Administration

Dr. C. H. Connor, Dean of the College

A position created and a course made practically non-existent marked the improvements seen as Dr. C. H. Connor embarked on his first year at Otterbein. The position—Dean of the College. The course—"Creative Writing 101," a non-credit course taken by nearly every Otterbotter who has missed a class or chapel without a valid reason. The percentage of failures has increased considerably and students may be forced to succumb to the bailiff's cry, "The truth, the whole truth . . ."

They administer,

Otterbein now has a satisfactory heating plant, thanks to the willing support of students, faculty, alumnae and friends. Contributions from these and other sources are handled through the office of Dr. Wade Miller, Vice President in Charge of Development.

Dr. Miller travels throughout the eastern and mid-western sections of the country to solicit funds for faculty salaries, operating costs and new facilities.

Dr. Wade S. Miller, Vice President in Charge of Development

Joanne Van Sant, Dean of Women

Marion C. Chase, Dean of Men, and secretary, Mrs. Donna Hitt

One of the youngest deans of women in the country, "Miss Van" maintains a campus lookout in her new Association building penthouse, under the watchful eye of faithful "Chi," the campus cocker. In her "spare" time, she directs an active modern dance group.

In the brilliant smile and flashing eyes of school-teacher-turned-dean, one finds symbols of the eagerness and vigor that personify Marion Chase, new Dean of Men. Dean Chase attacks both personal and dormitory problems of the campus male populus with the same intensity that he would direct a play.

counsel, guide

A busy man on campus, Chaplain Robert Lederman is co-ordinator of all religious activities. His varied schedule includes helping to plan chapel programs, advising campus religious organizations, teaching several courses and representing the college in churches throughout the Midwest.

This year he conducted an inventory among freshmen in order to better understand the doubts and convictions of college students concerning religion.

Chaplain Robert S. Lederman

...regulate,

"Pete" Baker and Floyd Vance prepare for registration.

The best outside contact the college maintains is that carried on through the students, who sell Otterbein at home. This point is emphasized by friendly Mrs. Helen Moore, who carries out her own sales program in her contacts with prospective students.

Mrs. Moore writes to a prospective student.

The eye and ear of the campus is good-will ambassador "Art" Schultz, whose office is the source of every big news "break" concerning the college. As editor of The Towers, Mr. Schultz is concerned with alumni affairs, while publicizing all campus events through TV, radio and newspapers. This year his staff completed a new edition of the VIP magazine to advertise Otterbein through pictures.

A news dispatch is released by "Art" Schultz.

consider students' welfare

"Sinner's Sanctum," in an exclusive corner of the business office, again proved to be the favorite faculty coffee haven while, in the outer offices, "Sandy" Frye and "Red" Moreland directed work on the new heating plant and general campus services. With the new system of tuition payments inaugurated in the treasurer's office, the one-time problem of more outstanding accounts than outstanding students seemed to be remedied. The most prominent library improvement was its wide extension of the record collection to include all types of modern and classical music. Working around the clock to serve faculty, students and the community, the cafeteria staff even found a solution to the indelible lipstick problem. A disease more contagious than chapel-cutting confronted head nurse Mrs. Crane. She became the students' favorite after the administration granted her request that school be closed for flu.

"Bert" Horn, Treasurer, and "Sandy" Frye, Business Manager, collaborate.

Librarians Olga Buth and John Becker examine the records.

Mrs. Crane checks the instruments.

Mrs. Jacobs and cooks.

A student endures the ordeal of final speech exams.

Assistant Joyce Bigham instructs a freshman speech class.

A sweeping flash of plaid sport coat and yellow shoes, topped with a humorous anecdote that couldn't possibly be true mark the beginning of many speech classes when "Gris" enters on the scene, late as usual.

The two Cowan Hall classrooms are often centers of laughter as students demonstrate the arts of cow-milking, cake-baking and various other allied crafts. Laboratory and lecture courses avail students of opportunities in radio, TV, drama and debate.

Interpretations

J. Grissinger, Ph.D.

A. Kepke, B.A.

A command of one's own language is imperative for success in all walks of life. A result of this is the six-hour English requirement necessary for graduation. A varied offering of courses includes everything from freshman composition to Shakespeare and journalism.

Continued success has been seen in the operations of the English laboratory, now in its second year of existence.

The Otterbein Room, a museum in lower Towers Hall, has been developed considerably through the efforts of its curator, Dr. Robert Price, head of the English Department.

Dr. Price and students discuss the Romantic Age.

Broader Understanding

Ambitious linguists prepare for next lecture.

