein. This group sponsors the major traditional events, Homecoming, Winter Weekend and May Day, along with other activities such as movies, ski trips, swim parties, pizza parties ... and the list goes on.

This year CPB has met with great success in programming, adding such new events as the well-attended Homecoming and Winter Weekend mixers as well as keeping with tradition by bringing back such oldies as the ever-popular Esther, the accordionist.

Leading CPB this year are executive members Don Miller, president; Kim Whitmore, vice president; Laurie Brown, secretary; Jill Sommer, treasurer; Denise Musselman, traditional events chairman; Jerry Thaman, movies and videos chairman; Bob Bock, fine arts and entertainment chairman; Chris Edman, off-campus and recreation chairman; and Becky Smith, advisor.

WINTER CARNIVAL

Winter Carnival 1984 provided a change of pace for those with cabin fever from the long winter.

The carnival began Thursday night with WOBN broadcasting from the Campus Center and Custom Management serving hors d'oeuvres as a before-dinner snack.

After dinner, the Winter Games were held inside the Campus Center because of the wet weather. The games ranged from "traying" around the main lounge to an ice cube relay and a game of Nerf football played on the knees. All of the participants seemed to enjoy the break from studying.

On Friday night, CPB sponsored a trip to the Centrum for ice skating. It was a perfect night for skating with a light snow falling. It also proved a nice night for ice wrestling, ice racing and snowball fights.

Saturday was the highlight of the weekend as Kathy Holder was crowned Queen of the Winter Carnival during halftime of the basketball game. Kim Whitmore, last year's queen, presented her with the traditional crown of roses.

Following the game, the first Winter Weekend Mixer was held. All in all, Winter Carnival proved to be a good "ice-breaker" for the monotony of winter term.

THEATRE STUDENTS INTERN IN NEW YORK

Susan Diol, Todd Reagan, Giovanni Moscardion and Brent Erdy spent part of their senior year in New York City learning the business of professional theatre.

Dr. Charles Dodrill established the internships last spring, so that "students would really understand how to go about pursuing a career."

Diol and Moscardion worked for McCorkle-Sturevant Casting Agency, which is involved with casting regional theatre and Broadway productions as well as television and film productions.

Reagan and Erdy interned with Hughes/Moss Casting Agency, the largest casting agency for musicals in New York.

Diol and Reagan went to New York in the fall, Diol beginning as a secretary until she became more experienced. She began to call people to set up auditions and also staged managed auditions.

"Being able to watch auditions, you learn a lot about what people do wrong and what the different types of directors look for," said Diol.

Reagan began working as a "gopher" who ran errands such as picking up tickets at the different theatres. In the process he learned about the city itself. Reagan feels he made many contacts as well.

"I worked with Tommy Tune and Twiggy in 'My One and Only,' he said.

Moscardino and Erdy left next, Moscardino beginning by setting up appointments for auditions. Later, he had a chance to run auditions himself.

"They gave me a lot of responsibility and a lot of trust," said Moscardino.

Moscardino helped cast

the new Robert De Niro/Meryl Streep movie "Falling in Love."

"It is a possibility that I cast three of the roles: the train conductor, the hot dog vendor, and then I had a screen about 300 kids to film DeNiro's kids," he said.

Erdy began by opening mail and looking over resumes. He also read for auditions and helped tape some auditions for NBC pilot shows.

Erdy's time in New York helped him gain a lot of confidence.

"I realize that I have to have this good attitude because there are so many actors. You can't be your worst enemy because you are all you have to sell," said Erdy.

According to Dodrill, the students' short stay in New York taught them what the average person would learn in one or two years.

— Lisa Pett

Senior Brent Erdy, who interned in New York City winter term, and sophomore Stacy Ciano work on the set for "Fiddler on the Roof."

Todd Reagan, who also interned fall term, emerges as the handsome prince in the 1982 Children's Theatre production of "The Masque of Beauty and the Beast."