The best teacher is experience. And the next best is probably a first-hand view on sound film of the thing to be learned. Otterbein's unique Foreign Language Department has put this theory into practice, as Dr. Lavelle Rosselot last year laid aside old textbooks to create one of her own, a two-year film-text which is now in use and will probably be completed this September.

This film, the only one of its kind, is in French and depicts not only the language of these people, but also their customs, mannerisms and way of life. On completion, it will be available to other instructors in the field.

Plans are in progress for a similar project for the German classes, and already slides and tapes are being used by Miss Wilson in her Spanish classes.

Skepticism and Discovery

Dr. Bamforth's math class.

F. Bamforth, Ph.D.

The difficulty of computing long columns of numbers above the roar of a basketball game was often felt this year in the mathematics classes, most of which were held in the second floor classrooms of the Alumni Gym. A connection was seen, however, as yawning students occasionally were made to go through a series of Dr. Bamforth's famous push-ups for stimulation in his classes.

Otterbein boasts a Mathematics Department comparable to those of most large universities, offering nearly every advanced course to the many mathematics and science majors and minors.

Mr. Wiley points out a difficult problem.

Ah, the sweet aroma of formaldehyde! This popular odor is probably the most characteristic of McFadden Science Hall, with its many labs and strange, bottled mysteries. Any afternoon of the week one may find enterprising science students busily delving into the secrets of "Mother Nature."

A range of courses from botany to organic chemistry afford future doctors, nurses, research scientists and teachers a basis for increased knowledge of this rapidly expanding universe of Sputniks and rockets.

Prized possessions of the department are the Spitz Planetarium and the Cave reflecting telescope perched high atop McFadden Hall.

for Universal Integrity

"Write too much rather than too little, but be specific!" is the command from the head of the History and Government Department as those inevitable blue books are passed out to anxious students. Through the use of slides and informal discussions, history is made interesting and alive and definite relationship is seen between ancient times and the modern world.

Dr. Hancock relaxes in his spacious third floor office.

Two one-act operas, "Lowland Sea" and "Sunday Excursion" by Wilder, marked the most prominent innovation in activities of the Music Department this year. The department's instructors have displayed their versatility and interest in campus musical life through faculty recitals and presentations of their own compositions.

Professor Lawrence Frank frequently composed for student recitals; Professor Lee Shackson, head of the department, wrote the cantata, "Noon, Amagansett Beach," performed by the combined choruses at last year's Baccalaureate concert. Dr. Paul Frank composed "Years of the Modern," sung by the A Cappella Choir. This group also presented several numbers arranged by its director, Professor Robert Hohn.

"Art for the artists" is a phrase which has no place on the Otterbein campus. Offering a wide range of courses from basic art to humanities and sculpturing, the Department of Visual Arts supplements its lecture and lab work through excursions to near-by communities for studies of various forms of architecture.

The Domestic Art is Advanced

Mrs. Joyce pours tea for etiquette-conscious gentlemen.

Well-established this year in its new home management house, the Home Economics Department has been able to expand its courses to give opportunity to an increasing amount of non-majors, including courses for men in all phases of home management.

The new house, donated by Mrs. F. O. Clements, is furnished in Early American and is equipped with one gas and three electric kitchens, a freezer, washer and dryer, dishwasher, sewing machines and a library. The scene of many receptions and teas, it also includes a living room, dining room, three classrooms and an office. The students have frequently invited faculty women in for luncheons and to taste their "wares."

Prudence and Skill... Their Goals

Dr. Scott and advisees.

The old literary society rooms have never been used so much as they are today in the form of the business classes now being taught there. The famous climb to the Towers attic has been said to attract only those healthier specimens of the Otterbein populus. The Department of Business, headed by Dr. Ralston Scott, is divided into three major areas—business education, business administration and economics.

Theory plus Faith in Divine Creation

The basic concepts of religion and philosophy are brought to concrete understanding through group discussion in various classes in the Department of Religion and Philosophy.

Although it is often a difficult task to hold student attention in required courses, Dr. Paul Ackert and Professor Philip Deever present religion and philosophy in a true-to-life manner, making their classes interesting to majors in other departments as well as to pre-theological students.

and its Human Implications

A. Lovejoy, Ph.D.

An informal discussion over a cup of steaming coffee characterized many advanced psychology classes this past year, as Professor Wells combined a wealth of knowledge with subtle humor to make the difficult science more interesting to each individual. The new spider monkey, Psy, brought added interest to the laboratory and is being trained for future experimental work.

Co-eds working toward M.R.S. degrees again flocked to Marriage and the Family classrooms with an equal number of their male cohorts. Outside speakers were brought to these and other of Dr. Lovejoy's sociology classes to supplement lecture materials.