Giovanni Moscardino, seen here working in a theatre workshop, spent winter term of his senior year in New York City.

MURDER AT OTTERBEIN

A dark house in the country ... a thunderstorm ... two tragically ambitious men ... weapons loaded and ready — murder! This is the story of Ira Levin's "Deathtrap." The plot is simple enough — Sidney Bruhl, a fading playwright, is in need of a career-boosting hit play. He employs an aspiring writer, Clifford Anderson. After losing his wife, Myra, through a mysterious "heart attack," Sidney sets out to work. As the relationship between the two men grows, so does their desire to succeed, and thus destroy each other.

It was a dark and stormy night when Sidney Bruhl picked up a medieval crossbow and shot Cliff Anderson through the chest.

On the same dark and stormy night, Clifford Anderson stabbed Sidney Bruhl as Bruhl picked up the phone to call the police.

"Deathtrap," the tragic play written by the two men, was later found by Helga TenDorp (a psychic neighbor) and Bruhl's lawyer, who embarked on a collaboration of their own ...

The Otterbein production of "Deathtrap" featured Bent Erdy (S. Bruhl), Craig Icsman (C. Anderson), Carol Giffen (Myra), Jodie Silk (Helga TemDorp) and Giovanni Moscardino (Porter Milgrim, the lawyer).

Otterbein Artist Series Presents the Canadian Brass

Otterbein was treated to a wonderful show in its first Artist Series this year. The Canadian Brass, a quintet formed in 1970, played to a standing room only crowd of 1200 people this fall.

The Canadian Brass comprises musicians Frederic Mills, Ronald Romm, Martin Hackleman, Eugene Watts and Charles Daellenbach. These men have performed concerts across Canada and the U.S. as well as in China, Europe, Japan, Saudi Arabia and the Soviet Union.

Their music ranges from Bach and Mozart to Fats Waller and New Orleans jazz. In the first half of the program, the audience was given an indication of the excellent musicianship of the group. After the intermission, they were treated to the group's unique sense of humor. Beginning with a march down the aisles in white dancing shoes while playing "When the Saints Go Marching In," the Brass kept the audience laughing through to their "Tribute to the Ballet" in which some of them wore tutus and leapt across the stage while playing.

The Canadian Brass is a group that establishes excellent rapport with the audience and does succeed in its purpose, which Daellenbach says is to "bring the audience to the music rather than the music to the audience."

HEIDI

Once upon a time, a little girl went to live in the mountains — a recreation of the Swiss Alps that came to life in Cowan Hall.

Tirza Wise portrayed the title character, an orphan who goes to the mountains to live with her grandfather, then is taken from him.

The story tells of how she charms the townspeople and makes special friends with a crippled girl named Clara, as well as her struggle to go back to the mountains.

The show had a cast of 11 college students, 18 children, a goat, three kittens and a turtle.

Of course, they all lived happily ever after, as all folk tale characters do — with Heidi spreading happiness to all, before returning to the mountains and her grandfather — her first loves.

A Midsummer Night's Dream

Shakespeare once said, "The play's the thing." On March 8 at Cowan Hall, Shakespeare's saying came true, with the production of one of his most famous comedies, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The production featured guest artist Marcus Smythe, a graduate of Otterbein.

The dream was shared by many members of Westerville as well as the Otterbein community. The show was highlighted not only by the performances of many talented actors and actresses in the theatre program, but by an out-of-this-world set as well.

Both Smythe and senior Tracy Jones filled dual roles in this staging which also featured Charlie Daruda as Puck, Charlotte Dougherty (Hermia), Susan Diol (Helena), Craig Icsman (Demetrius), and Tim Gregory as Lysander.

For those who participate and those who were members of the audience Shakespeare's work really did come to life. However, does his theme on the course of true love really ring true today ... or is it all just dream?