Professor Wells gains psychological insight from "Psy," the departmental assistant.

To Mold New Generations

Student teaching, observations, panels, reports and tales of Nutley, New Jersey, constitute the majority of supplementary material used in courses in the Department of Education.

Opportunities are offered in both elementary and secondary education and the two year elementary cadet plan. The completed courses qualify students to teach in Ohio and most other states.

Approximately eighty seniors are graduating this June with certification to teach, after completing a minimum of four semester hours of student teaching in Westerville and area schools.

Dr. Pagean and Mr. Bott confer with students concerning elementary education courses.

Co-ordination Through Technique

Decisions, decisions, decisions! Some of the biggest decisions at the beginning and middle of each term for Otter men and women involve a choice of "phys. ed." classes for the succeeding period. The task is not easy. For example, to take bowling means one doesn't have to dress and the class is co-educational, but on the other hand, there's that long, cold walk to the alleys, and it costs money. Tennis means wearing shorts to the courts, where everyone may peer through the library windows; then again, a cold or rainy day may mean the class will be called off. And so it goes. Somehow the decisions are made, and four credit hours are eventually recorded on each transcript.

Of Men and Sputniks

Captain Beadling shows slides to AFROTC class.

Our leaders of tomorrow, military-wise at least, are best seen on the Otterbein campus in the AFROTC exhibitions and activities. Highlight of the year was the annual Military Ball, where Marilyn Wiles Spangenburg reigned as Honorary Corps Commander. Also honored in the corps of sponsors were Barbara Barefoot, Mary Jean Bardhard, Shirley Hamilton, Leslie Hanawalt, Patricia Hill, Ella Holland, Priscilla Huprich, Eileen Mitchell, Sharon Plank, Anna Reder and Martha Reder.

The drill team, commanded by Tarald Hassell, has become the most prominent representative of the AFROTC, winning honors each spring in competition at Washington, D. C. The rifle team, drum and bugle corps and AFROTC chorus comprise other corps-sponsored activities.

They represent us

REPRESENTATIVE SENIORS: Thomas Dipko, Marion Jenkinson, Betty Johnson, Robert Burt.

Four eventful years are brought to a memorable finale, and knowledge-laden grads clutch sheepskins for security as they proceed into the great, wide, mysterious world.

Leaders every one, they have also learned that it is as much an art to be a good follower. They know that it is as a group that they have achieved their success, but that there must always be a few more prominent persons to stand as a symbol of their class spirit and integrity.

It is with this thought in mind that the members of the Class of '58 have chosen two men and two women whom they feel best represent their highest ideals and achievements.

Student Council

Otterbein has finally gone national! The Student Council this year added another laurel to its crown by joining the United States National Student Council Association.

The presentation of a portrait of Bishop J. Gordon Howard as the students' gift to the former Otterbein president, selection of a college ring and the attainment of student health insurance were the main projects this year.

Freshman orientation, Bonfire Night, Fall Homecoming, High School Day, the United Appeals Drive and May Day all found the Student Council in charge.

Student Court

An organization happiest when not patronized! Such are the feelings of the members of the Student Court. These "judges," elected by the Student Council, meet only when cases requiring adjudication arise.

The Student Court strives to enforce the constitution of the Student Council in dealing with such cases as are referred to it by the administration or individual students.

for a Changing World

W.S.G.B.

Handling all cases from illegal exit and entry to illegal parking, the members of the Women's Student Government Board represent all women on campus.

Certain cases are automatically brought to the Board and others are referred to it from the living centers, whose presidents and vice presidents are members of W.S.G.B. Three officers are elected the previous spring by the entire women's student body.

The annual W.S.G.B. tea during orientation week gives freshmen and transfers an opportunity to meet and chat with the officers, women of the faculty and wives of faculty members.

M.S.G.B.

The youngest organization on campus, the Men's Student Government Board, has taken over some of the problems previously handled by the deans, Administrative Councilor, even worse, not handled at all.

Visiting hours in all men's living centers have been established and cases of illegal parking and the defacing of school property have been properly dealt with.

In conjunction with the Interfraternity Council, this Board also outlawed interfraternity rivalry and some of its less fortunate consequences during the rushing period.

Tones Captivate Through Inspiration

Celebrating its tenth year of existence this spring, the A Cappella Choir, directed by its founder, Professor Robert Hohn, sang Handel's "Elijah" for Baccalaureate. Alumnae of the choir joined members in the presentation of this great oratorio.

Earlier in the spring, the choir completed an extensive tour through northern Ohio, Pennsylvania, Washington, D. C., and West Virginia.