— Tami Lang

Guest artist Marcus Smythe and senior Tracy Jones portray Theseus and Hippolyta in Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Titania's fairies, Craig Summers, Dave DeCooman, Nancy Fox, Maria Magisano, Joanna Fabian, Melanie Scott, Todd Freeman and Jim Fippin attend their mistress, Tracy Jones.

Oberon (Marcus Smythe) removes his love spell from Titania (Tracy Jones) as Puck (Charlie Daruda) watches and Bottom (Mike Blankenship) sleeps.

Puck bedazzles the fairies.

Titania and the fairies come under the spell of Bottom the Ass.

THE WESTERVILLE CIVIC SYMPHONY

The Westervill Civic Symphony ended its first full season this year. This group is a combination of musicians of the Westerville community as well as Otterbein students.

They perform three concerts each year — one each term, and have a wide repertoire of excellent music.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF

Tradition . . . a one word summary of more than two hours of drama and emotion contained in the Bock/Harnick musical "Fiddler on the Roof."

The musical, presented by the Otterbein College Department of Theatre and Dance and the Department of Music, was presented as the annual spring term musical offering to the community.

The play centered on the entire Jewish community of Anatevka, and on the life of Tevye the dairyman in particular. The action concerns his ever-changing views on religion, family life, politics and, naturally, his traditions.

Craig Icsman had the leading role in the production. Other featured roles included Tracy Jones (Golde), Gina Grogg (Tzeitel), Sherri Puderbaugh (Hodel), Maria Magisano (Chava), Jeff Kin (Motel), Tim Gregory (Perchik), Todd Reagan (Fyedka), Todd Rupp (Lazar Wolf) and Catherine Randazzo (Yente).

The production staff comprised Otterbein faculty members Charles Dodrill, Fred Thayer, Lucy Lee Reuther, Craig and Cass Johnson, Lyle Barkhymer, Bruce Wood and Joanne VanSant.

— Tami Lange

Junior Dave DeCooman portrays the fiddler in "The Fiddler on the Roof."

Maria Magisano, Sherri Puderbaugh, Gina Grogg (the daughters), Tracy Jones, Craig Icsman (the mama and papa) and Jeff Kin (the tailor) celebrate the Sabbath.

Steve Salyer, Dave DeCooman, Giovanni Moscardino and Mike Shoaf dance the bottle dance at the wedding of Motel and Tzeitel.

Golda (Tracy Jones) interprets Tevye's (Craig Icsman) dream which included chorus members Jeff Offenberger, Robin Stafford, Jerry Comer and Mike Slane.

Villagers Debbie Barger, Diane Idapence, Laura Stitt, Georgine Francescangeli and Joanna Fabian marvel at the news of the rumor.

Senior Craig Icsman dreams: "If I were a rich man . . . digga, digga, deidle, dum . . ."

Same Time

Next Year

The Otterbein Theatre production of Bernard Slade's "Same Time, Next Year" offered not only comedy and drama, but perhaps a little more in the way of lots of emotion in a well-done production.

The play is about George and Doris, who meet in California in February, 1951. They spend a weekend together, despite the fact each of them is married with children, and decide they liked the experience so much that they'll do it again — same time, next year. In the next two hours the audience is treated to an inside glimpse at these meetings.

Brent Erdy and Susan Diol, neither of which is a newcomer to the Otterbein stage, topped off their college careers with exceptional performances. Each actor managed to encompass an entire spectrum of emotions and changes.

In this short time of two hours, both reflected a generation of America.

— Tami Lange

Greek Life

The Greek system at Otterbein is a major part of the college's social life. There are five local sororities and fraternities, and one national fraternity, each contributing to college life with service projects, coeds, spring weekends, Greek Week and many other planned and unplanned events. Rush is held during winter term, the busiest time for Greek organizations, with the pledges becoming active members in the spring. Governed by the Panhellenic Council for women and the Interfraternity Council for men, Greek organizations strive not only for unity within each group, but for unity within the entire system.

HOME-COMING

9 a.m. Saturday, October 23. After working on floats until 4 a.m. last night, most everyone was ready for a long morning's sleep. Suddenly, the campus was awakened by the 150-member Otterbein College band passing in the street. Homecoming!

After a busy week of football practice, preparations for alumni luncheons and excessive marching of the band show, Otterbein College was finally ready for Homecoming.

"A Commercial Success" was the theme of this year's parade. The men of Sigma Delta Phi cleaned up on "Best Float Overall" as they "scrubbed the Bishops" with their scrubbing bubbles.

In between the parade and the big game, sorority and fraternity alumni were guests at their respective teas and luncheons. Alumni had the pleasure of touring campus and reminiscing about their college days.

At the game under sunny autumn skies, fans were treated to a fine exhibition of football as our Cardinals soundly defeated the Ohio Wesleyan Bishops 48-29.

With halftime came not only the excellent marching band but also the crowning of Queen Gigi Rohner of Tau Epsilon Mu.

The traditional Homecoming dance and the Theatre Department's production of the thriller "Deathtrap" were the perfect ending to a perfect day, Homecoming 1983.

Injuries Plague Season

Despite a 31-3 victory over Capital, the 1983 football season was a disappointing one for the Fighting Cardinals.

The Cardinals finished the year with a 3-6 overall record and 2-3 in the Ohio Athletic Conference, which put them in fourth place in the Blue Division.

Offensively, the Cardinals were led by freshman quarterback Chris White. Rick Burdette was the team's leading rusher and scorer.

Bryan Valentine was the leading receiver.

In defense, all-conference selections Tony Keels and Gary Ubry anchored the line, while Tom Lucas headed the secondary.

Injuries plagued the Cardinals all season. The most notable of these injuries was the knee injury of senior co-captain Jack Yurich.

With the return of many starting lettermen, the future looks bright for the Cardinal football program and they will be looking to rebound in 1984.

Soccer Bright for O.C. Future

The fall of 1983 marked the first season of the varsity soccer team. The team opened the season with a 4-0 victory over Circleville Bible College. Finding tougher competition in their schedule, the Cardinals ended the season with a 3-10 record.

Highlights of the season include a 2-1 victory over

Muskingum, and a 4-2 victory over Josephinum. Perhaps the best team effort of the new Otterbein team was exemplified against Ohio Wesleyan. Although OWU, which was the fifth-ranked Division III school in the nation, defeated the Cards 6-0, Coach Stephen Locker felt that it was the team's best and most intense performance of the year.

Enthusiasm was high for the new soccer program, and Coach Locker is looking forward to a better season next year. With the construction of a soccer field behind the Rike and solid freshman recruits, Otterbein will be the team to watch in the future.

Cards Race to 4th Place Finish

An undefeated season was capped off with a fourth place regional finish as the Otterbein cross country team had its most successful season ever.

The team was led by senior Todd Corwin and sophomore Scott Alpeter. Junior Kevin Chambers also had a strong season for the Cards, finishing third on the team in many races.

Although their 8-0-1 record was impressive, the team's greatest moments came in post-season competition.

At the OAC championship, the Harriers finished third of 13 teams to qualify for the Great Lakes regional competition. The Cards finished behind only Baldwin-Wallace and Mount Union. Corwin and Alpeter finished the race eighth and ninth respectively, to earn all-conference honors.

At the regional competition in Michigan, the Cardinals continued to improve.

The team finished fourth in the Great Lakes region, led again by Corwin and Alpeter who finished eighth and ninth once more, qualifying for the NCAA Division III national competition.

The team will miss graduating seniors Corwin, Steve Rush and Keith Froggatt, but the future looks bright for the returning team, which may again be one of the top teams in the 1984 OAC.

New Records for Cards!

The men's track team capped off an excellent 12-1 season by finishing second in the OAC championships. Although the Cardinals only managed three first places (Jon Divine, discus; Scott Hill, 400-meter run; and Scott Alpeter, 5000-meter run), numerous lower finishes boosted Otterbein over Baldwin-Wallace.