Particularly noteworthy was the choir's performance in February with the Columbus Symphony in the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium. Singing the choral parts to a concert version of Mozart's comic opera, "Cosi fan tutti," the group performed with nationally famous soloists.

Rhythm Royal

Down the field, on the stage and in the gym—music everywhere is furnished by the college band under the direction of Professor Westrich. Besides playing for sports events, the band has a winter concert, a spring “pop” concert and a concert on Baccalaureate Sunday.

A new addition in the form of white plumes was made this year to the familiar black and red uniforms worn by the fifty band members while “struttin’ high” down Otterbein’s football field.

A unique experience in music participation is provided a few more proficient campus instrumentalists. The Brass Choir, also under Professor Westrich, proved its capabilities in the annual February home concert. Eleven members find here an opportunity for gainful recital experience and more advanced music training.

Sound is Enhanced in FM

WOBN has gone FM! Otterbein's radio station was granted a license in January by the Federal Communications Commission to broadcast under the call letters WOBN-FM.

With the new FM transmitting facilities, the station can better fulfill its purpose of serving as an educational and cultural aid to students while affording them an opportunity to gain radio experience.

Higher fidelity is the selling point of FM, along with greater reception free from static, fading and interfering noises.

The new FM facilities have also brought about another change in Otterbein's broadcasting, as listeners from Westerville and surrounding areas are now included in the WOBN audience.

Dramatic Musings

Cap and Dagger's Christmas gift to the campus was presented in the form of three Freshman One-Acts. "The Monkey's Paw," "The City Slicker," and "Suppressed Desires" were under the direction of senior speech majors Tom Lehman, Marshall Cassady and Pat Weigand.

The Fall Homecoming presentation, "Arsenic and Old Lace," was directed by James Rapport and starred Joyce Bigham and Barbara Cox in the roles of two spinsters, the Brewster sisters. Donald Bell played their eccentric brother, Teddy, who thought he was the famous Roosevelt.

A dog made his debut on the Cowan Hall stage this year as Chi, the famous campus mascot, portrayed Flush in the Student Production, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Joan Durr played Elizabeth Barrett, with Bob Pendell as Robert Browning and Jack Hinton as Edward Barrett. The renowned English drama was directed by Joyce Bigham, senior speech major, as partial fulfillment of her work for the Degree of Distinction.

A higher entity

The religious life of the Otterbein student is of primary importance to the standards of the entire campus. The six Otterbein religious organizations—Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Delta Tau Chi, Mid-Week Devotional Hour, Youth Fellowship and Sunday College Forum—strive to provide a means for every student to express himself religiously if he so desires. The programs of the named organizations are co-ordinated by the Council of Christian Associations which is composed of the president and vice-president of each group.

Christian worship, fun and fellowship for all students is the goal of the campus Youth Fellowship. Highlighting the year's activities were a Galilean service in the Fall, periodic discussion groups and outstanding speakers who regularly addressed the group. The "Y.F." met every Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m.

Delta Tau Chi is a pre-professional religious fraternity for those students who anticipate some type of religious vocation as their life work. The fraternity's letters are symbolic of the Greek words "Servants of Christ."

Varied programs of guest speakers, panel discussions, films and devotional services were held bi-monthly. An active deputation program sent members of the group to churches in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

"Alright girls, do you want meat loaf or pimento cheese?" This familiar cry was heard in the dormitories each Monday night as the Y.M.C.A. strives to increase its treasury. Another "Y.M." event was the annual fall watermelon feast (a "mess," say the fellows). But all was not play for these men. They worked industriously on projects for mental hospitals or children's homes and actively participated in the men's intramural sports program.

A firm thread of Christian ethics was interwoven throughout the entire program, thus enabling the "Y.M." to have a successful year.

The frantic fury in the neighboring office seemed impossible to correct as an efficient newspaper staff attempted to beat the deadline with its weekly publication.

The staff worked from "scratch" in producing an award-winning Tan and Cardinal. Every step from writing to the setting of type was handled by the students.

The annual Miss T & C contest was sponsored by the newspaper in conjunction with the Interfraternity Spring Formal, and a rotating trophy was awarded the winner of the T & C-sponsored Ann-Ton's Run.

A combined effort to recreate in words and picture the spirit of a small college, within the limits of a dozen pressing deadlines and in an effort to keep a sane mind, has resulted in this, the 1958 edition of the Sibyl.

Not the product of one or two but of hundreds of pensive individuals, no true boundary can be drawn in effort to single out the Sibyl staff.

Problems arose, as they always do, but each one was conquered more easily than the previous one as newcomers to the field gradually found their bearings and gained confidence in the work ahead.

Sacrifices were made, but willingly, so that a story of the Otterbein year might be made permanent in the lives of each student.

The book is for everyone connected with Otterbein and all that it stands for, but most of all, it is hoped that it will be remembered for a long time by the graduating seniors.

Cap and Dagger

"Places, lights, curtain, action" . . . and the show goes on—that is, with the assistance of Otterbein's theatre group, Cap and Dagger. Most of the twenty-nine members can be found on the Cowan stage or behind the scene when it's "theatre time" at Otterbein. These stars and starlets supervise and organize the production of all campus plays. With them rests the responsibility of such things as properties, costumes, make-up, tickets, publicity and ushering—every headache that must go with the excitement of show business.

While striving for membership in this national dramatics fraternity, a student becomes acquainted with all allied crafts of the theatre. Affiliates have the privilege of attending meetings and plays presented at other colleges. Theta Alpha Phi, in co-operation with Cap and Dagger, sponsored the Fall Homecoming play.

Debate

Point for debate—"Are labor unions a necessary evil?". This and many other provocative questions faced the Otterbein debate team at various college tournaments throughout Ohio. A first place was added to their already impressive record of victories.

Young Democrats

The Young Democrats have found that politics can be fun, especially when it includes the roasting of weiners or planning a fun night. Sixty students hold membership cards in this group and see to it that they do their share in furthering political life on campus.

Activities of the group, besides combating the inevitable sly remarks of Young Republicans, include the securing of a well-known democrat as chapel speaker.

Young Republicans

Working along with the Young Democrats, yet against them, ninety-two enthusiastic and energetic Young Republicans strive to make Otterbein politics-conscious.

The securing of a prominent chapel speaker is just one of many activities of this group. The members also give much assistance to the party during election campaigns. Political spark is added by holding campus meetings supplemented by interesting programs.

Quiz and Quill is for those students who have demonstrated exceptional creative literary skill and an interest in nurturing this on Otterbein's campus. Each year the club publishes a Quiz and Quill magazine which is released to the public on May Day. Quiz and Quiller Roger Caldwell was editor of the 1958 issue. An effort is always made to print the best of the campus writers' materials in the magazine.

PI KAPPA DELTA; Seated: R. Morain, J. Bigham. Standing: Dr. Grissinger, P. Butts.

Pi Kappa Delta

Pi Kappa Delta, the honorary national forensic fraternity, recognizes those students who have participated in intercollegiate forensic contests. The Otterbein chapter endeavors to provide opportunity for students interested in debate by sponsoring an invitational debate tournament for Ohio colleges. This tournament is always well attended, with Otterbein's debate team prepared to greet the challengers. Members also compete in oratory, interpretative reading, and extemporaneous speaking contests throughout the state.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI: Prof. Westrich, W. Shaw, J. Shackson, J. Weiffenbach, D. Metzler, R. Munden, B. Keck, W. Wright, M. Matteson, R. Strouse.

Kappa Kappa Psi

Campus male musicians have an opportunity to meet and discuss the latest advancements in all fields of music, from jazz to the classics, in Kappa Kappa Psi, men's national band honorary.

The fraternity, completing its third year on Otterbein's campus, is composed of men who have shown proficiency and special skills in band.

Phi Sigma Iota

Interest in the Romance languages and their respective countries is fostered through membership in Phi Sigma Iota. This national honorary fraternity has the distinction of having its founder, Dr. A. P. Rosselot, as an active member of the organization. He still attends the meetings, along with other participating faculty members.

Phi Alpha Theta

A cup of coffee and homemade brownies—those are the ideal refreshments for members of Phi Alpha Theta. Of course the cook must be Dr. Harold Hancock, sponsor of this national honorary historical society.

Seemingly "ancient" history and its human implications for the future are of primary concern to these students. A highlight of the year's activities was a joint meeting with Torch and Key and Quiz and Quill where Dr. Walter R. Marvin of the Ohioana Library Association was guest speaker.

The wonders of the human machine were magnified and brought closer to reality and understanding when Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical honorary, this year sponsored the color-sound film, "Hemo, the Magnificent." This fraternity, exclusively for pre-medical students with a "B" average in science, sponsors blood drives periodically and supplements its meetings with speakers, films and trips.

A display on Dad's Day by Sigma Zeta, national science honorary, attracted considerable attention. Several student papers constituted the programs for the year, and members served as hosts for a massive science meeting held on campus last November.