The Cardinals produced three NCAA qualifiers in Divine and Eric Anderson in the discus and Jim Smith, who went All-American, in the decathlon.

In indoor action, the Cardinals placed third at the OAC championships, with first-place finishes by Hill in the 440-yard run and Dave Kimmel in the high jump. Two indoor records were set:

Todd Corwin in the two-mile run and Smith, who tied the pole vault record.

The women's track team got off to a fast start, setting five indoor records: Polly James in the 265-yard hurdles and triple jump; Mary Bravard in the 1000-meter run and 3000-meter run; and Gretchen Shaffer in the 1000-yard run.

Shotputter Candee Morris placed second in the OAC Indoor Invitational.

In outdoor action, two records were set: Melinda Selby, javelin and Bravard, 3000-meter run. High scorer was Morris, with a fifth place in shotput at the Walsh Invitational, a second place in shotput and sixth place in discus at the Muskingum Invitational and a fourth place in shotput at the Baldwin-Wallace Invitational.

Team Travels to New Jersey in NCAA Action

The baseball team, coached by Dick Fishbaugh, ended the 1983-84 season with a positive 20-16 record. Led by captains Dave Weaver and Dave Whitehead, the team received a bid to the NCAA regional tournaments in New Jersey.

The highlights of the season were wins in two double-headers: one against Dennison and the other against Wittenberg.

The team loses seniors Dave Whitehead, Dave Weaver and Jon Mastel, but with Mike Goodwin, Dave Eckleberry, Keith Evans and Doug Gates returning, there is a strong bench to replace them.

According to the team, another promising player, Mil Milmington, will be returning next year after his introduction to the civilized world this season.

Experience and Enthusiasm Key Factors to Winning Season

The women's softball team finished the season with a 12-11 record, which is an improvement over last year's record of 6-18.

Coach Amy Backus said the strength of this year's team was the returning players who brought experience to the team while the freshmen were always enthusiastic.

Kandi Kennedy led the team with a .428 batting average, followed by Hill Schlichter at .373 and Kathy Cole at .358.

Backus said that assistant coach Scar Brumbaugh brought a lot of knowledge and motivation to the team. According to Backus, Brumbaugh was a key factor in the success of the team.

Cards Gain Experience For '84

The women's volleyball team has big expectations for a bright future after gaining some valuable experience this year.

The team again ended the year over the .500 mark at 14-13, winning seven of their last 10 games.

"I think the team finished the season with a positive feeling," commented Coach Terri Hazucha.

Heading into the season finale at the Capital University invitational tournament, the team held a 12-11 record. The Cardinals dropped their first match in two well-played games to top-seeded Baldwin-Wallace. The team won their next two games against Lake Erie College and Heidelberg College, a team that had beaten them twice earlier in the year. In their fourth match of the day, the Cards ended up on the losing side against John Carroll, thus ending their season.

The team loses senior standouts Lisa Campbell, Karen Kirsop, and captain Janet Robey.

Next year the team will enter into the newly-formed Ohio Athletic Conference for women's athletics and will play a 25-30 game schedule.

CARDINAL SPIRIT

Here I am on this metal thing with wheels, surrounded by others of my kind that I don't even know. This is my first job since I said goodbye to my mom. I'm in this large place with hundreds of two-leggeds sitting on hills and making a lot of noise. The sky is filled with around 20 minisuns that are always stationary.

I tried to talk to the guy on my right but he wouldn't say much. I asked him what was going to happen but he just kept chuckling to himself and saying, "You'll see."

Hey, there's a line of long, high two-legged animals running out of that door over there. A couple of them are carrying creatures that look like me. That isn't very nice. They're tossing the poor things back and forth and up at some kind of hoop. A couple of the two-leggeds are pointing over here at us. They're walking this way. Hey! Put me down, you ugly un-round brute! My mother warned me this would happen. Put me down! Stop twirling me around! Uh-oh, no, no, I didn't mean it . . .