Torch and Key

The ultimate in a successful college career — high scholastic achievement. Those who reach this pinnacle form the nucleus around which a college is built. Torch and Key, the organization for "Otterbein Scholars," derives its membership from students who have ninety or more semester hours with at least a 3.500 cumulative point average. Outstanding moral character and a balanced course of study are additional prerequisites for qualification.

Home Economics

The luxury of a home-cooked meal, for which most college students yearn and treasure highly, is an everyday occurrence with the home economics majors as they "cook up a breeze" in their new kitchens at the home management house.

The group, consisting mostly of home economics majors and minors, is open to anyone interested in programs concerning home and family living.

Bake sales in Towers Hall helped to raise funds. Particularly interesting this year was a program, led by a representative from Columbus, concerning the development of diamonds.

M. E. N. C.

Off to the convention! Such was the cry of members of the Music Educators National Conference as they journeyed to Cincinnati for an interesting and profitable conference last December. The twenty members assisted with clinics here on campus and aided students in educational principles and techniques as preparation for their careers in music education.

Various methods of teaching music are studied in an educational workshop set up by the national organization and governed by famous music educators.

Modern Dance Club

A black, silhouetted form leaped gracefully into the spotlight as the Modern Dance Club embarked on its annual spring show. Both men and women on campus participated in this climax of the dancing season.

The club, assisted by the A Cappella Choir, depicted a scene from Santa's workshop and the story, "Why the Chimes Rang" at the annual all-campus Christmas party.

Open dance sessions were held weekly for any non-members interested, and members attended a clinic on Ohio Wesleyan's campus.

Varsity "O"

Find a man wearing a cardinal sweater with a big tan letter "O" and you've found yourself a member of Varsity "O," Otterbein's active organization of male athletes.

Freshmen hail and fear these lettermen as strict disciplinarians, for they handle the annual Scrap Day program and the selling of the beloved frosh beanies. These lucky men also have the honor of selecting a senior woman to reign as their Winter Princess during Winter Homecoming. Probably their biggest money-making project is the selling of hot-dogs, coffee and coke during the home football games.

W. A. A.

Intercollegiate, intersorority, class and co-rec tournaments constitute the bulk of Women's Athletic Association-sponsored activities. Membership is granted to any co-ed who has earned a sufficient number of points through participation in the many sports offered.

Highlighting the year's activities were the annual Spring Modern Dance Show, hockey and volleyball contests against the alumnae at Homecomings, the Christmas breakfast and January banquet and various programs, most prominent of which was a fencing demonstration.

Traditions

Youth molded

A new co-ed moves onto the scene.

Suddenly the campus reawoke as a surging tide of anxious, disassociated freshmen descended and became welded into a single unit. Slowly the process of integration took form as the bell tolled the time and parents were reborn in the images of their children, professors were tested for social acceptance and impatience was finally curbed through a maze of submission to speeches, dinner, x-rays, tests, beanies and traditions. Homesickness was lost in the peaceful exhaustion of such a chaotic beginning.

Challenge in Group Living

The distant bell faithfully proclaims its hour to each sheltering dorm. Muffled voices begin to chime as restless forms stir and stretch in the warmth of their beds. Biology books are hopelessly gathered and dropped as students come and go. Disturbing buzzers announce the arrival of dates and phone calls. The tantalizing aroma of someone else's popcorn reeks, as studies are gratefully deserted in answer to the ringing cry of "serenade." Restored reverie becomes suddenly chaotic, fiery panic rages and frantic forms race madly in answer to a frightening alarm.

Yet somehow, in the midst of all this turmoil, housemothers survive and order is satisfied. Lights burn into a sleepless night, but homework gets done; hearts are broken, but love finds its way; pride is shattered, but students are made, as the guiding bell faithfully tolls its hour of peace into the very soul of dorm life.

Autumn Day

A chant announced the presentation of each gowned candidate as her "sisters" serenaded in her honor to conclude the festivities of "campaign" day.

An announcement later in the week revealed the name of an hospitalized queen and her charming runners-up. Some of these also were attacked by the famous "flu" bug and on Saturday a recuperating court rode freezing around the gridiron.

Reunions and open houses brought together old friends and classmates who joyously relived their carefree college days as they cheered a rugged Otterbein eleven to a win over Marietta.

Christmas Party

A musical program, through the cooperation of the Modern Dance Club and A Cappella Choir, marked the beginning of the annual all-campus Christmas party the night before Christmas vacation. Following the Cowan Hall program, large groups of student carolers toured Westerville. Then, braving freezing rain, the party-goers attended a series of faculty open houses, chatting with the "profs" over egg-nog, cookies and popcorn balls in an informal home environment. The evening ended in Barlow Hall with coffee and carols.