I d o n , t I t h i n k (oof!) m l a n d b o u n c i n g (thud!) down.

He stopped. Phew. Now what's happening?
No, wait, don't let go of me: Ahhhh . . . BOOF!
Swish!

That hurt. Now someone else has got a hold of me. Here we go again ... bop, bong, bing — Swish!

I can't take much more of this. Buzz! What was that noise? Hey, we're heading back to the rack. I'm glad that's over. I hope there's not much more of that.

Cards Reach New Heights

The Otterbein College basketball team launched an impressive turnabout this year following last year's 7-17 season. Under the leadership of Coach Dick Reynolds (190-118) the Cardinals managed an exciting 19-8 season.

A 67-64 conference tournament semi-final defeat to rival Capital University ended the record-shattering season. Records set include freshman Dick Hempy's performance against Denison when he made nine of 10 field goals. As a team, the Cardinals set new marks in field goal percentages within a game, shooting 42 out of 62 against Baldwin-Wallace, and field goal percentages within a season, scoring 785 times out of 1490 attempts.

Two members of the squad received post-season awards. Hempy took first team OAC honors while Mike McKinney received a second team OAC award.

Highlights of the season include victories over perennial powers Wittenberg and Muskingum. The Cardinals strongly ended the season by compiling a seven game winning streak in the season's final three weeks.

The team loses one senior — captain Tim Weis. However, the future looks bright for the Cardinals as all five starters will return for the 1984-1985 season.

LADY CAGERS

A 15-8 record, which included the tournament championship at the Mount Union Invitational and a five-game winning streak at the end of the season made the 1983-84 season the most successful in Otterbein women's basketball history.

The team was led by senior guard Kathy Cole, whose 24 points-per-game scoring average placed her fourth in the nation. For her efforts during the season, Cole was an all-conference selection and was nominated for NCAA Division III All-American honors.

Other standouts for the Lady Cardinals were junior Susan Ogier, Lisa Shaver and freshman Lori Povisil.

When looking ahead to next season, head coach Amy Backus was very optimistic.

"I think this team really has the talent and character necessary for another winning season," she said.

Otterbein's Equestrian Team competes in the region eight division against such colleges as Purdue, Michigan State, Ball State and Lake Erie. Each team member is required to take two riding lessons per week in order to compete in the meets. They ride in such classes as Western, Jumping Fences and Hunt Seat Riding.

The Seniors at Otterbein are a special group. About 250 students graduate each year at Otterbein, each one to make a mark in the world, just as they have during the four years they've spent here. They carry away with them many memories of friendships shared and leadership given, and leave with us the thought that dreams really do come true.

Towers Hall

Towers Hall, the Humanities building, was completed in 1872 after the original building was destroyed in 1870. Once known as "Old Main" and the "Central Building," it did not receive its present name until 1956 — 86 years after it was built. In March, 1971, Towers Hall was placed on the National Register of Historic Places of the U.S. Department of Interior.

IN MEMORIAM

John Knox Coulter, age 57 and a member of the Otterbein College teaching staff for over 28 years, suffered a heart attack and died March 8 on the Otterbein campus.

Coulter taught in the Otterbein Department of English since 1956. He served as a former chairman of the English Department, a member of major governance and planning committees, faculty representative for the Board of Trustees, and was adviser for the Quiz and Quill literary magazine.

During his years at Otterbein, Coulter was acknowledged numerous times for his teaching qualities.

Dr. Coulter was a veteran of WW II, when he served with the Navy. Following the war Coulter received his Doctorate from Indiana University in 1965, and received his B.A. in 1957 from Transylvania University in Kentucky.

Coulter is survived by his wife, Crystal, three children — John, a senior at Otterbein; Paul, who serves in the U.S. Navy; and Lisa, a student at Miami University of Ohio.