Religion-in-Life Week

Some popular concepts of religion and life in general were re-examined during the annual Religion-In-Life Week. These provocative five days started on a Sunday morning in the First E.U.B. Church, when the guest speaker of the week, Rev. George St. Angelo, chaplain at North Central College in Indiana, delivered the morning message. From that point on, students and faculty alike were attracted to "bull" sessions and discussion groups held at the various fraternity houses and dormitories across campus. Rev. St. Angelo was the focal point of any vigorous discussion. Questions of life and death, love and marriage, Christianity and faith were debated and left in each mind as food for thought. Regular chapel programs and personal counseling by the key speaker climaxed the week's activities.

Artist Series

National fame at the very doorstep of a small college . . . a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see the artist perform in person and perhaps to shake his hand and discuss "the show" afterwards. Such was the case this year as students lauded the Artist Series Committee's choices of presentations for the Cowan Hall stage.

After delighting the audience with his vigorous and often humorous tenor selections, Robert Rounseville then talked freely with an interested group at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Frank. Long hours of preparation in humanities, freshman composition and Shakespeare classes were culminated by enjoyment of the Canadian Players' presentation of Othello. The world-famous Longines Symphonette appeared with a program of classical and semi-classical music. St. Olaf's Choir climaxed the series with an inspiring concert of a cappella choral music.

Jump Week is an excellent example of the old adage, "The women always have the last word!".

Each fraternity nominated a freshman man to vie for the title of Jump Week King. A car caravan on Wednesday night introduced these candidates to the student body. Other activities, such as open house in the sorority rooms, movie and entertainment at the union, were attended by all girls who had the courage to "grab a man" for that particular evening.

Results of the balloting by all women students were announced during intermission at the dance held in Barlow Hall. Charles Croy was crowned 1958 Jump Week King; the court was comprised of Duane Correll, Larry Green, Dick Kissling, and Jerry Lehman.

The Otterbein spirit

The French put it aptly when they said, "Les belles femmes." Few other phrases could so accurately depict the lovely 1957-58 queens, each one a picture of charm, grace and poise.

The stately, dignified crowning ceremonies held, too, their moments of mirth. Who can forget Princess Judy's chagrin as she crossed the basketball court armed with her lovely roses . . . still in the box? Or the lengthy kiss of congratulations given blushing Priscilla after her crowning?

The queenly quintette will be remembered most for their own characteristic personalities, but the humorous aspects of their reigns will not soon be forgotten.

Winter Princess

No crown for the queen! The traditional hunt through the Winter Homecoming crowd at the Mt. Union basketball game was climaxed with the escorting by Varsity "O" officers of Princess Judy Lovejoy and her two attendants, all seniors, to the throne across the court. Judy was crowned only verbally, however, as a mix-up had occurred in the procurement of the crown.

Anna Reder and Joan Durr reigned with the Princess during the remainder of the game and at the Homecoming dance afterward.

May Queen

"Hear ye, hear ye! Enter Miss Bonnie Paul, Queen of the May." This long-awaited announcement marked the beginning of the colorful May Day festivities on May 10. Miss Paul, a junior, was selected by the student body to reign at the various events.

The entire morning's program, including the traditional May Pole Dance by the freshman women, was performed in honor of Her Majesty. Highlights of the evening included the presentation of "The Rainmaker" and the dance honoring Queen Bonnie and her royal court.

...and charm

The problems of an annual staff in meeting copy and photographic deadlines are vexing. But such was not the case when this year's staff was faced with the task of choosing its queen.

Traditionally a senior, the Sibyl Queen must also possess an attractiveness and character typical of the Otterbein spirit and must have displayed versatility by participating and showing leadership ability in numerous campus organizations.

To you, Joyce Miller, go the best wishes of the entire Sibyl staff. Well you represent the diligence and patience that have been molded into the production of that over which you reign.

Pan-Hellenic Council

Revisions of pledge programs were seen throughout the six sororities this year as the Pan-Hellenic Council sought to encourage more creative activities for the new members.

An innovation in the rushing program set the entire rush-pledge period a month later than in recent years. The unexpected flu epidemic, however, moved the program back still further, and it was not until December that some eighty freshmen and transfer women became pledges of their respective sororities.

The Pan-Hel semi-formal was a highlight of the year; the women also revised the Jump Week activities, which they sponsor.

Interfraternity Council

The more dangerous and rigorous Greek Week activities were held to a minimum this year as the Interfraternity Council clasped a tighter hold on its member organizations.

Rushing rules were made more strict, and the Council also collaborated with the Pan-Hel in outlining a safer and more fair Jump Week program.

The informal winter dance and the spring formal, both held at Valley Dale, comprised the Council's social activities, and a rotating scholarship trophy was presented to the fraternity with the highest point average.

The 1957 Cardinals compiled an impressive 5-3 record, the best in ten years, which heralded the fact that many fine teams are on the way. The season began with an initial win from Ohio Northern, after which the Otters successfully battled a traditionally strong rival in Oberlin. In a closer game on Dad's Day, the Cards shut out fighting Mt. Union. Hiram proved to be no obstacle for the powerful Otters, as they made it four straight. A capacity Homecoming crowd watched its alma mater smother Marietta to climax the season by nailing its fifth win before being tackled by the flu, which incapacitated many players. A powerful Muskingum team then defeated the helpless Cards. With a little extra drive, Otterbein could have made its losses against W. and J. and Capital victories.

Bob Heiser and Gary Nebinger, starting ends.

Strength of body and spirit

Where's the ball?

Coach "Moe" Agler combined the experience of veterans with the enthusiasm of freshmen to mould one of the strongest football teams in recent years, as the Cardinals edged their opponents in both yardage gained and total scores. Freshman quarterback Larry Cline completed 26 passes for a total of 519 yards and three touchdowns. Halfback Jack Spicer picked up a total of 510 yards, as Gary Nebinger hung on to twelve very beneficial passes. Lettermen Jim Berenyi, Lou Regis, John McCreary, Gary Nebinger, Hugh Zimmer, Bob Heiser, Dick Berlo and first-year man Charles Kaufman constituted the powerful Otter line. Jim Earnest, Charles Durant, Juris Clavins, Larry Cline, Jack Spicer, Bill Heltz, Ron Smith and Bill Bricker controlled the backfield. Senior guard Hugh Zimmer was named to the All-Ohio Conference third team, and halfback Jim Earnest was given honorable mention.

Cline keeps close track of opponent.

The victory bell saw much action this past season, even though the win-less column did not read in favor of the Cards. A freshman-laden Otterbein cage squad showed much promise for the future by its consistent improvement throughout the season.

Climaxing the season, the Cards upset arch-rival Capital after an earlier set-back by the rugged Lutherans. Two nights later the Otters gave another sparkling performance in handling a larger Denison squad a two-point defeat.

Freshman cager Larry Cline gained the top position in individual scoring, with classmate Tom Miller second. Sophomore John Leohner was in third place with senior Jim Evilsizer running a close fourth, as the Otters scored a total of 1194 points to their opponent's 1381.

Opposition momentarily controls the ball.

D. Burger at the starting line.

Spring came to Otterbein and with it the "crack" of a baseball bat, the "bang" of a starting pistol and the "smack" of a tennis racket. Baseball had five lettermen returning, including Don Ailes, Charles Adams, Myron Haag, Fred Nocera and Lew Shaffer. Freshmen rookies combined with the veterans in an attempt to better last year's winning season. Track had Don Sternisha, Ed Mentzer, Art Green, Bruce Flack, Tom Miller, Peter Loleas and David Burger to aid the first-year men in the tough '58 season. Only Lew Shaffer and Dale Crawford returned from the 1957 tennis team.

Women's Sports

Bev Coil prepares to show the gals how it's done.

Sophs score another victory in inter-class tourney.

A break in the tension of rigorous study is afforded all Otterettes in the many opportunities available in women's athletics.

In addition to the classes offered, women are allowed to practice in the Association Building gymnasium nearly all the time and may participate in sorority, class, intercollegiate and co-rec sports, whether or not they are members of the W.A.A.

Equipment may be borrowed from the athletic department, for use in golf, archery, indoor sports, etc.

Why Otterbein College?

(From Otterbein Towers, December, 1946)

Otterbein College exists to assist young people

1. To become Christian in purpose and conduct, and active in the Church;
2. To become good citizens—self-disciplined, thoughtful, cooperative, courageous—in a self-governing society;
3. To become diligent in search of facts, and able to mobilize facts logically and to reflect upon them in order to discover truth;
4. To become able to select and enjoy the best in music, art, drama, speech, literature, friendly associations and other cultural, social and spiritual experiences;
5. To become competent to enter a vocation directly upon graduation and to attain economic independence, or become prepared for post-graduate study or professional training;
6. To become sympathetic with the hopes and fears of all humanity of whatever nationality, creed or station in life, and become dedicated to a life of unselfish service;
7. To become competent to choose wisely a life mate and to build firmly a happy home;
8. To become trained for physical fitness, intellectual competence and emotional poise through the wise use of recreation and leisure.
